STRAUSS PLAYHOUSE

Formal Opening Of Theatre Set Here Next Week

The new Strauss Playhouse of the Little Theatre of Monroe will hold its formal opening next week with activities beginning Sunday.

The opening of the new facility is the climax of plans and work over the past two years.

An open house will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, during which time the public from throughout the Monroe area has been invited to tour the new building and inspect its facilities.

Plans have also been announced by the officers and board of directors for the opening of the musical production, "Damn Yankees" the major undertaking of the season and the first in the new building. An invitation preview will be held Wednesday April 12 for life patrons, directors and trustees of the organization.

OPENING NIGHT

The opening night of the production will be Thursday, April 13, and continue through Wednesday, April 20. All evening performances will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Robert H. Evans, president, has announced another first for the organization with a special matinee showing on Sunday, April 16, beginning at 2:30 p.m. There will be no performance Sunday night.

The box office will be open for reservations by members beginning April 10, and the general public may make reservations beginning Wednesday, April 12.

The Jazz Ensemble of Northeast State College under the direction of Del Sawyer will provide the music for the production of "Damn Yankees."

The entire production is under the executive director Richard Clark with Elvie McGehee of New Orleans handling the choreography and David Gingham serving as voice director.

The new building is located on

Two Killed In Wreck Near Lilly

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Two men were killed in a two-car collision at 3:30 a.m. Saturday on U. S. Highway 167, about one-half mile north of Lilly in Union Parish.

Dead are Carlton Jerry Jr., 22, of Junction City, Ark.; and Frank H. Charles, Negro, about 26, of Lilly.

Union Parish Coroner Dr. J. G. Norris stated that both died from head and internal injuries.

TWO INJURED

Two Negro passengers in the Charles vehicle were injured, one seriously. Both Sam W. Wright, 26, of Bernice and Leonard Young, 23, of Bernice, were treated for injuries in the Bernice clinic.

Young, who suffered head and internal injuries, was transferred to a Shreveport hospital with serious injuries.

According to Union Parish sheriff deputies and state troopers, Charles, who was traveling south on the highway, swerved three feet into the lane of the oncoming northbound Jerry vehicle, causing the collision.

Authorities were unable to determine late yesterday afternoon what caused the Charles vehicle to swerve into the opposite lane.

Partly Cloudy Forecast Today

The Easter Bunny had to hop through cool temperatures this morning to hide those gaily colored eggs for expectant youngsters.

And Easter bonnets will parade under partly cloudy skies all day long in Monroe and vicinity as the forecasts call for clear to partly cloudy skies.

All the ladies will need to bring out a light wrap over those springtime frocks with cool temperatures on tap all day, and getting cooler tonight. Today's high is expected between 70 and 74.

Southern Mississippi, with the same forecast, may even have spots of frost in the interior, with highs about the same as those in Louisiana.

The highs yesterday in Monroe according to Selman Field were 64 and the low 42 degrees.

DAVID I. GARRETT

4th District Judge David Garrett Dies

Fourth District Judge David I. Garrett, Sr., died late Saturday at the St. Francis Hospital following an illness of four weeks. He was 67.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today at the First Methodist Church with the Rev. George W. Pomeroy, pastor, and the Rev. Bob Holliday, officiating. Interment, under the direction of Peters Funeral Home of Monroe, will follow in the Riverview cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home until one hour before the services, when it will be taken to the church.

SENIOR OFFICIAL

Judge Garrett, a senior official in years of service in northeast Louisiana, served as judge of the Fourth District Court for 28 years. Prior to that, he was district attorney of Ouachita and Morehouse parishes for 13 years.

Agents Keep Close Guard On Kennedys

Federal Officers On Alert In Plot To Harm Family

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Security precautions around President Kennedy and his family were tightened substantially Saturday as federal agents kept tabs on at least four Cubans involved in a threat to assassinate the first family.

One law enforcement official said protective arrangements for the Kennedys had been increased "very much" on this Easter weekend. The President and his wife will appear in public Sunday when they attend mass at a Catholic church in the area, but their three-year-old daughter, Caroline, object of a kidnap threat traced to the reportedly pro-Castro Cubans, probably will remain at home.

DETAILS SECRET

Young Caroline rarely attends church with her parents.

Details of the death threat investigation remained secret for the most part, but federal and local law enforcement officers were known to have located a Cuban man and woman plus two of their associates believed to be involved in the threat.

The Cubans, believed to be connected with intelligence operations of the Castro regime, were being kept under quiet surveillance somewhere in the area of the palm beaches—Palm Beach, itself, where the Kennedy's have a winter home, and the more populous West Palm Beach.

Should the suspects show up in the proximity of the President or any member of his family Sunday, United States Secret Service agents and local police were prepared to close in fast and either get the Cubans out of the way or take them into custody.

The geographic scope of the federal investigation was difficult to determine. A Secret Service agent assigned primarily to the protection of Caroline was involved in an automobile accident early Saturday at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and officials of the federal service declined to discuss the incident.

The agent, Lynn S. Meredith, was driving on North Federal Highway in Fort Lauderdale, about 45 miles from Palm Beach, shortly after 6 a. m. when his vehicle was rammed in the back by a car driven by a 33-year-old woman from nearby Boca Raton, according to Ft. Lauderdale police. The woman's car rammed into the plate glass front of the Public Gas Company office and she was hospitalized for painful injuries. Police said the agent was not hurt.

There was no immediate explanation from the Secret Service of the presence of the agent in the Ft. Lauderdale area.

In Havana, the Cuban News Service issued a statement saying the Palm Beach reports on the supposed plot were "completely lacking in truth." The denial was published on the front page of the semiofficial newspaper Revolucion.

Officials directing the security forces here were said to feel the big wave of publicity about a plot has put the Cubans on guard to the extent that an arrest at this time may not be possible.

Reply Vague On Time For Cease-Fire

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed Saturday to join the West in calling for a cease-fire in Laos and asked for a 14-nation international conference on the future of the embattled Southeast Asian kingdom, regardless of whether the civil war there stops.

The Russians made their counter-proposal on Laos in a note to Britain. The two nations were cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina, which gave Laos its independence from France.

Moscow now wants substantially the same nations — incluhing Communist China — to meet again early this month in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. But the Russians were vague on the timing of a cease-fire and would leave it to the Laotians themselves to stop fighting.

The note said the Soviet Union "considers desirable the earliest termination of hostilities in Laos." This left room for further negotiations between London and Moscow, and diplomats here expect them to take place.

In Palm Beach, Fla., President Kennedy said the note "offers hope that a way can be found to establish a neutral and independent Laos through negotiations." He added that the note contains "certain observations with which we cannot agree."

Dean Rusk Says Cease-Fire In Laos Next Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday the next step in settling the Laotian crisis is for Britain and the Soviet Union to arrange a cease-fire.

"What's important," Rusk said, "is that the fighting stops—in a hurry."

"Protracted negotiations for a cease-fire are not useful in support," he said, of a general international conference to settle the Laotian civil war.

Rusk was at Palm Beach reporting on his just concluded trip to a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting at Bangkok, Thailand, on the Southeast Asian troubles. While he was in Florida, Moscow gave its reply to the U. S. supported British proposal for a Laotian settlement.

The Kremlin's reply — which Kennedy termed "a useful next step toward a peaceful settlement"—called for prompt reconvening of a three-nation commission to supervise a cease-fire and a meeting early this month of a Geneva peace conference.

The Soviet reply, however, left open the timing of a cease-fire. The United States wants a halt

CELEBRATE EASTER

Resurrection Is Keystone Of Faith, Hope In World

Editor's Note — It cannot be established by science, it is beyond absolute certification. Yet the message of the resurrection has inspired millions of men for thousands of years. In simple words, here is an intensive study of what happened and what it means.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The fact seemed impossible. It did then. It does today.

"The light shineth in the darkness."

Men could not believe that in catastrophe was triumph, that in death was life.

They could not believe the Resurrection.

"An idle tale," the Apostles said at first.

The event was incredible, shocking.

Today, millions of Christians around the earth celebrate that moment of consternation and amazement.

"The victory that overcometh the world."

It is a joyful tune.

For there is no other absolute evidence, in all the annals of man's history, that sheer goodness finally defeats the forces of injustice and tragedy.

The evil exists, without question; the injuries, the hunger, the despotism, the distress. But do they prevail?

"Nay," wrote St. Paul, "in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us."

It is the keystone of faith. It is the basis of hope. It is the one overwhelming guarantee that, despite the rest of the suffering and disaster, right will finally win.

"He is not here," was the word at the empty tomb. "For He is risen."

Yet, the fact was questioned and it still is by some. It is contrary to all the laws of science. It seems, at first reckoning, fantastic.

"These men are full of new wine," the critics said when the Apostles first began to testify of what they had seen.

It had been hard, originally, even for the Apostles to credit it. They hadn't expected it. They had not worked themselves up into a state of psychic anticipation. They were hardheaded realists.

"They would not believe it." That was their attitude, when the women first brought them word of the empty tomb.

In fact, to them, the whole mission of Jesus had collapsed in the worst kind of degradation, terror and pain—the Crucifixion. Their own lives were plunged into a midnight of despair. They were done for. The cause had failed.

"I go a fishing," Peter said bleakly of one point.

They had counted on Jesus mounting a throne. But the gentle Nazarene of 33, who went about doing good, died in shame and agony. Wrong had won, it appeared. The good die young. It often seems so in the world.

"In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

But the skeptics raise their eyebrows. It is too far-fetched, too unreasonable. It defies the laws of

City Household Per Cent Rises, Reports Bureau

WASHINGTON (Special) — The Census Bureau reported Saturday the number of households in Monroe jumped 31.4 per cent to a total of 15,301 in the last ten years.

The increase in the number of households — roughly equivalent to the number of families — grew slower than the total population of Monroe, which climbed 35.4 per cent to a total 52,219.

In the Monroe metropolitan area, identical with Ouachita parish, the number of households climbed 35.6 per cent to a total 28,934. The parish population increased 36.1 per cent to 101,663.

PARISH TOTALS

The parish census totals showed an average 3.45 persons per household, compared with 3.34 persons per household within the city limits.

The bureau's report also showed that 43.8 per cent of the city population is non-white, compared with a parish percentage of 32.2 and a state average of 32.1 per cent.

The bureau also reported that 33.7 per cent of Monroe's popula-

Some To Need Fur Coat Today

By United Press International

Newly-arrived April shook a soggy coat of snow and cold rain over much of the nation Saturday and forecasters said the coats and umbrellas would be the fashion for many an Easter parade.

Snow squalls and below freezing temperatures were reported over the Great Lakes and into mountains of Pennsylvania and Virginia. Phillipsburg, Pa., measured 4 inches of snow.

Heavy rains fell across New England with Concord, N.H., and Boston measuring .76 of an inch and Portland, Maine, recording nearly an inch. The rain was scheduled to turn into sloppy, wet snow during the night.

JFK Extends His Vacation

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)— President Kennedy extended his Florida vacation a day and announced Saturday he will return to Washington Tuesday afternoon.

He is to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the capital Wednesday.

Rusk left Palm Beach for Washington by Military Air Transport Service plane at 2 p.m.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he did not yet know whether Jacqueline Kennedy and the two Kennedy children would return to the capital with the President.

Mrs. Strauss Dies; Funeral Slated Today

Mrs. Hattie K. Strauss, 76, well-known Monroe woman and stepmother of widely - known business and civic leader Clifford M. Strauss, died Saturday after an illness of a few hours.

Honorary pallbearers will be all officers and employes of F. Strauss and Company.

EASTER JOYOUS DAY

Hope Dawns Anew For All Christians

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Easter—the most joyous day of the Christian calendar—dawned once Sunday with its eternal message of hope for all mankind.

In homes and churches, at sacred shrines and in religious pageantry of many kinds, Christendom commemorated in sunrise services the resurrection of the crucified Christ.

Some of the other traditional aspects of Easter—colorful egg hunts for children and the donning of new finery by their parents for strolls and visiting—had a promise of good weather in most of the country.

The Easter weekend brought many other manifestations in the spirit of Christ's teachings toward creation of a peaceful world.

In many spots around the globe, demonstrators gathered to urge a bloodless solution of nations' differences. Other groups sought through various activities to win support for a worldwide ban on nuclear armaments.

In Jerusalem on the very spot where Christ's cross is believed to have stood, there was a reverent reenactment of the removal of His body and events leading up to His resurrection. The Holy Land had thousands of visitors for these and other rites.

An estimated total of 200,000 to 300,000 persons gathered in Rome to hear Sunday's Easter message from Pope John XXIII, the leader of the Roman Catholic Church. Other services around the world were to receive it by radio and television.

Cuba, where Christians have been subjected to increasingly harsh measures from the anti-church regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was the scene of the largest Good Friday religious pro-

ARRANGED BY MOTHER

Couple Keep Date Made 18 Years Ago

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Nancy Lee Cuthbertson and Mike McMahon Saturday kept an appointment made 16 years ago as they met on a windy wharf at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Midshipman McMahon was the first to greet Nancy as she stepped from a car after driving from Washington with her mother and Mike's mother and brother, Danny, 9.

It was the first time the two youngsters have met but they've had this date since their infancy.

It was arranged by Mike's mother in a telegram to Mrs. Cuthbertson a few days after Nancy's birth on Jan. 27, 1943.

"Don't forget our date for Annapolis hop in 1961. If you like rugged men count on Jim or curly-headed Mike," the cable read.

Both women were then recent Navy widows. Their husbands were lost aboard the submarine Grunion in the Aleutians on Aug. 2, 1942.

Mike's mother and father had been the best man and matron of honor for Nancy Lee's parents just 2½ months before the submarine was lost.

Mike went to the U.S. Naval Academy where he is a senior now. Jim is at a university in Germany. Mrs. McMahon has since remarried and is now Mrs. Francis Anderson.

But the women kept in touch by letter.

Saturday, Nancy Lee—her eyes dancing and her cheeks rosy from the brisk wind—said she still keeps the telegram in her baby book.

"I didn't think it would ever come to pass," she said.

It is the keystone of faith. It is the basis of hope. It is the one overwhelming guarantee that, despite the rest of the suffering and disaster, right will finally win.

"He is not here," was the word at the empty tomb, "for He is risen."

Yet, the fact was questioned, and it still is by some. It is contrary to all the laws of science. It seems, at first reckoning, fantastic.

"These men are full of new wine," the critics said when the Apostles first began to testify of what they had seen.

It had been hard, originally, even for the Apostles to credit it. They hadn't expected it. They had not worked themselves up into a state of psychic anticipation. They were hardheaded realists.

"They would not believe it." That was their attitude, when the women first brought them word of the empty tomb.

In fact, to them, the whole mission of Jesus had collapsed in the worst kind of degradation, terror and pain—the Crucifixion. Their own lives were plunged into a midnight of despair. They were done for The cause had failed.

"I go a fishing," Peter said bleakly at one point.

They had counted on Jesus mounting a throne. But the gentle Nazarene of 33, who went about doing good, died in shame and agony. Wrong had won, it appeared. The good die young. It often seems so in this world.

"In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

But the skeptics raise their eyebrows. It is too far-fetched, too unreasonable. It defies the laws of

City Household Per Cent Rises, Reports Bureau

WASHINGTON (Special) — The Census Bureau reported Saturday the number of households in Monroe jumped 31.4 per cent to a total of 15,301 in the last ten years.

The increase in the number of households — roughly equivalent to the number of families — grew slower than the total population of Monroe, which climbed 35.4 per cent to a total 52,219.

In the Monroe metropolitan area, identical with Ouachita parish, the number of households climbed 35.6 per cent to a total 28,934. The parish population increased 36.1 per cent to 101,663.

PARISH TOTALS

The parish census totals showed an average 3.45 persons per household, compared with 3.34 persons per household within the city limits.

The bureau's report also showed that 43.8 per cent of the city population is non-white, compared with a parish percentage of 32.2 and a state average of 32.1 per cent.

The bureau also reported that 38.7 per cent of Monroe's popula-

Some To Need Fur Coat Today

By United Press International

Newly-arrived April shook a soggy coat of snow and cold rain over much of the nation Saturday and forecasters said fur coats and umbrellas would be the fashion for many an Easter parade.

Snow squalls and below freezing temperatures were reported over the Great Lakes and into mountains of Pennsylvania and Virginia. Phillipsburg, Pa., measured 4 inches of snow.

Heavy rains fell across New England with Concord, N.H., and Boston measuring .76 of an inch and Portland, Maine, recording nearly an inch. The rain was scheduled to turn into sloppy, wet snow during the night.

ARRANGED BY MOTHER

Couple Keep Date Made 18 Years Ago

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Nancy Lee Cuthbertson and Mike McMahon Saturday kept an appointment made 18 years ago as they met on a windy wharf at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Midshipman McMahon was the first to greet Nancy as she stepped from a car after driving from Washington with her mother and Mike's mother and brother, Danny, 9.

It was the first time the two youngsters have met but they've had this date since their infancy.

It was arranged by Mike's mother in a telegram to Mrs. Cuthbertson a few days after Nancy's birth on Jan. 27, 1943.

"Don't forget our date for Annapolis hop in 1961. If you like rugged men count on Jim or curly-headed Mike," the cable read.

Both women were then recent Navy widows. Their husbands were lost aboard the submarine Grunion in the Aleutians on Aug. 2, 1942.

Mike's mother and father had been the best man and matron of honor for Nancy Lee's parents just 3½ months before the submarine was lost.

Mike went to the U.S. Naval Academy where he is a senior now. Jim is at a university in Germany. Mrs. McMahon has since remarried and is now Mrs. Francis Anderson.

But the women kept in touch by letter.

Saturday, Nancy Lee—her eyes dancing and her cheeks rosy from the brisk wind—said she still keeps the telegram in her baby book.

"I didn't think it would ever come to pass," she said.

JFK Extends His Vacation

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy extended his Florida vacation a day and announced Saturday he will return to Washington Tuesday afternoon.

He is to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the capital Wednesday.

Rusk left Palm Beach for Washington by Military Air Transport Service plane at 2 p.m.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he did not yet know whether Jacqueline Kennedy and the two Kennedy children would return to the capital with the President.

EASTER JOYOUS DAY

Hope Dawns Anew For All Christians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Easter—the most joyous day of the Christian calendar—dawned anew Sunday with its eternal message of hope for all mankind.

In homes and churches, at sacred shrines and in religious pageantry of many kinds, Christendom commemorated in sunrise services the resurrection of the crucified Christ.

Some of the other traditional aspects of Easter—colorful egg hunts for children and the doaning of new finery by their parents for strolls and visiting—had a promise of good weather in most of the country.

The Easter weekend brought many other manifestations in the spirit of Christ's teachings toward creation of a peaceful world.

In many spots around the globe, demonstrators gathered to urge a bloodless solution of nations' differences. Other groups sought through various activities to win support for a worldwide ban on nuclear armaments.

In Jerusalem, on the very spot where Christ's cross is believed to have stood, there was a reverent re-enactment of the removal of His body and events leading up to His resurrection. The Holy Land had thousands of visitors for these and other rites.

An estimated total of 200,000 to 300,000 pilgrims gathered in Rome to hear Sunday's Easter message from Pope John XXIII, the leader of the Roman Catholic Church. Other millions around the world were to receive it by radio and television.

Cuba, where Christians have been subjected to increasingly harsh measures from the anti-church regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was the scene of the largest Good Friday religious pro-

nature. It doesn't make sense, in the ordinary way.

Others, back when it happened, felt the same way.

Even Peter and John, after they investigated the tomb and confirmed that it was empty, went off shaking their heads, bewildered. They couldn't comprehend it.

"The hidden wisdom which God ordained before the world unto our glory."

The doubters were plentiful, and always have been, but the fact could not be checked. It struck among unbelieving men, again and again, like a thunderclap.

When the Roman guards came racing back from the tomb with their report, the authorities were in a panic, and paid them a "sum of money" to hush up the wild account.

"God has chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God has chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty."

There was pandemonium that day and jaw-dropping wonder. The Apostles were hidden in the upper room, dumbstruck, when he appeared.

"Why are you troubled? And why do questions arise in your heart? See my hands and feet that it is I myself."

Even though it defies man's natural concepts, the evidence of the Resurrection is overwhelming, not only from the written testimony, but from a philosophical and psychological standpoint.

The tremendous change that came over the Apostles, transforming them from cowards, defeated men into heroic, fearless preachers who could not be silenced, shows clearly that something soul-shaking had happened to them.

It is quite unlikely that these eye-witnesses would have been willing to face martyrdom for their belief in the Resurrection, as they did, if they hadn't been sure of what they had witnessed.

"He that loveth his life shall lose it. He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

If He hadn't risen, the powers-that-be certainly would have produced his body in subsequent efforts to suppress the Apostles' claim that he had. This would have demolished the Christian case in short order.

But it wasn't done. It couldn't be done.

The risen Jesus was reported seen, on at least nine occasions, by various individuals and groups, on a road, by a lake, in a garden, in a room, on a mountain. Once, Paul says, 500 persons saw him at the same time.

Hardly could so many have imagined a "vision" simultaneously, a point that disputes the suggestion that the appearances may have been subjective hallucinations. Moreover, the Apostles were not mentally building up the idea; it came as a staggering surprise.

"I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

It was an incomprehensible thing, in ordinary terms. Yet, in all logic, if God truly cares about man and about the eventual victory of good over the misery and often stark inequities of this life, it seems reasonable he would make this truth known.

The appalling wrongs of the world, the aggression, the bondage, the poverty, the frauds against the innocent, the natural calamities, are the most baffling problems of existence. Decency sometimes wins out temporarily, but so does evil.

"The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong," the cynics say, "nor the bread to the wise, nor riches to the intelligent; time and chance happen to them all."

So it appears. Death itself epitomizes the ultimate frustration of human effort. Yet, if a man believes in a God who loves man, it follows logically that God would provide a solution to man's deepest dilemma.

Predicate God—that is the real core of the decision—and the Resurrection is the natural consequence, even inevitable. "God raised him up, having loosed the pangs of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it."

But the doubts persist, now as they did then. The whole thing defies ordinary calculation.

Mary Magdalene couldn't believe it when she first saw him. She thought he must be the gardener until he spoke to her. But he had to yield to the fact.

"Rabboni! Master!"

The Apostle Thomas, too, refused to believe it, even when all his colleagues vowed it was true. He said he'd have to see himself, to touch the nail prints and the wound, before he could accept the idea. So he did.

"My Lord and my God."

"Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed."

Still doubt is normal to finite man. He sees the woe and oppression around him, the abuse of the weak, the reasonless misfortunes, and he can't believe that goodness always carries the day. It certainly didn't seem to do so at Calvary.

"Doubt is universally human, and God would not be God if we could possess Him like another piece of our encountered world and verify His reality like another reality under inquiry," says theologian Paul Tillich.

"Faith must overcome some thing; it must leap over the ordinary processes that provide evidence, because its object lies above the realm in which scientific verification is possible. Faith is the courage that conquers doubt, not by removing it, but by taking it as an element into itself."

It was that way, when Christ arose. Doubt was there, but so was the fact. Men were like they are today. Pilate had his doubts, but he refused to face them, washed his hands of them and marked the case "closed". But it wasn't.

Many people do that now. They refuse to face what seems impossible. They turn away from it. They close their minds and deep-six conclusions. It is outwardly absurd, they say. It is unreal. Ignore it.

This is the credo of despair. This is the philosophy which says that right does not always win, that integrity does not prevail, that death has the final trump.

The view is understandable. The ordinary operations of a world which for some reason is dangerous, uncertain and ambiguous in its rewards seems to indicate it.

The Crucifixion itself indicated it. Jesus had been the best of men. Yet he was hung. He was hung by men who thought they were doing right. It's a mixed up world, full of complexities and defeats and hurts.

Jesus had shared that human plight at its worst. He knew its deepest betrayals, its harshest paradoxes. He knew the doubts that plague the confidence of man.

It plagues the best of them sometimes, when all seems grim and lost, when the blackness of man's inhumanity to man seems beyond the plane of any imaginable justification.

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

But however severe the blows, however deep the pain, however desperate the circumstances, the Resurrection tells the fact:

Evil is doomed. "Death is swallowed up in victory."

It may seem unscientific. It might not correspond with the way man thinks, or believes, or acts. It is not subject to laboratory verification, or even environmental deduction. But there it is.

"The foolishness of God is wiser than men."

That is the sum and substance of it. No man today can prove it. Even the Apostles do not explain the Resurrection. It explains them. St. Paul, one of the greatest doubters of them all, fought Christianity with a dedicated fury. But he was caught up in the fact, and had to say:

"We are fools for Christ's sake."

It is a case that cannot be prescribed, or certified in human terms. There is no written contract, no iron-clad insurance. But there is Christ's word for it. And as Africa missionary David Livingstone noted in his diary:

"If is the word of a gentleman, of the most strict and sacred honor."

cessions in years. Surprisingly, there was almost no police interference.

Thousands took part in religious marches, singing hymns and crying "God, save Your people." Havana and Santiago, the second largest city, witnessed the largest gatherings of the faithful. Cuba is predominantly Catholic.

New York was the scene of the climax of two long demonstrations for peace.

One was an "Easter March for Peace" which began March 25 at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey and ended at the United Nations Plaza. It was sponsored by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. The trek was 100 miles long. Hundreds took part.

Another event was a "Witness for Peace" vigil staged by some 200 Quakers at Times square from 4 p.m. Friday to sunrise Sunday. They took turns by groups at posting themselves with signs next to the armed forces recruiting booth there.

Protest marches and rallies against atomic armaments were held in various parts of Germany but rarely attracted more than several hundred persons.

In Britain, however, at least 17,000 marchers headed into London in a two-pronged advance from north and south to protest the H-bomb. Holiday traffic in some country districts was disrupted by the columns of banner-waving men, women and children. Both marches were about 40 miles long.

Another group — seven teenagers led by bearded actor Francis Stanimore—also marched on London in a "keep-the-bomb" demonstration.

Some 80 men and women picketed the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., headquarters of the nation's military, urging an end to the armament race and a halt in nuclear arms testing. They termed themselves part of the "Witnesses for Peace" movement. Earlier they marched at the atomic energy commission headquarters.

Another of the "Witnesses for Peace" demonstrations, involving a chemical warfare plant near Newport, Ind., aroused fears of possible violence.

Sheriff Robert F. Lindsey asked state police help in guarding against any incidents when the demonstrators march into Newport Sunday after a week of picketing at the plant. Some Newport citizens were reported "fighting mad" over the situation.

tion is under 18 and 8.2 per cent is 65 or older. In the parish as a whole, 40.1 per cent are under 18 and 7.6 per cent above the standard retirement age.

Of the city's age group over 14, 69.7 per cent of men are married but only 61.3 per cent of the women. One reason is that 54.9 per cent of the city population over 15 consists of women.

In the city, 1,124 people live in "group quarters," a census category that excludes households and includes such institutions as boarding houses, fraternities, and jails.

Statewide, the number of households increased 23.2 per cent for a total 892,344. The median age of Louisiana citizens dropped from 26.7 years to 25.3 years, mainly because of whopping increases in the age group from five through 14 years. The number of elderly persons 65 or more increased from 176,849 to 241,591.

The white population in Louisiana increased 23.1 per cent during the decade and the non-white 17.9 per cent. Nine Louisiana parishes showed a non-white majority: Claiborne, De Soto, East Carroll, East Feliciana, Madison, St. Helena, St. John the Baptist, Tensas and West Feliciana.

Rusk said, the next step is up to the British to get together with the Soviets in arranging a cease-fire.

Asked what the United States was prepared to do if the Reds turn out only to be stalling for time while they continue their push in Laos, Rusk replied by referring to the SEATO meeting's declaration of intent to take "appropriate" action against the Red threat.

"You've got to keep your eye on the ground (military developments) on this thing," he added.

Since the Soviet message was sent to Britain as a cochairman of the conference that ended the 1954 Indochina War, it is up to the British to make the formal response.

However, U. S. sources said the British and Americans are so closely in agreement on the Laos question that London could reply without waiting for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's visit to Washington, which starts Tuesday.

Reply Vague On Time For Cease-Fire

bassador Llewellyn E. Thompson was called in for a 90-minute conference with Premier Khrushchev.

In a note March 23 the British proposed a three-stage plan backed by the United States. Under the Western proposal the diplomatic steps would proceed in this order: 1 — An immediate cease-fire in Laos. 2 — Revival of the three-nation control commission of India, Canada and Poland set up by the Geneva Conference to supervise the Indochina truce. 3 — A 14-nation conference — including Communist China — to turn Laos into a neutral country.

The difference between the British proposals and the Soviet reply was a matter of which step would come first.

The West insisted on a cease-fire before anything else. This was the core of the British proposal. It aimed to end the fighting before either side had made any further gains to upset the relative position of the two factions in Laos.

Under the Soviet order of priorities, the three-nation control commission would meet immediately in New Delhi and report to Britain and the Soviet Union as the Geneva cochairmen. Moscow and London would also issue a call for an end to the fighting in Laos.

"In accordance with this," the note went on, "the interested parties in Laos naturally should conduct negotiations on the questions connected with a cease-fire."

But the Russians also insisted "it is quite clear that the renewal of the commission should in no way delay the calling of the international conference on Laos."

Under the neutralist Cambodian leader's proposal, the participants at the conference would be the Soviet Union, Communist China, Poland, North Viet Nam, United States, Britain, France, Canada, India, Cambodia, Burma, Thailand, South Viet Nam and Laos.

The Soviet note was delivered to Roberts several hours before the government newspaper Izvestia appeared with an editorial calling for "peace and neutrality in Laos."

Under this headline, the editorial not only denounced a U.S. military build-up in South-east Asia and avoided mentioning a cease-fire but again supported revival of the control commission and convening the conference.

It added: "The situation in Laos can and must be settled by negotiation. The interested countries must try to reach the necessary decisions on a mutually acceptable basis."

The Soviet note climaxed a week of diplomatic and military maneuvers in a situation that President Kennedy regarded as the key to Khrushchev's attitude toward his new policies. Two weeks ago Kennedy told a news conference that the Soviet response to Western initiatives in Laos "will tell us something about the kind of future our world is going to have."

15, 1893, Judge Garrett was a lifelong resident of Ouachita parish. He was the son of the late Franklin and Lela Johnston Garrett.

He received his early education in Ouachita parish and later graduated from Tulane University and Louisiana State University.

Judge Garrett served in the U. S. Marine Corps during World War I with the rank of captain.

In 1920 he was elected district attorney for a four-year term, then in 1924 re-elected for a six-year term. In 1930 he was again re-elected for a six-year term, but resigned to accept the judicial post created with the death of the late Judge Percy Sandel. In 1936, he was elected a full six-year term as judge, the position he held until his death.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge, American Legion, 40 & 8, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fourth District and Louisiana Bar Association and Kappa Sigma.

He resided at 2214 Island Drive.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lessie Madison Garrett, Sr., of Monroe; two sons, David I. Garrett, Jr., of Monroe, and Dr. H. Flood Madison Garrett, of Bastrop; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Clark Boardman, Charles B. Garretson, A. B. Myatt, Jr., Judge Jesse Heard, Nelson D. Abell, Jr., James S. Williams, Leo Terzia Jr., and Murray Hudson.

The Crucifixion itself indicated it. Jesus had been the best of men. Yet he was hung. He was hung by men who thought they were doing right. It's a mixed up world, full of complexities and defeats and hurts.

Jesus had shared that human plight at its worst. He knew its deepest betrayals, its harshest paradoxes. He knew the doubts that plague the confidence of man.

It plagues the best of them sometimes, when all seems grim and lost, when the blackness of man's inhumanity to man seems beyond the plane of any imaginable justification.

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

But however severe the blows, however deep the pain, however desperate the circumstances, the Resurrection tells the fact:

Evil is doomed. "Death is swallowed up in victory."

It may seem unscientific. It might not correspond with the way man thinks, or believes, or acts. It is not subject to laboratory verification, or even environmental deduction. But there it is.

"The foolishness of God is wiser than men."

That is the sum and substance of it. No man today can prove it. Even the Apostles do not explain the Resurrection. It explains them. St. Paul, one of the greatest doubters of them all, fought Christianity with a dedicated furiosity. But he was caught up in the fact, and had to say:

"We are fools for Christ's sake."

It is a case that cannot be prescribed, or certified in human terms. There is no written contract, no iron-clad insurance. But there is Christ's word for it. And as Africa missionary David Livingstone noted in his diary:

"It is the word of a gentleman, of the most strict and sacred honor."

CLEAN UP Week in West Monroe was officially launched yesterday morning when this group of businessmen, armed with brooms swept up the main section of Trenton Street. The joint effort of the Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce and City Administration continues through Friday, with the Kiwanis Club selling mops and brooms all this week. Proceeds will go for aid to the underprivileged children in West Monroe.

Hope Dawns Anew For All Christians

cessions in years. Surprisingly, there was almost no police interference.

Thousands took part in religious marches, singing hymns and crying "God, save Your people." Havana and Santiago, the second largest city, witnessed the largest gatherings of the faithful. Cuba is predominantly Catholic.

New York was the scene of the climax of two long demonstrations for peace.

One was an "Easter March for Peace" which began March 25 at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey and ended at the United Nations Plaza. It was sponsored by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. The trek was 109 miles long. Hundreds took part.

Another event was a "Witness for Peace" vigil staged by some 200 Quakers at Times square from 4 p.m. Friday to sunrise Sunday. They took turns by groups at posting themselves with signs next to the armed forces recruting booth there.

Protest marches and rallies against atomic armaments were held in various parts of Germany but rarely attracted more than several hundred persons.

In Britain, however, at least 17,000 marchers headed into London in a two-pronged advance from north and south to protest the H-bomb. Holiday traffic in some country districts was disrupted by the columns of banner-waving men, women and children. Both marches were about 40 miles long.

Another group — seven teenagers led by bearded actor Francis Stanimore—also marched on London in a "keep-the-bomb" demonstration.

Some 80 men and women picketed the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., headquarters of the nation's military, urging an end to the armament race and a halt in nuclear arms testing. They termed themselves part of the "Witnesses for Peace" movement. Earlier they marched at the atomic energy commission headquarters.

Another of the "Witnesses for Peace" demonstrations, involving a chemical warfare plant near Newport, Ind., aroused fears of possible violence.

Sheriff Robert F. Lindsey asked state police help in guarding against any incidents when the demonstrators march into Newport Sunday after a week of picketing at the plant. Some Newport citizens were reported "fighting mad" over the situation.

Reply Vague On Time For Cease-Fire

bassador Llewellyn E. Thompson was called in for a 90-minute conference with Premier Khrushchev.

In a note March 23 the British proposed a three-stage plan backed by the United States. Under the Western proposal the diplomatic steps would proceed in this order: 1 — An immediate cease-fire in Laos. 2 — Revival of the three-nation control commission of India, Canada and Poland set up by the Geneva Conference to supervise the Indochina truce. 3 — A 14-nation conference — including Communist China — to turn Laos into a neutral country.

The difference between the British proposals and the Soviet reply was a matter of which step would come first.

The West insisted on a cease-fire before anything else. This was the core of the British proposal. It aimed to end the fighting before either side had made any further gains to upset the relative position of the two factions in Laos.

Under the Soviet order of priorities, the three-nation control commission would meet immediately in New Delhi and report to Britain and the Soviet Union as the Geneva cochairmen. Moscow and London would also issue a call for an end to the fighting in Laos.

"In accordance with this," the note went on, "the interested parties in Laos naturally should conduct negotiations on the questions connected with a cease-fire."

But the Russians also insisted "it is quite clear that the renewal of the commission should in no way delay the calling of the international conference on Laos."

Under the neutralist Cambodian leader's proposal, the participants at the conference would be the Soviet Union, Communist China, Poland, North Viet Nam, United States, Britain, France, Canada, India, Cambodia, Burma, Thailand, South Viet Nam and Laos.

The Soviet note was delivered to Roberts several hours before the government newspaper Izvestia appeared with an editorial calling for "peace and neutrality in Laos."

Under this headline, the editorial not only denounced a U.S. military build-up in South-east Asia and avoided mentioning a cease-fire but again supported revival of the control commission and convening the conference.

It added: "The situation in Laos can and must be settled by negotiation. The interested countries must try to reach the necessary decisions on a mutually acceptable basis."

The Soviet note climaxed a week of diplomatic and military maneuvers in a situation that President Kennedy regarded as the key to Khrushchev's attitude toward his new policies. Two weeks ago Kennedy told a news conference that the Soviet response to Western initiatives in Laos "will tell us something about the kind of future our world is going to have."

City Household Per Cent Rises, Reports Bureau

tion is under 18 and 8.2 per cent is 65 or older. In the parish as a whole, 40.1 per cent are under 18 and 7.6 per cent above the standard retirement age.

Of the city's age group over 14, 69.7 per cent of men are married but only 61.3 per cent of the women. One reason is that 54.9 per cent of the city population over 15 consists of women.

In the city, 1,124 people live in "group quarters," a census category that excludes households and includes such institutions as boarding houses, fraternities, and jails.

Statewide, the number of households increased 23.2 per cent for a total 892,344. The median age of Louisiana citizens dropped from 26.7 years to 25.3 years, mainly because of whopping increases in the age group from five through 14 years. The number of elderly persons 65 or more increased from 176,849 to 241,591.

The white population in Louisiana increased 23.1 per cent during the decade and the non-white 17.9 per cent. Nine Louisiana parishes showed a non-white majority: Claiborne, De Soto, East Carroll, East Feliciana, Madison, St. Helena, St. John the Baptist, Tensas and West Feliciana.

to the shooting before going to the conference table, but won't insist on a formal cease-fire agreement.

Rusk said, the next step is up to the British to get together with the Soviets in arranging a cease-fire.

Asked what the United States was prepared to do if the Reds turn out only to be stalling for time while they continue their push in Laos, Rusk replied by referring to the SEATO meeting's declaration of intent to take "appropriate" action against the Red threat.

"You've got to keep your eye on the ground (military developments) on this thing," he added.

Since the Soviet message was sent to Britain as a cochairman of the conference that ended the 1954 Indochina War, it is up to the British to make the formal response.

However, U. S. sources said the British and Americans are so closely in agreement on the Laos question that London could reply without waiting for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's visit to Washington, which starts Tuesday.

4th District Judge David Garrett Dies

15, 1893, Judge Garrett was a lifelong resident of Ouachita parish. He was the son of the late Franklin and Lela Johnston Garrett.

He received his early education in Ouachita parish and later graduated from Tulane University and Louisiana State University.

Judge Garrett served in the U. S. Marine Corps during World War I with the rank of captain.

In 1920 he was elected district attorney for a four-year term, then in 1924 re-elected for a six-year term. In 1930 he was again re-elected for a six-year term, but resigned to accept the judicial post created with the death of the late Judge Percy Sandel In 1936, he was elected a full six-year term as judge, the position he held until his death.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge, American Legion, 40 & 8, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fourth District and Louisiana Bar Association and Kappa Sigma.

He resided at 2214 Island Drive.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lessie Madison Garrett, Sr., of Monroe; two sons, David I. Garrett, Jr., of Monroe, and Dr. H. Flood Madison Garrett, of Bastrop; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Clark Boardman, Charles B. Garretson, A. B. Myatt, Jr., Judge Jesse Heard, Nelson D. Abell, Jr., James S. Williams, Leo Terzia Jr., and Murray Hudson.

Peace Corps Is Endorsed By Educators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peace Corps has won approval from 94.2 per cent of 468 college presidents and other officials replying to a survey of the American Council on Education.

But only seven per cent of those approving believe the federal government should have complete control over the program.

Adams said, however, that the figures may not reflect the impact of President Kennedy's announcement March 1 that he was setting up a Peace Corps.

The council's Committee of the Peace Corps, headed by President Gaylord P. Harnwell of the University of Pennsylvania, sent out its questionnaires to 963 universities, colleges, and junior colleges Feb. 17 and received replies until March 10.

Most of the 468 replies came from the presidents of the institutions, but, in a few cases, vice presidents or deans replied.

Results included:

1. The principle of the Peace Corps—441 institutions (92.4 per cent) approved; 27 (5.8 per cent) did not.

2. Amount of student interest—110 campuses (24.7 per cent) found considerable interest; 275 (61.8 per cent) some interest; and 60 (13.5 per cent) no interest.

3. International educational programs—195 (43.5 per cent) institutions had special international educational programs; 253 (56.6 per cent) did not.

4. Membership—199 of the institutions approving a Peace Corps (46.2 per cent) said the program would be limited to four-year college graduates; 203 (53.8 per cent) said it should be limited to those with at least two years of college. There were no other educational classifications on the questionnaire.

5. Program control—29 (7 per cent) of the institutions who favor the corps believe the federal government should have complete control over selection, training and placement of corps members; 133 (31.8 per cent) believe the federal government should operate the program, using higher institutions and other private agencies only for training; and 256 (61.3 per cent) believe the government should contract these institutions and agencies to handle selection, training, and placement.

100 LETTERS A WEEK

Caroline Kennedy Receives Fan Mail

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Caroline Kennedy doesn't know it but she gets plenty of fan mail at the tender age of 3, including Easter greetings from people she'll never meet.

And, she regularly receives fan mail at the rate of one hundred letters a week, the White House reports.

Caroline never gets to see the childish scrawls and the messages from mothers of young fers who wish her well and even tell her how to take care of her pet canary and famous cat "Tom Kitten."

White House secretaries answer her mail, along with the thousand of letters that come to her famous parents, President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Cute, blonde Caroline and her antics have captured the imagination of people across the nation and abroad much as if she were a movie star.

All of her fans get polite little thank you notes, too, says Miss Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary.

"Obviously, Caroline is too small to comprehend any of this," adds Miss Turnure, and "she doesn't see any of them" but the staff diligently acknowledges all with the note, "Mrs. Kennedy asked me to thank you for your kind letter to her daughter, Caroline."

Children, who share her interest in animals, eagerly write Caroline telling of their own pets and offering advice.

A little girl in Italy wrote in Italian, telling Caroline about going to school in the first grade. Messages come in French and Spanish as well. And there are gifts, too.

Easter Youth Rallies Held Around Globe

By United Press International

Youth around the world demonstrated for peace Saturday with Easter weekend prayers and marches.

Mass hikes that began earlier in the week were climaxed with rallies and demonstrations at key points.

One of the largest U.S. gatherings was held in New York City, outside the United Nations headquarters, where young people converged after marching from north and south.

Police estimated that 2,000 demonstrators participated in the rally in the United Nations plaza, sponsored by the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. The gathering was orderly, with the marchers carrying picket signs and chanting "1, 2, 3, 4, we don't want any war; 5, 6, 7, 8, why don't we negotiate?"

Picket signs read "Peace Not Pieces," "Ban the Bomb" and "Security Through World Disarmament."

A three-day, 54-mile hike by 17,000 marchers was dampened in England by rain and a barrage of rotten eggs. The march on London lost much of its steam because of sore feet and heckling from bystanders. An estimated 7,000 persons fell by the wayside, while 10,000 other trudged on, headed for Trafalgar Square. Demonstrations were held in 37 nations, from Tokyo to Iraq, and Australia to South Africa.

About 80 pickets marched outside the main entrance to the Pentagon in Washington. Among them were men, women and children who carried placards and distributed leaflets. The demonstrators later marched on Washington and held a rally in Judiciary Square.

Another peace march began at the minuteman statue in Lexington, Mass., and ended at Faneuil Hall in Boston. Well over 100 persons joined the march, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, the Committee For a Sane Nuclear Policy, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, the Boston Committee for Disarmament and Peace, the Peace and Social Concerns Committee and a Quaker group from Cambridge.

Youth Dozes, Three Killed In Accident

By United Press International

An 18-year-old Memphis, Tenn boy dozed at the wheel early Saturday and the car he was driving edged across the "yellow line" in the center of the road, killing three persons instantly.

The crushing car-truck collision near Grove Hill raised Alabama's weekend death toll to seven. The UPI count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Martha M. Jobe, 67, of Dale ville, was killed instantly and three others "critically injured" in a high-speed crash near Ft. Racker 30 minutes before the count began. A Greenville, S.C., man, Rhett Duncan, committed suicide in Birmingham, authorities said, when he jumped from a viaduct early Saturday.

The highway patrol reported the automobile-trailer truck crash occurred 3.5 miles north of Grove Hill at 1:30 a.m. The dead were identified as Hubert Yancey Carroll, Jr., 18, Hubert Yancey Carroll, Sr., 44, and daughter, Cathy Carroll, 10, all of Memphis.

Patrolman Charles E. Canterberry said the family was en route to Pensacola, Fla. to visit another daughter, Mrs. Judy Markus, when young Carroll apparently dozed at the wheel of the car, edged onto the wrong side of the road and hit the huge van cresting a hill.

The driver of the truck, John Hancock, 50, of Birmingham, suffered only minor injuries.

Roy Rhodes, 35, of Cottonwood, was killed Friday inside the city limits of Cottonwood when the car in which Rhodes was riding hit a parked vehicle.

Mary Alford, 51, of Livonia, Mich. was killed one mile north of Huntsville in Madison County Saturday. The victim was a passenger in a car on U.S. Highway 231 which was struck by a speeding automobile on the wrong side of the road.

William P. Richardson, 50, of Robertsdale was killed in a one-car crash three miles south of Gilbertown in Choctaw County. The patrol said the accident occurred on Alabama Highway 17 when Richardson lost control of his car and ran into a field.

Willie Smith, 39, Negro, of Mobile, was killed when he fell 35 feet from a scaffold at the Alabama state docks. Smith, a cement finisher, was jarred off the scaffold when a concrete hoist bucket slammed into the narrow plank on which he was working.

Robert Parsons, 23-year-old Florence State College student from Fairfield, was killed Friday and three coeds at Florence injured in a one-car accident near Jasper. Officers said Parsons lost control of his car on Alabama Highway 5 in Walker County and plunged down an embankment. The injured coeds were identified as Shirley Sue Barton, 20, of Jasper, Martha Kimbrell, 20, of Gorgas, and Carolyn Tittle, 20, of Good Springs.

FBI Seizes Desperado On Farmer's Tip

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Kenneth Eugene Cindle, 48, one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, was captured by the FBI Saturday near the Texas-New Mexico border on a tip from a farmer who saw Cindle's picture on television.

The desperado, arrested on a federal warrant charging unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery at Wichita, Kan., previously had been arrested three times by Texas and Oklahoma authorities, but released before it was learned he was one of the nation's 10 most-wanted criminals.

Cindle was arrested Saturday by special agents of the FBI and local officers on a remote west Texas ranch southwest of Lubbock, near the New Mexico state border. He surrendered without a struggle.

Cindle told authorities that he had been hitchhiking around the country working on odd jobs in an attempt to avoid arrest.

The FBI said Cindle and an accomplice were alleged to have entered a Wichita restaurant Oct. 17, 1959, held a sawed-off double barreled shotgun on the customers and employes, and obtained $256 from the cash register.

The farmer who tipped the FBI said he saw a desperate criminal photograph of Cindle on TV. The farmer, who was not identified, said he hired Cindle as a ranch hand about two weeks ago.

Police at Abilene, Tex. reported a week ago that they had Cindle in jail without knowing it and let him slip through their fingers.

The same thing happened twice previously, once in Oklahoma City and another time at Tulsa, Okla.

At Abilene last week, police Captain Floyd Isbell said, "He gave us the name Gus Anderson. He was in jail as a drunk and when he paid his fine, we let him go. It wasn't until later when the FBI was making a routine check of fingerprints that it was discovered who he was."

Cindle, from Hannah, Okla., was arrested two days after the Wichita robbery at Tulsa for failure to register as an ex-convict, but he gained his freedom on bond before his wanted status was established.

Cindle again was arrested on March 26, 1960, at Oklahoma City, for assault with a deadly weapon, but again was released on bond.

Cindle was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Frank R. Murray at Lubbock late Saturday and was remanded to the custody of the U.S. marshal as he could not make the $30,000 bond.

Shy Girl, 8, Wins In Safety Contest

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Patty Somes, a shy 8-year-old who's in love with crayons and a knack for drawing, was just a bit awed Saturday with news she had won a national safety poster contest.

How did it feel to have her poster chosen from over 11,600 entries in the contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association?

"I don't know," Patty giggled. "The other kids in school called me lucky. I guess I am."

Patty, the first pupil under 14 ever to win the contest, received $375 in awards. She said the money is going into the bank.

Her poster, captioned "Be extra alert in bad weather," shows a little girl with hair arranged in bangs like Patty's peeking out from behind an umbrella.

Patty entered two other posters in the contest. One depicted a boy pulling a girl to safety from between two parked cars, and right now she can't recall just what the third one was about.

Although she gets O's — for "outstanding" — in her third grade art class at Fleming Garden School, Patty had never drawn a poster before she entered the contest.

Her sister, Virginia, 13, won honorable mention with her eighth grade entry.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Somes, have no explanation for this burst of artistic talent in the family.

"Neither my wife nor I can draw," said Somes, a maintenance worker at Allison Division of General Motors Corp. "These girls have a really great teacher."

The teacher is Elva Strouse, whose pupils won a total of 49 prizes in this year's contest.

"I never could have hoped for more for my pupils," Mrs. Strouse said.

Patty, meanwhile, was about the calmest person in the Somes household. She wasn't even shaken up when her mother used the blower from the family vacuum sweeper to dry Patty's hair quickly so a news picture could be taken.

Moscow Reply Boosts British Hopes For Laos

LONDON (AP) — Moscow's reply to Britain's peace plan for Laos Saturday night boosted hopes here of an end to the civil war in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Government officials avoided quick comment on the Soviet note delivered to the British ambassador in Moscow earlier but sources close to the government said the general reaction in official quarters was one of encouragement.

The Russians have ruled out none of the essential elements of the proposals Britain put in its note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev March 23, the sources noted.

The British proposed a cease-fire, a meeting of the 1954 armistice commission and an international conference to negotiate a firm settlement of Laos' future.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home studied the Soviet answer. He flies to Washington Monday for talks with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and to join in the later sessions between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Group Pickets Pentagon For Nuclear Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 80 men and women picketed the Pentagon Saturday, urging a ban on nuclear tests and world disarmament. Then they marched three miles to a downtown square for another peaceful demonstration.

A few members of George Rockwell's American Nazi party heckled the downtown meeting briefly, but there was no disturbance.

At the Pentagon, the marchers paced up and down a walk within view of the offices of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They wore badges that said "Witnesses for Peace, 1961." Fourteen pacifist organizations were represented. Among their placards was one that said, "The world is now too small for anything but brotherhood."

A spokesman, Lawrence Scott, said the group seeks abolition of a chemical and bilogical warfare research center at Ft. Detrick, Md., and its conversion into a world health center.

Group Protests Jackson Action

ATLANTA (UPI) — A Negro group here said Saturday it had wired Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett that it deplored police treatment of Negroes during anti-segregation demonstrations in Jackson.

The telegram was sent by the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, which conducted a successful drive here for equal lunch counter rights.

The committee urged Barnett to "take bold, forthright action to end this unjustifiable action against Negro citizens of the state of Mississippi" in demonstrations during the week.

100 LETTERS A WEEK

Caroline Kennedy Receives Fan Mail

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Caroline Kennedy doesn't know it but she gets plenty of fan mail at the tender age of 3, including Easter greetings from people she'll never meet.

Caroline never gets to see the childish scrawls and the messages from mothers of youngsters who wish her well and even tell her how to take care of her pet canary and famous cat "Tom Kitten."

White House secretaries answer her mail, along with the thousands of letters that come to her famous parents, President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Cute, blonde Caroline and her antics have captured the imagination of people across the nation and abroad—much as if she were a movie star.

All of her fans get polite little thank you notes, too, says Miss Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary.

"Obviously, Caroline is too small to comprehend any of this," adds Miss Turnure, and "she doesn't see any of them" but the staff diligently acknowledges all with the note, "Mrs. Kennedy asked me to thank you for your kind letter to her daughter, Caroline."

Children, who share her interest in animals, eagerly write Caroline telling of their own pets and offering advice.

A little girl in Italy wrote in Italian, telling Caroline about going to school in the first grade. Messages come in French and Spanish as well. And there are gifts, too.

Easter Youth Rallies Held Around Globe

By United Press International

Youth around the world demonstrated for peace Saturday with Easter weekend prayers and marches.

Mass hikes that began earlier in the week were climaxed with rallies and demonstrations at key points.

One of the largest U.S. gatherings was held in New York City, outside the United Nations headquarters, where young people converged after marching from north and south.

Police estimated that 2,000 demonstrators participated in the rally in the United Nations plaza, sponsored by the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. The gathering was orderly, with the marchers carrying picket signs and chanting "1, 2, 3, 4, we don't want any war; 5, 6, 7, 8, why don't we negotiate?"

Picket signs read "Peace Not Pieces," "Ban the Bomb" and "Security Through World Disarmament."

A three-day, 54-mile hike by 17,000 marchers was dampened in England by rain and a barrage of rotten eggs. The march on London lost much of its steam because of sore feet and heckling from bystanders. An estimated 7,000 persons fell by the wayside, while 10,000 other trudged on, headed for Trafalgar Square.

Demonstrations were held in 37 nations, from Tokyo to Iraq, and Australia to South Africa.

About 80 pickets marched outside the main entrance to the Pentagon in Washington. Among them were men, women and children who carried placards and distributed leaflets. The demonstrators later marched on Washington and held a rally in Judiciary Square.

Another peace march began at the minuteman statue in Lexington, Mass., and ended at Faneuil Hall in Boston. Well over 100 persons joined the march, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, the Committee For a Sane Nuclear Policy, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, the Boston Committee for Disarmament and Peace, the Peace and Social Concerns Committee and a Quaker group from Cambridge.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL

Coon Gives Statement In Answer To Charges

State Fire Marshal John Coon, of Monroe indicted the past week on charges of public payroll fraud after the state Civil Service Commission criticized his handling of the case of Gibson O. Kimberlin, who was on the state payroll while holding a full-time job as an oil company chemist, has issued the following statement concerning the case:

"I was shocked and amazed at the ruling of the Civil Service Commission and the indictment returned against me by the East Baton Rouge Parish Grand Jury concerning the employment of Gibson O. Kimberlin by my department.

"I am innocent of any wrong doing and feel that time will prove that I am correct in this statement.

"Mr. Kimberlin is a graduate chemist and was employed on a consultant basis to be called on only in time of emergency. He was certified by Civil Service and on his application to them he set out that he was a full time chemist at the Esso Research Laboratory drawing $750 per month but would be available anywhere in the state day or night for such consultation. I discussed his employment with Mr. McDougal before employing him and all of the facts were known by all parties.

"The Civil Service Commission was no' unanimous in their decision to suspend me for ten days. The following are excerpts from the dissenting opinion which were not carried by the daily press:

"The facts in this case were undisputed and only the intentions of the parties seems to be the issue.

"'After carefully considering all the testimony in this case, which was not at variance, it appears that Mr. Kimberlin should have been employed under contract as a consultant rather than being given Civil Service status.

"'I feel that since Mr. Kimberlin made his application asking for Civil Service status and this application was reviewed by and became a portion of the records of the Civil Service Department, that they should have seen at that time that this man was a full-time employe of Esso Standard Oil drawing $750.00 a month and that any reasonable prudent and intelligent person would know that he would not give up this job for a job of $245.00 per month as Deputy Marshal I at the Fire Marshal's Office. I think that the Civil Service Department should have notified Mr. Coon that this man could not come under Civil Service as a consultant but should have been hired under contract as they are more familiar with Civil Service than Mr. Coon is, as they operate with a corps of evaluation and classification experts. None of the facts were hidden in this case.

"'I do not think we have any authority to suspend the head of a department who has been appointed by the governor and furthermore, I don't think that from a reasonable prudent man's standpoint that a head of a department should be suspended — he should either be fired or exonerated of any charges made against him. I cannot find where Mr. Coon has done anything wrong. A mistake has been made and I feel that the Department of Civil Service was just as much a part of this mistake being made as anyone else, as they are versed in the complexities and classifications of the Civil Service law, rules and regulations and should act as a guide to other agency department heads in following such law, rules and regulations.

"'Any findings of this Commission whereby they recommend that Mr. Coon be suspended for ten days are not in accordance with the law and I feel that the blame should be placed on the Department of Civil Service rather than Mr. Coon.'

"I am appealing to the courts from the majority opinion of the Civil Service Commission. During my many years as State Fire Marshal of Louisiana, I have always co-operated and worked with the Civil Service Commission. I am an appointee of the governor, not under Civil Service, and I have been advised they have no jurisdiction over me. However, in the spirit of cooperation, I will not draw any pay for the first ten (1) working days in April of 1961, in accordance with their ruling and will perform my services during this period free subject to final ruling by the Courts.

"In conclusion, let me state that I have been a public servant for a number of years having served as a member of the Legislature, Mayor of the City of Monroe and State Fire Marshal. I have always conducted my duties in an honest, straightforward and dignified manner and expect to continue this policy in the future."

Lincoln Negroes To Be Tried For White Stabbing

RUSTON (Special) — District Attorney Ragan Madden said here Saturday four Lincoln Parish Negroes will be tried before Third District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. on charges of aggravated battery April 24 in the stabbing of Louisiana Tech football player Joe Hinton.

Madden said the four are Harold Lee Howard, 18, Willie Lee Goree, 28, Theodis Goree, 18, and Roy James Goree, 21.

He said the incident occurred March 24 when the Negroes attempted to keep Hinton from passing their car on Interstate 20 by weaving and braking. They followed Hinton's car to the intersection of Highway 80 and Wesley Chapel Road, where both cars stopped, he said.

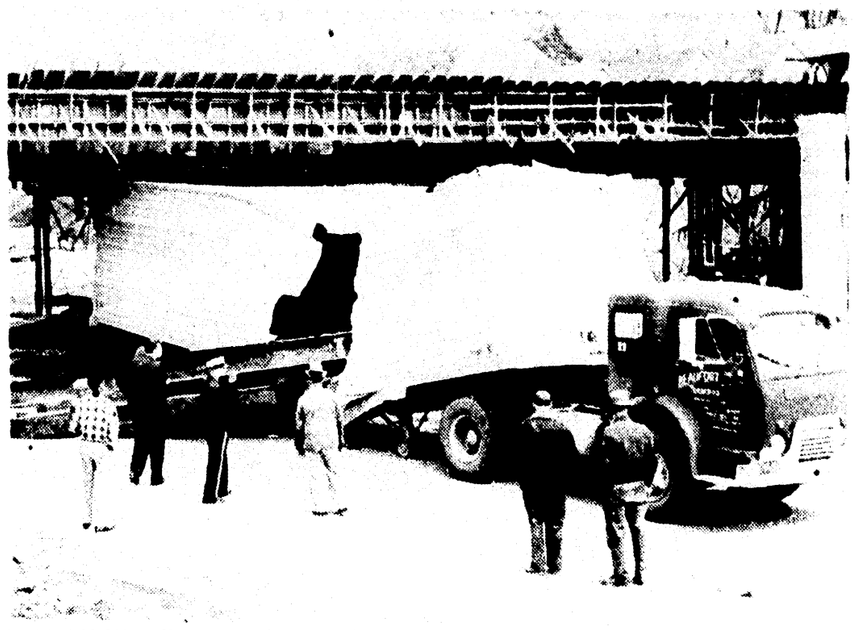
A fracas occurred after the cars stopped and Hinton was knifed, members of the Hinton family said.

The Negroes were represented in court here Thursday, when they pleaded not guilty, by Charles Morton, attorney from Jonesboro.



A TRAILER-TRUCK failed to clear a viaduct under construction in Kansas City with this result. Seven huge steel I beams tumbled down slicing through the aluminum trailer like a knife. Heavy timbers and other steel supports also fell into the street. The truck driver, Edward L. Gehlert of Gerald, Mo., escaped injury. (AP Wirephoto)

Round-A-Bout

With Ezra Adams, State Editor

Today's the day bunnies by the dozen will be trying to outsmart the smallfry and grownups alike, in a hide - and - seek egg-hunt game.

Brightly colored eggs will get squashed in the rush when children in large groups are turned loose as the hiding is finished and the seeking starts.

But when all's said and done, the big Easter hunt was worth it, mothers will say. And then they'll reflect on the parade of spring fashions they were in, comparing their own Easter frock with those of others.

And so, with the weatherman smiling, another brand new spring is ushered in.

In a serious vein, spiritually moved souls will commune with God on this Day of Resurrection, lifting their voices and eyes to the heavens in humble repentance.

Mystery for the day: How come the fire to start when a new nylon mop lay on a nylon auto seat cover for a few minutes' ride?

R. L. (Uncle Bob) Adams, 88, who lives in Franklin parish and never smoked tobacco, bought the mop at a Liddieville community store recently and drove half a mile to his home.

When another person reached in to get the mop from the rear seat, there was a "small blazing fire" that had burned a hole in the seat cover and slightly damaged the mop.

No evidence of how the fire started was apparent.

We don't know the author of this little ditty, but we wonder if it wasn't some Yankee:

DO THEY MISS ME IN THE TRENCHES
(A Vicksburg Civil War Marching Song)

Do they miss me in the trenches
When the shells fly so thickly around?
Do they know that I've run down the hillside
To hunt for my hole in the ground?
The shell exploded so near me
It seemed best for me to run;
And although some laughed as I crawfished,
I could not discover the fun.
I often get up in the trenches,
When some Yank is near out of sight
And fire a round or two at him
To make the boys think I will fight;
But when the Feds commence shelling
I run to my hole down the hill—
I'll swear my legs never would stay there,
Although all may stay there at will.
I'll save myself through the dread struggle,
And when the great battle is o'er
I'll claim my full rations of laurels,
As always I've done heretofore.
I'll swear that I've fought them as bravely
As the best of my comrades who fell,
And swear to all others around me
That I never had tears of a shell.

Negroes Booked Following Fight

Two Negroes were booked with battery counts in West Monroe after engaging in a fight at a Negro tavern Saturday night, according to West Monroe police.

Lorenzo Brown, 39, of 210 South Eighth St., was booked for aggravated battery on John Lee, 39 of 105 South Fifth St. Lee was charged with simple battery.

Negro Woman, Man Are Booked

A Negro man and woman were booked yesterday on four counts by Monroe police after they reportedly disturbed the peace by quarrelling.

John H. Warren, 45, of 2-A Jackson St. was booked with disturbing the peace, simple battery and damage to property.

Beaulah Starr, 30, of 2104 Cypress Street, West Monroe was booked for disturbing the peace.

Police Probe Company Theft

Monroe police are investigating a theft at Ellington Construction Company in which an acetylene cutting rig was taken sometime friday night.

Boyce Humble told authorities that the company is in the process of moving to a new location and that some one took the rig including the hose, gauges and the cutting torch.

Big Crowds See Blossoms In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of tourists roamed the banks of the Potomac Saturday seeing and smelling some of the world's most pampered trees.

It's Japanese cherry blossom time in the nation's capital.

The national Cherry Blossom Festival itself doesn't open until next week, April 8-9, but already the city's hotels and restaurants are bursting with the traditional influx of students and adults.

Happily, the cherry trees cooperated. The 600 trees burst into partial bloom last Wednesday, after two days of temperatures in the 70's. It rained all day Friday and it was gloomy Saturday but the blossoms still were in the pink.

The trees are expected to be in full bloom by festival time. Tree surgeons have sprayed them, pruned them, and filled their cavities.

Once the trees were treated with hormones to keep the blossoms alive during the festival. But T. Sutton Jett, superintendent of the National Capital Park Service, said this is no longer necessary.

Jett expects between 600,000 and 750,000 persons to view the blossoms within the next week.

Guards will be standing by to watch for blossom snippers. And there will be the usual pomp and circumstance.

Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai will make a speech describing the trees as a perennial reminder of the bonds of friendship between Japan and the United States.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL

Coon Gives Statement In Answer To Charges

State Fire Marshal John Coon, of Monroe indicted the past week on charges of public payroll fraud after the state Civil Service Commission criticized his handling of the case of Gibson O. Kimberlin, who was on the state payroll while holding a full-time job as an oil company chemist, has issued the following statement concerning the case:

"I was shocked and amazed at the ruling of the Civil Service Commission and the indictment returned against me by the East Baton Rouge Parish Grand Jury concerning the employment of Gibson O. Kimberlin by my department.

"I am innocent of any wrong doing and feel that time will prove that I am correct in this statement.

"Mr. Kimberlin is a graduate chemist and was employed on a consultant basis to be called on only in time of emergency. He was certified by Civil Service and on his application to them he set out that he was a full time chemist at the Esso Research Laboratory drawing $750 per month but would be available anywhere in the state day or night for such consultation. I discussed his employment with Mr. McDougal before employing him and all of the facts were known by all parties.

"The Civil Service Commission was not unanimous in their decision to suspend me for ten days. The following are excerpts from the dissenting opinion which were not carried by the daily press:

"The facts in this case were undisputed and only the intentions of the parties seems to be the issue.

"'After carefully considering all the testimony in this case, which was not at variance, it appears that Mr. Kimberlin should have been employed under contract as a consultant rather than being given Civil Service status.

"'I feel that since Mr. Kimberlin made his application asking for Civil Service status and this application was reviewed by and became a portion of the records of the Civil Service Department, that they should have seen at that time that this man was a full-time employe of Esso Standard Oil drawing $750.00 a month and that any reasonable prudent and intelligent person would know that he would not give up this job for a job of $245.00 per month as Deputy Marshal I at the Fire Marshal's Office. I think that the Civil Service Department should have notified Mr. Coon that this man could not come under Civil Service as a consultant but should have been hired under contract as they are more familiar with Civil Service than Mr. Coon is, as they operate with a corps of evaluation and classification experts. None of the facts were hidden in this case.

"'I do not think we have any authority to suspend the head of a department who has been appointed by the governor and furthermore, I don't think that from a reasonable prudent man's standpoint that a head of a department should be suspended — he should either be fired or exonerated of any charges made against him. I cannot find where Mr. Coon has done anything wrong. A mistake has been made and I feel that the Department of Civil Service was just as much a part of this mistake being made as anyone else, as they are versed in the complexities and classifications of the Civil Service law, rules and regulations and should act as a guide to other agency department heads in following such law, rules and regulations.

"'Any findings of this Commission whereby they recommend that Mr. Coon be suspended for ten days are not in accordance with the law and I feel that the blame should be placed on the Department of Civil Service rather than Mr. Coon.'

"I am appealing to the courts from the majority opinion of the Civil Service Commission. During my many years as State Fire Marshal of Louisiana, I have always co-operated and worked with the Civil Service Commission. I am an appointee of the governor, not under Civil Service, and I have been advised they have no jurisdiction over me. However, in the spirit of cooperation, I will not draw any pay for the first ten (1) working days in April of 1961, in accordance with their ruling and will perform my services during this period free subject to final ruling by the Courts.

"In conclusion, let me state that I have been a public servant for a number of years having served as a member of the Legislature, Mayor of the City of Monroe and State Fire Marshal. I have always conducted my duties in an honest, straightforward and dignified manner and expect to continue this policy in the future."

Lincoln Negroes To Be Tried For White Stabbing

RUSTON (Special) — District Attorney Ragan Madden said here Saturday four Lincoln Parish Negroes will be tried before Third District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. on charges of aggravated battery April 24 in the stabbing of Louisiana Tech football player Joe Hinton.

Madden said the four are Harold Lee Howard, 18, Willie Lee Goree, 23, Theodis Goree, 18, and Roy James Goree, 21.

He said the incident occurred March 24 when the Negroes attempted to keep Hinton from passing their car on Interstate 20 by weaving and braking. They followed Hinton's car to the intersection of Highway 80 and Wesley Chapel Road, where both cars stopped, he said.

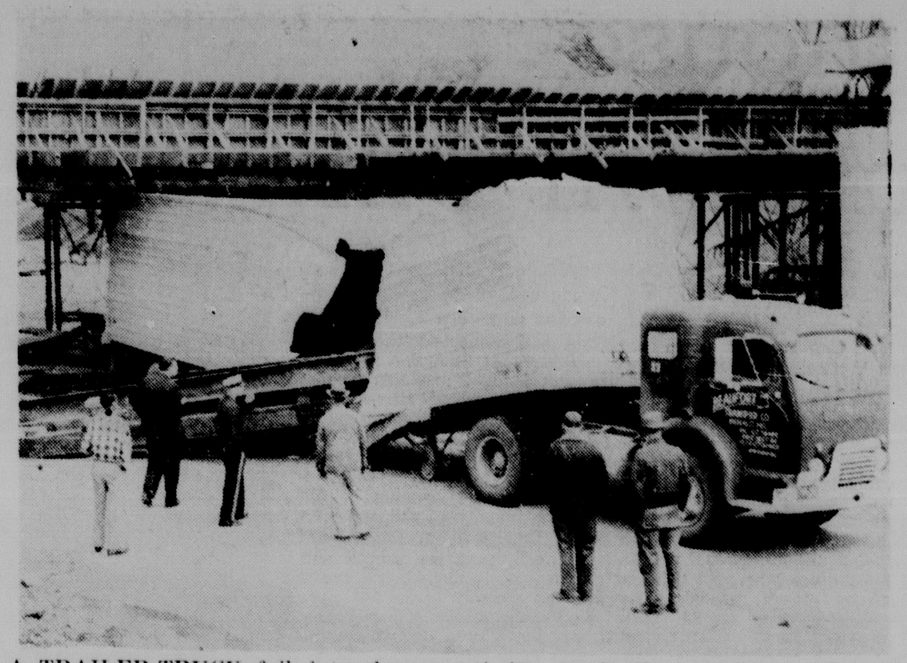
A fracas occurred after the cars stopped and Hinton was knifed, members of the Hinton family said.

The Negroes were represented in court here Thursday, when they pleaded not guilty, by Charles Morton, attorney from Jonesboro.



A TRAILER-TRUCK failed to clear a viaduct under construction in Kansas City with this result. Seven huge steel I beams tumbled down slicing through the aluminum trailer like a knife. Heavy timbers and other steel supports also fell into the street. The truck driver, Edward L. Gehlert of Gerald, Mo., escaped injury. (AP Wirephoto)

Round-A-Bout

With Ezra Adams, State Editor

Today's the day bunnies by the dozen will be trying to outsmart the smallfry and grownups alike, in a hide - and - seek egg-hunt game.

Brightly colored eggs will get squashed in the rush when children in large groups are turned loose as the hiding is finished and the seeking starts.

But when all's said and done, the big Easter hunt was worth it, mothers will say. And then they'll reflect on the parade of spring fashions they were in, comparing their own Easter frock with those of others.

And so, with the weatherman smiling, another brand new spring is ushered in.

In a serious vein, spiritually moved souls will commune with God on this Day of Resurrection, lifting their voices and eyes to the heavens in humble repentance.

Mystery for the day: How come the fire to start when a new nylon mop lay on a nylon auto seat cover for a few minutes' ride?

R. L. (Uncle Bob) Adams, 83, who lives in Franklin parish and never smoked tobacco, bought the mop at a Liddieville community store recently and drove half a mile to his home.

When another person reached in to get the mop from the rear seat, there was a "small blazing fire" that had burned a hole in the seat cover and slightly damaged the mop.

No evidence of how the fire started was apparent.

Strauss Playhouse Opens On April 9th

By ROBERT EVANS
President, Monroe Little Theatre

April 9, 1961 will be the most significant date in the thirty-year history of the Little Theatre of Monroe, Louisiana. On that day Little Theatre's new Strauss Playhouse will be opened to public view prior to the April 13 premiere of its first production, the musical Damn Yankees.

The Little Theatre movement in Monroe has had an honorable history extending back thirty years. Only in the last twelve years, however, has it employed a director on professional basis and developed a repertoire for productions of high artistic standards. During this time it operated in an abandoned theatre left behind by the Air Force when it closed down its Selman Field training base. This was a frame structure with a seating capacity of 125, a pocket handkerchief stage and whistle stop dressing room and work shop facilities.

In the Little Theatre of old time nevertheless it was a Grand Old Lady on a schedule of four productions per season. It offered such outstanding successes as Arsenic and Old Lace, Our Town, The Moon Is Blue, Dear Ruth, Stage Door, Claire Marie, Count Matuschka, Night in the Big Land, Guest in the House, and Dulcy, and many others.

In March of 1957 the Little Theatre of Monroe started its second decade with Patriot's Corner. This proved to be the beginning of an era for 13 productions in the succeeding Monroe Little Theatre seasons. This era came to a close when the Selman Field playhouse had fallen into a sad state of disrepair. The Air Force finally declared the building legally removed from government property, and the directors of Little Theatre were forced to replace the old playhouse with something better suited to the quality of the plays that had been presented during those years.

At this moment a young businessman, Clifford M. Strauss, and his wife, Rosalyn, came forward with a proposal that would succeed with the successful production of Peanut Gallery under the most adverse conditions and would see that Little Theatre would have something better than ever to operate. Strauss Foundation toward the construction of a new playhouse if the community would raise an equal amount. At that time the directors thought that $100,000 would finance the finest theatre that they could possibly wish, so the offer was accepted with alacrity. A Building and Finance committee was formed with Bernard W. Bodenheim, Miss Lallage Fearel, J. R. Henry, Mrs. W. W. Kelly, [illegible] Madden, Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Paul F. Stewart as members.

[illegible] in which they had appeared. Their efforts were made to provide for their comfort in the new. The Green Room has a combination refrigerator - stove and sink unit. It can also be used as an overflow dressing area for large cast productions.

Even before the Strauss Playhouse was completed, an intensive membership drive was undertaken. Previously Little Theatre membership had ranged from 300 to 500, but with the stimulus of the new construction it climbed to 1,300 for the 1960-61 season, including the phenomenal number of 700 patrons who paid $15.00 each as season members. The membership scale in the Little Theatre of Monroe is $30 for patrons ($40 married couples), $20 for member-hips, and $5.00 for season memberships.

For the current season two new classes of membership have been established at $2 for regular members and $1 for students. These memberships require the payment of admission to each production at the rate of $1 for regular plays and $2.50 to musicals, with students getting a special price of $1.50 for musicals. It was thought that this type of membership would attract large numbers who might not attend all shows and would not wish to pay full membership rate in advance. It remains to be seen what effect the actual opening of the Strauss Playhouse will have on Little Theatre membership.

All indications are that it will give it a tremendous boost. Doubling the capacity of the old playhouse appeared rather venturesome, but if live theatre continues to grow in popularity, it may yet develop that the plans were too conservative. Meanwhile, Monroe boasts a playhouse worthy of a city much larger and looks forward to future years of high quality theatre.

The Little Theatre has been a part of the cultural life of Monroe for the past 30 years, producing plays until it obtained permission to use an old abandoned theatre building at Selman Field about 12 years ago. U.S. Jobs Keep Young Married Couple Apart

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A young couple, married five weeks ago, has been kept 200 miles apart by their jobs and back together from the Easter weekend and are making plans for another reunion—possibly in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell McKamey work in the claims division of the U.S. Social Security Office—Mr. [illegible] Mrs. McKamey in Gatlinburg.

U.S. Policy Is Reversed In Louisiana

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —The Justice Department reversed its policy of non-intervention except in case of trouble in entering four Louisiana school desegregation cases during March, Southern School News reported Saturday.

In addition, it said, federal pressure for increased desegregation came from the courts and the executive department, and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy made telephone calls to southern governors to "hold personal conversations on civil rights matters."

The publication, noting the justice department previously had intervened only after trouble developed in enforcing court orders, quoted the attorney general as saying the Louisiana action would "assist the court in preventing potentially dangerous and critical situations from coming to a head."

It said the department entered as a friend of the court in suits involving St. Helena and West Baton Rouge parishes and six state-supported trade schools.

Of Kennedy's talks with Southern governors, it quoted Gov. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina as saying "at no time has the attorney general threatened us and at no time will he (concerning civil rights matters) . . . we are not meddling in each other's affairs."

The Little Theatre movement in Monroe has had an honorable history extending back thirty years. Only in the last twelve years, however, has it employed a succession of professional directors and developed a reputation for productions of high quality standards. During this time it operated in an abandoned theatre left behind by the Air Force when it closed down its Selman Field training base. This was a frame structure with a seating capacity of 125, a pocket handkerchief stage, and wholly inadequate dressing room and workshop facilities.

To the Little Theatre at that time, nevertheless, it was a Godsend. On a schedule of five shows per season, it offered such outstanding successes as Anastasia, Our Town, The Moon is Blue, Detective Story, Caine Mutiny Court Martial, Stalag 17, The Boy Friend, Guys and Dolls, and many others.

In March of 1959 the Little Theatre of Monroe staged its second musical show, Pajama Game. This proved so popular that it ran for 18 performances, an all-time record for Monroe. This occurred at a time when the Selman Field playhouse had fallen into a sad state of disrepair. The roof leaked, the Fire Marshal barely refrained from condemning it, and the officer and directors of Little Theatre were desperate to replace the old building with something better suited to the quality of the shows that had been presented during recent years.

At this moment a local businessman, Clifford M. Strauss, and his wife, Roselyn, came forward with a proposal. Impressed and pleased with the successful production of Pajama Game under most adverse conditions and feeling that Little Theatre deserved something better, they offered to donate $50,000 from the Carolyn Rose Strauss Foundation toward the construction of a new playhouse if the community would raise an equal amount. At that time the directors thought that $100,000 would finance the finest theatre that they could possibly wish, so the offer was accepted with alacrity. A Building and Finance Committee was formed consisting of myself as chairman, Bernard W. Biedenharn, Miss Lallage Feazel, J. R. Henry, Walter W. Kellogg, L. J. Madden, Jr., Mrs. C. H. McHenry, James A. Noe, Paul F. Stewart, and Clifford M. Strauss.

Then came a year of toil and disappointment for Little Theatre. The matching $50,000 was raised within a few months, but as so often happens, plans were drawn on entirely too ambitious a basis. When the first bids were opened, the Building Committee was shocked to discover that the lowest was over $200,000. Then came the period of agonizing reappraisal when, on the one hand, more funds were sought, after the initial enthusiasm had already waned, and, on the other hand, savage bites were taken out of everything in the plans that could be considered nonessential. In this process even the lobby was at one time elminated on the theory that the Green Room could serve two purposes at the start, but fortunately, some last - minute donors enabled its restoration.

Eventually, on June 6, 1960 ground - breaking ceremonies were finally held at the two-acre wooded site on Lamy Lane which had been donated to Little Theatre by Union Producing Company, a subsidiary of United Gas Corporation, whose Chairman, N. C. McGowen of Shreveport, had long been a devotee of community theatre. The general contract was awarded to Lamar Moore. It took nearly nine months to complete the building, as construction was hampered for weeks at a time by the rains for which Louisiana is noted. When it was done it represented a $200,000 plant of which $165,000 had been raised in cash and the balance took the form of donated land, materials, and services.

The $165,000 was raised in several different ways. The Strauss Foundation gift eventually rose to $82,000. An original group of five donors of $5,000 each grew in the course of time to twelve gifts ranging from $5,000 to $15,000. Some of these were cash; others were the equivalent in other forms. The architects, Paul F. Stewart Associates, donated their fee. The construction firm of Ford, Bacon & Davis performed the steel erection and other services. The Ouachita Gravel Company donated thousands of yards of earth, sand, and gravel, not to mention grading the property and black-topping the driveways and parking areas at nominal cost.

The 250 seats in the new playhouse were "sold" to Little Theatre members at $100 each. In recognition, name plates were affixed to the seats so that they represent a permanent roster of Monroe's civic - minded Little Theatre supporters. Another $25,000 was raised in this manner.

Finally, the tiles in the Green Room wall were made available to cast and crew members of past productions at $10 per tile so that they could enter their names and the titles of the shows in which they had appeared. Thus a backstage tradition in the old playhouse was turned to profit in the new one.

The Little Theatre also had a few other sources of revenue for the building fund. The site contained some excellent hardwood timber which had to be removed in part to make room for the new building, and the logs were sold to a local sawmill for about $200. The period of construction was also one of high interest rates, so as fast as contributions were received, they were placed at interest in government bonds, savings accounts, or building and loan associations with the result that about $5,000 of interest was accumulated. At the time the Strauss Playhouse was completed, the building fund still lacked about $10,000 of the total amount needed with every expectation that these funds would be raised so as to permit operation on a debt-free basis.

The Strauss Playhouse was designed by the architects in consultation with Dr. George W. Hendrickson of the Drama Department of Tulane University, the late Joseph B. Gifford of the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse in Shreveport, Ivan Uttal, the immediate past director of the Monroe Little Theatre, whose excellent productions had stimulated the Strauss Foundation gift, and Richard Clark, the present executive director. In general appearance it is a building approximately 120 feet long and 72 feet wide built of chocolate-colored brick. A full fly loft rises in the rear of the building paneled in a bluish-gray aluminum siding.

The lobby contains about 1,800 square feet with an attractive terrazzo floor. The box office and ticket counter are in the lobby and it is also used for the traditional serving of coffee between the acts.

The auditorium slopes on a rake of 1½ inches per foot. Its 250 seats are arranged in 12 rows with aisles separating the center section from the two side sections. It is a distance of 43 feet from the last row to the proscenium. In front of the proscenium is an orchestra pit about 3 feet below the floor level and extending back under the stage overhang. The pit is 28 feet wide and 10 feet in depth, tapering at the sides to 6 feet. A feature of the Strauss Playhouse is that during nonmusical productions the entire orchestra pit is covered by an extension of the stage in removable sections, giving what Mr. Gifford liked to call "proscenium plus." The auditorium walls are plaster with decorative curves fanning out toward the rear for good acoustical quality. Its ceiling is 17 feet high, sloping down to 14 feet at the proscenium. The ceiling is pierced with an offset in a curved line so as to provide ports for lights which are serviced from a steel catwalk enclosed within the ceiling.

The proscenium is 28 feet wide and 14 feet high; the fly loft area over the stage is 49 feet wide, 30 feet deep, and 50 feet to the top girders, 45 feet to the grid. The side stage area is 10 feet on each side and 17 feet high. Behind the stage is a workshop area 12 feet deep and running the full 72-foot width of the theatre, also 17 feet high. At rear center is a large sliding barn door which gives access to a truck ramp in the back. The rear wall is constructed of cinder blocks with the thought that at some future time the workshop area could be extended farther to the rear without having to destroy a brick wall.

A last - minute addition was a 1,000 square foot storage shed with a concrete floor behind the building with ready access from the workshop. This building cost the Little Theatre nothing, as the concrete, lumber, and steel roofing and siding were all donated and a contractor member of Little Theatre erected it at no charge.

Returning to the theatre proper, the Green Room flanks one side of the auditorium. It is 52 feet long with a small cubbyhole at the lobby entrance to serve as the director's office. Since one of its walls conforms with the outline of the auditorium, its width tapers from one end to the other but averages about 10 feet. There is a corresponding storage area and paint closet on the other side of the building. The women's dressing room is on the second floor above the Green Room, while the men's dressing room is on the other side above the storage area. These rooms are well equipped with rest rooms, dressing tables, and mirrors. Each gives access to the catwalk and to the "projection booth" at the rear of the auditorium. Here there is an Ariel Davis control panel which can be worked with a full view of the stage. The sound equipment is also housed here.

When and if Little Theatre adopts a cinema series, the projectors will be placed here and there is still room for follow-spots and other equipment. In case of emergency, a trap door and ladder permit quick exit to a passageway at the back of the auditorium. The main area of the projection room is 22 feet wide and 8 feet deep with sliding glass panels covering two 8 - foot windows overlooking the auditorium and stage.

Outside the building is a parking area for 100 cars, in addition to a special parking area next to the theatre for cast and crew. In an attempt to make up for all the inconveniences suffered by the volunteer workers for Little Theatre at the old playhouse, special efforts were made to provide for their comfort in the new. The Green Room has a combination refrigerator - stove-and-sink unit. It can also be used as an overflow dressing area for large cast productions.

Even before the Strauss Playhouse was completed, an intensive membership drive was undertaken. Previously Little Theatre membership had ranged from 500 to 900, but with the stimulus of the new construction it climbed to 1,800 for the 1960-61 season, including the phenomenal number of 216 patrons who paid twice as much as season members. The membership scale in the Little Theatre of Monroe is $30 for patrons (two memberships) and $7.50 for season memberships.

For the current season two new classes of membership have been established at $2 for regular members and $1 for students. These memberships require the payment of admission to each production at the rate of $1 for regular plays and $2.50 to musicals, with students getting a special price of $1.50 for musicals. It was thought that this type of membership would attract large numbers who might not attend all shows and would not wish to pay full membership rate in advance. It remains to be seen what effect the actual opening of the Strauss Playhouse will have on Little Theatre membership.

All indications are that it will give it a tremendous boost. Doubling the capacity of the old playhouse appeared rather venturesome, but if live theatre continues to grow in popularity, it may yet develop that the plans were too conservative. Meanwhile, Monroe boasts a playhouse worthy of a city much larger and looks forward to future years of high quality theatre.

NEW HOME OF the Little Theatre of Monroe is the large building located on Lammy Lane, just north of the United Gas Building. Formal opening will be held Sunday, April 9. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford, Jr.)

Formal Opening Of Theatre Set Here Next Week

Lamy Lane, just behind the United Gas Building. The two-acre site was donated to the organization by Union Producing Company, a subsidiary of the United Gas Corporation.

The parking area will accomodate 100 automobiles in addition to those if the cast and crew.

Actual construction on the building began on June 6, 1960, when groundbreaking ceremonies were held. General contractor was Lamar Moore and Paul F. Stewart Associates were contractors.

Although the actual cash raised during the drive for the new building was $165,000, other donations of services and property raised to total investment to approximately $200,000. The largest of the donations included the land by Union Producing Company, architect's fee by Paul F. Stewart Associates and the Ouachita Gravel Company, who donated sand and gravel in the first phases of the construction.

However, by and large, the largest donation came from the Strauss Family of Monroe, who made an original offer of $50,000, if the public would match this fund. However, this original offer later increased to $62,500.

The Little Theatre has been a part of the civic life of Monroe for the past 30 years, meeting in various places until it obtained permission to use an old abandoned theatre building at Selman Field about 12 years ago. The building had been constructed when Selman Field was an active Air Force base and the building had gone down steadily since then. However, with the hopes of obtaining a new modern theatre, the organization continued using the old building until the funds could be raised.

The committee which guided the raising of funds and served as a watchdog in the actual construction included Robert H. Evans, B. W. Biedenharn, Miss Lallage Feazel, J.R. Henry, W. W. Kellogg, L. J. Madden, Jr., Mrs. Carl H. McHenry, James A. Noe, Paul F. Stewart and Clifford M. Strauss.

Serving in official capacities this year are: Evans, president; Madden, vice president for administration and treasurer; Mrs. R. D. McGruder, vice president for production; Miss Feazel, vice president for membership; and Mrs. McHenry, secretary.

Directors, in addition to the officers, are Mrs. S. S. Gill, C. M. Strauss, R. M. Troy, Mrs. H. L. Woods, Jr., Mrs. B. W. Biedenharn, Mrs. C. C. Boardman, Scherck Bogen, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, Jr., F. W. Huenefeld, and L. A. Shipman.

The trustees include Mrs. A. L. Causey, Grayson Guthrie, Henry Haas, Jr., R. M. Kettenring, H. H. Mullins, Mrs. Mortimer Raphael, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Sr., Robert S. Smith, Paul F. Stewart, G. A. Waschka, Mrs. E. B. Ellison, Mrs. F. L. Elmendorf, J. R. Henry, Mrs. Warner Holland, W. W. Kellogg, I. T. Landry, Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. Miles H. Sager, Carl Slakter, Louis D. U.S. Jobs Keep Young Married Couple Apart

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A young couple, married five weeks ago but kept 580 miles apart by their jobs, are back together again this Easter weekend and are making plans for another reunion—possibly in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell McKinney work in the claims division of the U.S. Social Security Office—McKinney here, his wife in Gainesville, Fla.

This weekend was only the second time they've been together during their married life.

A federal regulation forbids man and wife to work in the same office. Two weeks ago, the McKinneys compromised—meeting halfway between Knoxville and Gainesville at Macon, Ga.

The McKinneys met while training for their jobs. They married two days before they were to leave for their assigned posts.

This time, Mrs. McKinney came here and the Andrew Johnson Hotel chipped in its government suite for the couple.

U.S. Policy Is Reversed In Louisiana

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —The Justice Department reversed its policy of non-intervention except in case of trouble in entering four Louisiana school desegregation cases during March, Southern School News reported Saturday.

In addition, it said, federal pressure for increased desegregation came from the courts and the executive department, and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy made telephone calls to southern governors to "hold personal conversations on civil rights matters."

The publication, noting the justice department previously had intervened only after trouble developed in enforcing court orders, quoted the attorney general as saying the Louisiana action would "assist the court in preventing potentially dangerous and critical situations from coming to a head."

It said the department entered as a friend of the court in suits involving St. Helena and West Baton Rouge parishes and six state-supported trade schools.

Of Kennedy's talks with Southern governors, it quoted Gov. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina as saying "at no time has the attorney general threatened us and at no time will he (concerning civil rights matters) . . . we are not meddling in each other's affairs."

SOME STRONG PROTESTS

Reaction Mixed On U.S. Closing Of Military Bases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reaction to the government's decision to close 52 military installations in the United States ranged from strong protest to quiet acceptance and hope the sites could be converted for industrial use.

Some installations have thousands of employes with substantial spending power in the localities affected; others have only a handful of workers. Twenty-one overseas bases also will be dropped.

The intention of closing the Benicia, Calif., Army Arsenal spurred a protest meeting at City Hall.

"Ten years ago a similar proposal was tried," said Mayor James Lemos. "It took the concentrated efforts of the entire bay area to lick it. But we did lick it. And I hope we roll up our sleeves and lick it again."

The 112-year-old installation, where Ulysses S. Grant and William T. Sherman once served, has about 2,400 workers. Abot 1,700 would lose their jobs in a three-year close-out in which the arsenal operations would be shifted to a depot near Salt Lake City, Utah.

But proposed closure of the Naval Air Station at Algiers, near New Orleans, was described by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., as not tragic.

He said the 230-acre site would offer opportunities for industrial or residential development.

Closing of the base would affect 400 civilian employes and 420 military personnel, with an annual payroll of $4 million.

Typical of the proposed closures in an effort to save money and eliminat obsolete installations is that of the country's only operational Snark missile base, at Presque Isle, Maine. It has been outmoded by development of longer-range missiles.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said: "I shall explore the possibility of using these facilities for other military purposes."

The base has 1,250 officers and men.

The Army's Rossford Ordnance Depot, slated to be closed at Toledo, Ohio, ranks among the city's top employers. It has 1,50 employes, an annual payroll of $12 million, and spends about $4 million a year in services.

James L. Marple of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce called the planned shutdown one more "bale of straw upon Toledo's back which will make it even harder to rise out of the unemployment conditions in which we presently find ourselves."

News that the Army's sprawling Raritan Arsenal near New Brunswick, N.J., would be closed drew mixed reactions.

Some believed closing of the installation, with an annual payroll of $15.5 million, would have a damaging and lasting impact on the economy of the area. Others saw the possibility of bringing industry to the 3,800-acre site. The arsenal has 2,650 employes.

A cutback of Navy facilities at the New York Shipbuilding corp. plant at Camden, N.J., was expected to entail only minor adjustments with no effect on personnel.

New York City accepted casually the word that the downtown Manhattan Army Building, headquarters of the 1st Army Recruiting Dist. would be closed. The building was the departure point for hundreds of thousands of persons from civilian life to the military.

It was different at Harlingen, Tex., where the closing of an Air Force base will mean the end of $50 million spent annually in the area by 2,000 military men and 300 civilian workers.

"Take $30 million out of a section like this, and everything will feel it," a banker commented.

Closing of Laughlin Air Force Base at Del Rio, Tex., was termed by city officials as a major blow to the area. They described the base as the city's largest "industry." It has 2,400 military personnel and 270 civilian workers, with a monthly payroll of $800,000.

Kingsville, Tex., will lose the south field of the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, with its payroll of $130,000 a month, but its north field base will remain open.

Closing of an Auxiliary Naval Air Station at Port Isabel, Tex., opened four years ago, was not expected to be felt too much. Most of the 200 military men and civilians there were expected to be absorbed at bases at Corpus Christi, Kingsville's north field and Beeville.

The intended shutdown of the Atlantic Reserve Fleet Base at Green Cove Springs, Fla., will end a $6-million annual payroll. As many civilian employes as possible will be transferred to the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, about 20 miles north, or to other bases.

More than 500 civilians are slated to lose their jobs with the closing of an Army Medical Depot in Louisville, Ky.

Washington Gov. Albert Rosellini said orders to close four military installations in that state would affect the state's economy drastically and that he would protest.

The major effect in the West Coast state will be the shutdown of the Mt. Rainier Ordnance Depot, near Tacoma, which has 1,000 workers, mostly civilian. City Mgr. David Rowlands said the situation looks serious.

Rep. Thor Tollefson, R-Wash., asserted he would oppose the Mt. Rainier closure.

Southern California expected little impact from the inactivation order.

The declaration that 32 Air Force acres near Los Angeles are surplus is expected to make them available for purchase by the Northrop Corp., which owns 133 nearby acres. The only other Los Angeles military installation marked for shutdown is an Army teletype message office with a work force of 25.

In San Diego, the Elliott Annex to the Naval Supply Center and a Navy Nuclear Weapons supply Annex will be closed. The Elliott Annex consists of warehouses with no civilian employes. Operations of the Nuclear Annex already have been moved to Oakland.

U.N. Gurka Troops Sent To Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Tough Gurkha troops were dispatched to north Katanga Saturday in U.N. show of force against a simmering civil war which might involve fighters for secessionist Katanga Province and those of the rebel Stanleyville regime.

"The primary stress is on negotiation and the peaceful prevention of clashes," said a U.N. spokesman. "Force will be used only as a last resort to prevent a breach of the peace."

The Gurkhas, 1,000 battle-trained Nepalese mercenaries sent by India, left Leopoldville's Ndjili Airport for Kamina, the large U.N. base in north Katanga.

Where they would go from there U.N. officials would not say. The Gurkhas took machine guns, rifles and mortars with them. They were wearing sky-blue U.N. helmets instead of their trade-mark slouch bush hats in which they have done fierce and determined combat in two World Wars.

Kamina, their destination, lies 200 miles southwest of Manono, site of the latest clash between Katanga President Moise Tshombe's troops and rebel tribesmen in north Katanga.

Katanga troops, led by a spearhead of white South African and British mercenaries, seized the tin-mining center Thursday and sent rebel forces fleeing.

The rebels were composed of Baluba tribesmen fanatically hostile to Tshombe and Congolese soldiers nominally loyal to the leftist rebel regime of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. They were reported regrouping in the area, and the Gurkhas could be sent in to separate the combatants in case of a new attack.

Shot Is Fatal For Bridegroom Of Few Hours

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A bridegroom was shot to death Saturday during a wedding party.

Police identified the victim as J. C. Owens.

Lt. Spurgeon Davenport of the police homicide department said Steve Bowman, 25, Indianapolis, was held on a preliminary charge of murder but contended the shooting was an accident.

Davenport said a wedding party was in progress for Mr. and Mrs. Owens when the group ran low on refreshments. Several of the men left to get some more beer.

Bowman was in a car with other men guests and was examining a revolver owned by another man. Bowman told police he thought the weapon was empty, pointed it outside the car window and pulled the trigger.

A bullet struck Owens in the chest. The men drove him to General Hospital where he died shortly afterward.

Owens and Miss Shirley Smith of Indianapolis were married Friday night, a few hours before the shooting.

TITO VISITS MOROCCO

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)— President Tito of Yugoslavia steamed into Casablanca harbor Saturday to the booming of a 21-gun salute and a royal greeting from Morocco's King Hassan II. Tito arrived aboard his yacht Ghaleb for a five-day visit.

Rep. Thor Tollefson, R-Wash., asserted he would oppose the Mt. Rainier closure.

Southern California expected little impact from the inactivation order.

The declaration that 32 Air Force acres near Los Angeles are surplus is expected to make them available for purchase by the Northrop Corp., which owns 133 nearby acres. The only other Los Angeles military installation marked for shutdown is an Army teletype message office with a work force of 25.

U.N. Gurka Troops Sent To Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Tough Gurkha troops were dispatched to north Katanga Saturday in U.N. show of force against a simmering civil war which might involve fighters for secessionist Katanga Province and those of the rebel Stanleyville regime.

"The primary stress is on negotiation and the peaceful prevention of clashes," said a U.N. spokesman. "Force will be used only as a last resort to prevent a breach of the peace."

The Gurkhas, 1,000 battle-trained Nepalese mercenaries sent by India, left Leopoldville's Ndjili Airport for Kamina, the large U.N. base in north Katanga.

Where they would go from there U.N. officials would not say. The Gurkhas took machine guns, rifles and mortars with them. They were wearing sky-blue U.N. helmets instead of their trade-mark slouch bush hats in which they have done fierce and determined combat in two World Wars.

Kamina, their destination, lies 200 miles southwest of Manono, site of the latest clash between Katanga President Moise Tshombe's troops and rebel tribesmen in north Katanga.

Katanga troops, led by a spearhead of white South African and British mercenaries, seized the tin-mining center Thursday and sent rebel forces fleeing.

The rebels were composed of Baluba tribesmen fanatically hostile to Tshombe and Congolese soldiers nominally loyal to the leftist rebel regime of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. They were reported regrouping in the area, and the Gurkhas could be sent in to separate the combatants in case of a new attack.

Shot Is Fatal For Bridegroom Of Few Hours

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A bridegroom was shot to death Saturday during a wedding party.

Police identified the victim as J. C. Owens.

Lt. Spurgeon Davenport of the police homicide department said Steve Bowman, 25, Indianapolis, was held on a preliminary charge of murder but contended the shooting was an accident.

Davenport said a wedding party was in progress for Mr. and Mrs. Owens when the group ran low on refreshments. Several of the men left to get some more beer.

Bowman was in a car with other men guests and was examining a revolver owned by another man. Bowman told police he thought the weapon was empty, pointed it outside the car window and pulled the trigger.

A bullet struck Owens in the chest. The men drove him to General Hospital where he died shortly afterward.

Owens and Miss Shirley Smith of Indianapolis were married Friday night, a few hours before the shooting.

TITO VISITS MOROCCO

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia steamed into Casablanca harbor Saturday to the booming of a 21-gun salute and a royal greeting from Morocco's King Hassan II. Tito arrived aboard his yacht Ghaleb for a five-day visit.

Cedar River Floods Ebb In Iowa Area

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The maverick Cedar River began receding Saturday, easing the flood threat against this city of 92,000.

As the turbulent waters fell from a near record crest of 19.66 at the rate of about two inches an hour, President Kennedy designated the flood-ravaged eastern Iowa region a disaster area. The designation will permit flood-affected sections of Iowa to receive federal funds to aid in the clean-up.

Although residents of Cedar Rapids had a breathing spell in their fight against the rampaging waters of the usually mild Cedar River, officials began worrying about smaller communities downstream. They feared less populated areas might not be prepared to handle the torrents of water which already caused millions of dollars in damage, including an estimated $70-million in the Waterloo area alone.

The Cedar River winds southeastward to the Mississippi River near Oakville. Enroute it passes through Columbus Junction, where it joins the Iowa River, Wapello and a number of smaller villages.

Gov. Norman A. Erbe said he received a telegram from President Kennedy late Friday night declaring flooded parts of eastern Iowa a "major disaster" area.

Erbe said he would name a state coordinator early next week to process the necessary forms to secure the federal aid the state will receive to repair the water damage.

Erbe said the President's telegram expressed his "deep concern" for the people in the flood-stricken areas and his hopes that the situation "rapidly improves."

Meanwhile, Mayor James Meaghan of Cedar Rapids said everything "seems to be under control" at the present time. "It's just a matter now of waiting for the river to drop to a safe level," he said.

Government's Grain Plans Are Reported

Plans for the commercial's special feed grain program in Ouachita Parish and other areas in the state were announced yesterday by E. G. Davidson, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager in West Monroe.

Under this program there will be price support on the normal production of corn or grain sorghum acreage this year, and payment for each acre diverted to a conservation use.

Davidson explained that in Ouachita Parish the program will almost entirely be applied to corn, since there is very little grain sorghum production. Details for application of the program are being worked out by Davidson, who said growers interested in participating should contact him at his office in the West Monroe Agriculture Building. They will need to supply information on the amount of acreage grown in corn in the last two years, 1960 and 1959.

C. E. Slack of Alexandria, state administrative officer for ASC, said that farmers participating in the program get effective protection against crop failure. The farmer is paid for acreage diverted from feed grain production regardless of what weather does to crops. And price support for corn and grain sorghums will be at rates considerably above current market prices.

Slack described the benefits to the cooperator in the program as follows:

1. Price support on the normal production of 1961 corn or grain sorghum acreage, with price supports at a higher figure. For example: The support price for corn in most parishes will be 14 cents more a bushel than it was in those parishes in 1960.

2. Payment for each acre diverted to a conservation use. The payment per acre for the first 20 per cent diverted will be established on the basis of fifty per cent of the normal production of the acreage diverted, times the parish support price. As an added incentive, for an additional 20 per cent of acreage diverted, the rate will be established on the basis of 60 per cent of the normal production, times the parish support price. The 50 per cent rate also applies on acreage diverted in excess of 40 per cent.

3. Advance partial payment. The producer may be paid up to half of the estimated total payment in advance. That is as soon as possible after a producer signifies that he will cooperate in the program. This advance payment will help with current production expenses without the use of additional credit. This and the final payment will be made in negotiable certificates redeemable in corn and sorghum grain or cash.

Cotton Futures Show Losses On New York Board

The decline was noteworthy in that it came in the face of continued firmness in the price of spot cotton. The sharpest net loss was in the distant July contract.

Trade observers said the weakness of the market was largely due to its thinness. Selling pressure was not pronounced at any time, it was said, but enough to depress prices because of the limited demand.

Offerings during the period were estimated by the exchange service bureau at 2,813,000 bales. This would represent a reduction of 118,000 bales during the past week and upward of 1.2 million during the past four weeks.

The concensus in the trade was that government holdings would amount to less than 2 million bales by the close of the season. At the close of last season the government held nearly 5.1 million of the total carryover of 7.6 million bales.

Exports in the week ended Monday were estimated by the service bureau at 330,000 bales compared with 138,000 a week earlier and 271,000 a year earlier. For the season through March 27 they were estimated at 5,121,000 bales against 4,670,000 to the same time last season.

Cabinet Job For Weaver Is Opposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional sources indicated Saturday the Kennedy administration was moving away from any plan to promote Robert C. Weaver, its new Negro housing chief, to head a cabinet-level department of housing and urban affairs.

Southern Democrats in the Senate hinted the cabinet department proposal would have trouble getting off the ground unless they receive assurances that Weaver, a New Yorker, will not be named to head it.

White House recommendations specifying which agencies should be grouped in the new department may go to Congress next week.

Administration informants, asked about earlier inflections that Weaver was slated for the cabinet job when created, knocked down the idea that there was any understanding" in this regard.

They pointed to the trouble over charges hurled at Weaver when his appointment as housing administrator was up for confirmation in February.

Southerners then assailed him as an "integrationist" seeking to end segregation of whites and Negroes on all federally-assisted housing projects. They also questioned him about old associations with groups on the attorney general's list of Communist-front organizations.

Weaver, whose title is administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, had a major hand in drafting the recommendations. His agency would be the core of the housing and urban affairs department.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a UPI reporter the President's plans regarding Weaver "will be a factor" when legislation to create the urban affairs department comes up.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee, said he "generally opposes" setting up new cabinet-level agencies.

"I'm not committing myself definitely," he said, "but I think we ought to go slow on this sort of thing."

City Of Rome Jammed For Pope's Talk

ROME (UPI) — The bells of Rome's 447 churches pealed out to the world Sunday the joyous Easter message of Christ's resurrection.

The midnight clangor ushered in an Easter celebration featuring a message from Pope John XXIII that Vatican sources said would be "optimistic."

While the bells tolled, thousands of worshippers filed into churches of the Eternal City for masses marking the end of the Holy Week vigil of mourning and the start of a new church year.

Pope John will attend a pair of masses at St. Peter's Basilica this morning and then, shortly afternoon will deliver a brief Easter message.

The message, followed by the Pope's blessing to the city and the world, will be broadcast around the globe in numerous languages by the powerful Vatican radio and other stations.

The midnight masses ended a day of meditation, retreat and spiritual preparation for the Easter ceremonies among Roman Catholics following the Good Friday observance of Christ's crucifixion.

No masses were held Saturday in any of Rome's churches and the Pope made no public appearances.

Tourists continued to flow into Rome and other Italian cities for Easter Sunday.

Rome hotels reported they were booked to capacity. Extra trains and planes were pressed into service to take care of the overflow throng.

The weather was warm and sunny and the weatherman predicted more of the same for Easter Sunday.

Ouachita Junior High Round-up Slated Friday

Ouachita Junior High School will hold its annual pre-school round-up on Friday, according to school officials.

Children who will be six-years-old on or before December 31, 1961 are invited to attend the event.

A doctor and nurse will be present for examinations from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Officials said bus service from all areas will be available to children who wish to attend the school.

LSU Choir To Appear Thursday At High School

The LSU A Capella Choir, directed by Dallas Draper, will appear at 8 p.m. Thursday night at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium.

The singing organization numbers 70 singers. Featured soloists with the group will be Miss Judy Coday, Miss Louisiana of 1960, Miss Sandra Chudy, Miss New Jersey of 1930, and tenor Ralph Roberts, who last year was a winner in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions.

Green Services Set For Today

Funeral services will be held 3:30 p.m. Sunday for Robert Green, 62, of 103 South 5th St., Monroe, who died Thursday afternoon in a local hospital following a heart attack.

Services will be held in Mulhearn Chapel here with the Rev. Michael Hannon officiating. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Melvin Green, Joe Green, Hugh Green, Charles Green, Dan Britt, and Jimmie Britt.

Office Of Late Congressman To Be Closed Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The congressional office of the late Rep. B. Carroll Reece, R-Tenn., will be permanently closed soon.

Until the voters of Tennessee's First District elect a new representative, upper East Tennessee will be without a representative in the House.

Actually, according to Mrs. Marguerite McMillan, Reece's long-time administrative assistant from Johnson City, first district constituents have already stopped their contacts with the office.

"Our constituents have stopped writing," she said. "They were all informed through the newspapers and the radio that the congressman died."

The only mail leaving the office now is in answer to old inquiries, relaying information from one of the governmental agencies.

Mrs. McMillan said that until a new representative is elected, Reece's constituents would have to go to either Sen. Estes Kefauver or Sen. Albert Gore if they needed help.

ON MISSION FOR JFK

Johnson To Visit Africa, Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. JJohnson left Saturday on his first overseas mission for President Kennedy—a trip that will take him to Africa and Europe.

His first assignment will be to attend independence ceremonies of Senegal, the former French African colony, as Kennedy's official representative.

En route home, he will visit Paris, Geneva and Spain. At Paris, he will obtain first hand information on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; in Geneva, he will discuss progress of the nuclear test ban talks with Russia, and in Spain, he will inspect American military bases.

All of these activities are being carried out at the request of Kennedy. There also was a possibility Johnson might stop at other African points as well as Sengal.

Before leaving by jet from Andrews, Md., Air Force Base at 1:50 p.m., the vice president told newsmen he was looking forward to a "purposeful trip."

His schedule called for him to stop briefly in San Juan, Puerto Rico, before proceeding to Dakar, the capital of Senegal, for the independence ceremonies Monday and Tuesday.

No exact timetable for the rest of his trip was set although Johnson said he expected to return to Washington Friday.

In Paris, he planned to confer with U.S. Ambassador James M. Gavin, the former U.S. paratroop commander, and Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of the NATO military forces.

During his Geneva stop, the vice president expected to meet with Arthur Dean, U.S. representative in the nuclear test ban negotations. The talks have been stalled by the Soviets since they were resumed March 21.

There was a minimum of fanfare surrounding Johnson's mission.

He was accompanied by Senate Republican whip Thomas H. Kuchel of California and Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., chairman of the House appropriations State Department funds. The wives of all three also travelled with them.

Others in the party included George Carter and Bill D. Moyers, officials of the newly created Peace Corps, and Romeo J. Champagne of New Hampshire.

Trade observers said the weakness of the market was largely due to its thinness. Selling pressure was not pronounced at any time, it was said, but enough to depress prices because of the limited demand.

Offerings during the period were estimated by the exchange service bureau at 2,813,000 bales. This would represent a reduction of 118,000 bales during the past week and upward of 1.2 million during the past four weeks.

The concensus in the trade was that government holdings would amount to less than 2 million bales by the close of the season. At the close of last season the government held nearly 5.1 million of the total carryover of 7.6 million bales.

Exports in the week ended Monday were estimated by the service bureau at 360,000 bales compared with 138,000 a week earlier and 271,000 a year earlier. For the season through March 27 they were estimated at 5,124,000 bales against 4,670,000 to the same time last season.

Cabinet Job For Weaver Is Opposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional sources indicated Saturday the Kennedy administration was moving away from any plan to promote Robert C. Weaver, its new Negro housing chief, to head a cabinet-level department of housing and urban affairs.

Southern Democrats in the Senate hinted the cabinet department proposal would have trouble getting off the ground unless they receive assurances that Weaver, a New Yorker, will not be named to head it.

White House recommendations specifying which agencies should be grouped in the new department may go to Congress next week.

Administration informants, asked about earlier indications that Weaver was slated for the cabinet job when created, knocked down the idea that there was any understanding" in this regard.

They pointed to the trouble over charges hurled at Weaver when his appointment as housing administrator was up for confirmation in February.

Southerners then assailed him as an "integrationist" seeking to end segregation of whites and Negroes on all federally-assisted housing projects. They also questioned him about old associations with groups on the attorney general's list of Communist-front organizations.

Weaver, whose title is administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, had a major hand in drafting the recommendations. His agency would be the core of the housing and urban affairs department.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a UPI reporter the President's plans regarding Weaver "will be a factor" when legislation to create the urban affairs department comes up.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee, said he "generally opposes" setting up new cabinet-level agencies.

"I'm not committing myself definitely," he said, "but I think we ought to go slow on this sort of thing."

3 Negroes Booked

Booked yesterday with simple battery in Monroe were President Silas, 34, of 14th and Adams Streets; Rosetta Silas, 39, of 1900 Bernstein Park Road and Sam Sewell, 24, of 116 South 22nd Street, all Negroes.

City Of Rome Jammed For Pope's Talk

ROME (UPI) — The bells of Rome's 447 churches pealed out to the world Sunday the joyous Easter message of Christ's resurrection.

The midnight clangor ushered in an Easter celebration featuring a message from Pope John XXIII that Vatican sources said would be "optimistic."

While the bells tolled, thousands of worshippers filed into churches of the Eternal City for masses marking the end of the Holy Week vigil of mourning and the start of a new church year.

Pope John will attend a papal mass at St. Peter's Basilica this morning and, then, shortly after noon will deliver a brief Easter message.

The message, followed by the Pope's blessing to the city and the world, will be broadcast around the globe in numerous languages by the powerful Vatican radio and other stations.

The midnight masses ended a day of meditation, retreat and spiritual preparation for the Easter ceremonies among Roman Catholics following the Good Friday observance of Christ's crucifixion.

No masses were held Saturday in any of Rome's churches and the Pope made no public appearances.

Tourists continued to flow into Rome and other Italian cities for Easter Sunday.

Rome hotels reported they were booked to capacity. Extra trains and planes were pressed into service to take care of the overflow throng.

The weather was warm and sunny and the weatherman predicted more of the same for Easter Sunday.

Office Of Late Congressman To Be Closed Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The congressional office of the late Rep. B. Carroll Reece, R-Tenn. will be permanently closed soon.

Until the voters of Tennessee's First District elect a new representative, upper East Tennessee will be without a representative in the House.

Actually, according to Mrs. Marguerite McMillan, Reece's long-time administrative assistant from Johnson City, first district constitutents have already stopped their contacts with the office.

"Our constituents have stopped writing," she said "They were all informed through the newspapers and the radio that the congressman died."

Mrs. McMillan said that until a new representative is elected, Reece's constituents would have to go to either Sen. Estes Kefauver or Sen. Albert Gore if they needed help.

Ouachita Junior High Round-up Slated Friday

Ouachita Junior High School will hold its annual pre - school round-up on Friday, according to school officials.

Children who will be six-years-old on or before December 31, 1961 are invited to attend the event.

A doctor and nurse will be present for examinations from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Officials said bus service from all areas will be available to children who wish to attend the school.

The LSU A Capella Choir, directed by Dallas Draper, will appear at 8 p.m. Thursday night at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium.

The singing organization numbers 70 singers. Featured soloists with the group will be Miss Judy Coday, Miss Louisiana of 1960, Miss Sandra Chudy, Miss New Jersey of 1960, and tenor Ralph Roberts, who last year was a winner in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions.

Green Services Set For Today

Funeral services will be held 3:30 p.m. Sunday for Robert Green, 62, of 103 South 5th St., Monroe, who died Thursday afternoon in a local hospital following a heart attack.

Services will be held in Mulhearn Chapel here with the Rev. Michael Hannon officiating. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Melvin Green, Joe Green, Hugh Green, Charles Green, Dan Britt, and Jimmie Britt.

Crest Forecast On Black River

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Black River which is spilling its rising waters into the Larto Lake area, forcing some families to evacuate, is expected to crest here at 52 feet — two feet above flood stage — by April 10.

Flood disaster officials here said this forecast was issued Saturday by the U. S. Weather Bureau at New Orleans.

The river at Jonesville was gauged at 49.35 feet Saturday morning, a rise of five and four-tenths inches in 24 hours. Water level at Larto Bayou near Larto Lake rose about five inches overnight.

B. L. Sandifer, disaster chairman of the Catahoula Red Cross Chapter, made a tour of the disaster area yesterday and said, "Several families have moved to Rapides Hill near Big Island in Rapides Parish, and a good many families are in tents and house trailers north of Larto and the flood water area."

He said that some Larto residents have moved into tents and vacant houses in Concordia Parish, whple others have taken up temporary quarters in vacant houses and in tents put up at the fairgrounds in Jonesville.

Sandifer quoted Walter White, Jonesville fish dealer and former resident of Larto area as saying that Larto Bayou is expected to rise four or five feet in the next several days.

The disaster chairman explained that flood water congestion in the Larto area is being caused partly by water being backed up from the Red River and the Mississippi River.

State police Saturday were scheduled to evacuate some of the livestock from the Larto area. No accurate tabulation was available on the number of families evacuated.

Sunny skies Saturday added a cheerier atmosphere to the high water area, which has been pelted by rain during the past week.

Morning World correspondent Ted Husser at Jonesville said the flood season has come to the area a little ahead of the usual time, and there is speculation on whether it will extend into May as many others have.

The Larto Post Office, which is located on high ground, is surrounded by water, and can only be reached by boat. It was still in operation Saturday, and the trend of flood conditions in the days ahead will determine whether it will be closed as was the case in 1956.

On May 28, 1958, the river crested at 52.96 feet here, the highest level since 1950, when it reached 55.85 feet. In 1945, the river reached a level of 58.32 feet. But even this was dwarfed by the great flood of 1927, when on May 17, the Black River at Jonesville surged to a crest of 64.08 feet. This came when the Mississippi levee broke above Vidalia, flooding the entire area.

Some of the other high levels on the Black River in recent years were: 1944, 53.39 feet; 1946, 52.90 feet; 1949, 51.90 feet; 1953, 52.80 feet, and 1957, 52.30 feet.

Disaster officials estimated that in 1957 flooding, 755 farms were affected. They said in the present high water condition many hundreds of acres of land are inundated.

JFK Favors Major Space Civilian Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pledged support Saturday for a major civilian role in space exploration.

The chief executive set forth his views in a letter to Chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., of the House Science and Astronautics committee.

Brooks had sought reassurances from the White House to counter what he called a rash of reports of an impending change that would encourage "the military tail to undertake to wag the space dog." Brooks made the exchange public Saturday.

The President's March 23 letter to "Dear Overton" said it is not now, nor has it ever been, my intention to subordinate the activities in space of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to those of the Department of Defense."

Kennedy wrote that the military services should assume responsibility for legitimate missions in space. He added that the civilian agency should carry on major missions including manned and unmanned explorations and apply space technology to the "conduct of peaceful activities."

The President also said there will be room in the national space effort for private enterprise to "play an important role."

The President was less specific in discussing another point of concern voiced by Brooks—a recent Defense Department order he interpreted as giving the Air Force a virtual monopoly of space activities.

The President replied that in making policy decisions affecting civil and military space efforts, he intended to "rely heavily on the vice president," Lyndon B. Johnson.

He also said he plans to "reactivate" the Space Council and give it a top-flight staff that will make it "more than just a box on an organizational chart, as it has been heretofore."

Drivers To Get Car Inspections In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi's new motor vehicle inspection law, which will require testing an estimated 700,000 vehicles, went into effect Saturday.

The law, passed by the 1960 Legislature requires an annual inspection of vehicles at about 600 garages approved by the Highway Patrol. Inspection fee is $1.25.

Patrolman R. L. Morgan, head of the new Highway Safety Patrol Division, said car owners have three months in which to get their initial inspection sticker. After that, they are subject to a $50 fine or six months in jail.

If a car fails to meet the minimum requirements, the owner can have the adjustments made in five days without extra fee, said Morgan. The car may be driven 20 miles from the inspecting station for such repairs.

Rebels Stick With Peace Talks Threat

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — The Algerian rebel provisional government Saturday stuck to its threat not to turn up for secret peace talks with the French.

At the same time it appeared the rebels were capable of fending off the ouster drive launched on Friday by antagonists who refuse to attend negotiations scheduled Tuesday under present circumstance.

Rebels Stick With Peace Talks Threat

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The Algerian rebel provisional government Saturday stuck to its threat not to turn up for next week's peace talks with the French.

At the same time, it appeared the rebels were searching for a way off the limb they climbed out on Friday by announcing their refusal to attend next Friday's scheduled talks "under present circumstances."

A spokesman for the rebel National Liberation Front — FLN— called newsmen together Saturday to say, "Certainly the principle itself of negotiations is not changed. We are still ready to negotiate no matter where or when and in the shortest time.

"If the French government still needs preliminary consultations, we can wait."

The reason the FLN had given for their boycott threat was a statement Thursday by France's Algerian affairs minister, Louis Joxe, who has been named to head the French delegation at the scheduled peace talks at Evian-les-Bains.

Joxe said he also would talk with a second Algerian group, the Algerian National Movement — MNA, an organization with far fewer adherents than the FLN rebel regime based in Tunis.

The FLN said it interpreted Joxe's statement as an official decision of the French government to give the MNA the same status as the FLN. The FLN claims the MNA is made up of "French stooges."

The FLN said its negotiators would not go to Evian-les-Bains until the French officially and satisfactorily explained Joxe's statement.

Fulmer Slated As Speaker At Teachers Meet

D. L. L. Fulmer, head of the department of education at Louisiana State University, is scheduled to speak at the Ouachita Teachers Association meeting Thursday at West Monroe High School.

Fulmer has written in the field of religion, public school affairs, discipline and on academic progress within the school.

He was president of the Louisaina Teachers Association in 1957.

Secretaries Plan Seminar On Saturday

A panel and several speakers will highlight a seminar in Monroe Saturday sponsored by the Ouachita Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

The seminar, which will be held at the Frances Hotel, will start at 8 a.m. and continue through mid-afternoon.

A panel at 9 a.m. entitled "Evaluating the Secretary's Job" will kickoff the major portion of the program.

Panelists scheduled to appear include Mac Ward, KNOE-TV, Mrs. Lucille Mathis, Bish Mathis Institute, Ralph Caldwell, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Mrs. Marguerite Headrick, Northeast State College, and Garland Shell, president of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Raymond P. Witte, director of the evening division at Loyola University in New Orleans, will speak at 10:45 a.m. A professor of history, Dr. Witte has been a member of the Loyola faculty since 1948.

At 2 p.m. George Brian, an associate professor of speech at Northeast in Monroe, will be the featured speaker on "Speech and Personality Development."

Brian, who holds a Master's Degree from LSU, has been on the Northeast faculty since 1953.

Besides the panel and speakers, the seminar, entitled "The Challenge of a Profession," will feature exhibits, a luncheon and a style show.

Five Children Perish In Fire, Mother Injured

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Five children burned to death and their mother was seriously injured in a rescue attempt when fire destroyed their frame home near here early Saturday.

Victims of the fire in the Buskirk community of eastern Kentucky 35 miles southeast of here were identified as Jimmy Dale Damron, 6, Gene Edward, 5, Everett, about 3, and four-month-old twins, Terry Lee and Tanny Len.

Their mother, Mrs. Vivian Damron, 33, was listed in fair condition at a Williamson, W. Va., hospital with burns over the upper part of her body. Neighbors said Mrs. Damron, who works as a waitress at Matewan, W. Va., ran screaming into the yard and was forced back by the flames when she tried to re-enter the five-room house.

Authorities said the fire apparently started about 3:30 a.m. when live coals from an open fireplace rolled onto the wooden floor of a bedroom. Matewan, W. Va., Fire Chief George Tanner said two fireplaces in the house had been banked high for the night.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I have read somewhere that Christ died for the sins of the whole world, and if that is true, why do preachers make such an issue of the fact that many people are going to be lost and why do they continue to call them to repentance?

R.C.

ANSWER: The particular scripture that you seem to have in mind is found in I John 2:2 where it is written, "And he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for our sins only, but also for the whole world."

Or you may be thinking of the scripture in John 4:42 where the Samaritans said about Jesus, "Now we believe, not because of thy speaking: for we have heard for ourselves and know that this is indeed the Saviour of the world."

Scriptures such as this mean that when Jesus came into the world He did make salvation possible for every person without respect of his race or cultural background. He is in the truest sense the Saviour of the world because He has been offered to the whole world. The reason many people will not participate in the blessing that He came to secure through His death and resurrection is that they reject Him as their Saviour and will not have Him. Therefore, although He is potentially the Saviour of every man, He is not so in the experience of those who have finally and definitely rejected Him. Any man can have all of his sins forgiven if in repentance and faith he trusts in Christ. But if he is condemned, it is a condemnation that he has deliberately asked for and accepted completely on his own responsibility.

Sentencing Set In Embezzlement

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A Hinds County Circuit court jury Saturday found Norman Gradsky, president of the closed Insured Savings and Loan Association guilty of embezzlement.

Judge Leon Hendrick said he will sentence Gradsky Tuesday. The sentence for the felony could be a fine, up to 10 years in prison or both.

REAPPORTIONMENT

Drive To Force House Vote Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive is under way to force a vote on legislation to increase the size of the House so only two states would lose seats through reapportionment under the 1960 census.

Led by Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., backers of the proposal announced Saturday plans to file a discharge petition, when Congress reconvenes April 10, to force the issue to a vote. If 219 members sign the petition a vote would be automatic.

The rarely used discharge procedure was resorted to, Chelf said in an interview, because Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., vetoed action through normal channels.

Chelf is sponsor of a bill that would boost the size of the House, starting in 1963, from 435 to 469 members. The objective is to prevent 14 states from losing House seats through reapportionment resulting from the 1960 census.

Chelf's bill, if it became law, would prevent 14 states from losing seats and would not affect nine others gaining seats. It would not prevent Iowa and West Virginia from losing one seat each. To provide for those two states, Chelf said, would require that the House membership be boosted beyond 500 to avoid a wide spread in average constituencies.

States that will lose seats in 1963 if the 435 ceiling is retained are: Pennsylvania, 3; Arkansas, Massachusetts and New York, 2 each; Alabama, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, and West Virginia, 1 each.

Those that gain: California, 8; Florida, 4; Arizona, Hawaii, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio and Texas, 1 each.

Chelf's bill was referred to the House Judiciary Committee and, Chelf said, Chairman Emanuel cellar, D-N. Y., promised an early hearing. However, the Kentuckian claimed, "Speaker Rayburn told the chairman not to conduct hearings and to take no action on the bill."

Chelf has polled 200 House members from 16 states slated to lose seats if the present House membership is not changed. The present membership temporarily is 437 but the permanent lineup is 435 effective in 1963.

Of the 200 members polled, Chelf said, 105 have said they would sign the discharge petition, 56 said they would not, and 39 made no commitment.

"I feel confident that we will get the necessary number," Chelf said. "It is absolutely necessary that there be action one way or the other so state legislatures will know what to do.

"Many states are holding back redistricting programs because they are not certain how many seats they will have. If we wait too long it may be too late for some of the states to act, and the result would be a monumental mess in the 1962 congressional elections."

Each state gaining or losing seats must decide how its congressional districts shall be formed. If there is no action by the states, all members in states losing seats would run on an at-large basis. In states gaining seats, only the additional candidates would run at-large if there is no redistricting.

An increase in the membership, Chelf said, would avert the dangers of "political gerrymandering" through redistricting.

Chelf disputed claims of opponents that an increase in membership would make the House unwieldy and would pose a physical problem of finding room for the new members in the present House chamber.

He said he made a survey of all House roll-call votes since 1945 and found average attendance is 363.6 members.

"The seats we have now are never filled," he said. "The argument that there isn't room for any more simply is not based on facts."

Kennedy May Court Latins With Sugar

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration apparently is going to use authority to buy nearly 900,000 tons of premium-priced sugar to attempt to harvest some critical international benefits.

At a cost estimated at $150 million to U. S. consumers, President Kennedy obviously plans to sweeten the sugar pot for Brazil, Mexico and other Latin-American countries. He also is expected to up the Philippines quota and may channel some of the benefits to India.

No one in the administration is talking about it publicly, but one of the anticipated by-products might be a stiffened attitude on the part of some U. S. neighbors to the south against the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The recent announcement by President Janio Quadros that Brazil no longer would vote to keep this question off the U. N. agenda chilled Kennedy's Latin-American experts.

In the past, the United States has had solid bloc backing from her inter-American neighbors in U. N. voting. Prime Minister Fidel Castro took Cuba out of this bloc and Brazil's potential defection emphasized the pessimistic administration view that eventually it is going to be difficult to avoid a test that could be lose.

As matters stand, the United States is consulting with its international friends in an effort to find a way to bypass, for this year at least, any showdown on the issue of putting the matter on the agenda.

REFUSES TO POSE

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko refused Saturday to pose in the snow here, explaining to photographers that "then you would just write that I'm in Siberia." The weather was so bad Gromyko's plane from Moscow was unable to touch down and pick him up for the trip home from New York. Instead, he and his entourage chartered a plane for Stockholm to meet the Soviet plane for the trip to Moscow.

Passman Again Says He Will Oppose Program

WASHINGTON (Special) —Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.) Saturday repeated that he will oppose President Kennedy's Federal aid to education program.

Passman said, "It would be foolhardy to believe federal controls would not accompany the money."

"The federal tax burden should be eased," Passman said, "then our state and local units of government would be in a stronger position to deal more effectively with all their problems, and especially education."

He emphasized, "regulation of our educational system by Washington politicians would be disastrous."

Laos Reds Open Major Offensive

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Laotian government Saturday acknowledged a major defeat at Tha Thom and asserted pro-Communist rebels and 14 North Viet Nam Communist battalions have launched a new heavy offensive in eastern and southern Laos.

High-ranking royal army officials termed the military situation serious, and some in Vientiane feared the reported attacks signaled an even tougher Communist diplomatic and military attempt to take over this Southeast Asian kingdom.

Information Minister Bouavan Norasing said the government is considering implementing a state of siege that would mean military rule and presumably lay preparations for fighting around this administrative capital.

Tha Thom, an important government stronghold previously described as well defended by spirited and loyal troops, was captured Friday, the government said, by a rebel attack that shattered a virtual cease-fire in effect while the world awaited the Soviet answer to cease-fire proposals. Nine North Vietnamese battalions took part, the government said.

There were other new attacks by three North Vietnamese battalions, the government claimed, against Kam Keut, 130 miles east of Vientiane in Laos' narrow waist, and by two battalions against Mahaxay, just 22 miles from the Laos-Thailand border.

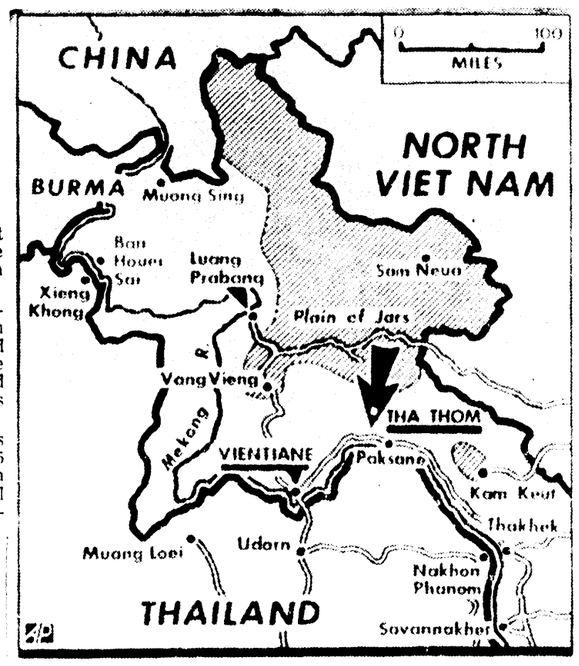
Western sources confirmed the fall of Tha Thom and participation of some North Vietnamese units but said they had no information on the exact number of foreign troops used in the attacks and were wary of the government claims.

Premier Boun Oum's government held a long session and then issued a communique saying: "And so, war in Laos, which at the start was only a police operation waged by armed forces against rebels, has evidently become a foreign war as was claimed all along by the royal government."

Bouavan said the rebels had attacked with heavy Soviet artillery and modern antiaircraft guns which shot down one government T6 airplane received from the United States. Also, he said, 13 Soviet-built Ilyushin transport planes dropped North Vietnamese paratroops in the Tha Tom area Thursday and Friday.

Past government claims of intervention by North Viet Nam have proved exaggerated, and government troops fleeing before rebel attackers have tended to overestimate their enemy's strength.

Western military observers termed loss of Tha Thom, 85 miles northeast of Vientiane, a major strategic and psychological defeat for the pro-Western government.



SHADED AREA of Laos map outlines area held by Communist rebel troops who seized the government stronghold of Tha Thom, underlined, western sources said Saturday. Welch Asks John Birch Investigation

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the controversial John Birch Society, disclosed Saturday he has asked the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to investigate the organization.

Welch's secretary made public a night letter which was wired Friday night to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., subcommittee chairman.

PLEDGES ANSWERS

In it Welch promised "none of our members will plead the Fifth Amendment" and asserted the society's "only 'crime' is fighting communism."

The telegram was made public some 24 hours after Welch said he never had called President Eisenhower a "card-carrying Communist."

The denial came as criticism of the rightist society mounted following disclosure Welch had written that Eisenhower was a "dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

Welch, in a privately published book, also criticized Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president and called former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as "tools of Communism."

Welch said in his wire to Eastland: "Because of the charges now being so widely circulated about us, some of which are extreme distortions of fact, and many of which are sheer fabrications, the John Birch Society respectfully requests an official investigation by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee of which you are chairman."

"In the course of such an investigation we hope to be able to present to your committee, and through your committee to the American people, the simple truth about the John Birch Society."

In Washington Friday, a spokesman for the Department of Justice said the society's activities have become "a matter of concern" to that government agency.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, also published a statement implying criticism of the society.

Horse Showman Fatally Shot By Young Daughter

Judy Wiser told police she heard a scuffle and her mother scream out: "Please don't let him hit me anymore." When she ran to protect her mother, she said her father chased her out of the house.

As she fled, she said she grabbed her father's 32-caliber pistol and aimed at his legs. The one shot fired caught Wiser near the heart.

Sun Shines Brighter For Florida Town

EDITOR'S NOTE—A fog of confusion has been hovering over James R. Hoffa and 2,500 acres known as Sun Valley, Fla. The cloud is still over Hoffa. But Sun Valley, now reorganized by the courts, is ready to step out into the light and become a town.

By BEN FUNK

INDIANA RIVER CITY, Fla. (AP)—The sun shines brighter these days on Sun Valley, the Florida ghost town development once advertised as a retirement paradise for members of the Teamsters Union.

A court-ordered reorganization has been completed. Soon the project will be turned over to a new group of developers, and plans are afoot to bring it to life.

But Sun Valley still is a cloud over the head of James R. Hoffa, boss of the scandal-ridden Teamsters.

Hoffa, Henry Lower, and Robert McCarthy are docketed for trial March 6 on a federal indictment charging the project was financed by misuse of union funds and operated for the personal profit of the defendants.

As Chairman John McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Labor-Management Committee put it, Hoffa was a silent partner in a group that planned to give Teamsters and other Sun Valley lot buyers "a good rooking."

Arraigned last Dec. 16, Hoffa called out cheerily, "Not guilty, your honor." Since then, he has been silent in public. The case, he says, is "legal business I discuss only in the courts."

Last month Hoffa's attorneys moved for dismissal of the indictment on a technicality—that state rather than federal procedures were followed in picking the grand jury.

If Hoffa succeeds in having the indictment thrown out it will be the third time he has beaten charges growing out of the McClellan committee probe.

He was acquitted of bribing a lawyer to steal committee secrets and of wire tapping Teamster headquarters in Detroit. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, former committee counsel, contended that the Justice Department had failed to prosecute the cases properly.

As attorney general, Kennedy will have over-all responsibility for prosecuting Hoffa in the third case.

Started in 1955 as "Florida's greatest development since Miami," Sun Valley today consists of six model homes and a short blacktop road leading into the property off State Road 50, two miles west of this East Coast town.

The divided, two-lane road runs past the model houses, then ends abruptly in sand dunes and palmetto scrub.

Families living in the houses—none of them connected with the Teamsters Union—love the privacy and the many acres they have all to themselves.

"I hope they never develop the property," said Mrs. Ernest W. Thomas, who lives in the last house from the highway. "We like the quiet, and the kids have lots of room to play without worrying about traffic."

Booked In Theft

Passion Play Cast In Cuba Is Arrested

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government Saturday arrested scores of Roman Catholics who took part in a record-sized Easter procession in Havana and reenacted the passion play in nearby Guines.

At the same time, reliable sources said the government had broken up a fourth Navy counter-revolutionary plot by 300 anti-Communist sailors and naval officers, most of whom fled the country in PT boats or other craft when the plot was discovered.

In Havana, police arrested 50 Catholics who had joined 70,000 persons in a procession through the streets of Havana and took them to jail as the marchers shouted "Cuba si, Russia no!" and "long live Christ the king."

In Guines, 31 miles southeast of Havana, police arrested the entire cast of the passion play which was disrupted Friday by gunmen who fired bursts of submachine gun fire over the heads of 5,000 spectators. Those arrested included the youth who played Christ and who is head of the Catholic Youth Organization there.

Seventy thousand Catholics wound through the streets of Havana's Chinatown Friday night from the Church of Our Lady of Charity although the government failed to give permission for the traditional procession.

The torchlight parade was just breaking up shortly after midnight when police swooped down on the marchers and jammed 50 of them into a city bus. They were held without charges.

The Good Friday procession started out with 30,000 persons taking their places. The number swelled to 70,000—the largest in years for the annual event.

The marchers were harassed by six toughs wearing the uniforms of the militia and each armed with a tightly taped rolled-up magazine thrust in his pocket. The six took up positions alongside images of Christ and two angels being carried through the streets by husky youths and chanted "Fidel! Fidel! Fidel!"

There were conflicting reports on the Guines incident. Eyewitnesses said unidentified raiders opened fire, panicking the crowd on the marchers and jammed 50 of them into a city bus. They were held without charges.

AERIAL SEEDING of pines has proven to be much cheaper and faster than conventional reforestation methods. One airplane can reforest 2,000 acres in a day, the job of 200 tree planting machines. (Photo by Elemore Morgan)

MEADOWLARK'S REACTION SPURS

Reseeding Of Pines

By ED KERR

Because a hungry Louisiana meadowlark wouldn't eat his lunch one day, the 52 million cut-over acres of the nation may be reforested decades ahead of schedule.

The lunch consisted of pine seeds set before him by Bill Mann and Harold Derr forest researchers of the Alexandria, Louisiana branch of the Southern Forest Experiment Station. The seeds were just like any other pine seeds, which the meadowlark and other birds usually eat with relish, except for one thing: they were covered with a chemical repellent containing anthraquinone.

The forest scientists howled. For eight years, they and their predecessors at the Center had sought a "short cut" route to reforestation; that is, to find a way to reforest by "direct seeding" vast tracts of land rather than follow the usual, circuitous route of planting seed in nursery beds and raising seedlings and transplanting the seedlings to forest areas. They had licked most of the problems involved except one big one: birds ate the seed after they were broadcast and before they could germinate.

MORE REPELLENTS

The repellent discovery in 1954 (since then several more repellents have been found) marked a major breakthrough in the "direct seeding" barrier. After that, seeding techniques were refined rapidly in field tests which, by this year, had stretched not only across the South but to the West coast as well.

The Alexandria Center was organized to tackle the gigantic technical problems of reforesting the once fabulous longleaf belt which stretches across central and southwestern Louisiana and East Texas, encompassing more than seven million acres of land. Their findings would also affect another 13 million acres in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina, remainder of the Southern longleaf belt. Unlike other forestlands, longleaf lands didn't reforest naturally after the early - century clear - cut era and the vast acreage lay barren, contributing nothing to the economy except as open - range grazing lands.

The first, and hardest, job was to find out how to reforest such large acreages. With what species of pine? Longleaf would be the best because it grew there in the first place; but if longleaf wouldn't live, what was second best? And even more important was speed. The vast areas involved dictated that a much faster method of reforestation than planting seedlings had to be evolved or landowners wouldn't be interested.

ESTIMATED

Direct - seeding promises to be the answer. Since it was perfected in 1954, forest landowners have reforested about 400,000 acres across the South using this method. It is estimated that the entire longleaf belt can now be completely stocked by the year 1975 at the present rate of reforestation.

"The beauty about direct seeding," Mann points out, "is that it works better with longleaf than any other species. And since longleaf is almost impossible to plant, direct - seeding means this most valuable species will continue to be propagated throughout the South. Seeding can be done by hand, machines or by airplanes. One plane can seed 2,000 acres in a single day -- the job of 200 planting machines!"

Parallelling forestry research at the Center at all times has been grazing research, anticipating the problems of cattlemen whose range will steadily decrease in size as the forests spread. Here, too, the Center has come through with a major breakthrough in recent years: a supplemental feeding program for open-range cattle. If a stockman follows the Center's suggestions, he not only can raise the same number of cattle on less range, but he can produce twice the calf crop as he did before and command a better price per pound for his beef with simple, practical measures which cost but a few dollars extra.

Like any other crop, trees just can't be planted and forgotten. Getting them in the ground is only Phase One of the Center's headache. The second phase deals with management of the plantations. When to thin? (They've found that heavy thinning produces the most board footage of timber over a 40-year period but light thinning produces the most volume of wood.) What's the cheapest way to deaden cull hardwoods on pinelands without diminishing food for squirrels and deer? (And, at the same time, to step up research on wildlife habitat problems.) How to control town ants, capable of destroying a pine plantation almost overnight? When a pine tree has been caught in a fire, what are the telltale marks that indicate it will die?

NATURAL STAND

For the first time in history, the Center has succeeded in purposely growing a natural stand of slash pine — the one with the closest resemblance to longleaf — west of the Mississippi River. This species has grown naturally for centuries in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida; but had to be introduced on the west side of the Mississippi. Now, with the establishment of a 200 - acre natural stand in Central Louisiana, there appears no reason why this adopted species cannot become a regular member of the Louisiana pine family.

To stimulate seed production from trees in the forest, tests are being made with "strangulation" of trees; that is, placing a tight band around the trunk to make the tree believe it's going to die. It has been found with some species that whenever a tree was restricted to growth, it produced an abundance of cones in an effort to reproduce itself before it dies — a phenomenon of nature. The researchers believe that artificial means such as this could be the answer to lean seed years and provide an abundance of seed when and where they are needed throughout the state.

"Evidence of the growing interest in direct - seeding is the number or requests for trained personnel to give on-the-ground consultation," Mann said. "Landowners in Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida have been visited and plans have been made to assist some of them in detailed planning of operations. In Mississippi alone, Center personnel will assist with about 3000 acres of seeding."

OLLA MAN REMEMBERS

Long Ago Train Ride

Some people have difficulty recalling events of the distant past, but 72-year-old L. H. Taylor of Olla has an alert faculty for remembering, and has used this talent effectively.

He recently drew on his recollections of early history concerning various communities to contribute a number of articles to a book on resources and facilities of LaSalle Parish.

Published by the State of Louisiana Department of Public Works and the La Salle Parish Development Board, it is called "LaSalle Parish, Louisiana, Resources and Facilities."

LAST SOURCE

In many cases, said Taylor, where early records were not available, memory was the only source of some of the vital information of this colorful early formative period in that area.

However, his writings have not been confined to that project alone. He has written a considerable amount of poetry, and other compositions, many of them dealing with early periods. At present he is placing the finishing touches on a book about the Colfax Riots of many years ago.

However, another article he penned recently, dealt with the reactions and observations of an 11-year-old boy who took a train ride from Olla to Monroe to attend a circus.

Back in 1899 trains were major attractions in themselves as they chugged and steamed across wilderness areas and provided an economic tonic to many of the isolated communities.

Who was the boy in the report on the thrilling ride on that long-ago day? It was the author. He had a better opportunity than many other youngsters of his day to get a first hand view of rail transportation machinations from a good vantage point, the cab of an engine.

His father, the late Wilbur Vaunch Taylor, III, was a physician and surgeon for the railroad.

REPORT ON RIDE

In his account, Taylor gives this report:

"Back in '99, about the time the St. Louis Mountain and Southern Railroad bought the Houston Central Arkansas and Northern Railroad, Pa took me to see Ringling Brothers Circus in Monroe.

"I was full 11 then, and I loved the name, Iron Mountain. It seemed to signify something big and strong. I was mighty proud to say I lived on the 'Mountain.' It would give me a certain firmness and solidarity. . . ."

Continuing, he said "We went to the matinee performance of the circus, and I became the original bug-eyed kid. I was scared stiff at the daring trapeze acts. I howled at the clowns. I could talk about the circus and cotton candy all day, but it would take me away from my story. . . ."

After attending the circus, he and his father headed for the station, checked on arrival time of train 105. It was due in 10 minutes.

". . . We walked out on the platform where we met Mr. Gregory, our engineer, and Mr. Baldwin, our conductor. They were to take over for the run to Alexandria. While they talked to Pa, the train blew for the station. Mr. Baldwin went inside to the dispatcher's office for orders while Mr. Gregory, Pa, and I walked down to the lower end of the platform where the engine would stop.

ON ITS WAY

"The engine was cut loose and was soon on its way to the round house. Presently they backed in number 88 and hooked her to her burden. Oh, but she was pretty. She was out of this world. She was the last of the big passenger locomotives of the Houston Central and I marveled at her beauty and her sleek appearance, her gold painted cab and drivers. Her big brass headlight with brass hand rails around her cat walk.

"A golden bell with a braided cord of silken gold reaching back to the cab. I asked Mr. Gregory if I could go in the cab and look around. He picked me up and deposited me inside, saying, 'Look as much as you like.'

"I got upon the driver's seat. Right in front of me was the throttle, and just to the left was the air brake lever. How I longed to touch them. I had never seen them before, but they were magnets to me. The whistle cord was just handing over my head and the bell cord near by.

"How I hankered to ring the bell and pull the whistle cord. This privelege was about to be mine, but I did not know it at the time. While I was examining things, Pa walked back to the coach, and Mr. Gregory climbed into the cab saying, 'I have a real heavy train tonight, and I need you to help me.' Glory be. Saint Peter could never have said nicer words."

The engineer moved into his seat, said Taylor, and Old 88 was ready.

". . . It seemed he was straining at the leash in her anxiety to be off. She had a full head of steam, as her pop valve recorded, and the fireman cut off her blower . . ." he continued.

MEMORIES

From the "tall stacked" end to the end of the rods, young Taylor recorded memories to last a lifetime. He recalled the initial blast of the whistle, and the big locomotive jackrot forward on the rods. "and when we hit open country the indicator showed 50 miles an hour."

With the pulsating locomotive streaking across the open land, Taylor remembered the mounting thrill of the experience as the engineer "had me put my hand on the throttle beside his to 'feel' the feel of the power.

"Together we let her out, and presently we were flying through the cotton fields in the late afternoon sunlight at full 50 miles per hour."

At a station called Rilla, the train coasted to a stop and loaded over a hundred cases of pop.

". . . We had no other stop until we reached Logtown, where I let her out to 40 for the run. At once, we discharged eight or 10 passengers, a lot of express, and 10 cases of pop."

At Bosco their train waited, following orders, for Extra Train 44 to puff by. A number of long curves between Logtown and Corey were hit with such force ". . . You felt as though you were going out through the cotton patches."

STEAM OFF, ON

The engineer gave the engine plenty of steam on the straightaways, but shut it off and coasted around the sharper curves.

"The engine steamed by many familiar communities and landmarks which still are familiar to the residents of this area.

"The puffing monster sped on [illegible] section, where it was braked for a [illegible] halt after a cow [illegible] to the track, a scary [illegible] of the Ouachita River, [illegible] Corey, Kelly and finally on the home stretch to Olla.

"We had a long run ahead of [illegible] all the way to Olla," said Taylor. "It was a [illegible] road until we reached the long straight - away near Corey. We reached the last curve and entered the straight track. I reached for the whistle cord and blew several long blasts [illegible] Jackson pond, and we thundered on down the [illegible] when I blew a toot for the Olla station and the crossing."

Inside of the station, Taylor [illegible] familiar faces, including that of "my principal heart throb."

"I [illegible] down from the cab [illegible] and [illegible]," he said. "I beat Mr. Gregory, the fireman and the porter what a grand time I had. Mr. Gregory thanked me for my assistance, gave me one of his old caps and a silver dollar. . . ."

Because of the great experience he became a person of note among the young people of the community for some time, he recalled, "and all the girls came to see my sister the following afternoon, and my heart throb called me 'Mr. Casey Jones.'"

Taylor, who served on the School Board at Olla during the period of 1924-30, spent 29 years as a salesman for a printing and lithographic company.

He is married to the former Bessie Klacnid Irwin of LaFollette, Tenn. The couple have four children, a son William Vaunah Taylor 5th, Florence, Ala.; three daughters, Mrs. Robert Griffin, Florence, Ala.; Mrs. O. F. Matthews, Shreveport, and Mrs. R. O. Cummings, Columbia; eight grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

On Wings Of Spring

"Together we let her out, and presently we were flying through the cotton fields in the late afternoon sunlight at full 30 miles per hour. ."

At a station called Rilla, the train coasted to a stop and loaded over a hundred cases of pop. ". . We had no other stop until we reached Logtown, where I let her out to 40 for the run. Arriving, we discharged eight or 10 passengers, a lot of express, and 10 cases of pop."

At Bosco their train waited, following orders, for Extra Train 444 to puff by. A number of long curves between Logtown and Corey were hit with such force ". .You felt as though you were going out through the cotton patches."

STEAM OFF, ON

The engineer gave the engine plenty of steam on the straightaways, but shut it off and coasted around the sharper curves.

The engine steamed by many towns, communities and landmarks which still are familiar to the residents of this area.

The puffing monster sped on . . . Riverton, where it was braked to a jolting halt after a cow wandered onto the track, a scary spanning of the Ouachita River, Columbia, Grayson, Kelly and finally on the home stretch to Olla.

"We had a long run ahead of us — seven miles — all the way to Olla and home," said Taylor. "It was a winding road until we reached the long straight - away above town. We rounded the last curve and entered the straight track. I reached for the whistle cord and blew several long blasts for the crossing at Jackson pond, and we thundered on down the rails, when I blew again for the Olla station and the crossing."

"I climbed down from the cab as I gave old 88 a pat," he said. "I told Mr. Gregory, the fireman, and the porter what a grand time I had. Mr. Gregory thanked me for my assistance, gave me one of his old caps and a silver dollar. ."

Because of the great experience, he became a person of note among the young people, of the community for some time, he recalled, "and all the girls came to see my sister the following afternoon, and my heart throb called me her Casey Jones. ."

Taylor, who served on the School Board at Olla during the period of 1924-30, spent 30 years as a salesman for a printing and lithographic company.

He is married to the former Bessie Kincaid Irwin of LaFollette, Tenn. The couple have four children, a son William Vannah Taylor 5th, Florence, Ala.; three daughters, Mrs. Robert Griffin, Florence, Ala.; Mrs. O. F. Matthews, Shereveport, and Mrs. R. O. Cummings, Columbia; eight grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

On Wings Of Spring

Cancer Society Crusade

Reports just received show that the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising crusade in Louisiana was extremely successful on all fronts.

In every parish, including Ouachita and extending from Morehouse to Cameron and from Caddo to Plaquemines, crusaders rallied to the cause and banded together to carry on an outstanding campaign. This army of more than 25,000 in force called on their neighbors, passing out the life-saving facts on cancer and asking for donations in order that the three-fold program of the cancer society - education, research and service be supported.

Interesting facts on the Louisiana campaign include: Louisiana division raised $243,218.66 in the 1960 crusade; Louisiana division stands third in the country in percentage increase; more than 25,000 crusaders participated; more than 250,000 homes were contacted in the state; more than 150 clubs and organizations participated; life-saving leaflets passed out totaled 350,000; 12 parishes exceeded their quotas; publicity articles in connection with the crusade numbered 1,236; there were more than 30 special events.

In Ouachita parish $13,151.88 was raised. Expenditures for Ouachita parish for the 1959-60 fiscal year were $13,151. This was divided as follows by percentages and amounts: public and professional education, 17, $2,235.67; research, 15, $1,972.65; service, 14.5, $1,906.90; administration, 7, $920.57; campaign, 6.5, $854.81; national, 40, $5,260.40.

The service program in Ouachita parish included: 54 cancer patients in Ouachita parish given direct aid in fiscal year 1959-60 by way of narcotics, transportation to and from hospitals for treatment, bandages and dressings, hospital gowns, sheets, towels and loan of sick-room supplies.

One of the most successful phases of the American Cancer Society work has been the campaign carried on for the study of cancer.

About a year ago the cancer society announced plans to enroll 1,000,000 Americans in a long-range epidemiological study of cancer. No such study has ever been attempted before on such a wide scale. The society not only succeeded in its goal of a million participants but enrolled 100,000 more.

It is to be hoped that the analysis of the records will yield important clues to a number of possible causes of cancer and that it will also yield valuable information in relation to lay education.

The individuals contacted were asked detailed questions about present physical complaints and the answers are to be analyzed in relation to the cases of cancer diagnosed in subsequent months and years.

Assuming that positive answers to certain of these questions are highly related to the presence of cancer, the data will be of immeasurable value in persuading people with such complaints to see their doctors immediately.

In Louisiana, 3,921 families and 7,283 individuals were enrolled. Four hundred twenty researchers over the state volunteered their time in obtaining this information. This is considered one of the most important projects the Louisiana division has undertaken for several years.

Towns participating, number of volunteer researchers, number of families and number of individuals were listed as follows: Alexandria, 21, 243, 439; New Orleans, 92, 895, 1,677; Baton Rouge, 93, 906, 1,645; Monroe, 22, 183, 351; Lake Charles, 100,1,000, 1,890; Lafayette, 29, 218, 404; New Iberia, 28, 206, 392; Morgan City, 19, 153, 307; Houma, 15, 117, 218. It will be observed that particularly outstanding work was done in Baton Rouge and Lake Charles.

The Louisiana division service program was formed in order to assist existing welfare aid in Louisiana. The cancer society supplements exisiting facilities for indigent patients. Many of those not indigent at the onset of the disease become so because of the long-drawn-out treatment that is necessary, often when the source of income is cut off.

In 1960, the Louisiana division's activities in public education included the following: 447 showings of various public education films; a total attendance of 14,506 at the film showings; 175 public education meetings; a total attendance of 11,167 at the public education meetings; 159 high schools using American Cancer Society materials; 200,485 pieces of educational literature distributed other than during the crusade; 1,095 educational posters placed; 81 exhibits and displays provided for various exhibits, home shows and health conferences.

Figures and facts shown here serve to give the average reader an idea of the tremendous importance of the work carried on by the cancer society.

Little Drop, Big Bucket

Not many citizens in this country share the enthusiasm shown by a Spanish-American war veteran for donating money to Uncle Sam. The veteran, James M. Folkman, 84, of New Orleans, left his entire estate, totaling about $17,500 and including $10,000 in United States savings bonds, to the federal government.

Folkman's wife died in 1939. They had no children.

His will, simply written, dated May 31, 1956, said in part: "I leave all that I own or may own to the United States of America."

The attorney for the succession said he had known Folkman more than 25 years and "he never tired of talking about how good the government of the United States had been to him."

Most of us want to get more of a thrill than that out of bestowing our property. If we have children we think the money or property we leave them may make life pleasanter for them. If we leave property to some one who has befriended us, we think how that person will enjoy it. If we leave it to a charitable organization, we think we are doing some good for humanity and may get a word of commendation. If we leave it to Uncle Sam — then what?

The federal government collects all it needs in taxes, whether we like it or not. It won't express appreciation for the bequest and it won't get a thrill out of it. Then why donate it?

About the only way we can explain it is to say, "it takes all kind of people to make a world."

Senator Barry Goldwater Jet-Propelled Crusader

Conducts Articulate, Aggressive And Spectacular Campaign To Sell Americans On Way Of Our Forefathers

EDITOR'S NOTE — To liberals no one could be more conservative than Barry Goldwater. Yet to Goldwater, the real reactionaries today are those same liberals. And if that's confusing, then consider that this arch Republican is one of Robert F. Kennedy's strongest rooters.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jet-propelled crusader against big government is making the voice of conservatism heard in the land.

He's Sen. Barry Morris Goldwater, 51, and he is leaving vapor trails all over the United States in an aggressive, articulate and sometimes spectacular campaign to sell Americans the idea that the way of their forefathers is their best course for the nuclear space age.

This Republican senator from Arizona, an Air Force Reserve general who flies military jets, has become such a hero to the right wing that he is getting hundreds of letters urging him to run for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. He may do it, too.

The grandson of a Russian Jew who emigrated to the West Coast as an itinerant peddler more than 100 years ago, Goldwater today presents the composite picture of a successful business man turned politician.

In the East he dresses conservatively in expensive materials selected through the swank Goldwater stores in Arizona, which he heads as chairman of the board. At home he is likely to be found in blue jeans working in his photography dark room or tinkering with some of the innumerable gadgets with which he has filled his fabulous hilltop home outside Phoenix.

An outdoorsman with exploratory discoveries to his credit in his native Arizona, Goldwater is a steak man, has never smoked, doesn't drink coffee or tea and goes slow on the martinis.

In Washington, he and his wife, Peggy, live quietly in a six-room apartment. They avoid the official cocktail circuit as much as possible. He tries to play golf once a week, but seldom makes it.

Go'dwater got into politics first as a member of the Phoenix City Council because, he said, he was dismayed at the failure of business men to support their local government. He ran for the Senate because, he said, he was tired of hearing business men yap at the federal government and do nothing about it.

Since his election to the Senate on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's coattails in 1952, Goldwater has zoomed across the American political skies as the traveling evangelist of unabashed conservatism.

He goes about denouncing foreign aid, labor leaders' "compulsive unionism," "dime store New Deals," federal aid to education, unbalanced budgets, centralized government, high taxes, "me-too-ism," liberals, "appeasers,"—any and all the things he thinks threaten the freedom of the individual or the free enterprise system.

When a man makes as many as 400 speeches in a year — as Edna A. Coerver, his highly efficient secretary, says the senator did in 1960—his ideas get some wide distribution.

When he can sell around half a million copies of a book outlining his philosophy — "The Conscience of a Conservative"—he has got something going.

Goldwater merchandises conservatism, just as he does goods in the family stores, in bright, attractive packaging. His latest sales pitch is aimed at the "forgotten Americans" he says make up the majority of the American people.

He defines them this way: "They are the people without a political axe to grind, who quietly go about the business of praying and paying, working and saving. They mind their own business and meet their responsibilities on a day-to-day basis. They are a group who, for too long, have had their voice drowned out by the clamor of pressure groups which increases in volume as their numbers decline."

"The modern liberals have taken 'charity' from the Bible and the 'general welfare' from the Constitution and they have perpetuated upon this philosophical prostitution a gigantic hoax dedicated to the destruction of every principle of decency and human freedom which is rightly envolved from these two immutable theses of man's progress."

There have been some recent suggestions that Goldwater is softening his conservative line to avoid being tagged as an intractable reactionary who is the captive of the far right.

Goldwater has only to look at the modern history of Republican presidential nominations to know that any dyed-in-the-wool reactionary is not likely to have much chance to walk off with the prize.

But he says he feels that Nixon swung too far to the left in his quest for the nomination and didn't draw a clear enough distinction between the Republican and Democratic party philosophies in the general election campaign.

An impulsive fellow, Goldwater often shoots from the hip. He all but invited Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a potential 1964 opponent, to get out of the Republican party after former Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost New York in last year's election.

He complained, too, that Nixon had not slugged hard enough at President Kennedy during the campaign. Always free with his political advice, Goldwater lately has been saying Nixon ought to run for governor of California if he wants to preserve himself "as a voice four years hence."

When his reappointment to head the Republican senatorial campaign committee was up for decision, Goldwater took on Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who would have preferred somebody else for the post.

Goldwater got the unanimous endorsement of the Republican Conference for the job. But he had to promise to clear it with Javits before he pops off in New York speeches.

The Arizona senator came up with some surprises when Kennedy's cabinet appointees were before the Senate for action on confirmation. It was he who moved to give Labor Committee approval to Arthur J. Goldberg as secretary of labor.

Goldwater said he thought Goldberg, a union attorney, was well qualified for the job and would be fair to business as well as to labor.

When Kennedy's nomination of his brother Robert as attorney general came along, Goldwater supported it. While other Republicans were talking worriedly about a lack of legal experience, Goldwater said he felt "Bob Kennedy has sense enough to surround himself with experienced and capable men to cover up his lack of experience."

He didn't go along, Goldwater said, with some of his GOP colleagues who felt that Bobby might be an asset to them if something he did as attorney general was unpopular and reacted against the President.

"I don't hope anybody in government stubs his toe, because when that happens the government is hurt," he said.

Goldwater also praised the appointment of Rep. Stewart L. Udall as secretary of interior. But when Udall lobbied for the Kennedy program in the House and defended this as practical politics, Goldwater shot off some typical fire works.

The senator accused the secretary of employing "cold blooded patronage politics" and of coercing Western congressmen. Goldwater said that Democrats had "piously condemned what they called influence peddling," adding: "This is more than influence peddling. This is coercion."

His willingness to scrap with almost anybody—and this includes presidents—has given Goldwater the reputation of a fighter who doesn't mind the odds when he joins battle for his favorite causes, the Republican party and conservatism.

In Goldwater's view—a view that also was taken by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio—the self-professed liberals are the real reactionaries of the times.

"They are the ones who want to go back to the days of bureaucratic government and a big central government with full control over our lives, Goldwater said.

"I am not a reactionary because I recognize some of the fundamental truths. These are that the dignity of man and his freedom which comes from God are the ultimate ideals of any government. This dignity and freedom can best be expressed in the economy of the country when that economy runs as free from government edict and regulations as it can.

"All of us who would prefer progress under our proven system are conservatives and I reiterate that the true reactionaries are the eggheads and the Socialists who want to go back to the dark ages.

Goldwaters big job is to make conservatism attractive to the average voter. He recognizes that the negative approach of being against almost everything isn't going to be enough.

Consequently he has begun to propose alternatives to the solutions the liberals are proposing for the nations problems.

As an example, he recently suggested a system of tax credits for parents to help in educating their children and to provide for their own medical care programs. Goldwater said this would be "federal aid of a sort.

"But it would be a federal aid that would leave our people free to run their own lives and use their own money to meet their daily responsibilities to themselves, their families and their communities, he said.

EASTER

When mission bells on Easter Day . . . Are ringing out with voices clear . . . They carry far across the land . . . Their messages of cheer . . . When organs echo Easter songs . . . And words of God the sermons teach . . . There are but few in any town . . . Whose souls they do not reach . . . When children through the countryside . . . Have Easter eggs to find . . . Their shrieks and shouts of happiness . . . The loves of adults bind . . . When rabbits, ducks and fluffy chicks . . . In shiny pet shop windows crowd . . . They touch the hearts of those who live . . . Where pets are not allowed . . . But when the folk on Easter Day . . . Parade along the avenue . . . I wonder if they ever think . . . Of those with nothing new.

Views Of Our Readers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter, written to a person, is printed in these columns because White's letter about which this one is written, was printed here also).

Oak Grove, La.

To R. C. White, Jr.

Dear Mr. White:

I have received your letter dated March 27, 1961, wherein you criticize the film "Operation Abolition" which was produced by the House Un-American Activities Committee and urged the American Legion not to sponsor the showing of this film. Implied in your letter is also criticism of Mr. Mike John, Ouachita Parish Representative, because he is favorably disposed toward the showing of this film. You enclosed copies of articles from certain publications distinguished mainly by their continued opposition to all efforts to fight the Communist conspiracy in this country.

It would be a gross understatement if I told you that I was shocked by the opinions expressed in your letter. I am absolutely appalled to realize that a citizen of Northeast Louisiana can be so cruelly disoriented. I also examined the literature enclosed in your letter and found it to be the same old tired, discredited, partyline attacks on the House Un-American Activities Committee, which I felt had long ago been repudiated by all intelligent people.

I am returning herewith the letters which you sent me. Make no mistake about this — as long as I am Department Commander of The American Legion of Louisiana our organization will stand firmly behind all patriotic Americans, including representative Mike John, the House Un-American Activities Committee, and its Chairman, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

ORLANDO N. HAMILTON JR.
Department Commander of the American Legion.

Super-Doctoring

Central Repository For Latest Medical Knowledge Sought

David Sarnoff, Chairman of R.C.A., is gifted with imagination and prescience. He has now come up with a very useful idea. Let me quote him:

"Through a blend of electronic computation and communication techniques, it would be possible to establish a National Medical Clearing House which could serve as a central repository for all the latest medical information. By a combination of communications circuits, every major hospital and medical school in the country could be tied into this Clearing House.

"If a doctor in a San Francisco hospital sought the source of information on a particular subject, he would simply dial a number. Instantly, a relevant bibliography would flash on a television - like screen before him. Then, when he made his choice of a particular article, he could dial again and get a microfilm version of the article on his screen."

The real point of all this is that knowledge is being accumulated too rapidly even for the specialists to know a subject in its entirety. Research is done in a thousand places and one place has just reached the moment when something is found that can save a life. But that something has not yet worked its way into medical literature. Yet this one little fact might give a sick person a few more years of life.

The top doctors like the top men in any profession are very busy and hard to get to. Hospitals do not readily interchange staffs. Nevertheless there is always one man, brilliant, imaginative, projecting his ideas far beyond the moment, who can save a life even by a suggestion. In the critical moments between life and death, the miraculous does occur, and the miraculous is often a great mind that hits the spot.

This is particularly true in the treatment of cancers about which so much is now known and so many lives are being saved. It takes great resources and superhuman courage to save a life. Sarnoff's proposal will be established because it is logical. The day may come when an excellent doctor worried about a detail will be able to call a central clearing house to ask who knows about this.

These days, when it is possible to take a plane and be somewhere in a few hours, there is no reason why a life should be endangered or lost because the man who knows is too far away. Nobody is any longer too far away.

General Sarnoff's proposal that more color television be used to project knowledge is very valuable. He said:

"World-wide television will permit thousands of physicians to sit in on diagnosis and consultation sessions among specialists of many nationalities. Heart specialists in London will be able to examine a patient, display on the television screen his X-rays and cardiograms, and discuss a diagnosis with specialists in New York, Berlin, Paris, Rome, Tokyo, or other parts of the world. And through instantaneous electronic translation techniques, which are now in development, the barrier of language difference — as real to the doctor as to the statesman — will be finally surmounted."

What General Sarnoff is really calling our attention to is the need for total utilization of all the developments in science which are now at our disposal. He recognized that such a device as color television may be used for much more than exhibiting the art of Bob Hope or Red Skelton to say nothing of Zsa Zsa Gabor. Already television is being used to teach many subjects. The time will come when public demand will require the television companies and the so-called sponsors to use this device for something more than theater, although theater has its place. But does it always have to be murder?

I sometimes wonder if General Sarnoff ever watches television to see the hours frittered away in miserable trivialities surely unfit for his grandchildren. It must be worrisome to think of what can be done with this medium that is not being done and the responsibility for telling the public of its possibilities is up to the television industry. The day may come when this device too will be used to save lives.

Imagine sitting in New York, stating a problem to an expert in London, Bonn or Tokyo and he replies by showing how he handled a similar case — showing it on the television screen. That day will come too.

JOBS APLENTY — Republican Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois believes his cup has runneth over as far as committee assignments are concerned. He can't begin to read all the transcripts of hearings before the scores of committees and subcommittees. As Dirksen noted on the Senate floor recently: "I see present in the chamber the chairman of the Subcommittee on Anti-trust and Monopoly. I serve on that subcommittee. I see the chairman of the Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights. I do not believe I serve on that subcommittee. I see the chairman of the Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency. Frankly, I have to look at the book, because I cannot remember all the subcommittees on which I serve. I am a member of the Subcommittees on Constitutional Amendments, Immigration and Naturalization, Anti-trust and Monopoly, Administrative Practices and Procedures, Internal Security, Trading With the Enemy, and Improvements in the Federal Criminal Code. I am the chairman, I will have the majority whip now, of the Subcommittee on Federal Charters, Holidays and Celebrations."

THE GIFT CARRIERS — Rep. Sidney R. Yates of Illinois circulated a story on Capitol Hill to point up why he hoped Speaker Rayburn would not emerge "empty-handed" from his fight to liberalize the House Rules Committee. Yates' story is about the fellow who, on receiving an invitation to the wedding anniversary of a friend, asked directions on how to get to his apartment. The friend's directions concluded with this note, "You push the button with your elbow and when the buzzer sounds, you put your knee against the door and push hard, because it's difficult to open. "But why do I have to use my elbow and my knee to get in?" inquired the invitee. "Well, you are not coming empty-handed, are you?" the friend replied.

EDITOR'S NOTE — To liberals no one could be more conservative than Barry Goldwater. Yet to Goldwater, the real reactionaries today are those same liberals. And if that's confusing, then consider that this arch Republican is one of Robert F. Kennedy's strongest rooters.

By JACK BELL

He's Sen. Barry Morris Goldwater, 51, and he is leaving vapor trails all over the United States in an aggressive, articulate and sometimes spectacular campaign to sell Americans the idea that the way of their forefathers is their best course for the nuclear space age.

This Republican senator from Arizona, an Air Force Reserve general who flies military jets, has become such a hero to the right wing that he is getting hundreds of letters urging him to run for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. He may do it, too.

The grandson of a Russian Jew who emigrated to the West Coast as an itinerant peddler more than 100 years ago, Goldwater today presents the composite picture of a successful business man turned politician.

In the East he dresses conservatively in expensive materials selected through the swank Goldwater stores in Arizona, which he heads as chairman of the board. At home he is likely to be found in blue jeans working in his photography dark room or tinkering with some of the innumerable gadgets with which he has filled his fabulous hilltop home outside Phoenix.

An outdoorsman with exploratory discoveries to his credit in his native Arizona, Goldwater is a steak man, has never smoked, doesn't drink coffee or tea and goes slow on the martinis.

In Washington, he and his wife, Peggy, live quietly in a six-room apartment. They avoid the official cocktail circuit as much as possible. He tries to play golf once a week, but seldom makes it.

Go'dwater got into politics first as a member of the Phoenix City Council because, he said, he was dismayed at the failure of business men to support their local government. He ran for the Senate because, he said, he was tired of hearing business men yap at the federal government and do nothing about it.

Since his election to the Senate on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's coattails in 1952, Goldwater has zoomed across the American political skies as the traveling evangelist of unabashed conservatism.

He goes about denouncing foreign aid, labor leaders' "compulsive unionism," "dime store New Deals," federal aid to education, unbalanced budgets, centralized government, high taxes, "me-too-ism," liberals, "appeasers,"—any and all the things he thinks threaten the freedom of the individual or the free enterprise system.

When a man makes as many as 400 speeches in a year — as Edna A. Coerver, his highly efficient secretary, says the senator did in 1960—his ideas get some wide distribution.

When he can sell around half a million copies of a book outlining his philosophy — "The Conscience of a Conservative"—he has got something going.

Goldwater merchandises conservatism, just as he does goods in the family stores, in bright, attractive packaging. His latest sales pitch is aimed at the "forgotten Americans" he says make up the majority of the American people.

He defines them this way: "They are the people without a political axe to grind, who quietly go about the business of praying and paying, working and saving. They mind their own business and meet their responsibilities on a day-to-day basis. They are a group who, for too long, have had their voice drowned out by the clamor of pressure groups which increases in volume as their numbers decline."

"The modern liberals have taken 'charity' from the Bible and the 'general welfare' from the Constitution and they have perpetuated upon this philosophical prostitution a gigantic hoax dedicated to the destruction of every principle of decency and human freedom which is rightly envolved from these two immutable theses of man's progress."

There have been some recent suggestions that Goldwater is softening his conservative line to avoid being tagged as an intractable reactionary who is the captive of the far right.

Goldwater has only to look at the modern history of Republican presidential nominations to know that any dyed-in-the-wool reactionary is not likely to have much chance to walk off with the prize.

But he says he feels that Nixon swung too far to the left in his quest for the nomination and didn't draw a clear enough distinction between the Republican and Democratic party philosophies in the general election campaign.

An impulsive fellow, Goldwater often shoots from the hip. He all but invited Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a potential 1964 opponent, to get out of the Republican party after former Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost New York in last year's election.

He complained, too, that Nixon had not slugged hard enough at President Kennedy during the campaign. Always free with his political advice, Goldwater lately has been saying Nixon ought to run for governor of California if he wants to preserve himself "as a voice four years hence."

When his reappointment to head the Republican senatorial campaign committee was up for decision, Goldwater took on Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who would have preferred somebody else for the post.

Goldwater got the unanimous endorsement of the Republican Conference for the job. But he had to promise to clear it with Javits before he pops off in New York speeches.

The Arizona senator came up with some surprises when Kennedy's cabinet appointees were before the Senate for action on confirmation. It was he who moved to give Labor Committee approval to Arthur J. Goldberg as secretary of labor.

Goldwater said he thought Goldberg, a union attorney, was well qualified for the job and would be fair to business as well as to labor.

When Kennedy's nomination of his brother Robert as attorney general came along, Goldwater supported it. While other Republicans were talking worriedly about a lack of legal experience, Goldwater said he felt "Bob Kennedy has sense enough to surround himself with experienced and capable men to cover up his lack of experience."

He didn't go along, Goldwater said, with some of his GOP colleagues who felt that Bobby might be an asset to them if something he did as attorney general was unpopular and reacted against the President.

"I don't hope anybody in government stubs his toe, because when that happens the government is hurt," he said.

Goldwater also praised the appointment of Rep. Stewart L. Udall as secretary of interior. But when Udall lobbied for the Kennedy program in the House and defended this as practical politics, Goldwater shot off some typical fire works.

The senator accused the secretary of employing "cold blooded patronage politics" and of coercing Western congressmen. Goldwater said that Democrats had "piously condemned what they called influence peddling," adding: "This is more than influence peddling. This is coercion."

His willingness to scrap with almost anybody—and this includes presidents—has given Goldwater the reputation of a fighter who doesn't mind the odds when he joins battle for his favorite causes, the Republican party and conservatism.

In Goldwater's view—a view that also was taken by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio—the self-professed liberals are the real reactionaries of the times.

"They are the ones who want to go back to the days of bureaucratic government and a big central government with full control over our lives, Goldwater said.

"I am not a reactionary because I recognize some of the fundamental truths. These are that the dignity of man and his freedom which comes from God are the ultimate ideals of any government. This dignity and freedom can best be expressed in the economy of the country when that economy runs as free from government edict and regulations as it can.

"All of us who would prefer progress under our proven system are conservatives and I reiterate that the true reactionaries are the eggheads and the Socialists who want to go back to the dark ages.

Goldwaters big job is to make conservatism attractive to the average voter. He recognizes that the negative approach of being against almost everything isn't going to be enough.

Consequently he has begun to propose alternatives to the solutions the liberals are proposing for the nations problems.

As an example, he recently suggested a system of tax credits for parents to help in educating their children and to provide for their own medical care programs. Goldwater said this would be "federal aid of a sort.

"But it would be a federal aid that would leave our people free to run their own lives and use their own money to meet their daily responsibilities to themselves, their families and their communities, he said.

EASTER

When mission bells on Easter Day . . . Are ringing out with voices clear . . . They carry far across the land . . . Their messages of cheer . . . When organs echo Easter songs . . . And words of God the sermons teach . . . There are but few in any town . . . Whose souls they do not reach . . . When children through the countryside . . . Have Easter eggs to find . . . Their shrieks and shouts of happiness . . . The loves of adults bind . . . When rabbits, ducks and fluffy chicks . . . In shiny pet shop windows crowd . . . They touch the hearts of those who live . . . Where pets are not allowed . . . But when the folk on Easter Day . . . Parade along the avenue . . . I wonder if they ever think . . . Views Of Our Readers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter, written to a person, is printed in these columns because White's letter about which this one is written, was printed here also).

Oak Grove, La.

To R. C. White, Jr.

Dear Mr. White:

I have received your letter dated March 27, 1961, wherein you criticize the film "Operation Abolition" which was produced by the House Un-American Activities Committee and urged the American Legion not to sponsor the showing of this film. Implied in your letter is also criticism of Mr. Mike John, Ouachita Parish Representative, because he is favorably disposed toward the showing of this film. You enclosed copies of articles from certain publications distinguished mainly by their continued opposition to all efforts to fight the Communist conspiracy in this country.

It would be a gross understatement if I told you that I was shocked by the opinions expressed in your letter. I am absolutely appalled to realize that a citizen of Northeast Louisiana can be so cruelly disoriented. I also examined the literature enclosed in your letter and found it to be the same old tired, discredited, partyline attacks on the House Un-American Activities Committee, which I felt had long ago been repudiated by all intelligent people.

I am returning herewith the letters which you sent me. Make no mistake about this — as long as I am Department Commander of The American Legion of Louisiana our organization will stand firmly behind all patriotic Americans, including representative Mike John, the House Un-American Activities Committee, and its Chairman, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

ORLANDO N. HAMILTON JR.

Department Commander of the American Legion.

Super-Doctoring

Central Repository For Latest Medical Knowledge Sought

David Sarnoff, Chairman of R.C.A., is gifted with imagination and prescience. He has now come up with a very useful idea. Let me quote him:

"Through a blend of electronic computation and communication techniques, it would be possible to establish a National Medical Clearing House which could serve as a central repository for all the latest medical information. By a combination of communications circuits, every major hospital and medical school in the country could be tied into this Clearing House.

"If a doctor in a San Francisco hospital sought the source of information on a particular subject, he would simply dial a number. Instantly, a relevant bibliography would flash on a television - like screen before him. Then, when he made his choice of a particular article, he could dial again and get a microfilm version of the article on his screen."

The real point of all this is that knowledge is being accumulated too rapidly even for the specialists to know a subject in its entirety. Research is done in a thousand places and one place has just reached the moment when something is found that can save a life. But that something has not yet worked its way into medical literature. Yet this one little fact might give a sick person a few more years of life.

The top doctors like the top men in any profession are very busy and hard to get to. Hospitals do not readily interchange staffs. Nevertheless there is always one man, brilliant, imaginative, projecting his ideas far beyond the moment, who can save a life even by a suggestion. In the critical moments between life and death, the miraculous does occur, and the miraculous is often a great mind that hits the spot.

This is particularly true in the treatment of cancers about which so much is now known and so many lives are being saved. It takes great resources and superhuman courage to save a life. Sarnoff's proposal will be established because it is logical. The day may come when an excellent doctor worried about a detail will be able to call a central clearing house to ask who knows about this.

These days, when it is possible to take a plane and be somewhere in a few hours, there is no reason why a life should be endangered or lost because the man who knows is too far away. Nobody is any longer too far away.

General Sarnoff's proposal that more color television be used to project knowledge is very valuable. He said:

"World-wide television will permit thousands of physicians to sit in on diagnosis and consultation sessions among specialists of many nationalities. Heart specialists in London will be able to examine a patient, display on the television screen his X-rays and cardiograms, and discuss a diagnosis with specialists in New York, Berlin, Paris, Rome, Tokyo, or other parts of the world. And through instantaneous electronic translation techniques, which are now in development, the barrier of language difference — as real to the doctor as to the statesman —will be finally surmounted."

What General Sarnoff is really calling our attention to is the need for total utilization of all the developments in science which are now at our disposal. He recognized that such a device as color television may be used for much more than exhibiting the art of Bob Hope or Red Skelton to say nothing of Zsa Zsa Gabor. Already television is being used to teach many subjects. The time will come when public demand will require the television companies and the so-called sponsors to use this device for something more than theater, although theater has its place. But does it always have to be murder?

I sometimes wonder if General Sarnoff ever watches television to see the hours frittered away in miserable trivialities surely unfit for his grandchildren. It must be worrisome to think of what can be done with this medium that is not being done and the responsibility for telling the public of its possibilities is up to the television industry. The day may come when this device too will be used to save lives.

Imagine sitting in New York, stating a problem to an expert in London, Bonn or Tokyo and he replies by showing how he handled a similar case — showing it on the television screen. That day will come too.

JOBS APLENTY — Republican Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois believes his cup has runneth over as far as committee assignments are concerned. He can't begin to read all the transcripts of hearings before the scores of committees and subcommittees. As Dirksen noted on the Senate floor recently: "I see present in the chamber the chairman of the Subcommittee on Anti-trust and Monopoly. I serve on that subcommittee. I see the chairman of the Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights. I do not believe I serve on that subcommittee. I see the chairman of the Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency. Frankly, I have to look at the book, because I cannot remember all the subcommittees on which I serve. I am a member of the Subcommittees on Constitutional Amendments, Immigration and Naturalization, Anti-trust and Monopoly, Administrative Practices and Procedures, Internal Security, Trading With the Enemy, and Improvements in the Federal Criminal Code. I am the chairman, I will have the majority whip now, of the Subcommittee on Federal Charters, Holidays and Celebrations."

THE GIFT CARRIERS — Rep. Sidney R. Yates of Illinois circulated a story on Capitol Hill to point up why he hoped Speaker Rayburn would not emerge "empty-handed" from his fight to liberalize the House Rules Committee. Yates' story is about the fellow who, on receiving an invitation to the wedding anniversary of a friend, asked directions on how to get to his apartment. The friend's directions concluded with this note, "You push the button with your elbow and when the buzzer sounds, you put your knee against the door and push hard, because it's difficult to open. "But why do I have to use my elbow and my knee to get in?" inquired the invitee. "Well, you are not coming empty-handed, are you?" the friend replied.

About The Night That Bruno Hauptmann Died

EDITOR'S NOTE — Nothing would seem more unrelated, a stick of wood and a White House order to fight the great depression. But together they trapped one of the century's most hunted criminals. Now, 25 years later, a man who was there recounts the night that justice caught up with the man who kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
General News Editor
The Associated Press

There was a slight sneer on the ashen face of prisoner 17400. He was dressed in blue denim trousers, a white shirt and carpet slippers and was led by two guards.

The day, 25 years ago, was April 3, 1936. The time was 8:41 p.m. Prisoner 17400 was Bruno Richard Hauptmann, entering the death chamber at the state prison at Trenton, N.J., to die for the kidnap-murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., 19-month-old first born of an American hero.

For nearly 14 months, Hauptmann had been in a death house cell only a few paces away. Twice before the execution hour had been set, then voided by last minute reprieves. This night, Gov. Harold G. Hoffman had announced he had no further cause to issue one.

The nation's most famous kidnaping case was nearing its end.

It began the night of March 1, 1932 when a nursemaid, Betty Gow, went at 10 o'clock to the second-floor nursery of the Lindbergh's new home at Hopewell, N.J., and found the baby gone.

"Anne, they have stolen our baby," he said.

He took a rifle from a closet and bareheaded, went out into the raw and windy night to search for his son. On May 12, a workman found the body in a shallow grave in the Sourland Hills five miles away. At the time Lindbergh was on a small yacht off the Virginia capes, hunting for "The Nelly" which he was told carried his boy but which was, in reality, a nonexistent phantom ship.

The chief clues were a crudely written note, which had been left on the window sill of the nursery, and a broken ladder found nearby. The note demanded $50,000 ransom.

Lindbergh paid the ransom the night of April 2 as he and Dr. John F. Condon, a schoolteacher acting as intermediary, kept a date in a Bronx cemetery in New York City after Condon received some notes.

"Not until you give me a receipt showing me where to get the baby," Condon answered. "He was crouching down under the hedge, and I said, 'Come on. Stand up like a man. I have the money here.' He gave me the note and I handed him the box."

The note said, "The boy is on the boat Nelly." The box contained $35,000 in gold notes, $15,000 in other paper currency.

The government distributed 250,000 circulars bearing the serial numbers of the money. The next year President Franklin D. Roosevelt called in all gold, a measure born of the depression, and set May 1, 1933 as a deadline for conversion of gold certificates.

The Lindbergh ransom gold notes were now hot. As they turned up here and there, locater pins were placed on the central map. The pins bunched in the Bronx.

On Sept. 15, 1934, a man bought five gallons of gas at Walter Lyle's Bronx filling station. He gave Lyle a $10 gold note. Lyle wrote the auto license number on the bill.

Four days later, Hauptmann was arrested. He was 35, a carpenter who lived in a simple frame and stucco house in the Bronx with his wife and 10-month-old son, born after the Lindbergh kidnaping. A German machine gunner in World War I, Hauptmann was arrested after the war for stealing—a theft his lawyers laid to economic conditions in postwar Germany. Out on parole, he stowed away to the United States.

At Hauptmann's trial in the Hunterdon County Courthouse in Flemington, N.J., Frank J. Wilson, a special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service, was asked by Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz, the chief prosecutor: "So far as you know, Mr. Wilson, Since the indictment of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder has there been one ransom bill turned up."

"No, sir."

Seven experts said the hand writing on 14 ransom notes was Hauptmann's.

The ladder, too, was traced to Hauptmann. Arthur Koehler, a wood technologist of the United States Forest Products Laboratory of Madison, Wis., for two days told an absorbing story of tracing the wood from a mill in McCormick, S.C.

"These two pieces (a rail of the ladder and a floorboard) from Hauptmann's attic at one time were one piece," he said. "They have been cut in two. The nail holes (in the rail) fit exactly in the four nail holes which were in these attic joists. Hauptmann's plane was used to plane the ladder."

Lindbergh, a witness, was asked about the voice he heard in the cemetery the night the ransom was paid.

"Have you heard that voice since?"

"I have."

"Whose voice was it?"

"It was the voice of Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

Hauptmann denied entering the nursery or kidnaping the child ("I wasn't there at all"). He denied writing the ransom notes and building the kidnap ladder.

"Certainly now," he said of the ladder. "I am a carpenter. It looks more like a moosic (music) instrument."

The money found in his garage, he explained, had been left in his possession by a friend named Isidor Fisch, who had returned to Germany in 1933 and died there in 1934.

"Isidor Fisch left with me a little box, a shoe box," he testified. "I put it in the broom closet, forgot about it. Months later I damaged the box when I was taking a broom out of the closet. I saw money—gold certificates. I . . . brought it down to the garage and hid it."

The jury of eight men and four woman found Hauptmann guilty of first - degree murder on Feb. 13, 1935. The sentence of death was pronounced immediately. He had been convicted largely on circumstantial evidence, but New Jersey's highest court said the evidence "pointed unerringly to guilt."

Gov. Hoffman stirred controversy by making a secret, nocturnal visit to Hauptmann in his death house cell. He expressed doubts about Hauptmann's guilt.

The controversy continued through the final day. In midafternoon Hauptmann's wife, Anna, who always had claimed he was innocent, swore out a complaint charging a Trenton lawyer with the kidnaping—a futile last-minute effort to find a way through the courts to stay the execution.

Wilentz told the prison warden, Mark O. Kimberling—the time was now 3:15—the execution could be stayed only by another gubernatorial reprieve, by the courts or by commutation from the Court of Pardons.

Kimberling went ahead with final preparations.

Mrs. Hauptmann sought solace in her Trenton hotel room, sobbing and praying in German.

At 7:34 p.m., Hoffman announced he had "no further power" to issue a reprieve.

The hour of execution had been set for 8 p.m. At that hour Kimberling still was in his office, awaiting any last-minute word. The execution could not proceed without him by law.

At 8:35, Kimberling entered the death chamber, where 55 witnesses and Robert H. Elliott, gaunt and gray-haired executioner, waited.

Earlier, Kimberling had warned newsmen not to take any pictures. Each man—even Kimberling—had been searched as he entered the room.

Now he repeated the warning.

"My officers will keep close observation," he said. "No one is to put his hands in his pocket during the execution."

He turned to a guard.

"Call the center. Be sure they have the connection and see if there are any messages."

"No messages," the guard reported seconds later.

At 8:41, the death house door opened. Two clergymen, one of them the Rev. Mr. Matthiesen, entered, reading in German the ritual of the Lutheran Church. Hauptmann, led by the two guards, followed. Once he stole a glance at the witnesses before he was strapped in the chair.

Elliott soun a wheel three times.

Six doctors stepped forward in turn, applying stethescopes. The sixth broke the silence: "This man is dead."

Kimberling, who had stood with bowed head throughout, not even looking up when the doctors examined Hauptmann, now looked at a little white clock that a guard had held aloft for 20 minutes.

"It is 8:47½," he said.

Winesburg And Peyton Place In Big Texas

THE SONS AND DAUGHTERS. By Patricia Gallagher. Messner. $3.95.

Years ago Sherwood Anderson wrote a collection of stories called "Winesburg, Ohio," which caused quite a stir. It disclosed graphically how an outwardly placid and desolate little town was peopled by individuals who felt the scourges of worldly frustration, sex and human fate as vividly as their brothers and sisters of fancier surroundings.

This book is subtitled "A Novel of Texas Today," but it could have happened in Winesburg. And it has enough sex in it for Peyton Place.

It is about Jill Turner, daughter of a crude and insensitive mother, in a forsaken little town which also happens to contain Tommy Evans, the "misunderstood" son of a banker. Tommy is a ladies' man, and one of the ladies is Cerise Worth, a man - crazy female from a respectable family, who is doomed to go down to a pretty sordid end.

On the rebound from an affair with Cerise, Tommy seduced Jill, then leaves town. Eventually Jill's life reaches a fairly stable adjustment in the understanding protection of Harry Morgan, the town newspaperman.

There is a contemporary theme underlying this narrative, involving segregation and miscegenation, plus a fine bit of irony. Cerise's father, fusty old Judge Worth, has some notions of getting into politics until the day he berates Cerise for being civil on the street to a Negro who visits the town. Then the judge's wife lets him have it — the knowledge that she is an octaroon and their daughter not quite as white as he had assumed.

There are awkward passages in this first novel, and the narrative lags here and there, but the author comes pretty close to making you believe Jill has matured at the end, and that Tommy would have turned into the creature he finally is. Oddly enough, it is the pitiful Cerise whose tragedy strikes the clearest note of reality.

New Femme Fatale Always Is Fascinating

THE GOUFFE CASE. By Joachim Maass. Harper. $4.95.

For centuries one of the most fascinating figures in literature has been the lustful female, the femme fatale, who puts the curse of death on every man who has the misfortune to fall under her spell.

Almost invariably she has the innocent face of a child and the cold, inhuman heart of a witch.

So now you know Gabriele Bompard, and she is no pale carbon copy of the fatally fascinating female. She is the real thing in this long, wandering novel that begins with a trunk murder.

The setting for most of the story is Paris, shortly before the turn of the century. The victim is Alphonse Gouffe, a recently widowed moneylender and debt collector. The sleuth is Inspector Goron, head of the Paris Surete, and the action gets under way when Gouffe's brother - in - law, Jaquemar, reports him missing.

Goron has a dreadful time convincing the world that the body in the trunk is that of the missing man. He has an even more dreadful time when the jury convicts the pitiful Michel, but triumphantly acquits Gabrielle as his accomplice.

But the murder case, which has stirred France and most of the world, does not end with the verdict. Jaquemar, who is cut a bit differently and from different cloth than most men, has vowed to bring Gabrielle to her rightful end, whether in the courts or not.

Naturally, he has to succumb to her charms too, for otherwise Gabrielle would not be the perfect witch. But there is a catch to it, and Jaquemar is not quite the loser.

If this were a modern detective story, you would expect a clipped, stark style and scenes that resemble a modern living room. But because it deals with Paris of the 1890's, it is an ornate piling of detail on detail, a narrative that flows in a leisurely manner until it creates a massive effect.

The book is a best seller in Germany, is being published in several other European countries, and because of its material probably will find a good many readers here.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is growing each week. More than 500 new books were added during the month of March. They were books of great variety and will appeal to many different types of readers. "The Iron Horse" by Michael Bonner is a very good western and will be quite popular. In the past few years many of our best authors have devoted their efforts to writing books especially for teen - agers. This week there are a number of new books in this category. "A Touch of Magic" is the title of a book by Betty Cavanna, which appeals especially to girls. "The Comeback Guy" by Constance Frick is a sport story for boys. "Wilderness Island" by Gladys Malvern catches the spirit of the out of doors and will appeal to all young people. "The Scarlet Raider," by Joseph Icehnower has a historical background, which will make the story very popular. "Janine" by Robin McKown is another story especially for girls. "Secret beyond the Mountains" by Rita Ritchie is a mystery story which will delight boys. "The Mosquito Fleet" by Gordon D. Shirrefs will especially interest boys, because of its historical background. "Ballerine on Skates" is the title of Zoa Sherborne's new book, which deals with the world of ice skating. "Shadow on Devil's Peak" by Amelia Walden is another story of mystery and intrigue. "Joe Meek, Man of the West" by Doris Shannon Garst is a very interesting biography of one of the most colorful figures of our western history.

Reference books are the backbone of a library and the reference collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is a very splendid one. A new book, which should help many people is called "A Guide to U. S. Government Statistics" and tells where government statistics may be found. "The Bibliographic Index" is another book which leads one on to other material. It is a list of bibliographic Index" is another book which leads one on to other material. It is a list of bibliographies published from the years 1956-59.

A perfectly splendid new book is called "Realm of Measure" and was written by Isaac Asimov. This book contains information about weights and measures, which we have often had to search to find. It is written in such an interesting style that a person can enjoy reading it as well as searching for information. "Finishing Touches" is the title of a new book by Candy Jones, the professional model. She gives an excellent step - by - step program of tested professional guidance on fashion, beauty and feminine charm. This is an extremely helpful guide for the schoolgirl, the housewife, the secretary, or the aspiring model or amateur actress.

Books about far - away places are always popular with our readers. "Three passports to Adventure" by Hal and Halla Linker is an account of the varied and colorful adventures of one of the most widely known travelling families in America. The authors have a weekly television program called "Wonders of the World" and this book recounts some of the amazing adventures which have befallen them in remoter corners of the world. "Cocktails and Camels" by Jacqueline Carol is an account of the experience of a Lebanese girl and is full of warmth, humor and charm.

A very scholarly series has just been added to the library collection. It is called "Introduction to Oriental Civilization and is published by the Columbia University Press. There are three values in the Series" Sources of Chinese Tradition" by William Theodore DeBary, "Sources of Japanese Tradition" by Ryusake Tsunoda and "Sources of Indian Tradition" also by Mr. Debary. A new biography which should interest many readers was written by Robert Heariques. It is "Bearsted," a biography of Marcus Samuel, the first Viscount of Bearsted and the founder of the Shell Oil company.

Lots To See Lots To Read

An illustrated history of France. By Andre Maurois. Viking. $20.

This new edition of Maurois' well known history of France is a book as much to look at as to read. And that is saying a great deal.

As in the earlier editions, Maurois uses a lively narrative style to make the past come alive. The history reads like a good story as he traces the growth of the French nation from prehistoric times till the days of Charles de Gaulle. Since the text has been cut severely it offers more of a survey than a detailed account.

The real merit of this book, however, lies in the beautiful pictures scattered liberally throughout. Chosen to follow the story closely, they range from photographs of ancient bronze statues to medieval tapestries to modern paintings. Enough of them are in rich color to make a truly handsome volume.

A serious lack is that of maps. Every history book ought to have at least one.

ALONG BROADWAY

Song Shows On Tap During April

NEW YORK (AP)—Song shows dominate Broadway's lineup of newcomers during April.

The schedule includes "The Happiest Girl in the World," April 3 at the Martin Beck, a fresh version of the Lysistrate legend set to Offenbach music; "Carnival," April 13 at the Imperial, with lilting Anna Maria Alberghetti as a gypsy charmer, and two revivals of notable past triumphs.

"Show Boat" inaugurates the City Center operetta season April 12 and is followed after a two-week run by "South Pacific."

Four current productions bow out—"Toys in the Attic," April 8; "The Importance of Being Oscar," April 9; "The Music Man" and "Under the Yum-Yum Tree," April 15.

Following is an alphabetical digest of the present play list, showing title, theater, players and topic. Order tickets well in advance for shows with "X" preceding title. Others are generally available, with weekend performances most in demand.

"A Taste of Honey," Booth—Joan Plowright, Angela Lansbury; wry, raw romance in English slums. Available.

"Advise and Consent," Cort, but moves April 17 to Royale—Chester Morris, Henry Jones, Ed Begley, Kevin McCarthy; behind-the-scenes with U.S. senators in melodramatic conflict.

"An Evening with Nichols and May," Golden—The TV comics in assorted sketches of people and foibles.

"Big Fish, Little Fish," Anta—Jason Robards Jr., Hume Cronyn; a stagnant assortment of humans stirs laughter in pursuit of security.

"Bye Bye Birdie," Shubert—Gretchen Wyler and Gene Rayburn take lead roles April 9; fast-moving musical spoof of teenagers and rock 'n' roll.

X—"Camelot," Majestic—Richard Burton, Julie Andrews; King Arthur and his court, set to music by Lerner and Loewe.

"Come Blow Your Horn," Atkinson—Hal March; laughable shenanigans of a bachelor and his young brother in rebellion against pop.

RUNNING THE SCALES

MacLeish Drama Carries Impact

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

The many trials of Job, paraphrased into the modern drama "J. B." by Archibald MacLeish, was the leading attraction of the week in the "live performance" field in northeast Louisiana.

The play was presented Tuesday on the La. Tech Concert Series in Ruston. Outstanding acting was noted in the part of the satanical Nickle, played by John Carradine; the title role of J. B., by Shepperd Strudwick, and the wife of J. B., played by Sarah Olive Dunbar.

Young musicians of northeast Louisiana will be featured in a concert by the Twin City Symphony Orchestra set for April 30.

The event will be held at Sherrouse school auditorium and five students will perform solo piano concertos with the orchestra. Rex Morris of Rayville will play Mozart's Concerto in E Flat; Donna Gartman, Columbia, the Concerto in A Major (K-488) by the same composer; Marie Nelsen, Monroe, Weber's "Konzertstueck," and Mary Lou Holly, Oak Grove, will perform the Piano Concerto in G Minor by Saint Saens.

Proceeds from the concert will go into a scholarship fund for the string program at Northeast State College.

TOWN

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, sponsored by the Junior Charity League and the Musical Coterie, will perform at the southern regional meeting of the Music Educators' National Conference at Asheville, North Carolina on April 21.

The group, trained in a special program in the Monroe city schools, was invited to appear at the regional meeting by virtue of its superior rating at the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960. A silver tea in honor of the orchestra members will be held at the home of Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn on Thursday.

AND COUNTRY

Popularized country music of the Bible Belt has found a headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee. This highly modified form of folk music has turned Tin Pan Alley into a turnpike linking the major record companies with the Tennessee city.

It takes a strong force to pull part of the cultural monopoly out of New York and that force is money.

Apparently country music stocks have soared sufficiently to cause the "Mohammads" of the disc business to go to the "mountains" of Tennessee since the mountain music wouldn't come to them.

Nashville is and has been for many years the undisputed center of country music. As home of the Grand Ole Opry, it has brought music via radio into American homes for the past 35 years.

But the Opry — which one musician called the "Carnegie Hall of the Hillbilly" — is only one phase of the music business in Nashville. Recordings are being made there on an increasing scale and sheet music is also being published.

Including "country" versions of popular ballads, fill tunes sung by so-called "pop" singers, religious songs, unknown talent "finds" and imitation folk music, it is estimated that 35 to 45 per cent of the hit single recordings were made in Nashville during 1960.

The Grand Ole Opry, a review of songs and acts by star hillbilly singers and jokesters, is no opera. Writer Richard Marek has described its effect as one of "controlled chaos."

But it is grand. Since the first performance in 1925, there have been 1300 subsequent ones. All have been held in Ryman Auditorium, originally a tabernacle, which has a seating capacity of 3,482.

The Opry lasts four and a half hours, which compares in length to a Wagnerian blowout at Bayreuth. Again, this comparison is in length only, not in the type of music produced at either center.

As for quality, it is not to vary. But Bluegrass musicians Flatt and Scruggs claim their variety of the hillbilly art is difficult and cannot be learned other than by being born to it. And Scruggs' virtuosity on the banjo is pretty convincing support to such a claim.

In the more rarified air of the concert hall, composer Igor Stravinsky nudged his drowsy companion and said, "Wake up, you are snoring." "But I never snore, maestro," was the reply. "Then what else wakened me?" asked the composer.

The Irish Busy Trying To Learn About Irish

EDITOR'S NOTE You can always tell an Irishman but you can't tell him much nowadays unless you tell him in Gaelic. Once given up for dead, Ireland's mother language has been giving English a tongue-lashing which is quite a feat when you consider its outweighed 26 letters to 18.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—If you ever go across the sea to Ireland, you may be astonished to find that while the rest of the world is busy trying to learn English or Russian, depending on their political bent, the Irish are busy trying to learn Irish.

To help them along, street and road markers are printed in both English and Irish, or Gaelic as it is called by everyone except the Irish. So, too, are theater programs, road maps, lottery tickets, railroad timetables, government publications, an increasing number of newspaper columns and ads, and the signs over phone booths, bus depots, police stations, rest rooms and most other public edifices.

Maybe. But the Irish are dead serious about reviving their ancient language, which next to Latin was once the most cultured and widely known tongue in Christendom.

The constitution of Eire, the 26 counties making up the Free State, provides for two official languages, English and Irish. Irish is a required subject in all public and parochial schools, and a speaking knowledge of it is required for appointment to any government job. One out of every five schools teaches all subjects, even English, in Irish. The rest teach some classes in English and some in Irish but pay higher salaries to teachers who instruct in Irish.

Delegates to the Dail, the Irish parliament, often deliver their most sulphurous speeches in Irish, since the tongue is more suited to invective and more impressive with the home folks.

Many town names have been changed back to their ancient Irish names. Thus Kells becomes Ceanannus Mor, Navan becomes An Uaimh, and Newbridge, Droichead Nua. Dublin is still Dublin to most of its inhabitants, but the intellectual will insist on calling it Baile Atha Cliath.

One of the real linguistic glories of Ireland is to walk into a Chinese restaurant in Dublin and hear a patron sing out "A fhreastalaidhe bheir dhim roinnt egg foo young ma'se do thoile."

That's Irish for, "Waiter, bring us the egg foo yong."

The Irish language experiment is perhaps the most remarkable ever undertaken on such a vast scale. Less than 250 years ago, not one Irishman in 100 knew any English. And less than 50 years ago, only one out of seven knew any Irish.

In the intervening two centuries the language all but disappeared except from the remote, desolate districts of the west and south, under the constant onslaught of the British penal laws, invoked to bring the rebellious Irish to heel.

While the rest of Europe was basking in the intellectual glories of the "age of enlightenment," the Irish were forbidden under pain of fine or imprisonment, to speak, read or write the language that had been theirs for nearly 2,000 years. Possession of a book or pamphlet in Irish was a punishable offense.

Defiant as always, the Irish huddled behind hedges and stone walls, in barns and lofts, behind drawn shutters at the backs of shops and at the crossroads on moonless nights to learn in Irish from the "hedge scholars," itinerant schoolmasters with a price on their heads. Literature died in those dark days, but the spoken tongue survived, just barely.

Death kept it from dying. The "keeners," Ireland's professional mourners—most of them women—helped keep it alive at country wakes by wailing out the deeds of the deceased in colorful, sometimes caustic couplets.

But, oddly enough, the soul of the language fled even faster as the people moved closer to freedom under the various home rule measures of the 19th century. Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish liberator, was no booster of the Irish language, though he could speak it as well as English. Like many others, he associated the ancient tongue with poverty and backwardness, and was convinced the people would progress further and faster in English.

In the interests of getting ahead, which in the famine years often meant getting to America, many parents refused to teach their children Irish, preferring the tragic separation of a language barrier to the terrifying fosetherness of slow starvation.

By the time Ireland finally gained her independence, her sons had put a fine twist in the King's English. Irish writers dominated English literature in the first half of the 20th century: Shaw, Synge and O'Casey in drama, Yeats in Poetry, Joyce in the novel.

Having succeeded so spectacularly in English, why should the Irish want to salvage a language that has almost no contemporary literature, no scientific vocabulary and, except for a few scholars and hobbyists, no significant group of practitioners outside of the British Isles?

Is this another mad Irish flight from reality, another turning away from a dawn of progress to wander aimlessly in a Celtic twilight of myth and mysticism?

Shaw, for one, thought so. He said the language was revived "to amuse the Irish and confuse the English."

Ireland's answer is that the language is a treasured heritage and to abandon it would be intellectual and national suicide.

Any language reflects the passions of the people who speak it. Irish is admirably suited to that task.

"A grand language to swear or lament in," as the Irish put it.

The old Irish curse, "May the devil tear you from the hearse in front of all the funerals," sounds bad enough in English but in Irish you can practically hear the coffin thumping into the road.

The Irish alphabet, written in medieval Latin characters, has only 18 letters, but it can produce twice as many sounds as any other European language. By softenings and droppings, first consonants, words can be made to dissolve on the tongue and change in meaning as the speaker works up to a full head of steam.

Ireland today is still far from becoming an Irish-speaking nation. The decay of two centuries cannot be undone in one generation. Many children taking Irish in school still go home to parents who speak only English. English is still the language of the newspapers, magazines, movies and radio broadcasts, as it will be the language of television when radio Eireann sends out its first signal this summer.

But the revival goes on at an amazing pace, despite the drawbacks and some opposition. Objections that Irish has no modern literature and no scientific vocabulary are being met every day. Brendan Behan's "The Hostage," a stage hit in London and New York, was first presented in Irish under its original title "An Giall." Aerlinte Eireann—Irish Airlines—calmly entered the jet age by coining the word "scairdeitlean"—literally: pushed forward for its new passenger jet.

Irish may never replace English as the leading language of Ireland, but the Irish are determined that it shall last "go bunne an bhratha": till the day of doom.

Captain And Heroic Lady Is Interesting

ANNIE'S CAPTAIN. By Kathryn Hulme. Atlantic - Little, Brown. $5.

Sometimes books are like certain people. They grow on you. Annie Bolles and her captain, John Cavarly, were real people. Their story unfolds slowly and unpretentiously until finally it takes a good hold on you.

When you stop to think why, you realize it is because they have character, a commodity in rather short supply in many corners of the land these days. Not that Miss Hulme beats you over the head with this thought, or with a "message." It just comes naturally.

John Cavarly was a Connecticut Yankee who ran off to sea and became a clipper captain. Annie was a passenger on his first voyage as a skipper. He wooed and won her as they rounded the Cape and they were married in San Francisco. The book is the story of their lives, their family and the captain's career.

It was no small career. The captain lost his favorite clipper to a Confederate ironclad, and made the transition to steam vessels because he knew he had to. He became the best skipper in the Pacific Mail service and never lost a ship to shoals, storm or fire. He achieved that record because he had Yankee pride in the perfection of his skills and a stubborn Yankee insistence on the rules of the sea.

Annie was an heroic figure too in the way that seafarers' wives have to be, and you will understand why the captain's heart broke when she died.

Miss Hulme, who wrote "The Nun's Story," had good reason to bring this story to print and be proud of it. Annie and the captain were her grandparents.

About The Night That Bruno Hauptmann Died

EDITOR'S NOTE — Nothing would seem more unrelated, a stick of wood and a White House order to fight the great depression. But together they trapped one of the century's most hunted criminals. Now, 25 years later, a man who was there recounts the night that justice caught up with the man who kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
General News Editor
The Associated Press

There was a slight sneer on the ashen face of prisoner 17400. He was dressed in blue denim trousers, a white shirt and carpet slippers and was led by two guards.

The day, 25 years ago, was April 3, 1936. The time was 8:41 p.m. Prisoner 17400 was Bruno Richard Hauptmann, entering the death chamber at the state prison at Trenton, N.J., to die for the kidnap-murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., 19-month-old first born of an American hero.

For nearly 14 months, Hauptmann had been in a death house cell only a few paces away. Twice before the execution hour had been set, then voided by last minute reprieves. This night, Gov. Harold G. Hoffman had announced he had no further cause to issue one.

The nation's most famous kidnaping case was nearing its end

It began the night of March 1, 1932 when a nursemaid, Betty Gow, went at 10 o'clock to the second-floor nursery of the Lindbergh's new home at Hopewell, N.J., and found the baby gone.

Lindbergh, reading on the first floor, rushed upstairs to the bedroom of his wife, the former Anne Morrow.

"Anne, they have stolen our baby," he said.

He took a rifle from a closet and bareheaded, went out into the raw and windy night to search for his son. On May 12, a workman found the body in a shallow grave in the Sourland Hills five miles away. At the time Lindbergh was on a small yacht off the Virginia capes, hunting for "The Nelly" which he was told carried his boy but which was, in reality, a nonexistent phantom ship.

The chief clues were a crudely written note, which had been left on the window sill of the nursery, and a broken ladder found nearby. The note demanded $50,000 ransom.

Lindbergh paid the ransom the night of April 2 as he and Dr. John F. Condon, a schoolteacher acting as intermediary, kept a date in a Bronx cemetery in New York City after Condon received some notes.

"Not until you give me a receipt showing me where to get the baby," Condon answered. "He was crouching down under the hedge, and I said, 'Come on. Stand up like a man. I have the money here.' He gave me the note and I handed him the box."

The note said, "The boy is on the boat Nelly." The box contained $35,000 in gold notes, $15,000 in other paper currency.

The government distributed 250,000 circulars bearing the serial numbers of the money. The next year President Franklin D. Roosevelt called in all gold, a measure born of the depression, and set May 1, 1933 as a deadline for conversion of gold certificates.

The Lindbergh ransom gold notes were now hot. As they turned up here and there, locater pins were placed on the central map. The pins bunched in the Bronx.

On Sept. 15, 1934, a man bought five gallons of gas at Walter Lyle's Bronx filling station. He gave Lyle a $10 gold note. Lyle wrote the auto license number on the bill.

Four days later, Hauptmann was arrested. He was 35, a carpenter who lived in a simple frame and stucco house in the Bronx with his wife and 10-month-old son, born after the Lindbergh kidnaping. A German machine gunner in World War I, Hauptmann was arrested after the war for stealing—a theft his lawyers laid to economic conditions in postwar Germany. Out on parole, he stowed away to the United States.

At Hauptmann's trial in the Hunterdon County Courthouse in Flemington, N.J., Frank J. Wilson, a special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service, was asked by Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz, the chief prosecutor: "So far as you know, Mr. Wilson, Since the indictment of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder has there been one ransom bill turned up."

"No, sir."

Seven experts said the handwriting on 14 ransom notes was Hauptmann's.

The ladder, too, was traced to Hauptmann. Arthur Koehler, a wood technologist of the United States Forest Products Laboratory of Madison, Wis., for two days told an absorbing story of tracing the wood from a mill in McCormick, S.C.

"These two pieces (a rail of the ladder and a floorboard) from Hauptmann's attic at one time were one piece," he said. "They have been cut in two. The nail holes (in the rail) fit exactly in the four nail holes which were in these attic joists. Hauptmann's plane was used to plane the ladder."

Lindbergh, a witness, was asked about the voice he heard in the cemetery the night the ransom was paid.

"Have you heard that voice since?"

"I have."

"Whose voice was it?"

"It was the voice of Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

Hauptmann denied entering the nursery or kidnaping the child ("I wasn't there at all"). He denied writing the ransom notes and building the kidnap ladder.

"Certainly now," he said of the ladder. "I am a carpenter. It looks more like a moosic (music) instrument."

The money found in his garage, he explained, had been left in his possession by a friend named Isidor Fisch, who had returned to Germany in 1933 and died there in 1934.

"Isidor Fisch left with me a little box, a shoe box," he testified. "I put it in the broom closet, forgot about it. Months later I damaged the box when I was taking a broom out of the closet. I saw money—gold certificates. I . . . brought it down to the garage and hid it."

The jury of eight men and four woman found Hauptmann guilty of first - degree murder on Feb. 13, 1935. The sentence of death was pronounced immediately. He had been convicted largely on circumstantial evidence, but New Jersey's highest court said the evidence "pointed unerringly to guilt."

Gov. Hoffman stirred controversy by making a secret, nocturnal visit to Hauptmann in his death house cell. He expressed doubts about Hauptmann's guilt.

The controversy continued through the final day. In midafternoon Hauptmann's wife, Anna, who always had claimed he was innocent, swore out a complaint charging a Trenton lawyer with the kidnaping—a futile last-minute effort to find a way through the courts to stay the execution.

Wilentz told the prison warden, Mark O. Kimberling—the time was now 3:15—the execution could be stayed only by another gubernatorial reprieve, by the courts or by commutation from the Court of Pardons.

Kimberling went ahead with final preparations.

Mrs. Hauptmann sought solace in her Trenton hotel room, sobbing and praying in German.

At 7:34 p.m., Hoffman announced he had "no further power" to issue a reprieve.

The hour of execution had been set for 8 p.m. At that hour Kimberling still was in his office, awaiting any last-minute word. The execution could not proceed without him by law.

At 8:35, Kimberling entered the death chamber, where 55 witnesses and Robert H. Elliott, gaunt and gray-haired executioner, waited.

Earlier, Kimberling had warned newsmen not to take any pictures. Each man—even Kimberling—had been searched as he entered the room.

Now he repeated the warning. "My officers will keep close observation," he said. "No one is to put his hands in his pocket during the execution."

He turned to a guard.

"Call the center. Be sure they have the connection and see if there are any messages."

"No messages," the guard reported seconds later.

At 8:41, the death house door opened. Two clergymen, one of them the Rev. Mr. Matthiesen, entered, reading in German the ritual of the Lutheran Church. Hauptmann, led by the two guards, followed. Once he stole a glance at the witnesses before he was strapped in the chair.

Elliott spun a wheel three times. Six doctors stepped forward in turn, applying stethescopes. The sixth broke the silence: "This man is dead."

Kimberling, who had stood with bowed head throughout, not even looking up when the doctors examined Hauptmann, now looked at a little white clock that a guard had held aloft for 20 minutes.

"It is 8:47½" he said.

Sometimes books are like certain people. They grow on you. Annie Bolles and her captain, John Cavarly, were real people. Their story unfolds slowly and imperceptibly until finally it takes a good hold on you.

When you stop to think why, you realize it is because they have character, a commodity in rather short supply in many corners of the land these days. Not that Miss Hulme beats you over the head with this thought, or with a "message." It just comes naturally.

John Cavarly was a Connecticut Yankee who ran off to sea and became a clipper captain. Annie was a passenger on his first passage as a skipper. He wooed and won her as they rounded the Cape and they were married in San Francisco. The book is the story of their lives, their family and the captain's career.

It was no small career. The captain lost his favorite clipper to a Confederate ironclad, and made the transition to steam vessels because he knew he had to. He became the best skipper in the Pacific Mail service and never lost a ship to shoals, storm or fire. He achieved that record because he had Yankee pride in the perfection of his skills and a stubborn Yankee insistence on the rules of the sea.

Annie was an heroic figure too, in the way that seafarers' wives have to be, and you will understand why the captain's heart broke when she died.

Miss Hulme, who wrote "The Nun's Story," had good reason to bring this story to print and be proud of it. Annie and the captain were her grandparents.

Winesburg And Peyton Place In Big Texas

THE SONS AND DAUGHTERS. By Patricia Gallagher. Messner. $3.95.

Years ago Sherwood Anderson wrote a collection of stories called "Winesburg, Ohio," which caused quite a stir. It disclosed graphically how an outwardly placid and desolate little town was peopled by individuals who felt the scourges of worldly frustration, sex and human fate as vividly as their brothers and sisters of fancier surroundings.

This book is subtitled "A Novel of Texas Today," but it could have happened in Winesburg. And it has enough sex in it for Peyton Place.

It is about Jill Turner, daughter of a crude and insensitive mother, in a forsaken little town which also happens to contain Tommy Evans, the "misunderstood" son of a banker. Tommy is a ladies' man, and one of the ladies is Cerise Worth, a man - crazy female from a respectable family, who is doomed to go down to a pretty sordid end.

On the rebound from an affair with Cerise, Tommy seduced Jill, then leaves town. Eventually Jill's life reaches a fairly stable adjustment in the understanding protection of Harry Morgan, the town newspaperman.

There is a contemporary theme underlying this narrative, involving segregation and miscegenation, plus a fine bit of irony. Cerise's father, fusty old Judge Worth, has some notions of getting into politics until the day he berates Cerise for being civil on the street to a Negro who visits the town. Then the judge's wife lets him have it — the knowledge that she is an octaroon and their daughter not quite as white as he had assumed.

There are awkward passages in this first novel, and the narrative lags here and there, but the author comes pretty close to making you believe Jill has matured at the end, and that Tommy would have turned into the creature he finally is. Oddly enough, it is the pitiful Cerise whose tragedy strikes the clearest note of reality.

New Femme Fatale Always Is Fascinating

THE GOUFFE CASE. By Joachim Maass. Harper. $4.95.

For centuries one of the most fascinating figures in literature has been the lustful female, the femme fatale, who puts the curse of death on every man who has the misfortune to fall under her spell.

Almost invariably she has the innocent face of a child and the cold, inhuman heart of a witch.

So now you know Gabrielle Bompard, and she is no pale carbon copy of the fatally fascinating female. She is the real thing, in this long, wandering novel that begins with a trunk murder.

The setting for most of the story is Paris, shortly before the turn of the century. The victim is Alphonse Gouffe, a recently widowed moneylender and debt collector. The sleuth is Inspector Goron, head of the Paris Surete, and the action gets under way when Gouffe's brother - in - law, Jaquemar, reports him missing.

Goron has a dreadful time convincing the world that the body in the trunk is that of the missing man. He has an even more dreadful time when the jury convicts the pitiful Michel, but triumphantly acquits Gabrielle as his accomplice.

But the murder case, which has stirred France and most of the world, does not end with the verdict. Jaquemar, who is cut a bit differently and from different cloth than most men, has vowed to bring Gabrielle to her rightful end, whether in the courts or not.

Naturally, he has to succumb to her charms too, for otherwise Gabrielle would not be the perfect witch. But there is a catch to it, and Jaquemar is not quite the loser.

If this were a modern detective story, you would expect a clipped, stark style and scenes that resemble a modern living room. But because it deals with Paris of the 1890's, it is an ornate piling of detail on detail, a narrative that flows in a leisurely manner until it creates a massive effect.

The book is a best seller in Germany, is being published in several other European countries, and because of its material probably will find a good many readers here.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is growing each week. More than 500 new books were added during the month of March. They were books of great variety and will appeal to many different types of readers. "The Iron Horse" by Michael Bonner is a very good western and will be quite popular. In the past few years many of our best authors have devoted their efforts to writing books especially for teen - agers. This week there are a number of new books in this category. "A Touch of Magic" is the title of a book by Betty Cavanna, which appeals especially to girls. "The Comeback Guy" by Constance Frick is a sport story for boys. "Wilderness Island" by Gladys Malvern catches the spirit of the out of doors and will appeal to all young people. "The Scarlet Raider," by Joseph Icehnower has a historical background, which will make the story very popular. "Janine" by Robin McKown is another story especially for girls. "Secret beyond the Mountains" by Rita Ritchie is a mystery story which will delight boys. "The Mosquito Fleet" by Gordon D. Shirrefs will especially interest boys, because of its historical background. "Ballerine on Skates" is the title of Zoa Sherborne's new book, which deals with the world of ice skating. "Shadow on Devil's Peak" by Amelia Walden is another story of mystery and intrigue. "Joe Meek, Man of the West" by Doris Shannon Garst is a very interesting biography of one of the most colorful figures of our western history.

Reference books are the backbone of a library and the reference collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is a very splendid one. A new book, which should help many people is called "A Guide to U. S. Government Statistics" and tells where government statistics may be found. "The Bibliographic Index" is another book which leads one on to other material. It is a list of bibliographic Index" is another book which leads one on to other material. It is a list of bibliographies published from the years 1956-59.

A perfectly splendid new book is called "Realm of Measure" and was written by Isaac Asimov. This book contains information about weights and measures, which we have often had to search to find. It is written in such an interesting style that a person can enjoy reading it as well as searching for information. "Finishing Touches" is the title of a new book by Candy Jones, the professional model. She gives an excellent step - by - step program of tested professional guidance on fashion, beauty and feminine charm. This is an extremely helpful guide for the schoolgirl, the housewife, the secretary, or the aspiring model or amateur actress.

Books about far - away places are always popular with our readers. "Three passports to Adventure" by Hal and Halla Linker is an account of the varied and colorful adventures of one of the most widely known travelling families in America. The authors have a weekly television program called "Wonders of the World" and this book recounts some of the amazing adventures which have befallen them in remoter corners of the world. "Cocktails and Camels" by Jacqueline Carol is an account of the experience of a Lebanese girl and is full of warmth, humor and charm.

A very scholarly series has just been added to the library collection. It is called "Introduction to Oriental Civilization and is published by the Columbia University Press. There are three values in the Series" Sources of Chinese Tradition" by William Theodore DeBary, "Sources of Japanese Tradition" by Ryusake Tsunoda and "Sources of Indian Tradition" also by Mr. Debary. A new biography which should interest many readers was written by Robert Henriques. It is "Bearsted," a biography of Marcus Samuel, the first Viscount of Bearsted and the founder of the Shell Oil company.

Lots To See Lots To Read

An illustrated history of France. By Andre Maurois. Viking. $20.

This new edition of Maurois' well known history of France is a book as much to look at as to read. And that is saying a great deal.

As in the earlier editions, Maurois uses a lively narrative style to make the past come alive. The history reads like a good story as he traces the growth of the French nation from prehistoric times till the days of Charles deGaulle. Since the text has been cut severely it offers more of a survey than a detailed account.

The real merit of this book, however, lies in the beautiful pictures scattered liberally throughout. Chosen to follow the story closely, they range from photographs of ancient bronze statues to medieval tapestries to modern paintings. Enough of them are in rich color to make a truly handsome volume.

A serious lack is that of maps. Every history book ought to have at least one.

ALONG BROADWAY

Song Shows On Tap During April

NEW YORK (AP)—Song shows dominate Broadway's lineup of newcomers during April.

The schedule includes "The Happiest Girl in the World," April 3 at the Martin Beck, a fresh version of the Lysistrate legend set to Offenbach music; "Carnival," April 13 at the Imperial, with lilting Anna Maria Alberghetti as a gypsy charmer, and two revivals of notable past triumphs.

"Show Boat" inaugurates the City Center operetta season April 12 and is followed after a two-week run by "South Pacific."

Four current productions bow out—"Toys in the Attic," April 8; "The Importance of Being Oscar," April 9; "The Music Man" and "Under the Yum-Yum Tree," April 15.

Following is an alphabetical digest of the present play list, showing title, theater, players and topic. Order tickets well in advance for shows with "X" preceding title. Others are generally available, with weekend performances most in demand.

"A Taste of Honey," Booth—Joan Plowright, Angela Lansbury; wry, raw romance in English slums. Available.

"Advise and Consent," Cort, but moves April 17 to Royale—Chester Morris, Henry Jones, Ed Begley, Kevin McCarthy; behind-the-scenes with U.S. senators in melodramatic conflict.

"An Evening with Nichols and May," Golden—The TV comics in assorted sketches of people and foibles.

"Big Fish, Little Fish," Anta—Jason Robards Jr., Hume Cronyn; a stagnant assortment of humans stirs laughter in pursuit of security.

"Bye Bye Birdie," Shubert — Gretchen Wyler and Gene Rayburn take lead roles April 9; fast-moving musical spoof of teenagers and rock 'n' roll.

X—"Camelot," Majestic—Richard Burton, Julie Andrews; King Arthur and his court, set to music by Lerner and Loewe.

"Come Blow Your Horn," Atkinson—Hal March; laughable shenanigans of a bachelor and his young brother in rebellion against pop.

RUNNING THE SCALES

MacLeish Drama Carries Impact

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

The many trials of Job, paraphrased into the modern drama "J. B." by Archibald MacLeish, was the leading attraction of the week in the "live performance" field in northeast Louisiana.

The play was presented Tuesday on the La. Tech Concert Series in Ruston. Outstanding acting was noted in the part of the satanical Nickle, played by John Carradine; the title role of J. B., by Sheppard Strudwick, and the wife of J. B., played by Sarah Olive Dunbar.

Young musicians of northeast Louisiana will be featured in a concert by the Twin City Symphony Orchestra set for April 30.

The event will be held at Sherrouse school auditorium and five students will perform solo piano concertos with the orchestra. Rex Morris of Rayville will play Mozart's Concerto in E Flat; Donna Gartman, Columbia, the Concerto in A Major (K-488) by the same composer; Marie Nelsen, Monroe, Weber's "Konzertstueck," and Mary Lou Holly, Oak Grove, will perform the Piano Concerto in G Minor by Saint Saens.

Proceeds from the concert will go into a scholarship fund for the string program at Northeast State College.

TOWN

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, sponsored by the Junior Charity League and the Musical Coterie, will perform at the southern regional meeting of the Music Educators' National Conference at Ashville, North Carolina on April 21.

The group, trained in a special program in the Monroe city schools, was invited to appear at the regional meeting by virtue of its superior rating at the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960. A silver tea in honor of the orchestra members will be held at the home of Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn on Thursday.

AND COUNTRY

Popularized country music of the Bible Belt has found a headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee. This highly modified form of folk music has turned Tin Pan Alley into a turnpike linking the major record companies with the Tennessee city.

It takes a strong force to pull part of the cultural monopoly out of New York and that force is money.

Apparently country music stocks have soared sufficiently to cause the "Mohammads" of the disc business to go to the "mountains" of Tennessee since the mountain music wouldn't come to them.

Nashville is and has been for many years the undisputed center of country music. As home of the Grand Ole Opry, it has brought music via radio into American homes for the past 35 years.

But the Opry — which one musician called the "Carnegie Hall of the Hillbilly" — is only one phase of the music business in Nashville. Recordings are being made there on an increasing scale and sheet music is also being published.

Including "country" versions of popular ballads, hill tunes sung by so-called "pop" singers, religious songs, unknown talent "finds" and imitation folk music, it is estimated that 35 to 45 per cent of the hit single recordings were made in Nashville during 1960.

The Grand Ole Opry, a review of songs and acts by star hillbilly singers and jokesters, is no opera. Writer Richard Marek has described its effect as one of "controlled chaos."

But it is grand. Since the first performance in 1925, there have been 1800 subsequent ones. All have been held in Ryman Auditorium, originally a tabernacle, which has a seating capacity of 3,482.

The Opry lasts four and a half hours, which compares in length to a Wagnerian blowout at Bayreuth. Again, this comparison is in length only, not in the type of music produced at either center.

As for quality, it is apt to vary. But Bluegrass musicians Flatt and Scruggs claim their variety of the hillbilly art is difficult and cannot be learned other than by being born to it. And Scruggs' virtuosity on the banjo is pretty convincing support to such a claim.

In the more rarified air of the concert hall, composer Igor Stravinsky nudged his drowsy companion and said, "Wake up, you are snoring." "But I never snore, maestro," was the reply. "Then what else wakened me?" asked the composer.

Search Party Finds Missing Boy's Body

WINTHROP, Iowa (AP) — The body of Jimmy Franck was found on his parents' farm Saturday by searchers assembled for an all-out effort to solve the month-old mystery of his disappearance.

A smoke bomb set off by the search party less than an hour after it took to the fields, ended for Jimmie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Franck, both the suspense of waiting for definite word about their son's fate—and the slim hope that he had somehow survived.

Authorities said it appeared that Jimmie had frozen to death and there was no evidence of foul play.

Jimmie, 4, disappeared on March 7 from the yard of the Franck farm, a few hours before one of the winter's heaviest snowstorms covered the land with drifts up to three or four feet deep.

Hundreds of northeast Iowa residents had battled the snow and mud intermittently ever since, in vain efforts to find some clue to Jimmie's fate.

The body was found in a small ravine of a plowed field about 400 yards west of the farm yard where Jimmie had been playing when he last was seen alive.

Jimmie's overshoes lay about five feet from the body. Dr. John F. Loeck of Independence, Buchanan County medical examiner, theorized that Jimmie became dismayed by a sudden sleet storm that preceded the snow and lay down to protect his face from the ice particles.

"The boy probably became exhausted, then went to sleep and froze to death," Dr. Loeck said. "There was no evidence that he made any sort of struggle."

Soviet Plan Of Education Poses Threat

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Dr. Vannever Bush, one of the world's leading scientists, says the free world must reject the Soviet educational system because it is aimed "at service of the state, nothing else."

Bush, the nation's top scientist during World War II and now honorary chairman of the board of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, criticized the Soviet educational system in an essay written for the 100th anniversary of MIT.

"We look at this powerful educational system and we reject it instinctively," he said. "But why do we do so? It works. In fact, it works so well that it poses a threat we cannot ignore.

"Our principal revulsion is due to the lack of freedom in the Russian system. We believe that the accomplishments of free men will always outshine those of regimented minds in the furtherance of the true mission of man on the earth, however, we may conceive of this beyond the primitive intent for survival.

"We reject the Russian system of education because of its inhumane use of men as pawns in a brutal game," he wrote.

About 150 scientists, educators and scholars from 31 countries—including some from behind the Iron Curtain, are scheduled for a week-long series of debates and discussions of scientific and engineering education, the interactions of science and engineering with society and the applications of science and engineering for international relations.

The observance begins Monday and ends Saturday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Harold Macmillan, British prime minister, are scheduled to deliver addresses Friday.

Bush wrote that the challenge facing education in the democracies is how to equip men and women to realize their highest levels of accomplishment.

Two major requisites, he said, are opportunity, without regard "to race or creed or financial status," and "respect for intellectual achievement of every sort."

His essay, "Health, Wisdom and Happiness," charges the United States national science program "tends to emphasize glamor rather than depth and true relevance to our future needs."

He stressed that the overriding aim of democratic education should be toward producing an informed, intelligent citizenry.

40,000 College Students Flock To Resort City

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Room-hunting collegians lined up in beachfront hotel lobbies Saturday and police estimated the Easter weekend climax to this resort city's annual college set capers had lured some 40,000 youngsters here.

Cloudy but clearing weather greeted the guys and girls pouring in from schools around the country for a final vacation fling before heading back to the classroom.

Police said the youngsters for the most part were keeping orderly after riots earlier in the week touched off by an after-dark closedown of popular seaside beaches. A half-mile strip of beach was opened Friday night, however, for sunrise parties and cookouts.

About 400 students were arrested in the demonstrations Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, but most were released with minor fines.

A few firecrackers popped Friday night and police reported seven students were arrested. Five of them were dismissed Saturday morning, a sixth paid a $15 fine and another was awaiting arraignment.

Flood Threat Easing For Mississippi

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The weatherman has forecast dry and fair skies for Mississippi over the weekend, ending the immediate threat of further damaging floods.

Several rivers in south Mississippi continued to rise from present runoff, but will fall far short of the high level reached five weeks ago.

The Leaf River in Hattiesburg was expected to crest Sunday at 27-28 feet, well over the 22-foot flood stage.

Between 300 and 400 persons were homeless Saturday as the overflow water spread out over low lying areas. The residents knew what to expect and came out well stocked in supplies.

The crest of the Pearl River is not expected in Jackson until Friday when it will reach 31 feet, 13 feet above flood stage.

The pearl at Monticello crested at 23.5 feet Saturday and was expected to peak at Columbia Friday at a 24.6 feet mark.

The Leaf River at Beaumont stood at 26.5 feet Saturday and was expected to rise to 29-31 feet Monday.

The Chickasawhay River crested at Enterprise at 33 feet Saturday. Shebuta 36 feet Friday and Waynesboro 39 feet at Saturday midnight.

The highway patrol said all roads in Mississippi were open Saturday.

Who says you won't get POLIO?

Polio struck last summer...and the summer before...and it will strike again this summer. There is no reason why you can't get it—unless you have had vaccine shots.

The groups who appear to be particularly susceptible are young parents and babies. And now is the time to do something about it. Don't wait another day to start the series of shots. It only takes minutes for protection.

Call your own physician or the local health department for information.

No one who needs this protection should go without it!

Don't take a chance—take your POLIO shots

Cancer Crusade Kick-Off Slated

Ouachita's annual Cancer Crusade will be staged here this month with drives in the business sections kicking off the campaign Tuesday.

Drives in the business sections of Monroe and West Monroe, plus the outlying areas, will be conducted Tuesday.

"This is in conjunction with the Cancer Crusade across the country held annually during the month of April," said Ouachita chairman Sam Hanna.

House-to-house campaigns will be conducted April 17 in Monroe, West Monroe and communities throughout the parish.

At Sterlington, the campaign, headed by chairman Charles Crennan and co-chairman Stanley Burkett, will be held April 15 conducted by the Sterlington High School Glee Club.

"The Ouachita Chapter of the American Cancer Society takes this opportunity to encourage the people to read the articles and telecasts that will appear in the parish this month," Hanna said.

In Monroe, businessman Wayne Woods is chairman of the business section while M. D. Tarver, commercial manager of the Utilities Commission, is co-chairman.

Woods and Tarver will open their drive early Tuesday morning at a breakfast at the Saddle & Spur. Volunteer workers will meet with them there.

The West Monroe business section campaign also will be conducted on Tuesday. Harvey McDonald, West Monroe banker, is chairman while Sonny Martin, a West Monroe businessman, is co-chairman.

Following the business drives, a canvas attempting to cover every home in Ouachita Parish will come on April 17.

Mrs. Fred Beckett is serving as chairman of the Monroe residential section for the second consecutive year. In West Monroe, Mrs. Wayne Tanner is chairman.

"We are happy this year that we have extended our drive to want to call on the people there," Hanna said.

Student Reports Flogging After Mixed Meeting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A young ministerial student Saturday said he has reported to the FBI that he was abducted and beaten at Tuscaloosa, Ala., following a racially mixed meeting at a church.

James David Fackler, 24, said the meeting was held Feb. 5, a cross was burned near his residence Feb. 7, and he was beaten the night of March 16.

He left Tuscaloosa the day after the beating, he said, because his attacker warned him "to get out of town."

At Tuscaloosa, circuit solicitor Fred Nicol and police chief W. C. Tompkins Jr., said they were investigating the incident. Nicol said the "matter has been called to the attention of the grand jury."

The FBI at Birmingham, Ala., said it had no comment to make other than to say it had forwarded its information to the justice department in Washington.

Fackler, whose wife is expecting their first baby, is from Toledo, Ohio, and a student at Concordia Lutheran Seminary at St. Louis. He was interning at University Lutheran Church at Tuscaloosa.

Five Escapees Tell Of Cuba Discontent

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five young Cubans arrived here Saturday after escaping their homeland in a 16-foot, outboard motor-powered boat and told of widespread discontent with Premier Fidel Castro's regime.

U.S. Immigration authorities questioned the five who were picked up Wednesday about 400 miles south of here by the Winchester, a bauxite cargo ship.

Jesus Cruz Miranda, 20, of Mariano, Cuba, spokesman for the group, said the five narrowly missed capture by the Cuban Coast Guard shortly after their departure "for a fishing trip."

Speaking both in Spanish and in broken English, Miranda identified his companions as Rasciel Hernandez, 18; his brother, Luis Hernandez, 21; Jose Luis Cuibelo, 23; and Osvaldo Realdo, 21.

Miranda is a former employe of a government sanitation agency. He said the others were truck drivers for a Mariano warehouse company. All are single and have relatives living in the United States, Miranda said.

They said they had come to the United States to find work. Miranda said work was scarce in Cuba today and salaries lower than before the revolution.

"I was making $100 a month before Castro. The same job now pays $35," he said.

Cuibelo said he found many persons disenchanted with Castro on trips through the country as a truck driver.

Miranda said all movies shown in Cuba are either from Russia or China. Beaches are filled with Russian tourists, trucks from Czechoslovakia and Russia are everywhere and Communist-bloc teachers have replaced Cubans as instructors in Havana universities.

Miranda said he wants to go to Los Angeles, where his mother and five brothers live. Realdo plans to go to Miami, where his girl friend is. The Hernandez brothers hope to go to live with their uncles and a sister in Los Angeles. Cuibelo plans to stay with a brother in New York.

Meeting Scheduled

The El Miro Temple No. 167 of Knights of Kharassans will hold a meeting 8 p.m. Monday in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St., it was announced yesterday by Royal Vizer Frank Parker.

Searchers Find Bodies Of Jet Crash Victims

DENTON, N. C. (UPI)—Search parties Saturday found the bodies of two Air Force captains and authorities identified the body of still another crewman who perished in the crash of a B52 jet bomber Thursday night.

If the bodies of two more missing men are found in the wreckage of the main portion of the multi-million dollar bomber buried in a huge crater of molten, twisted metal, the death toll will be six.

Four bodies had been recovered and identified.

The bodies found Saturday were those of:

Capt. W. W. Farmer, 29, of Wilson, N. C., the pilot, survived by his wife and two children.

Air Force authorities identified a body found earlier as that of Staff Sgt. J. H. Fults, 29, of Tracy City, Tenn., survived by his wife and two children.

The body of the aircraft commander, Capt. W. B. McMullen, 37, of Bad Axe, Mich., survived by his wife and three children, was found shortly after the intercontinental bomber plunged to earth from 32,000 feet and exploded Thursday night.

Still missing but believed also dead were:

FOR SUPER HIGHWAYS

State Awaiting More U.S. Cash

(Eds. note: Five years have passed since the federal government launched its multi-billion-dollar program to weave superhighways over the nation by paying nine-tenths of the cost. The following article gives a progress report on Louisiana's part of the construction, originally planned for completion about 1972.)

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana highway officials Saturday looked forward to approval of another $53 million in federal funds next fiscal year to boost the state's billion - dollar interstate construction program.

That's the sum the state hopes to get in 90 per cent matching funds if President John F. Kennedy's program is approved.

Kennedy wants to return the nationwide program to the originally-planned $2 billion a year spending timetable over a 16-year period. Federal budget problems had caused some setback.

A study of progress in the program showed Louisiana has spent $216 million on the interstate highway network and has 42 miles completed and in use, 105 miles under construction, and 219 miles in the engineering and right of way purchase stages.

This gives the state 324 miles either completed, under construction or being engineered. The full billion - dollar program, spread from 1956 to 1972, now is expected to produce some 686 miles of super-highways for Louisiana in five different routes.

The state highway department said Louisiana is ready to move ahead with the building program whenever the federal government provides its funds. The state has always been ready with its 10 per cent financing.

Louisiana plans to spend its billion for superhighways this way: $300 million for materials and supplies; $220 million for labor; $200 million for right of way; $145 million for equipment expenses; and $135 million for contractors' overhead and profit.

One interstate route will cut across north Louisiana, and another across south Louisiana, with an alternate east of Baton Rouge going north of Lake Pontchartrain to a point near the Mississippi border.

The main route goes by way of New Orleans and meets the alternate near Slidell. Northward routes will begin near the eastern and western ends of Lake Pontchartrain and go northward to the Mississippi line.

VOTE ON TUESDAY

Texas To Launch Election Season

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A free-for-all in Texas Tuesday opens an off-year election season in which both political parties will try to strengthen themselves for the national elections of 1962 and 1964.

Most elections this year are at the city level. There will be some 700 municipal elections to install mayors and other officials in city halls.

Texas has a field of 65 contestants in its special election Tuesday to fill the Senate seat formerly held by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. If no candidate polls a majority of the vote, a runoff must be held within 30 days between the two leaders.

Because a single Republican is among the major contenders, the GOP is showing cautious hope of electing a Republican for the first time since Reconstruction years.

The GOP candidate is John G. Tower. He polled more than 900,000 votes against Johnson last November. The field of Democratic candidates runs across the entire spectrum from liberal to conservative. One of the leading conservative contenders is Sen. William A. Blakley, who now holds the seat by appointment.

Two special elections also will be held this spring to fill vacancies in the House. One will be in the 16th congressional district of Pennsylvania this month to elect a successor to the late Rep. Walter M. Mumma, a Republican who held the seat for 10 years.

The other will be held in the second Arizona district May 5 to fill the seat from which Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall retired to enter the cabinet.

The most-watched state political contest this year will be held next November in New Jersey, where Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner will retire after his second term. The nominees for governor will be chosen in primaries April 18.

James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration, is bidding for the Republican nomination against state Sens. Walter Jones and Wayne Dumont. Richard Hughes, backed by the state Democratic organization, is favored to win the Democratic primary.

Virginia also will elect a governor this year. A Democratic primary contest is promised between friends and foes of Sen. Harry F. Byrd's state organization.

First Lady's Easter Garb Is Pale Blue

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Typically Jacqueline Kennedy is the costume the first lady picked to wear on Easter Sunday.

It is her famous pillbox hat in pale blue straw and a matching pale blue silk Shantung two piece dress, with straight skirt and collarless overblouse.

The dress, which she planned to wear for an appearance at church in the tropical holiday area, has three-quarter length sleeves. This is a variation from her usual sleeveless dresses. With it, the first lady plans to wear beige shoes, white gloves with a matching beige handbag.

Mrs. Kennedy turned down an invitation to attend the Palm Beach Easter parade on fashionable Worth Avenue, but she was the cent re ofahfsinlrhboale-yl the center of fashion all by herself.

She had been invited to join Palm Beach celebrities for the parade and Easter egg hunt in her honor along palm-lined and the lily-decorated avenue.

But Mrs. Kennedy declined, explaining Easter Sunday was to be a family day for the President and his kin.

Kennedy Tells Of Search For Old Furniture

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told Saturday night of the search for old White House furniture which he feels would make the executive mansion "even more significant as a national memorial."

"One of the problems in the White House is that really there are very few pieces of furniture that have any tie with the past," Kennedy said. "We do have Lincoln's bed, but nearly everything else is really modern or reproductions.

"We don't have Theodore Roosevelt's chair. We don't have Polk's desk. We don't have the same sort of mementos of the past that, for example, they have at Mount Vernon. . .

"Mrs. Kennedy is attempting to see if we can collect that part of the White House past and make the White House even more significant as a national memorial."

FLOODS PLAGUE AFRICA

BEAUFORT WEST, South Africa (AP)—Floods plaguing central and northwest areas of Cape Province began receding Saturday. But there has been heavy damage to farms, roads and rail lines and much disruption of communication. Several dams still threaten to burst. Repairs are expected to take weeks, and the government has opened several relief offices.

Search Parties Fail To Locate Missing Plane

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Search parties failed Saturday to find any trace of a private plane missing for two days with three clergymen aboard.

But the hunt for the single engine craft continued in north Mississippi after some officials speculated it may have gone down in bad weather near Water Valley, some 20 miles south of Oxford.

The Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Air Patrol units from Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana took part in the search.

A pilot was scheduled to fly the plane's route, Meridian, Miss., to Paragould, Ark., in hopes a trace of the craft might be found along the 300-mile route.

The plane was last heard from at 6:32 p.m. Thursday evening by FAA officials at Greenwood, about 100 miles southwest of here. It took off from Meridian at about 5 p.m. and 30 minutes later reported it had flown into a thunderstorm at 7,000 feet.

Aboard were the Rev. Robert Mapes of Fort Wayne, Ind., the pilot; C. C. Kirby of Troy, Mich., and M. B. Ellis of Detroit.

Petroleum Tax Revenue Drops In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi Motor Vehicle Comptroller said Saturday that petroleum tax collections during March dropped $88,912 from the same month in 1960.

Comptroller Paul Gaither said the collections totaled $3,334,091 last month. He said, however, the collections for the first quarter were $136,876 higher than for the first three months of 1960.

March collections included taxes on gasoline $2,971,340, liquefied gas $17,022, fuel other than gasoline $231,991, inspection fees $3,199, oil $36,002, and coast seawall tax $74,536.

U.N. SOLDIER KILLED

GAZA (AP)—Lars Georg Sjoeberg, a Swedish soldier serving with the U.N. Emergency Force in the Middle East, was killed Friday on the armistice demarcation line by unknown assailants, a U.N. spokesman said Saturday.

VOTE ON TUESDAY

Texas To Launch Election Season

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A free-for-all in Texas Tuesday opens an off-year election season in which both political parties will try to strengthen themselves for the national elections of 1962 and 1964.

Most elections this year are at the city level. There will be some 700 municipal elections to install mayors and other officials in city halls.

Texas has a field of 65 contestants in its special election Tuesday to fill the Senate seat formerly held by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. If no candidate polls a majority of the vote, a runoff must be held within 30 days between the two leaders.

Because a single Republican is among the major contenders, the GOP is showing cautious hope of electing a Republican for the first time since Reconstruction years.

The GOP candidate is John G. Tower. He polled more than 900,000 votes against Johnson last November. The field of Democratic candidates runs across the entire spectrum from liberal to conservative. One of the leading conservative contenders is Sen. William A. Blakley, who now holds the seat by appointment.

Two special elections also will be held this spring to fill vacancies in the House. One will be in the 16th congressional district of Pennsylvania this month to elect a successor to the late Rep. Walter M. Mumma, a Republican who held the seat for 10 years.

The other will be held in the second Arizona district May 5 to fill the seat from which Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall retired to enter the cabinet.

The most-watched state political contest this year will be held next November in New Jersey, where Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner will retire after his second term. The nominees for governor will be chosen in primaries April 18.

James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration, is bidding for the Republican nomination against state Sens. Walter Jones and Wayne Dumont. Richard Hughes, backed by the state Democratic organization, is favored to win the Democratic primary.

Virginia also will elect a governor this year. A Democratic primary contest is promised between friends and foes of Sen. Harry F. Byrd's state organization.

First Lady's Easter Garb Is Pale Blue

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Typically Jacqueline Kennedy is the costume the first lady picked to wear on Easter Sunday.

It is her famous pillbox hat in pale blue straw and a matching pale blue silk Shantung two piece dress, with straight skirt and collarless overblouse.

The dress, which she planned to wear for an appearance at church in the tropical holiday area, has three-quarter length sleeves. This is a variation from her usual sleeveless dresses. With it, the first lady plans to wear beige shoes, white gloves with a matching beige handbag.

Mrs. Kennedy turned down an invitation to attend the Palm Beach Easter parade on fashionable Worth Avenue, but she was the cent re ofahfsinlrhboale-y the center of fashion all by herself.

She had been invited to join Palm Beach celebrities for the parade and Easter egg hunt in her honor along palm-lined and the lily-decorated avenue.

But Mrs. Kennedy declined, explaining Easter Sunday was to be a family day for the President and his kin.

Kennedy Tells Of Search For Old Furniture

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told Saturday night of the search for old White House furniture which he feels would make the executive mansion "even more significant as a national memorial."

"One of the problems in the White House is that really there are very few pieces of furniture that have any tie with the past," Kennedy said. "We do have Lincoln's bed, but nearly everything else is really modern or reproductions.

"We don't have Theodore Roosevelt's chair. We don't have Polk's desk. We don't have the same sort of mementos of the past that, for example, they have at Mount Vernon. . .

"Mrs. Kennedy is attempting to see if we can collect that part of the White House past and make the White House even more significant as a national memorial."

FLOODS PLAGUE AFRICA

BEAUFORT WEST, South Africa (AP)—Floods plaguing central and northwest areas of Cape Province began receding Saturday. But there has been heavy damage to farms, roads and rail lines and much disruption of communication. Several dams still threaten to burst. Repairs are expected to take weeks, and the government has opened several relief offices.

Search Parties Fail To Locate Missing Plane

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Search parties failed Saturday to find any trace of a private plane missing for two days with three clergymen aboard.

But the hunt for the single engine craft continued in north Mississippi after some officials speculated it may have gone down in bad weather near Water Valley, some 20 miles south of Oxford.

The Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Air Patrol units from Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana took part in the search.

A pilot was scheduled to fly the plane's route, Meridian, Miss., to Paragould, Ark., in hopes a trace of the craft might be found along the 300-mile route.

The plane was last heard from at 6:32 p.m. Thursday evening by FAA officials at Greenwood, about 100 miles southwest of here. It took off from Meridian at about 5 p.m. and 80 minutes later reported it had flown into a thunderstorm at 7,000 feet.

Aboard were the Rev. Robert Mapes of Fort Wayne, Ind., the pilot; C. C. Kirby of Troy, Mich., and M. B. Ellis of Detroit.

Petroleum Tax Revenue Drops In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi Motor Vehicle Comptroller said Saturday that petroleum tax collections during March dropped $88,912 from the same month in 1960.

Comptroller Paul Gaither said the collections totaled $3,334,091 last month. He said, however, the collections for the first quarter were $136,876 higher than for the first three months of 1960.

March collections included taxes on gasoline $2,971,340, liquefied gas $17,022, fuel other than gasoline $231,991, inspection fees $3,199, oil $36,002, and coast seawall tax $74,536.

U.N. SOLDIER KILLED

GAZA (AP)—Lars Georg Sjoeberg, a Swedish soldier serving with the U.N. Emergency Force in the Middle East, was killed Friday on the armistice demarcation line by unknown assailants, a U.N. spokesman said Saturday.

Business Recovery In Making

Fuel Supply At Seasonal Peak In U.S.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Refiners have a record supply of gasoline on hand for the start of the spring-summer heavy demand season.

Gasoline inventories traditionally reach an annual peak about April 1. They drop to a low point about Labor Day as refiners start emphasizing production of winter heating fuel oil.

Refiners at the end of last week were holding a record 226,663,000 barrels of gasoline in storage. The previous all-time high was 215,967,000 barrels the week ending March 25, 1960.

The minor 1961 increase over the 1960 peak reflects the cautious attitude refiners used in preparing for the current heavy demand season.

DEMAND

Demand in 1960 dictated the cautious approach.

Last year's demand totaled a record 1,547,300,000 barrels but the 6½ per cent gain over 1959 was disappointing. A return to a rate of four per cent, the post war average had been forecast.

Most forecasts on 1961 demand indicate the industry will have difficulty "catching up" last year's 6½ per cent gain.

Industry spokesmen blame the lower demand growth rate on a combination of two factors: high gasoline taxes and increased popularity of compact automobiles.

Frank Porter, president of the American Petroleum Institute (API), said recently nearly one-third of all new car sales currently are of the smaller economy type.

"This ratio is expected to increase in coming years as motorists seek to escape some of the impact of burdensome taxes on gasoline," he said.

John F. Swearingen, president of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), told the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington two weeks ago the heaviest factor affecting motorists is the smaller size car, is operating economy.

"The sharp trend toward small imported foreign cars and, more recently, to the domestic 'compacts', provide a source of the motorist's reaction to the inverse climb in taxes on motor fuel," Swearingen said while appearing as a witness for API and several other oil groups.

Swearingen said the trend toward compacts the last 10 years has been stimulated by rising gasoline taxes instead of the price of gasoline. He said the national average retail price, excluding taxes, increased 4% per cent between 1950 and 1960 while combined state and federal tax rates increased 52 per cent.

Last year's unexpected slump in demand growth made the job of preparing for the 1961 spring summer season easier.

The 1960 low point was delayed until the week ending Nov. 11. The 133,062,000 barrels on hand at that time gave the industry a record storage level for early winter. The 1959 low point involved only 175,300,000 barrels.

Mixed Signs Are Seen During Week

NEW YORK (AP) — As the U.S. economy heads into the spring season, there was a confident note that a business recovery is in the making—but how big and how soon is the question.

Good and bad signs mingled in the pre-Easter week.

The Kennedy administration continued to push forward with a spending program, including one for $1.9 billion in budget increases for a build up in long-range missile strength.

The President signed legislation which will speed nearly $1 billion in unemployment funds to jobless workers, some of whom will begin getting the new payments as soon as April 10.

At the same time, the Budget Bureau estimated a deficit of $2.8 billion in the federal budget beginning July 1, whereas President Eisenhower's budget proposals showed a surplus of $1.47 billion.

DEVELOPMENT

These were among Washington developments which foreshadowed more money being pumped into the economy in the months and years ahead.

The drain on the nation's gold stockpile, which alarmed many bankers and economists in 1960, has been halted, at least temporarily. The latest week was the fifth straight without a loss.

One of the brightest signs was a climb in weekly steel production to its highest level since last June. Reports were that orders for delivery of steel in April are running ahead of those in March. Plans for bigger auto production were said to be an important factor.

From the auto industry itself came reports that March production totals will exceed February's. Nevertheless, the week brought an end to the industry's slowest first-quarter production since 1952.

On the darker side came news from the machine-tool industry, a basic indicator of industry's plans for expansion, that orders for machine tools declined sharply in February. A spokesman for the industry called for federal action to revive the business. He said that machine tool industries in practically all foreign countries are working at full capacity, with order backlogs of 15 months to two years, while the U.S. industry is working at only 60 per cent of capacity and has only a small order backlog.

Since a real boom in the economy is always accompanied by a rise in spending for capital goods such as machine tools, the news about machine tools tended to dampen some of the optimism.

At the retail level, department store sales topped 1960 levels for the sixth straight week. But since Easter comes two weeks earlier this year, the pre-Easter shopping binge would be enough to account for the advantage over the like calendar week a year ago. Merchants were disappointed that the gain was only moderate and did not match the Palm Sunday week of a year ago, which was a couple of weeks later on the calendar.

This mingling of black and white was regarded as typical for any recession-recovery year such as 1961.

Confidence in recovery was bolstered, however, by news that manufacturers' new orders and sales both rose in February after long declines. At the same time, manufacturers reduced their inventories by less than $100 million in the month, about the same as in January, reintorcing the theory that there is a flattening-out in the recession tendency to "live off inventories."

These facts caused government economists to regard the situation as typical of a turning point in business activity. Both President Kennedy and his economic advisers agree there is some improvement in the economy, but they warn that the recovery is likely to be slow.

Budget Director David E. Bell told the house-senate economic committee that the economy should start moving upward in the April-June quarter. Nevertheless Bell anticipated that the unemployment rate would still exceed six per cent by the end of the year, a figure which he regards as far from satisfactory.

The stock market, which theoretically forecasts business upturns some six months in advance, posted volume records for both March and the first quarter, amid generally rising prices. Trading in the four-day, pre-Easter week showed a mixed, slightly higher price trend.

T. F. Patton, president of Republic Steel Corp., the country's third largest, also predicted a business upturn "beginning probably during the second quarter."

The sensitive construction industry reported a rebound in heavy construction contracts. Standard & Poor's Corp., a leading investment advisory service, said: "Business now seems to be on the threshold of the upturn the stock market has been anticipating for some months."

Briefly over the business scene: Women's skirts, which usually drop lower in bad times and become shorter in good times, are now shorter....William L. Carey, former Columbia professor, succeeds Edward N. Gadsby as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission....A new daily financial paper that costs $1 a copy began publication in Wall Street this week.

Market's First Quarter Is Big

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market scored a substantial gain in 1961's busy first quarter, which ended this week.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased an estimated $37 billion, based on the advance in the Associated Press 60-stock average.

Since the beginning of the year, the AP average climbed 22.60 to 243.50. The Dow Jones industrial average moved up 60.74 to 676.63, within striking distance of its all-time high of 685.47 reached Jan. 5, 1960.

The advance was accompanied by spectacularly heavy trading.

In the first quarter 293,943,967 shares changed hands. This was the busiest first quarter in the exchange's history and the heaviest trading for any three months since the fourth quarter of 1929, when the turnover was 366,330,947.

The March total of 113,054,336 was the highest in history for the month and the biggest monthly volume since 120,271,243 shares changed hands in July 1933.

The volume kept up its fast pace this week with a total of 19,730,270 shares for four days but the advance in prices was light. The market was closed on Good Friday. The previous week's total was 25,934,035.

The AP average rose for the third straight week, adding .40 at 243.50. The Dow Jones industrial average was up 4.15 to 676.63.

Of 1,433 issues traded, 744 advanced and 530 declined.

The most active issue on the American Stock Exchange was Sapphire Petroleum off 1-16 at ⅝, on 599,500 shares.

Bond prices leveled off in late March after many had climbed to two-year highs for the second straight month.

Most U.S. government bonds ended with net losses of ¼ to more than a full point compared with gains reaching three points the previous month.

Corporates ended just about where they started, based on the Associated Press average of 60 selected issues. In February this index managed its best advance since August. March changes were limited to under three-quarters of an index point plus and minus.

For the week corporate volume on the exchange dropped to $24,831,000 par value from $39,187,500 the previous week. The daily average was $5,207,750 compared with $7,837,500.

Wildcat Well In Mississippi Being Tested

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Argo Oil Corp. and Chartor Oil Co. said production tests were underway at the Burkley-Phillips unit No. 1, sec. 14-10n-2w, a Jefferson County wildcat.

The well tested 181 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,200-05 feet in initial run and flowed 42 barrels per day later with high gas content.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. has set three strings of tubing in an effort to complete the Thompson No. 2, sec. 3-9n-1w, as a triple completion in the Bentonia oil field of Yazoo County.

The well was drilled to 10,676 feet. Operators were expected to attempt completion in the Paluxy and Hosston zones. The well is a direct south offset to the discovery well of the field.

Texaco, Inc. was below 8,700 feet in another Bentonia field test, the Thompson No. 1, sec. 33-10n-1q.

Continental Oil Co. was coring below 13,700 feet in a Yazoo County wildcat, the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n-2w, about three miles northeast of Yazoo City.

Reports indicate shows have been logged in the Smackover lime. The venture has contract depth of 14,100 feet.

In the East Fork field of Amite County, Pan American Petroleum Corp. was below 11,100 feet in the Moore No. 1, sec. 15-3n-5e, with oil sands logged at 10,583-638 feet. Three other drilling locations have been staked in the field.

A wildcat test in Hinds County was scheduled to get underway with S. M. Childre clearing location for the Rees unit No. 1, sec. 15-6n-1w, a scheduled 7,000 foot venture. The test is about three miles northeast of Clinton.

Insurance Firm Report Is Given

M. J. Loker, manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Monroe district, reports that the company's payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in Louisiana last year amounted to $17,451,228.

"On the basis of company-wide averages, about twice as much was paid to living policyholders as to beneficiaries of death claim payments," he added.

Over the last five years, payments to Louisiana policyholders and beneficiaries have amounted to $76,058,996.

Metropolitan paid out a record $1,755,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries last year, a sum twice the amount paid out as recently as 10 years ago. It was the fourth year in succession in which these payments have passed the one and one-half billion mark.

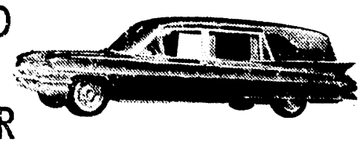
SPECIALIZED MOTOR CAR DEALER



An opportunity exists in the Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi territory for a specialized dealer to distribute internationally known S&S Cadillac funeral cars and ambulances. Sales are developed through personal contact of funeral directors and ambulance operators, supported by active home office assistance, advertising and sales promotion.

Travel is required and applicants must be willing to cover this three-state area thoroughly. Service and showroom facilities are not necessary, nor is there a franchise cost. Moving to a central location may be necessary.

The individual selected to represent us must be self-supporting financially insofar as living and traveling expenses are concerned and have sufficient operating capital to finance his demonstrator and limited used vehicle inventory. New and used car sales experience is helpful but not essential. This is an excellent opportunity for an individual to be in a quality business for himself with an outstanding clientele and good income potential.

Prospective applicants are invited to send complete resumes to Personnel Director, The Hess & Eisenhardt Co., Cincinnati 42, Ohio. We will interview qualified candidates in your city on April 12, 13 or 14 by prior arrangement. Interviews may also be arranged at the plant in Cincinnati.

Fuel Supply At Seasonal Peak In U.S.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Refiners have a record supply of gasoline on hand for the start of the spring-summer heavy demand season.

Gasoline inventories traditionally reach an annual peak about April 1. They drop to a low point about Labor Day as refiners start emphasizing production of winter heating fuel oil.

Refiners at the end of last week were holding a record 226,663,000 barrels of gasoline in storage. The previous all-time high was 225,987,000 barrels the week ending March 25, 1960.

The minor 1961 increase over the 1960 peak reflects the cautious attitude refiners used in preparing for the current heavy demand season.

DEMAND

Demand in 1960 dictated the cautious approach.

Last year's demand totaled a record 1,517,800,000 barrels but the two per cent gain over 1959 was disappointing. A gain in excess of four per cent, the post-war average, had been forecast.

Most forecasts on 1961 demand indicate the industry will have difficulty matching last year's two per cent gain.

Industry spokesmen blame the lower demand growth rate on a combination of two factors—high gasoline taxes and increased popularity of compact automobiles.

Frank Porter, president of the American Petroleum Institute (API), said recently nearly one-third of all new car sales currently are of the smaller economy type.

"This ratio is expected to increase in coming years as motorists seek to escape some of the impact of burdensome taxes on gasoline," he said.

John E. Swearingen, president of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), told the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington two weeks ago the biggest factor attracting motorists to the smaller size cars is operating economy.

"The sharp trend toward small imported foreign cars and, more recently, to the domestic 'compacts', provides a gauge of the motorist's reaction to the upward climb in taxes on motor fuel," Swearingen said while appearing as a witness for API and several other oil groups.

Swearingen said the trend toward compacts the last 10 years has been stimulated by rising gasoline taxes instead of the price of gasoline. He said the national average retail price, excluding taxes, increased 4½ per cent between 1950 and 1960 while combined state and federal tax rates increased 52 per cent.

Last year's unexpected slump in demand growth made the job of preparing for the 1961 spring-summer season easier.

The 1960 low point was delayed until the week ending Nov. 11. The 183,062,000 barrels on hand at that time gave the industry a record storage level for early winter. The 1959 low point involved only 175,800,000 barrels.

Mixed Signs Are Seen During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—As the U.S. economy heads into the spring season, there was a confident note that a business recovery is in the making—but how big and how soon is the question.

Good and bad signs mingled in the pre-Easter week.

The Kennedy administration continued to push forward with a spending program, including one for $1.9 billion in budget increases for a build-up in long-range missile strength.

The President signed legislation which will speed nearly $1 billion in unemployment funds to jobless workers, some of whom will begin getting the new payments as soon as April 10.

At the same time, the Budget Bureau estimated a deficit of $2.8 billion in the federal budget beginning July 1, whereas President Eisenhower's budget proposals showed a surplus of $1.47 billion.

DEVELOPMENT

These were among Washington developments which foreshadowed more money being pumped into the economy in the months and years ahead.

The drain on the nation's gold stockpile, which alarmed many bankers and economists in 1960, has been halted, at least temporarily. The latest week was the fifth straight without a loss.

One of the brightest signs was a climb in weekly steel production to its highest level since last June. Reports were that orders for delivery of steel in April are running ahead of those in March. Plans for bigger auto production were said to be an important factor.

From the auto industry itself came reports that March production totals will exceed February's. Nevertheless, the week brought an end to the industry's slowest first-quarter production since 1952.

On the darker side came news from the machine-tool industry, a basic indicator of industry's plans for expansion, that orders for machine tools declined sharply in February. A spokesman for the industry called for federal action to revive the business. He said that machine tool industries in practically all foreign countries are working at full capacity, with order backlogs of 18 months to two years, while the U.S. industry is working at only 60 per cent of capacity and has only a small order backlog.

Since a real boom in the economy is always accompanied by a rise in spending for capital goods such as machine tools, the news about machine tools tended to dampen some of the optimism.

At the retail level, department store sales topped 1960 levels for the sixth straight week. But since Easter comes two weeks earlier this year, the pre-Easter shopping binge would be enough to account for the advantage over the like calendar week a year ago. Merchants were disappointed that the gain was only moderate and did not match the Palm Sunday week of a year ago, which was a couple of weeks later on the calendar.

This mingling of black and white was regarded as typical for any recession-recovery year such as 1961.

Confidence in recovery was bolstered, however, by news that manufacturers' new orders and sales both rose in February after long declines. At the same time, manufacturers reduced their inventories by less than $100 million in the month, about the same as in January, reinforcing the theory that there is a flattening-out in the recession tendency to "live off inventories."

These facts caused government economists to regard the situation as typical of a turning point in business activity. Both President Kennedy and his economic advisers agree there is some improvement in the economy, but they warn that the recovery is likely to be slow.

Budget Director David E. Bell told the house-senate economic committee that the economy should start moving upward in the April-June quarter. Nevertheless Bell anticipated that the unemployment rate would still exceed six per cent by the end of the year, a figure which he regards as far from satisfactory.

The stock market, which theoretically forecasts business upturns some six months in advance, posted volume records for both March and the first quarter, amid generally rising prices. Trading in the four-day, pre-Easter week showed a mixed, slightly higher price trend.

T. F. Patton, president of Republic Steel Corp., the country's third largest, also predicted a business upturn "beginning probably during the second quarter."

The sensitive construction industry reported a rebound in heavy construction contracts. Standard & Poor's Corp., a leading investment advisory service, said: "Business now seems to be on the threshold of the upturn the stock market has been anticipating for some months."

Construction Here Records Big Increase

The Monroe Building Inspector's office issued 127 building permits during March, a rise of 46 over the same month in 1960.

But value of the permits dropped $50,000 from $579,788 last year to $527,178 in the past month.

"A couple of warehouses constructed last March ran up the total value last year," commented Dale Martha, who issues the permits.

The past week saw 20 permits, 14 for new construction or additions.

New construction of one-family residences increased last month over the same month in 1960. A total of 36 permits for $436,600 worth of construction were obtained last month, compared to 33 valued at $382,990 last year.

A breakdown on permits issued during the mounth shows one two-family residence, $9,000; one service station, $3500; two offices, $11,500; 44 alterations and additions to residences, $34,465; 10 non - residence alterations and additions, $32,113; 23 buildings moved; 10 buildings demolished.

Three Wells Completed In Monroe Oil-Gas District

By RICHARD GREENE
World Oil Editor

Despite bad weather conditions in the area last week, drilling and exploration activities were able to bring in three wells and staked a total of 10 new locations.

Two of the completions, in Catahoula and La Salle parishes, are new wells; the third, also in La Salle, is an old well re-completed.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the 14-parish district, also listed in his weekly report a total of 16 active rigs in the fields and one well plugged and abandoned due to little or no oil flow in Richland Parish.

R. A. Campbell has completed his Nolan No. 2 in section 23-8-6E of the Wallace Lake Field of Catahoula Parish. It was finaled to flow 50 barrels through a 6-64 in. choke from perforations at 4412-15 ft., tubing pressure 340 lbs., gas oil ratio 200:1, gravity 44.

In the Tullos Urania Field of La Salle Parish the Berwick Mud Co.'s Gilmore no. 1 is completed to pump an estimated four barrels from perforations at 1265-1270 ft. in section 25-10-1E.

Placid Oil Co.'s P. S. Gaharan was re-completed in section 39-8-3E of the Nebo Hemphill Field of LaSalle Parish. It was finaled to pump five barrels from perforations at 3959-65 ft., tubing pressure 75 lbs., casing pressure 250 lbs.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

Market's First Quarter Is Big

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market scored a substantial gain in 1961's busy first quarter, which ended this week.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased an estimated $37 billion, based on the advance in the Associated Press 60-stock average.

Since the beginning of the year, the AP average climbed 22.60 to 243.50. The Dow Jones industrial average moved up 60.74 to 676.63, within striking distance of its all-time high of 685.47 reached Jan. 5, 1960.

The advance was accompanied by spectacularly heavy trading.

In the first quarter 299,946,957 shares changed hands. This was the busiest first quarter in the exchange's history and the heaviest trading for any three months since the fourth quarter of 1929, when the turnover was 308,330,947.

The March total of 118,034,336 was the highest in history for the month and the biggest monthly volume since 120,271,243 shares changed hands in July 1933.

The volume kept up its fast pace this week with a total of 19,780,270 shares for four days but the advance in prices was light. The market was closed on Good Friday. The previous week's total was 20,934,035.

The AP average rose for the third straight week, adding .40 at 243.50. The Dow Jones industrial average was up 4.15 to 676.63.

Of 1,433 issues traded, 744 advanced and 530 declined.

The most active issue on the American Stock Exchange was Sapphire Petroleum off 1-16 at ⅜ on 599,500 shares.

Bond prices leveled off in late March after many had climbed to two-year highs for the second straight month.

Most U.S. government bonds ended with net losses of ¼ to more than a full point compared with gains reaching three points the previous month.

Corporates ended just about where they started, based on the Associated Press average of 60 selected issues. In February this index managed its best advance since August. March changes were limited to under three-quarters of an index point plus and minus.

For the week corporate volume on the exchange dropped to $24,831,000 par value from $39,187,500 the previous week. The daily average was $6,207,750 compared with $7,837,500.

W. I. "Moss" Emmons, 405 Myrtle, in Vidalia, district superintendent represented the oil well servicing firm's 45 area employees when the local district was presented a sales trophy by Ed Trapp, Halliburton sales manager from Duncan, Okla.

"The area location is certainly due congratulations for helping the Shreveport division of which this is a part, win our company-wide floating equipment sales award, "Trap told the guests at the meeting.

T. H. Jackson

FERRIDAY — T. H. Jackson, former superintendent of California Oil installations at Cranfield and Lake St. John, has been appointed to the new position of area superintendent for the new Venice, area of the delta - gulf coast division for the California Company.

Louis K. Good, Jr.

Louis K. Good, Jr., vice president of Bernard Lumber Co. of New Orleans, was elected president of the Louisiana Building Material Dealers Association last week.

The LBMDA is presently holding its annual convention in Baton Rouge. Good succeeds Jack Terzia of Monroe.

Insurance Firm Report Is Given

M. J. Loker, manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Monroe district, reports that the company's payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in Louisiana last year amounted to $17,451,228.

"On the basis of company-wide averages, about twice as much was paid to living policyholders as to beneficiaries of death claim payments," he added.

Over the last five years, payments to Louisiana policyholders and beneficiaries have amounted to $76,058,996.

Metropolitan paid out a record $1,755,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries last year, a sum twice the amount paid out as recently as 10 years ago. It was the fourth year in succession in which these payments have passed the one and one-half billion mark.

Wildcat Well In Mississippi Being Tested

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Argo Oil Corp. and Chartor Oil Co. said production tests were underway at the Burkley-Phillips unit No. 1, sec. 14-10n-2w, a Jefferson County wildcat.

The well tested 181 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,200-05 feet in initial run and flowed 42 barrels per day later with high gas content.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. has set three strings of tubing in an effort to complete the Thompson No. 2, sec. 3-9n-1w, as a triple completion in the Bentonia oil field of Yazoo County.

The well was drilled to 10,676 feet. Operators were expected to attempt completion in the Paluxy and Hosston zones. The well is a direct south offset to the discovery well of the field.

Texaco, Inc. was below 3,700 feet in another Bentonia field test, the Thompson No. 1, sec. 33-10n-1q.

Continental Oil Co. was coring below 13,700 feet in a Yazoo County wildcat, the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n-2w, about three miles northeast of Yazoo City.

Reports indicate shows have been logged in the Smackover lime. The venture has contract depth of 14,100 feet.

In the East Fork field of Amite County, Pan American Petroleum Corp. was below 11,100 feet in the Moore No. 1, sec. 15-3n-5e, with oil sands logged at 10,588-638 feet. Three other drilling locations have been staked in the field.

A wildcat test in Hinds County was scheduled to get underway with S. M. Childre clearing location for the Rees unit No. 1, sec. 15-6n-1w, a scheduled 7,000 foot venture. The test is about three miles northeast of Clinton.

SPECIALIZED MOTOR CAR DEALER

An opportunity exists in the Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi territory for a specialized dealer to distribute internationally known S&S Cadillac funeral cars and ambulances. Sales are developed through personal contact of funeral directors and ambulance operators, supported by active home office assistance, advertising and sales promotion.

Travel is required and applicants must be willing to cover this three-state area thoroughly. Service and showroom facilities are not necessary, nor is there a franchise cost. Moving to a central location may be necessary.

The individual selected to represent us must be self-supporting financially insofar as living and traveling expenses are concerned and have sufficient operating capital to finance his demonstrator and limited used vehicle inventory. New and used car sales experience is helpful but not essential. This is an excellent opportunity for an individual to be in a quality business for himself with an outstanding clientele and good income potential.

Prospective applicants are invited to send complete resumes to Personnel Director, The Hess & Eisenhardt Co., Cincinnati 42, Ohio. We will interview qualified candidates in your city on April 12, 13 or 14 by prior arrangement. Interviews may also be arranged at the plant in Cincinnati.

Pettit Leads Hawks To Victory

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Pertaining To High School Athletics

Sterlington High School becomes a contender for football and basketball championships when the new Ouachita parish school opens for its second year of business next September.

The Louisiana High School Athletic Association, at its annual meeting last Sunday in Alexandria, admitted Sterlington to Class B membership in district two football and district three basketball.

Sterlington played both football and basketball the past season, but not as a title contender in either sport.

Several other actions pertaining to high school athletics and of interest to the fans were handled by the association.

Boys' basketball teams are limited to 36 games per season with each tournament entered counting as two games. District and state playoffs are exempted from this count.

Henceforth, the home team in boys' varsity basketball shall wear light colored jerseys, and the visiting team will wear dark colored jerseys. Duplicate numbers shall not be permitted on the jerseys of players of the same team.

An amended rule on basketball now says: "No basketball team shall play more than two games in one day or schedule a basketball game within the dates of a tournament in which said team is participating."

The state championship tournament for boys at Shreveport will be held in 1962 on the same basis as the past season. This tournament brings together the four top teams in each of Louisiana's five classes.

The association tabled for one year these five motions:

1. That students from a foreign country, assigned to attend school by the American Field Service as seniors, be eligible to participate in athletics.

2. In senior high schools where there is a seventh grade to 12th grade, the seventh and eighth grade students participating in athletics shall be classed as high school students whether members of a junior or varsity team and that semester shall count as one of the eight semesters permitted in high school.

3. A boy attending school from outside of his home district or parish must abide by the transfer rule upon returning to his home district or parish.

4. Any student who transfers from the ninth grade in a junior high school to a four - year senior high school will be declared ineligible for the period of one year — applicable to Orleans parish only.

5. Any student who transfers from the ninth grade in a four-year senior high school to a three-year senior high will be eligible immediately — applicable to Orleans parish only.

Athletic problems pertaining to the various classes as units were passed in class meetings and were not voted on by the general meeting.

Some of these were:

Class C — Use men officials for both boys and girls playoff games at the state tournament; eliminate the girls' consolation game at the state tourney; and change the regional three basketball tournament from Lafayette to Lake Charles.

Class B — District football champions, must be decided the day following the eleventh playing date, except that in the case of a tie, the champion must be decided on Wednesday following the 11th playing date. Football playoffs begin on the 12th playing date, except that in case of a tie the 12th date is on Saturday. In the semi-final playoffs, the team that traveled most is the home team; if both traveled or were home teams the same number of times, then the team in the top bracket is home team in odd years and the team in the bottom bracket is home team in even years; in the event that neither team has traveled, the team having had the most home games will travel.

Class A — In the event that a school has both boys and girls teams in the state playoffs, in the bi-district the girls play on Monday nights, in the regionals the girls play on Thursday nights.

B. S. Walker, Sulphur, was elected association president; and R. J. Stoker, Pleasant Hill, vice - president. Elected to the executive committee were Joe Martina, West Jefferson (AAA); Guy Lucas, Crowley (AA); D. W. McBride, Oak Grove (A); Floyd Stephens, Oberlin (B); and J. S. Mitchell, Longville (C).

W. E. Pate, principal of Bolton High of Alexandria, in behalf of the LHSAA, presented plaques to Mrs. Vesta Bourgeois, U. of Southwestern Louisiana; W. L. Colvin, Jeanerette; and C. B. Turner, Baton Rouge, for performing "outstanding services for the association in former years."

A Cheer For Randy Dow

When Randy Dow had his picture in the paper the other day after winning a bowling championship it brought a lot of satisfaction to friends of the Jack Dow family who knew the trials Randy has been through in his 16 years.

A "blue baby" operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital saved his life when he was two years old, but he was never able to participate in athletics and any kind of exercise was exhausting.

The development of open heart surgery finally made it possible for Randy to undergo another operation, and it was off to Johns Hopkins again in June of 1959 for the operation that made his bowling crown possible.

So, it's remarkable, we think, that Randy Dow who tired so easily just walking was able to join schoolmate Pat Van Zile to win the doubles bowling championship at the Junior Tournament conducted last weekend at Western Lanes.

"It's the first athletics of any kind he has ever been able to participate in," proudly proclaimed his father yesterday.

Not only that, but Randy, a sophomore because he lost so much school time before his final corrective operation, also is a member of the West Monroe High Rebels' marching band and is enjoying all the other phases of school and community life that had been denied him in the past.

Some Short Shots

The "first pitch" breakfast Thursday was the only thing that went as scheduled for the Easter Baseball Tournament, a North east State spring sports special that had to be cancelled because of the heavy rains Wednesday and Thursday.

"This looks like it might be the 'last pitch' too," commented one of the guests at the breakfast as it was still raining at the time.

Mayor Allan Norris of West Monroe, Sheriff Bailey Grant, Dr. George Walker, Northeast State president, and coaches of the invited baseball and track teams, along with sports writers and radio personnel enjoyed the hospitality of Eddie Hemphill in the "ham and eggs" opening feature that proved to be the whole show as far as the tournament was concerned.

Claudine Watson, former all-state basketball player for Winnsboro High School will be in St. Joseph, Mo., tomorrow with Wayland Baptist College's Hutcherson Flying Queens for participation in the National AAU women's basketball tournament that runs through Saturday.

Carry Back Tops Crozior In Derby Run

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back staged a blistering stretch run Saturday to beat Fred W. Hooper's Crozier by a head in the $115,100 Florida Derby and stamp himself as the best 3-year-old colt in Florida this winter.

Calumet Farm Beau Prince finished third and Harbor View Farm's Garwol was fourth in a field of eight.

Carry Back went to the post the 8-5 choice and ran the mile and a furlong in 1:48 and 4-5 over a sloppy track. The time was only two seconds slower than the track record set by the Calumet's Gen. Duke in 1957 and tied by Elmendorf's Day Court in 1960.

Carry Back, owned and trained by Miamian Jack Price, paid $5.20, $3 and $2.50. Crozier, second again as he has been on several other occasions, returned $.30 and $2.50. Beau Prince paid $2.90 to show.

The whopping crowd of 26,665, second largest Florida Derby turnout in its 10 year history, wagered a record $322,727 on the race, exceeding $312,135 set by the record 31,764 at the 1954 Derby.

Oak Hill Stable's Oak Dandy was first out of the gate with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Intensive right along side for the first three furlongs. Crozier was third and Llangollen Farm's Game was fourth in the early running.

Oak Dandy took the lead midway in the back stretch and Intensive was still by his side, Crozier, under Bill Hartack, was still third and Carry Back, with John Sellers holding him snugly, was next to last.

Carry Back, who won the Everglades and Flamingo Stakes this winter, started to move when they rounded the far turn. He picked up horses turning for home and came on the outside, fairly flying.

Crozier moved half a length in front when Oak Dandy and then Intensive gave up the lead. Crozier held a two-length margin after they straightened for home but Carry Back was going after him with grim determination.

Beau Prince, under Eddie Arcaro, who flew from New York to ride the Calumet colt, was second in the stretch but couldn't catch Crozier and finished 3½ lengths behind that horse.

Bastrop Hosts Tri-State Golf Meet Tuesday

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Bastrop Ram golfers will host the annual Tri-State High School Golf Tournament Tuesday at the Morehouse Country Club. Nine teams representing Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi will compete in the 27 hole medal play event.

Team trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up and each school is permitted to enter either one or two teams consisting of four players. Individual trophies will be given to the medalist and winner of the driving contest.

The two previous winners, Neville and Bolton will present strong teams and will again be top favorites. Bolton, winner of last year's tourney has the same team back and will definitely be the team to beat. Other teams are Greenville, Miss., El Dorado, Ark., West Monroe, Tallulah, Byrd, Bossier, and Bastrop.

Play will begin at 9:30 a.m. and approximately 65 players are expected to participate. Mothers of the Bastrop players will provide lunch for all players.

Graham Named 4th Straight All-Star Head

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham Saturday was named head coach for the fourth straight year of the College All-Stars, who will play the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, in Soldier Field Aug. 4.

Graham, former Northwestern All-America and star quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, is head football coach and director of athletics at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn.

The All-Star game, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities Inc., has produced $5 million since its conception in 1934.

Graham will have the same assistants as last year — Pete Pihos, Dick Stanfel, Donn Doll, John Sauer and Mike Scarry.

Graham already has selected 28 players from the college graduates and invitations have been sent to them. The squad, which will report at Northwestern July 13, eventually will number about 50.

Tribe Splits Doubleheader With Phillips 3-0 And 14-6

Northeast shut out previously unbeaten Phillips U. of Enid, Oklahoma 3-0 here yesterday in the first game of a twinbill, but fell to the Haymakers' heavy bats in the second 14-6.

Indian pitchers Jerry Godwin second encounter. and Bobby Lockwood teamed up The Haymakers entered the to hold the Haymakers hitless in first game with a 4-0 mark, the opener with Godwin working Northeast lost its only other the first four innings and being game 10-4 to LSU. credited with the win.

HAYMAKERS SURPRISED

Phillips came back to pound While Godwin and Lockwood five Tribe moundsmen for 15 hits were baffling Phillips in the and revenge in a free - hitting opener, Indian batters pounded starter Charlie Buller for eight hits and all three runs, scoring two in the third and one in the sixth.

Centerfielder Levy Redden started the third inning proceedings, knocking a "Texas Leaguer" into short right. He then stole second and blazed home when Phil Petras singled to second. John Pace doubled Petras in.

Petras opened the fifth with a stand-up triple and scored when Pace lined a single into center.

EXPLODE IN SECOND

Phillips opened the second till with a determined explosion the first time up to score three runs. Northeast rallied with one in the first and two in the second to tie the score but the Haymakers notched two tallies in the fourth and sixth plus four in the fifth to put it entirely out of reach.

Larry Daniels was the winning pitcher, holding Northeast to four runs off six hits in five innings. He was relieved by Vance Poteet in the sixth inning of the nine frame conflict.

Northeast relief - hurler Bob Rachel, who spelled Stan Gardner in the fourth, was tagged with the loss. Rachel lasted two innings giving up six runs on four hits after going in with the score tied 3-3.

Hero of the day was Haymaker shortstop Jim Maple who collected three hits, three runs and three RBI's in three trips to the plate, including a two-run homer over the centerfield fence in the sixth.

Redden, Petras and Pace all collected two hits in the first battle for Northeast while Eddie McGowen, George Bryan and Donnie Brunson hit safely twice in the second. Bryan, Brunson and Billy Daniels chalked-up doubles for the tribe.

Baseball Work In Dixie, Little Leagues Slated

Little League baseball workouts will be held Saturday, April 8th and will continue for three Saturdays. The East-side Little League, composed of boys living East of Lamy Lane and south of Loop Road, will try out at 1:00 at Bendel Stadium, and Northside League will have its try-outs at 3:00, at the same site. The Southside Leaguers will meet at Lions Field at 1:00 for their try-outs.

Dixie League boys will meet at Legion Memorial Stadium with the Northside boys meeting at 9:30 in the morning and the Southside boys at 3:30 in the afternoon.

All boys have to attend the try-outs in order to be eligible to be picked for openings on the teams.

Boys who have not registered will have until Tuesday to register. No one will be registered at the ball parks. Boys can register at the Monroe Community Center.

Rebels Manage Sweep In Tilts With Greenies

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi swept a Southeastern Conference baseball doubleheader from Tulane Saturday, 9-6 and 14-2.

Mississippi, SEC defending champion, collected 23 hits with Ken Netherland and Tommy Farley getting four each. Jake Gibbs, Rebel football and baseball star, smashed a 415-foot homer, one of the longest ever hit in the local stadium, in the first game.

Tulane pitcher John Peebles had a 3-run homer in the opener.

FIRST PFISTER RETURNS

Sports End Work For Loop Opener

SHREVEPORT, La. — The Shreveport Sports headed North from their Haines City, Florida spring training camp over the weekend as they moved into the final week of preparation for the opening of the Southern Association season April 7.

Manager Les Peden's forces, boosted by the return of right-hander Dan Pfister, will open the season in Little Rock April 7 for a four-game series and return to Shreveport April 11 for the home opener with the Mobile Bears.

The Sports, who finished in second place last season losing the pennant by only a half - game on the closing day of the season, look forward to a successful '61 campaign.

Kansas City has promised the local entry a sound ball club as good or better than the fantastic streak finishers of a year ago and plans are being made for a banner season of professional baseball in Shreveport and the Ark-La-Tex.

Manager Peden should have a fine defensive ball club again this season. When he moves into the championship chase he'll have veteran Al Grunwald and rookie Overcash available for first base duty; Ray Tabbachi, a youngster designed to make local fans forget Lou Klimbhock and Chet Boak, at second; returnee Ron Debus at third; and probably Alex George at shortstop.

The outfield shapes up with Bill Kern, the sensational swatter of last season's finishing kick; Ron Hogg, a Jay Hankins-type speedster; and Elwood (Woody) Huyke, whose big bat has boomed time and again for the Sports in spring competition.

Manager Peden himself will be available for catching chores along with Gordon MacKenzie and Milo Fuller.

These are the boys who have seen the most spring duty but several others are still very much in the running for starting spots and the final cut probably won't be made until opening day.

Pfister heads the list of hurlers with more help expected when Kansas City's triple A farm at Honolulu cuts down its roster.

Dan Carr Ref For 23rd Run Of NSC Relays

NATCHITOCHES, La. — Dan B. Carr, head track coach at Natchitoches High School, has been named Referee for the 23rd annual Northwestern State College Relays set for April 20 through April 22.

The 1961 NSC Relays is expected to attract a record entry, topping last year's total of 92 high schools and eight colleges.

Carr has been head track mentor at Natchitoches High School for the past five years, during which time he has led his teams to five straight District 3-AA championships. In addition, his teams have never placed lower than fourth in the State AA meets.

Relays Director is Coach Walter Ledet, head track mentor at Northwestern State College. He announced that another top field of high schools and colleges will be on hand for the three - day affair. A freshman and junior college division has also been added to this year's schedule.

On April 20, high schools in the Classes C and B categories will compete; on April 21, competition is for high schools in Classes A, AA, and AAA. Competition is at night on April 22 for college, collegiate freshmen and junior colleges.

Los Angeles Falls In Seventh Game

By CHUCK CAPALDO
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks, with brilliant Bob Pettit paving the way with the decisive basket and 31 points, edged the never-quit Los Angeles Lakers 105-103 Saturday in the seventh and deciding game of the National Basketball Association Western Division playoffs.

The Hawks thus gained their fourth playoff title in their six years in St. Louis and the right to meet the well-rested Celtics in the best-of-seven NBA championship final beginning in Boston Sunday afternoon.

Once again Elgin Baylor was the individual standout with 39 points. The 25-year-old former Seattle star wound up with 260 points in the series.

The Hawks, who trailed the Lakers 3 games to 2 earlier in the series, staged a tremendous surge to overcome a 15-point deficit in the first quarter when they went the first 6½ minutes without a field goal.

The Hawks held a 49-48 halftime lead and an 81-73 lead at the end of three quarters.

The lead changed hands 10 times in the feverish third quarter before a screaming Kiel Auditorium crowd of 10,116 and a national television audience.

As the fourth quarter started, Baylor connected on a jump shot to bring the Lakers to within one point of the Hawks at 81-80. Then the Hawks rattled off eight points to the Lakers' two and took a lead they never relinquished.

But the Lakers, who got a 29-point contribution from Jerry West, were not through. They outscored the Hawks 9-4 in the last 2 minutes. West's basket with a minute to go and Rudy LaRusso's free throw left them 2 points behind, 103-101.

Then Pettit, emerging from a wild scramble under the basket, tipped in the basket that made the difference with 32 seconds left. Baylor's two free throws closed out the scoring.

The Hawks' Larry Foust missed a free throw with 17 seconds to go and the Lakers gained possession. Baylor, pressed by Cliff Hagan, fired a shot which glanced off the backboard. Lennie Wilkens, who scored 21 points, came up with the loose ball for St. Louis.

Woody Sauldsberry gave the Hawks a big boost with 13 rebounds and 22 points while filling in for the injured Clyde Lovellette. Hagan had 21. Pettit led both clubs with 17 rebounds.

The Lakers, led by Baylor's 11 points, hit five of their first seven shots from the floor in the opening period, and seemed to be on their way to a lopsided triumph.

But the Hawks, getting a great rebounding job from Pettit and setting up their shots better, steadily closed the gap in the second period. They went ahead for the first time after a game-opening free throw by Pettit with 4:53 to go in the first half.

Wilkens sent them ahead 39-38 with a driving hook shot. The lead then changed hands five times before Wilkens' free throw with one second to go gave the Hawks their one-point halftime edge.

All teams that are interested in entering a team in any of these Leagues are asked to have their manager or a representative at these meetings. All meetings will be held at the Community Center 113½ Catalpa. Anyone desiring any information pertaining to any of the above can contact Jackie Neal at the Community Center, telephone FA 2-2150.

The Senior, Junior, and Midget leagues will form or organize in about a month so as to start playing as soon as school is out. Dates and time of meeting will be announced later.

There will be an Umpire's meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Community Center for all persons interested in umpiring in any of the Recreation Dept. Summer Leagues are urged to attend this meeting. The meeting will include Softball, Little League, and Dixie League umpires.

Doherty Hurt

HARDEEVILLE, S. C. (AP) — Ed Doherty, general manager of the new Washington Senators in the American League, suffered severe bruises and cuts on the right leg Saturday when a truck slammed into the side of his car on the highway four miles north of here.

Mrs. Doherty suffered facial cuts and shock.

The Dohertys were en route from Pompano Beach, Fla., where the club trained, to Washington. They were taken to the Hardeeville Hospital for first aid. They plan to continue by plane.

Atkins-Tippitt Day On Slate For April 4th

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston fans will pay homage to two of its outstanding athletes here Tuesday by honoring all - Americans Pervis Atkins, Jr., and Rex Tippitt with an "Atkins-Tippett Day."

The public ceremony will include a parade through down-town Ruston and a banquet at Lincoln High School. Both athletes are Ruston natives.

Infectiously good - natured, he carried battered helments and got a pat on the head for chasing footballs. Even then, he admitted reproachfully that he wanted to grow up and play football like all-American halfback Glenn Davis of Army.

The Autumn scene shifts to 1960 and newspapers all over the country related in graphic details the flamboyant exploits of grown-up Pervis Atkins, an All-American super star who did everything superbly for unbeaten New Mexico State.

Born in Ruston and reared in Oakland, Calif., Atkins looks and acts like a fictional frontiersman on the football field. The swarthy Negro star led the nation in ball carrying and scoring in 1959 and completed his senior year by replacing his idol, former West Point star Davis, as the all-time long-gain specialist in the NCAA record book.

The wispy Aggie speedster averaged 14.7 yards for each of the 110 times he touched the ball on rushes, receptions and runbacks Davis averaged 14.3 yards on 91 similar sorties at West Point in 1944.

He scored 1,731 points in four years with the Fred Hobby's Grambling Tigers and led the team to the NAIA national title during his senior year.

The personable 6-4 former Lincoln High lad was a member of the NAIA all-star team that defeated Ohio State in the Olympic trials in 1960 and earned All-American honors.

Tippitt's basketball career is described as one of "steady progression" by coach Hobby Rig. fast, aggressive and a tenacious defensive man, he was usually assigned to the opponent's top scorer and combined defensive skills with an uncanny ability to frequently reserve the Tigers with long set shots.

The tight working guard steered Grambling into four straight NAIA and NCAA national tournaments.

He was drafted by the Syracuse Nationals of the NBA last week. Earlier, San Francisco selected him as one of its top draft choices in the American basketball league.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Pertaining To High School Athletics

Sterlington High School becomes a contender for football and basketball championships when the new Ouachita parish school opens for its second year of business next September.

The Louisiana High School Athletic Association, at its annual meeting last Sunday in Alexandria, admitted Sterlington to Class B membership in district two football and district three basketball.

Sterlington played both football and basketball the past season, but not as a title contender in either sport.

Several other actions pertaining to high school athletics and of interest to the fans were handled by the association.

Boys' basketball teams are limited to 36 games per season with each tournament entered counting as two games. District and state playoffs are exempted from this count.

Henceforth, the home team in boys' varsity basketball shall wear light colored jerseys, and the visiting team will wear dark colored jerseys. Duplicate numbers shall not be permitted on the jerseys of players of the same team.

An amended rule on basketball now says: "No basketball team shall play more than two games in one day or schedule a basketball game within the dates of a tournament in which said team is participating."

The state championship tournament for boys at Shreveport will be held in 1962 on the same basis as the past season. This tournament brings together the four top teams in each of Louisiana's five classes.

The association tabled for one year these five motions:

1. That students from a foreign country, assigned to attend school by the American Field Service as seniors, be eligible to participate in athletics.

2. In senior high schools where there is a seventh grade to 12th grade, the seventh and eighth grade students participating in athletics shall be classed as high school students whether members of a junior or varsity team and that semester shall count as one of the eight semesters permitted in high school.

3. A boy attending school from outside of his home district or parish must abide by the transfer rule upon returning to his home district or parish.

4. Any student who transfers from the ninth grade in a junior high school to a four - year senior high school will be declared ineligible for the period of one year — applicable to Orleans parish only.

5. Any student who transfers from the ninth grade in a four-year senior high school to a three-year senior high will be eligible immediately — applicable to Orleans parish only.

Athletic problems pertaining to the various classes as units were passed in class meetings and were not voted on by the general meeting.

Some of these were:

Class C — Use men officials for both boys and girls playoff games at the state tournament; eliminate the girls' consolation game at the state tourney; and change the regional three basketball tournament from Lafayette to Lake Charles.

Class B — District football champions, must be decided the day following the eleventh playing date, except that in the case of a tie, the champion must be decided on Wednesday following the 11th playing date. Football playoffs begin on the 12th playing date, except that in case of a tie the 12th date is on Saturday. In the semi-final playoffs, the team that traveled most is the home team; if both traveled or were home teams the same number of times, then the team in the top bracket is home team in odd years and the team in the bottom bracket is home team in even years; in the event that neither team has traveled, the team having had the most home games will travel.

Class A — In the event that a school has both boys and girls teams in the state playoffs, in the bi-district the girls play on Monday nights, in the regionals the girls play on Thursday nights.

B. S. Walker, Sulphur, was elected association president; and R. J. Stoker, Pleasant Hill, vice - president. Elected to the executive committee were Joe Martina, West Jefferson (AAA); Guy Lucas, Crowley (AA); D. W. McBride, Oak Grove (A); Floyd Stephens, Oberlin (B); and J. S. Mitchell, Longville (C).

W. E. Pate, principal of Bolton High of Alexandria, in behalf of the LHSAA, presented plaques to Mrs. Vesta Bourgeois, U. of Southwestern Louisiana; W. L. Colvin, Jeanerette; and C. B. Turner, Baton Rouge, for performing "outstanding services for the association in former years."

A Cheer For Randy Dow

When Randy Dow had his picture in the paper the other day after winning a bowling championship it brought a lot of satisfaction to friends of the Jack Dow family who knew the trials Randy has been through in his 16 years.

A "blue baby" operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital saved his life when he was two years old, but he was never able to participate in athletics and any kind of exercise was exhausting.

The development of open heart surgery finally made it possible for Randy to undergo another operation, and it was off to Johns Hopkins again in June of 1959 for the operation that made his bowling crown possible.

So, it's remarkable, we think, that Randy Dow who tired so easily just walking was able to join schoolmate Pat Van Zile to win the doubles bowling championship at the Junior Tournament conducted last weekend at Western Lanes.

"It's the first athletics of any kind he has ever been able to participate in," proudly proclaimed his father yesterday.

Not only that, but Randy, a sophomore because he lost so much school time before his final corrective operation, also is a member of the West Monroe High Rebels' marching band and is enjoying all the other phases of school and community life that had been denied him in the past.

Some Short Shots

The "first pitch" breakfast Thursday was the only thing that went as scheduled for the Easter Baseball Tournament, a Northeast State spring sports special that had to be cancelled because of the heavy rains Wednesday and Thursday.

Mayor Allan Norris of West Monroe, Sheriff Bailey Grant, Dr. George Walker, Northeast State president, and coaches of the invited baseball and track teams, along with sports writers and radio personnel enjoyed the hospitality of Eddie Hemphill in the "ham and eggs" opening feature that proved to be the whole show as far as the tournament was concerned.

Claudine Watson, former all-state basketball player for Winnsboro High School will be in St. Joseph, Mo., tomorrow with Wayland Baptist College's Hutcherson Flying Queens for participation in the National AAU women's basketball tournament that runs through Saturday.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back staged a blistering stretch run Saturday to beat Fred W. Hooper's Crozier by a head in the $115,100 Florida Derby and stamp himself as the best 3-year-old colt in Florida this winter.

Calumet Farm Beau Prince finished third and Harbor View Farm's Garwol was fourth in a field of eight.

Carry Back went to the post the 8-5 choice and ran the mile and a furlong in 1:48 and 4-5 over a sloppy track. The time was only two seconds slower than the track record set by the Calumet's Gen. Duke in 1957 and tied by Elmendorf's Day Court in 1960.

Carry Back, owned and trained by Miamian Jack Price, paid $5.20, $3 and $2.50. Crozier, second again as he has been on several other occasions, returned $.30 and $2.50. Beau Prince paid $2.90 to show.

The whopping crowd of 26,665, second largest Florida Derby turnout in its 10 year history, wagered a record $322,727 on the race, exceeding $312,135 set by the record 31,764 at the 1954 Derby.

Oak Hill Stable's Oak Dandy was first out of the gate with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Intensive right along side for the first three furlongs. Crozier was third and Llangollen Farm's Game was fourth in the early running.

Oak Dandy took the lead midway in the back stretch and Intensive was still by his side. Crozier, under Bill Hartack, was still third and Carry Back, with John Sellers holding him snugly, was next to last.

Carry Back, who won the Everglades and Flamingo Stakes this winter started to move when they rounded the far turn. He picked up horses turning for home and came on the outside, fairly flying.

Crozier moved half a length in front when Oak Dandy and then Intensive gave up the lead. Crozier held a two-length margin after they straightened for home but Carry Back was going after him with grim determination.

Beau Prince, under Eddie Arcaro, who flew from New York to ride the Calumet colt, was second in the stretch but couldn't catch Crozier and finished 3½ lengths behind that horse.

Bastrop Hosts Tri-State Golf Meet Tuesday

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Bastrop Ram golfers will host the annual Tri-State High School Golf Tournament Tuesday at the Morehouse Country Club. Nine teams representing Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi will compete in the 27 hole medal play event.

Team trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up and each school is permitted to enter either one or two teams consisting of four players. Individual trophies will be given to the medalist and winner of the driving contest.

The two previous winners, Neville and Bolton will present strong teams and will again be top favorites. Bolton, winner of last year's tourney has the same team back and will definitely be the team to beat. Other teams are Greenville, Miss., El Dorado, Ark., West Monroe, Tallulah, Byrd, Bossier, and Bastrop.

Play will begin at 9:30 a.m. and approximately 65 players are expected to participate. Mothers of the Bastrop players will provide lunch for all players.

Graham Named 4th Straight All-Star Head

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham Saturday was named head coach for the fourth straight year of the College All-Stars, who will play the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, in Soldier Field Aug. 4.

Graham, former Northwestern All-America and star quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, is head football coach and director of athletics at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn.

The All-Star game, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities Inc., has produced $5 million since its conception in 1934.

Graham will have the same assistants as last year — Pete Pihos, Dick Stanfel, Donn Doll, John Sauer and Mike Scarry.

Graham already has selected 28 players from the college graduates and invitations have been sent to them. The squad, which will report at Northwestern July 13, eventually will number about 50.

FIRST HAYMAKER LOSS

Tribe Splits Doubleheader With Phillips 3-0 And 14-6

Northeast shut out previously unbeaten Phillips U. of Enid, Oklahoma 3-0 here yesterday in the first game of a twinbill, but fell to the Haymakers' heavy bats in the second 14-6.

Indian pitchers Jerry Godwin and Bobby Lockwood teamed up to hold the Haymakers hitless in the opener with Godwin working the first four innings and being credited with the win.

Phillips came back to pound five Tribe moundsmen for 15 hits and revenge in a free - hitting second encounter.

The Haymakers entered the first game with a 4-0 mark. Northeast lost its only other game 10-4 to LSU.

HAYMAKERS SURPRISED

While Godwin and Lockwood were baffling Phillips in the opener, Indian batters pounded starter Charlie Buller for eight hits and all three runs, scoring two in the third and one in the sixth.

Centerfielder Levy Redden started the third inning proceedings, knocking a "Texas Leager" into short right. He then stole second and blazed home when Phil Petras singled to second. John Pace doubled Petras in.

Petras opened the fifth with a stand-up triple and scored when Pace lined a single into center.

EXPLODE IN SECOND

Phillips opened the second tilt with a determined explosion the first time up to score three runs. Northeast rallied with one in the first and two in the second to tie the score but the Haymakers notched two tallies in the fourth and sixth plus four in the fifth to put it entirely out of reach.

Larry Daniels was the winning pitcher, holding Northeast to four runs off six hits in five innings. He was relieved by Vance Poteet in the sixth inning of the nine frame conflict.

Northeast relief - hurler Bob Rachel, who spelled Stan Gardner in the fourth, was tagged with the loss. Rachel lasted two innings giving up six runs on four hits after going in with the score tied 3-3.

Hero of the day was Haymaker shortstop Jim Maple who collected three hits, three runs and three RBI's in three trips to the plate, including a two-run homer over the centerfield fence in the sixth.

Redden, Petras and Pace all collected two hits in the first battle for Northeast while Eddie McGowen, George Bryan and Donnie Brunson hit safely twice in the second. Bryan, Brunson and Billy Daniels chalked-up doubles for the tribe.

PFISTER RETURNS

Sports End Work For Loop Opener

SHREVEPORT, La. — The Shreveport Sports headed North from their Haines City, Florida spring training camp over the weekend as they moved into the final week of preparation for the opening of the Southern Association season April 7.

Manager Les Peden's forces, boosted by the return of right-hander Dan Pfister, will open the season in Little Rock April 7 for a four-game series and return to Shreveport April 11 for the home opener with the Mobile Bears.

The Sports, who finished in second place last season losing the pennant by only a half - game on the closing day of the season, look forward to a successful '61 campaign.

Kansas City has promised the local entry a sound ball club as good or better than the fantastic streak finishers of a year ago and plans are being made for a banner season of professional baseball in Shreveport and the Ark-La-Tex.

Manager Peden should have a fine defensive ball club again this season. When he moves into the championship chase he'll have veteran Al Grunwald and rookie Overcash available for first base duty; Ray Tabbachi, a youngster designed to make local fans forget Lou Klimbhock and Chet Boak, at second; returnee Ron Debus at third; and probably Alex George at shortstop.

The outfield shapes up with Bill Kern, the sensational swatter of last season's finishing kick; Ron Hogg, a Jay Hankins-type speedster; and Elwood (Woody) Huyke, whose big bat has boomed time and again for the Sports in spring competition.

Manager Peden himself will be available for catching chores along with Gordon MacKenzie and Milo Fuller.

These are the boys who have seen the most spring duty but several others are still very much in the running for starting spots and the final cut probably won't be made until opening day.

Pfister heads the list of hurlers with more help expected when Kansas City's triple-A farm at Honolulu cuts down its roster.

Baseball Work In Dixie, Little Leagues Slated

Little League baseball workouts will be held Saturday, April 8th and will continue for three Saturdays. The Eastside Little League, composed of boys living East of Lamy Lane and south of Loop Road, will try out at 1:00 at Bendel Stadium, and Northside League will have its try-outs at 3:00, at the same site. The Southside Leaguers will meet at Lions Field at 1:00 for their try-outs.

Dixie League boys will meet at Legion Memorial Stadium with the Northside boys meeting at 9:30 in the morning and the Southside boys at 3:30 in the afternoon.

All boys have to attend the try-outs in order to be eligible to be picked for openings on the teams.

Boys who have not registered will have until Tuesday to register. No one will be registered at the ball parks.

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi swept a Southeastern Conference baseball doubleheader from Tulane Saturday, 9-6 and 14-2.

Mississippi, SEC defending champion, collected 23 hits with Ken Netherland and Tommy Farley getting four each. Jake Gibbs, Rebel football and baseball star, smashed a 415-foot homer, one of the longest ever hit in the local stadium, in the first game.

Tulane pitcher John Peebles had a 3-run homer in the opener.

Mississippi now has won four SEC games, all at Tulane's expense, and lost two in the loop.

Dan Carr Ref For 23rd Run Of NSC Relays

NATCHITOCHES, La. — Dan B. Carr, head track coach at Natchitoches High School, has been named Referee for the 23rd annual Northwestern State College Relays set for April 20 through April 22.

The 1961 NSC Relays is expected to attract a record entry, topping last year's total of 92 high schools and eight colleges.

Carr has been head track mentor at Natchitoches High School for the past five years, during which time he has led his teams to five straight District 3-AA championships. In addition, his teams have never placed lower than fourth in the State AA meets.

Relays Director is Coach Walter Ledet, head track mentor at Northwestern State College. He announced that another top field of high schools and colleges will be on hand for the three - day affair. A freshman and junior college division has also been added to this year's schedule.

On April 20, high schools in the Classes C and B categories will compete; on April 21, competition is for high schools in Classes A, AA, and AAA. Competition is at night on April 22 for college, collegiate freshmen and junior colleges.

Los Angeles Falls In Seventh Game

By CHUCK CAPALDO
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks, with brilliant Bob Pettit paving the way with the decisive basket and 31 points, edged the never-quit Los Angeles Lakers 105-103 Saturday in the seventh and deciding game of the National Basketball Association Western Division playoffs.

The Hawks thus gained their fourth playoff title in their six years in St. Louis and the right to meet the well-rested Celtics in the best-of-seven NBA championship final beginning in Boston Sunday afternoon.

Once again Elgin Baylor was the individual standout with 39 points. The 25-year-old former Seattle star wound up with 260 points in the series.

The Hawks, who trailed the Lakers 3 games to 2 earlier in the series, staged a tremendous surge to overcome a 15-point deficit in the first quarter when they went the first 6½ minutes without a field goal.

The Hawks held a 49-48 halftime lead and an 81-78 lead at the end of three quarters.

The lead changed hands 10 times in the feverish third quarter before a screaming Kiel Auditorium crowd of 10,116 and a national television audience.

As the fourth quarter started, Baylor connected on a jump shot to bring the Lakers to within one point of the Hawks at 81-80. Then the Hawks rattled off eight points to the Lakers' two and took a lead they never relinquished.

But the Lakers, who got a 29-point contribution from Jerry West, were not through. They outscored the Hawks 9-4 in the last 2 minutes. West's basket with a minute to go and Rudy LaRusso's free throw left them 2 points behind, 103-101.

Then Pettit, emerging from a wild scramble under the basket, tipped in the basket that made the difference with 32 seconds left. Baylor's two free throws closed out the scoring.

The Hawks' Larry Foust missed a free throw with 17 seconds to go and the Lakers gained possession. Baylor, pressed by Cliff Hagan, fired a shot which glanced off the backboard. Lennie Wilkens, who scored 21 points, came up with the loose ball for St. Louis.

Woody Sauldsberry gave the Hawks a big boost with 13 rebounds and 22 points while filling in for the injured Clyde Lovellette. Hagan had 21. Pettit led both clubs with 17 rebounds.

The Lakers, led by Baylor's 11 points, hit five of their first seven shots from the floor in the opening period, and seemed to be on their way to a lopsided triumph.

But the Hawks, getting a great rebounding job from Pettit and setting up their shots better, steadily closed the gap in the second period. They went ahead for the first time after a game-opening free throw by Pettit with 4:58 to go in the first half.

Wilkens sent them ahead 39-38 with a driving hook shot. The lead then changed hands five times before Wilkens' free throw with one second to go gave the Hawks' their one-point halftime edge.

Five Recreation Softball Loops To See Action

The Monroe Recreation Dept. will hold its initial meetings Monday and Tuesday nights of this week for the purpose of organizing its Summer Softball leagues. Leagues that will meet are the City, Church, Civic, Ladies, and Industrial. The City League is open to all age groups.

The Church League is open to all Churches with a requirement that players must be a member of the Church and must be 17 or older. The Civic League is open to all Civic Clubs. The Ladies League is open to all Ladies 16 years of age and over. The Industrial League is a new league which will be open to industries, or any type of business and participants must be a member of that firm to be eligible to play.

The City League will meet Monday night at 6:30 followed by the Church Leagues at 7:00. Tuesday's nights meetings will include the Civic League at 6:30, The Industrial League at 7:00 and the Ladies League at 7:30. All teams that are interested in entering a team in any of these Leagues are asked to have their manager or a representative at these meetings. All meetings will be held at the Community Center 113½ Catalpa. Anyone desiring any information pertaining to any of the above can contact Jackie Neal at the Community Center, telephone FA 2-2170.

The Senior, Junior, and Midget leagues will begin organizing in about a month so as to start playing as soon as school is out. Dates and time of meeting will be announced later.

There will be an umpires meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Community Center also. Anyone interested in umpiring in any of the Recreation Dept. Summer Leagues are urged to attend this meeting. This meeting will include Softball, Little League, and Dixie League umpires.

Doherty Hurt

HARDEEVILLE, S. C. (AP) — Ed Doherty, general manager of the new Washington Senators in the American League, suffered severe bruises and cuts on the right leg Saturday when a truck slammed into the rear of his car on the highway four miles north of here.

Mrs. Doherty suffered facial cuts and shock.

The Dohertys were en route from Pompanm Beach, Fla., where the club trained, to Washington. They were taken to the Hardeeville Hospital for first aid. They plan to continue by plane.

Atkins-Tippitt Day On Slate For April 4th

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Ruston fans will pay homage to two of its outstanding athletes here Tuesday by honoring all - Americans Pervis Atkins, Jr., and Rex Tippitt with an "Atkins-Tippett Day."

The public ceremony will include a parade through down-town Ruston and a banquet at Lincoln High School. Both athletes are Ruston natives.

Infectiously good - natured, he carried battered helments and got a pat on the head for chasing footballs. Even then, he admitted reproachfully that he wanted to grow up and play football like all-American halfback Glenn Davis of Army.

The Autumn scene shifts to 1960 and newspapers all over the country related in graphic details the flamboyant exploits of grown-up Pervis Atkins, an All-American super star who did everything superbly for unbeaten New Mexico State.

Born in Ruston and reared in Oakland, Calif., Atkins looks and acts like a fictional frontiersman on the football field. The swarthy Negro star led the nation in ball carrying and scoring in 1959 and completed his senior year by replacing his idol, former West Point star Davis, as the all-time long-gain specialist in the NCAA record book.

The wispy Aggie speedster averaged 14.7 yards for each of the 110 times he touched the ball on rushes, receptions and runbacks. Davis averaged 14.3 yards on 91 similar sorties at West Point in 1944.

Recently the rough-hewn halfback joined the professional glamour parade by signing a five-figure contract with the Los Angeles Rams. Professional scouts say he automatically qualified as one of the future stars of the class of 1961.

Tippitt is one of the area's finest cages.

He scored 1,731 points in four seasons with the Fred Hobby's Grambling Tigers and led the team to the NAIA national title during his senior year.

The personable 6-4 former Lincoln High star was a member of the NAIA all-star team that defeated Ohio State in the Olympic trials in 1960 and earned All-American honors.

Tippitt's basketball career is described as one of "steady progression" by coach Hobby. Big, fast, aggressive and a tenacious defensive man, he was usually assigned to the opponent's top scorer and combined defensive skills with an uncanny ability to frequently rescue the Tigers with long set shots.

The tight-working guard steered Grambling into four straight NAIA and NCAA national tournaments.

He was drafted by the Syracuse Nationals of the NBA last week. Earlier, San Francisco selected him as one of its top draft choices in the American basketball league.

Exhibition Baseball

A's Triumph

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics jumped on Frank Lary, Detroit's leading pitcher last season, for nine runs and nine hits in four innings Saturday and handed the Tigers a 11-2 exhibition defeat.

Lary was supposed to go all the way if he could but manager Bob Scheffing had to withdraw him after the fourth. In five appearance this spring Lary has yielded 39 hits and 24 runs.

Jay Hankins, a rookie outfielder led the Kansas City attack with three hits. Andy Carey hit a long home run off Joe Grzenda, who finished for the Tigers.

Although Lary's pitching was ineffective, he was potent at the plate, slamming a home run in the fourth inning.

Redlegs - Roll

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds burned on their vaunted power Saturday in downing the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 in an exhibition baseball game.

Home runs accounted for all of the Dodger runs. Charley Neal blasted a three-run homer over the center field fence in the second and rookie Willie Davis homered in the seventh.

BRAVES, 6-3

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Bob Buhl scattered eight hits as he went the distance Saturday, giving the Milwaukee Braves a 6-3 exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Braves scored four runs off Philly starter John Buzhardt in the second and third innings. Lee Maye led the attack on Buzhardt. Ken Lehman and Jack Baldschun with a home run and a single.

The Phillies cut the margin in half in the fifth as Ruben Amaro singled and Bob Sadowski hit his second home run of the exhibition season.

Milwaukee picked up two more runs in the eighth on four singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

CARDS SQUEEZE

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — A Cicotte and Mickey McDermott, a pair of well-traveled veterans, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a four-hit, 4-3 triumph over the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game Saturday.

Cicotte held the Bucs to only two hits into the seventh inning and then gave way to McDermott when he tired. McDermott, 31, picked up by the Cards as a free agent, finished up after working his way out of a jam. The Cards are now 12-3.

The Red Birds jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run homer by Bill White and added another run in the second off Roy Face.

The Bues' only hit until the seventh, a scratch single by Dick Schofield, set up their first run in the third. Hal Smith's single scored Daryl Spencer, who had doubled, with the Cards' decisive run in the seventh.

The Pirates, with a 1-5-7 spring record, picked up their second run in the seventh on an error, a walk and Gino Cimoli's single. McDermott came on with two on and one out and slammed the door. He was nicked for a tally in the eighth.

YANK SHUTOUT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins handed the New York Yankees their first shutout of baseball's exhibition season Saturday, 4-0.

The American League champions were held to six singles by Pedro Ramos and southpaw Jim Kaat as they dropped their 10th decision in 11 games on their home field.

Ramos limited the Yanks to five hits and fanned six in seven innings. Kaat gave up the other hit and also fanned one.

Art Ditmar was the loser. He was clipped for eight hits and three runs in six innings. Ron Henry, rookie catcher who is due to be optioned out, drove in two of the Twins' runs. His single after Bob Allison had doubled accounted for one in the fourth. In the eighth he again singled after Pete Whisenant's two-bagger.

Reno Bertoia's double, a triple by Don Mincher and Jim Lemon's single accounted for the other two runs in the fifth.

ANGELS, 9-3

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A six-run seventh inning enabled the Los Angeles Angels to trim the San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League 9-3 Saturday in an exhibition baseball game.

The key blow of the Angel outburst was a bases-loaded triple by shortstop Ken Hamlin. The former Kansas City infielder had three hits in four trips to pace the 12-hit Los Angeles attack.

Veteran Ted Garver pitched seven innings for the Angels, and was the winner. Paul Robinson, who came on in the seventh for San Diego, was the loser.

BOSOX ROLL

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Left-hander Tom Borland pitched 3 2-3 scoreless innings and doubled across the winning run in the seventh inning as the Boston Red Sox edged the Chicago Cubs, 9-8 before 3,119 fans Saturday.

Frank Malzone and Gary Geiger whacked his fourth home run of the spring and rookie Billy Wilham also hit No. 4 for the Cubs.

Chicago jumped on veteran Ike Delock for five runs in the first inning and finally chased him in the 5th when they counted twice for an 8-7 lead. Borland put out the fire.

Geiger hit two doubles in addition to his homer and Malzone added a triple to his round-tripper. Catcher Russ Nixon contributed three singles to Boston's 11-hit attack against four Chicago pitchers.

The Sox, topping the Cubs for the fourth time in six games, boosted their Cactus League record to 5-1-1.

TRIBE BY ONE

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Vic power lined a solid single to left field with the bases loaded and one out in the 11th inning to give the Indians a 5-4 exhibition baseball triumph over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

The hit, Power's first in seven times at bat in the game lasting 3 hours and 50 minutes, made a winning pitcher out of rookie Bob Allen. The southpaw worked the last six innings, giving up four hits and no runs.

Jim Piersall and Johnny Temple each had four hits for Cleveland.

Tito Francona opened the winning rally with a bloop double, his third hit. Then Georges Maranda, fifth Giant hurler, intentionally walked Willie Kirland and Woodie Held to set the stage for Power.

Styron Twins, Grambling Ace Will Compete

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eddie Southern will run again in the Texas Relays next Friday, this time against another Olympic performer, Stone Johnson.

Relays director Froggie Lovvorn said Saturday that Southern, one of the University of Texas' greatest athletes, will get a leave from the Air Force so he can run the 100-meter dash and the 400-meter hurdles in the 34th Texas Relays.

Johnson of Grambling College, placed second in the 1960 NCAA 200-meters and fifth in the Rome Olympic Games.

Southern also will perform against the famed Styron twins of Southern Illinois. Don Styron currently holds the low hurdles world record.

In the 400-meter hurdles Southern will compete against Dave Styron at 9:20 p.m. (EST) Friday and 50 minutes later will face Johnson and Don Styron in the 100-meters.

HALE AND HEARTY

Southern Association Set For 61st Season Opening

ATLANTA, (UPI) — The grand old Southern Association, having rallied once again from death's doorstep, opens its 61st season Friday seemingly as hale and hearty as ever but admitting to more than its share of aches and pains.

The AA Southern is building a unique tradition of staggering into the end of a season with franchises collapsing along the way and every indication pointing to the collapse of the entire league then coming back next spring as though nothing had happened.

This season is no exception. The Southern moved into Macon Ga., to take up the slack when Memphis, Tenn., folded and talked Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn., into staying on their feet and thus opens the 1961 campaign with a full muster of eight teams.

The Southern Association season officially opens Friday when the Shreveport Sports, who missed by a game of winning the 1960 title, as the Little Rock Travelers who won the post-season playoffs.

All eight teams swing into action Saturday with most involved in a state series. The defending champion Atlanta Crackers will meet the Macon Peaches in both the first AA game ever played in Macon and the first AA game ever played between two Georgia teams. The Birmingham Barons will be at the Mobile Alabama Bears, the Chattanooga Lookouts will be at the Nashville Vols, and Shreveport will continue at Little Rock.

There will be a lot of new faces in the Southern this year, both among the players and the managers. Five of the eight teams have new field bosses. Macon, appropriately enough, will be led by Max Macon, a long - time manager who has been in professional baseball 27 years but never before in the Southern Association.

Former major leaguer Ernie White took over the helm at Mobile, succeeding John Lipon.

Chattanooga has switched from Spook Jacobs to Frank Lucchesi who started managing when he was 24 years old and last year had a champion at Williamsport. Al Birmingham, veteran Frank Skaff moved up from Knoxville of the South Atlantic League. And at Nashville, Red Robbins, a veteran minor league infielder, makes his managing debut.

It's still too early to tell how the teams will shape up after the major leagues shake down and start farming out those hands who don't make the big time this year. However, it would appear that Rube Walker will have a good chance to come up with another winner at Atlanta as the parent Los Angeles Dodgers are reportedly loaded with material all the way down the line.

If the Crackers should win again, it would be the last time for the perennial Southern Association power.

Birmingham, a Detroit farm club and Shreveport and Little Rock which have working agreements with Kansas City and Baltimore respectively, are the only other Southern Association teams which can count directly on major league support. The other teams have varied working agreements that should produce some help from the majors—but nothing definite. Mobile has the most unusual setup. The Bears have signed up with the founding New York franchise which gets underway next year in the National League. This team will help Mobile with money but has no players to offer.

Mobile was connected with Cleveland and Nashville with Cincinnati a year ago. But these major league teams didn't like the fact that Negroes don't play in the segregation - minded Southern Association and withdrew their support.

The Southern teams have depended heavily in the past on minor league veterans to form their nuclei but will have to bank more on youngsters this season under a new league ruling which limits each club to no more than seven players with as much as five years of professional service.

Shreveport and Little Rock apparently will have the main rebuilding jobs. Most of Shreveport's key men from last year are battling for berths with Kansas City and Little Rock will have to let many of its veterans go to make room for Baltimore's young talent.

PALMER DEFENDS THURSDAY

World's Best Set For '61' Masters

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The largest field ever, paced by defending champion Arnold Palmer, PGA king Jay Hebert and nearly all of the other top names in the world of golf, is entered for the 1961 Masters Tournament which gets underway here Thursday.

Ninety-two of the world's finest professional and amateur golfers will tee off in the 25th renewal of what has become one of the greatest tournaments in the golfing world. Tournament officials, figuring the prestige is more important than the money, won't even try to estimate the purse but last year Arnold pocketed $17,500 for his ring 6-under-par 282 for the four-day, 72-hole tournament.

A total of 99 golfers received invitations to the tournament. But five of these, including the famed Bobby Jones who sired the Masters, no longer compete. The veteran Paul Runyan cut the field further by his refusal to play in protest against the fact that the field will be cut to the low 40 scorers and ties after 36 holes. And Art Wall, the 1959 Masters champion, is being forced to miss out again, for the second straight year, because of an injury.

A knee infection prevented Wall from defending his title last year. This time a pulled muscle under a rib has forced him to the sidelines.

Palmer, who swept nearly every golf honor in sight in 1960, is a heavy favorite to defend his title and win a third Masters' championship. However, the powerful Pennsylvanian will have to overcome a Masters' jinx — nobody has ever won two Masters back-to-back.

South Africa's Gary Player is being boomed as a serious contender for the 1961 title. Player finished seven strokes back in a tie for sixth place last year but is the leading money winner on the 1961 tour. If Player should win, he would become the first foreigner to do so in the 27-year history of the Masters.

Clyde Lovellette, the Hawks' 21-point scorer who was shelved with a twisted back in the fifth game, "Say anything you want in praise of Woody," Seymour said.

Elgin Baylor, the great Laker who averaged 37.1 in the series, and rookie Jerry West, a 24.7 scorer in the seven games, drew high praise on all sides.

Hawks Happy To See Laker Series Over

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "You guys always win the big ones — but it would have been no disgrace to lose to those kids — they were digging all the way."

St. Louis Hawks' coach Paul Seymour was slapping backs and shaking hands in the steaming dressing room after his team's 105-103 victory Saturday over the scrappy Los Angeles Lakers in the decid ng seventh game of pro basketball's Western Playoff finals.

"Man, I'm glad that's over," said Cliff Hagan. "I can't remember a tougher series."

Hawks' owner Ben Kerner, in a happy daze, walked over to his No. 1 pro, Bob Pettit, and said: "You always come through in the big ones, Big Blue."

The Hawks boarded a plane for Boston shortly after the game and will meet the defending champion Celtics Sunday in the opener of the National Basketball Association's World Series. The Celtics beat the Hawks 4-3 last year after St. Louis nudged the Lakers 4-3.

Seymour and Kerner gave high praise to Woody Sauldsberry, the 6-foot-7 Philadelphia Warriors' castoff who came through with 25, 26 and 22 points in the last three games of the series. He replaced

Monday Match At Roll-Arena Aims At Title

Two wrestlers who have been clamoring for a crack at Adrien Bellengeon's southern lightheavy belt will have their big opportunity at the Roll-Arena.

The two-Tony Neopolitan and Rod Rivera - crawl through the ropes for a two fall winning, no time limit, no disqualification match with the winner meeting the champ the following week.

Arena officials stressed that there will be no draw in this bout - the participants must fight to a decision.

Just to warm - up for the defense Bellengeon will take on rough - and - tough Gene Bowman first in a two fall, one hour bout that may prove to be more than just practice.

Bowman is a trickster with a reputation for winning if not for good, clean wrestling and the champ will have to watch every move.

A new mystery man of sorts will present himself on the card's 15 minute, one fall opener when Prince Omar risks his record against newcomer Kim Queen. No one knows much about Queen except that he is supposed to be plenty good.

Announcing!

WHEEL ALIGNMENT AND BRAKES
OPENING APR. 1
510 N. Third St.

Claude Wallace

Announcing to my many friends and customers, I will be in business for myself at 510 North Third St., Monroe, April 1st. I have had 20 years in the wheel alignment business and invite you to stop by my new location.

Salesman Wanted

We are looking for a professional Salesman with integrity, who is confident of his ability to sell, having proved it to everyone's satisfaction.

This man works out of his own pride and desire to be outstanding in his chosen profession.

He should be between 35 and 50, and have a family for whom he is determined to provide a better than average future.

This territory requires very little travel — with a high income — and a definite future. —Box 261 c/o News-Star—World.

Exhibition Baseball

A's Triumph

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics jumped on Frank Lary, Detroit's leading pitcher last season, for nine runs and nine hits in four innings Saturday and handed the Tigers a 11-2 exhibition defeat.

Lary was supposed to go all the way if he could but manager Bob Scheffing had to withdraw him after the fourth. In five appearance this spring Lary has yielded 30 hits and 24 runs.

Jay Hankins, a rookie outfielder, led the Kansas City attack with three hits. Andy Carey hit a long home run off Joe Grzenda, who finished for the Tigers.

Although Lary's pitching was ineffective, he was potent at the plate, slamming a home run in the fourth inning.

Redlegs - Roll

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati's Reds turned on their vaunted power Saturday in downing the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 in an exhibition baseball game.

Home runs accounted for all of the Dodger runs. Charley Neal blasted a three-run homer over the center field fence in the second and rookie Willie Davis homered in the seventh.

BRAVES, 6-3

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Bob Buhl scattered eight hits as he went the distance Saturday, giving the Milwaukee Braves a 6-3 exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Braves scored four runs off Philly starter John Buzhardt in the second and third innings. Lee Maye led the attack on Buzhardt, Ken Lehman and Jack Baldschun with a home run and a single.

The Phillies cut the margin in half in the fifth as Ruben Amaro singled and Bob Sadowski hit his second home run of the exhibition season.

Milwaukee picked up two more runs in the eighth on four singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

The Phillies scored a consolation run in the ninth on Bob Malkmus' triple and Clarence Coleman's pinch single.

CARDS SQUEEZE

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Al Cicotte and Mickey McDermott, a pair of well-traveled veterans, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a four-hit, 4-3 triumph over the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game Saturday.

Cicotte held the Bucs to only t o hits into the seventh inning and then gave way to McDermott when he tired. McDermott, 31, picked up by the Cards as a free a ent, finished up after working his way out of a jam. The Cards are now 12-8.

The Red Birds jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run homer by Bill White and added another run in the second off Roy Face.

The Bucs' only hit until the seventh, a scratch single by Dick Schofield, set up their first run in the third. Hal Smith's single scored Daryl Spencer, who had doubled, with the Cards' decisive run in the seventh.

The Pirates, with a 15-7 spring record, picked up their second run in the seventh on an error, a walk and Gino Cimoli's single. McDermott came on with two on and none out and slammed the door. He was nicked for a tally in the eighth.

YANK SHUTOUT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins handed the New York Yankees their first shutout of baseball's exhibition season Saturday, 4-0.

The American League champions were held to six singles by Pedro Ramos and southpaw Jim Kaat as they dropped their 10th decision in 11 games on their home field.

Ramos limited the Yanks to five hits and fanned six in seven innings. Kaat gave up the other hit and also fanned one.

Art Ditmar was the loser. He was clipped for eight hits and three runs in six innings. Ron Henry, rookie catcher who is due to be optioned out, drove in two of the Twins' runs. His single after Bob Allison had doubled accounted for one in the fourth. In the eighth he again singled after Pete Whisenant's two-bagger.

Reno Bertoia's double, a triple by Don Mincher and Jim Lemon's single accounted for the other two runs in the fifth.

ANGELS, 9-3

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—A six-run seventh inning enabled the Los Angeles Angels to trim the San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League 9-3 Saturday in an exhibition baseball game.

The key blow of the Angel outburst was a bases-loaded triple by shortstop Ken Hamlin. The former Kansas City infielder had three hits in four trips to pace the 12-hit Los Angeles attack.

Veteran Ned Garver pitched seven innings for the Angels and was the winner. Paul Robinson, who came on in the seventh for San Diego, was the loser.

BOSOX ROLL

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Left-hander Tom Borland pitched 3 2-3 scoreless innings and doubled across the winning run in the seventh inning as the Boston Red Sox edged the Chicago Cubs 9-8 before 3,110 fans Saturday.

Frank Malzone and Gary Geiger whacked his fourth home run of the spring and rookie Billy Williams also hit No. 4 for the Cubs.

Chicago jumped on veteran Ike Delock for five runs in the first inning and finally chased him in the sixth when they counted twice for an 8-7 lead. Borland put out the fire.

Geiger hit two doubles in addition to his homer and Malzone added a triple to his round-tripper. Catcher Russ Nixon contributed three singles to Boston's 13-hit attack against four Chicago pitchers.

The Sox, topping the Cubs for the fourth time in six games, boosted their Cactus League record to 11-7.

TRIBE BY ONE

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Vic power lined a solid single to left field with the bases loaded and one out in the 14th inning to give the Indians a 5-4 exhibition baseball triumph over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

The hit, Power's first in seven times at bat in the game lasting 3 hours and 50 minutes, made a winning pitcher out of rookie Bob Allen. The southpaw worked the last six innings, giving up four hits and no runs.

Jim Piersall and Johnny Temple each had four hits for Cleveland.

Tito Francona opened the winning rally with a bloop double, his third hit. Then Georges Maranda, fifth Giant hurler, intentionally walked Willie Kirland and Woodie Held to set the stage for Power.

Styron Twins, Grambling Ace Will Compete

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eddie Southern will run again in the Texas Relays next Friday, this time against another Olympic performer, Stone Johnson.

Relays director Froggie Lovvorn said Saturday that Southern, one of the University of Texas' greatest athletes, will get a leave from the Air Force so he can run the 100-meter dash and the 400-meter hurdles in the 34th Texas Relays.

Johnson of Grambling College, placed second in the 1960 NCAA 200-meters and fifth in the Rome Olympic Games.

Southern also will perform against the famed Styron twins of Southern Illinois. Don Styron currently holds the low hurdles world record.

In the 400-meter hurdles Southern will compete against Dave Styron at 9:20 p.m. (EST) Friday and 50 minutes later will face Johnson and Don Styron in the 100-meters.

HALE AND HEARTY

Southern Association Set For 61st Season Opening

ATLANTA, (UPI) — The grand old Southern Association, having rallied once again from death's doorstep, opens its 61st season Friday seemingly as hale and hearty as ever but admitting to more than its share of aches and pains.

The AA Southern is building a unique tradition of staggering into the end of a season with franchises collapsing along the way and every indication pointing to the collapse of the entire league—then coming back next spring as though nothing had happened.

This season is no exception. The Southern moved into Macon, Ga., to take up the slack when Memphis, Tenn., folded and talked Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn., into staying on their feet and thus opens the 1961 campaign with a full muster of eight teams.

The Southern Association season officially opens Friday when the Shreveport Sports, who missed by a game of winning the 1960 title, as the Little Rock Travelers who won the post-season playoffs.

All eight teams swing into action Saturday with most involved in in - state series. The defending champion Atlanta Crackers will meet the Macon Peaches in both the first AA game ever played in Macon and the first AA game ever played between two Georgia teams. The Birmingham Barons will be at the Mobile (Ala.) Bears, the Chattanooga Lookouts will be at the Nashville Vols, and Shreveport will continue at Little Rock.

There will be a lot of new faces in the Southern this year, both among the players and the managers. Five of the eight teams have new field bosses. Macon, appropriately enough, will be led by Max Macon, a long - time manager who has been in professional baseball 27 years but never before in the Southern Association.

Former major leaguer Ernie White took over the helm at Mobile, succeeding John Lipon.

Chattanooga has switched from Spook Jacobs to Frank Lucchesi who started managing when he was 24 years old and last year had a champion at Williamsport. At Birmingham, veteran Frank Skaff moved up from Knoxville of the South Atlantic League. And at Nashville, Red Robbins, a veteran minor league infielder, makes his managing debut.

It's still too early to tell how the teams will shape up after the major leagues shake down and start farming out those hands who don't make the big time this year. However, it would appear that Rube Walker will have a good chance to come up with another winner at Atlanta as the parent Los Angeles Dodgers are reportedly loaded with material all the way down the line.

If the Crackers should win again, it would be the 16th time for the perennial Southern Association power.

Birmingham, a Detroit farm club and Shreveport and Little Rock which have working agreements with Kansas City and Baltimore respectively, are the only other Southern Association teams which can count directly on major league support. The other teams have varied working agreements that should produce some help from the majors—but nothing definite. Mobile has the most unusual setup. The Bears have signed up with the foundling New York franchise which gets underway next year in the National League. This team will help Mobile with money but has no players to offer.

Mobile was connected with Cleveland and Nashville with Cincinnati a year ago. But these major league teams didn't like the fact that Negroes don't play in the segregation - minded Southern Association and withdrew their support.

The Southern teams have depended heavily in the past on minor league veterans to form their nuclei but will have to bank more on youngsters this season under a new league ruling which limits each club to no more than seven players with as much as five years of professional service.

Shreveport and Little Rock apparently will have the main rebuilding jobs. Most of Shreveport's key men from last year are battling for berths with Kansas City and Little Rock will have to let many of its veterans go to make room for Baltimore's young talent.

PALMER DEFENDS THURSDAY

World's Best Set For '61' Masters

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The largest field ever, paced by defending champion Arnold Palmer, PGA king Jay Hebert and nearly all of the other top names in the world of golf, is entered for the 1961 Masters Tournament which gets underway here Thursday.

Ninety-two of the world's finest professional and amateur golfers will tee off in the 25th renewal of what has become one of the greatest tournaments in the golfing world. Tournament officials, figuring the prestige is more important than the money, won't even try to estimate the purse but last year Arnold pocketed $17,500 for his ning 6-under-par 282 for the four-day, 72-hole tournament.

A total of 99 golfers received invitations to the tournament. But five of these, including the famed Bobby Jones who sired the Masters, no longer compete. The veteran Paul Runyan cut the field further by his refusal to play in protest against the fact that the field will be cut to the low 40 scorers and ties after 36 holes. And Art Wall, the 1959 Masters champion, is being forced to miss out again, for the second straight year, because of an injury.

A knee infection prevented Wall from defending his title last year. This time a pulled muscle under a rib has forced him to the sidelines.

Palmer, who swept nearly every golf honor in sight in 1960, is a heavy favorite to defend his title and win a third Masters' championship. However, the powerful Pennsylvanian will have to overcome a Masters' jinx — nobody has ever won two Masters back-to-back.

South Africa's Gary Player is being boomed as a serious contender for the 1961 title. Player finished seven strokes back in a tie for sixth place last year but is the leading money winner on the 1961 tour. If Player should win, he would become the first foreigner to do so in the 27-year history of the Masters.

Hawks Happy To See Laker Series Over

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "You guys always win the big ones — but it would have been no disgrace to lose to those kids — they were digging all the way."

St. Louis Hawks' coach Paul Seymour was slapping backs and shaking hands in the steaming dressing room after his team's 105-103 victory Saturday over the scrappy Los Angeles Lakers in the deciding seventh game of pro basketball's Western Playoff finals.

"Man, I'm glad that's over," said Cliff Hagan. "I can't remember a tougher series."

Hawks' owner Ben Kerner, in a happy daze, walked over to his No. 1 pro, Bob Pettit, and said: "You always come through in the big ones, Big Blue."

The Hawks boarded a plane for Boston shortly after the game and will meet the defending champ on Celtics Sunday in the opener of the National Basketball Association's World Series. The Celtics beat the Hawks 4-3 last year after St. Louis nudged the Lakers 4-3.

Seymour and Kerner gave high praise to Woody Sauldsberry, the 6 - foot - 7 Philadelphia Warriors' castoff who came through with 25, 26 and 22 points in the last three games of the series. He replaced Clyde Lovellette, the Hawks' 21-point scorer who was shelved with a twisted back in the fifth game.

"Say anything you want in praise of Woody," Seymour said.

Elgin Baylor, the great Laker who averaged 37.1 in the series, and rookie Jerry West, a 24.7 scorer in the seven games, drew high praise on all sides.

Monday Match At Roll-Arena Aims At Title

Two wrestlers who have been clamoring for a crack at Adrien Bellengeon's southern lightheavy bolt will have their big opportunity at the Roll-Arena.

The two-Tony Neopolitan and Rod Rivera - crawl through the ropes for a two fall winning, no time limit, no disqualification match with the winner meeting the champ the following week.

Arena officials stressed that there will be no draw in this bout - the participants must fight to a decision.

Just to warm - up for the defense Bellengeon will take on rough - and - tough Gene Bowman first in a two fall, one hour bout that may prove to be more than just practice.

Bowman is a trickster with a reputation for winning if not for good, clean wrestling and the champ will have to watch every move.

A new mystery man of sorts will present himself on the card's 15 minute, one fall opener when Prince Omar risks his record against newcomer Kim Queen. No one knows much about Queen except that he is supposed to be plenty good

TRIBE RELAY GETS RECORD

Northeast Edged By Tech Thinclads In Memphis Meet

MEMPHIS (AP) — Louisiana Tech and Arkansas State teachers college won division championships in the annual Memphis relays Saturday.

In the university division, Louisiana Tech piled up 58½ points to edge favored Northeast Louisiana, which finished with 53.

Arkansas State Teachers won the college division, as expected, with 69½ points. It was ASTC's second straight title in this track and field event.

University team scoring— Louisiana Tech 58½; Louisiana Tech 53; Murray State 30; Southeast Missouri 29½; Ole Miss 22; Memphis State 21; Mississippi State 18; Depauw 17; Southwest Missouri 9; Washington of St. Louis 6; Georgia Tech 5; Notre Dame and East Texas State 4.

College team scoring—Arkansas State Teachers 69½; Principia 42½; Oklahoma Baptist 26; Southwestern 21; Mississippi College 20; Union 15; Little Rock University 3.

Despite fears that the weather beaten track would slow things down, 11 relay records fell and 2 were tied.

The biggest record breaking margin was on the shot put, where Georgia Tech's Ed Nutting heaved the heavy ball 53 feet 2 inches, almost 10 feet past the mark set by Arkansas' Gerald Henderson in 1957.

Mississippi entered a limited team that won two events, setting records in both.

Ed and Mel Edmonds, Chico Taylor and Larry Smith toured the 440 yard relay in :42.5, clipping four tenths of a second off the mark set by Memphis State. Then in the 880 yard, the same four went twice as far in 1:28.7, a full second under the mark hung up by Mississippi State.

Another stalwart foursome was Northeast Louisiana John Baker, Claud Mercer, Jim Mouser and Randall Walker in the mile relay. They were timed in 3:16.7, as compared to the old mark of 3:22.4 set by Arkansas.

Arkansas State Teachers set records in the 880 and mile relays of the college section.

For Bob Groseclose's Northeast State Indians it was another day of individual stardom and near team victory.

The Indians had placed second in the Florida Relays last week and Louisiana Tech, the champion in the University division here today, had been hot on their heels.

Hey Rogers was back in stride for Northeast with another record-breaking performance. Rogers tossed the discus 153 ft., 1½ inches to break the old relays record of 141-11¾, and placed second to Ed Nutting of Ga. Tech in the shot put.

Tech had its share of stars with Pat Garrett stepping off the 100-yard dash in 9.9 for top honors, and Bob Goree winning the pole vault with a jump of 13 feet, good enough to tie the old relays mark.

Buddy Elland of Northeast won the mile run in 4.18 to eclipse the old mark of 4.23, and George Abbott of the Indians placed fourth. Owen Owen of Northeast and Tech's Howard tied for second in the broad jump.

The relays really got a working over. Mississippi broke both the 440 and 880 yard relay marks, with Northeast finishing second behind the Rebs in both events.

The Indians' mile relay foursome of Baker, Mercer, Mouser and Walker beat out Louisiana Tech and set a new mark of 3.16:7.

Northeast's spring medley team of Walker, Mouser, Goldsmith and Elland beat La. Tech in that department in a time of 3.31:3, and the Bulldogs took top honors in the distance medley, as Albritton, Herbert, Bryant and Hays covered the distance in 10.42:3.

Individual Summaries:

Shot Put — Nutting, Ga. Tech; Rogers, Northeast; Hamilton, Murray; Dunaway, Mississippi; (57-2) old record 53-2.

100-yard dash — Garrett, La. Tech; West, East Texas St.; Goldsmith, Northeast; Mott, Miss. St.; Owen, Ark. Teachers (9.9).

Mile run — Elland, Northeast; Grace, Miss. St.; Oakley, Little Rock University; Abbott, Northeast (4.18) old record 4.23.

High Jump — Masters, Murray; Rieche, Southeast Missouri; McCarthy, Southwestern; tie between Kent, Arkansas Teachers, and Melton, La. Tech (6.2)

Broad Jump — Emens, DePauw; Owen, Northeast; tie between Howard, La. Tech, and Hollowell of Murray; Kent, Arkansas Teachers (22.5½).

120 HH — Bryant, Union U.; Mulrooney, Notre Dame, Melton, Arkansas Teachers — 15.2.

Javelin — Joe Cage, La. Tech; Domschitz, Washington of St. Louis; Tullis, Principia — 196-2

Relays:

Finsterwald Takes Slight Azalea Lead

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, who figured his golf game needed work to prepare for next week's Masters tournament, gave evidence that it was rounding into shape Saturday as he shot a 4-under-par 68 to lead the first round of the $12,000 Azalea Open tournament by a stroke.

The Jupiter, Fla., professional rode a hot putter and a steady overall performance to fashion a 35-33 over the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course.

Jim Ferree, Winston-Salem, N.C., pro who plays out of Crystal River, Fla., needed one more stroke than Finsterwald on the back nine in carding a 69 for second place in the tournament which winds up with two rounds Sunday.

Sharing third place at 70 were Frank Boynton, Orlando, Fla., playing from Corpus Christi, Tex., and Tommy Jacobs, from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., whose closing 31 was the best nine hole effort of the sunny, windy day.

Only eight men in the field of 82 bettered par as the wind was a factor on many holes. It blew at a steady 20-30 mile an hour clip, with occasional gusts of 40.

Finsterwald, PGA champion and pro golfer of the year in 1958, has never won here, but has shown a fondness for the course by picking up $5,300 over the years, the second highest amount any pro has earned.

After three-putting the second hole he settled down to a steady round. He birdied the sixth from 2½ feet and the seventh from 18 to turn one under. On the 11th he birdied from 45 feet but lost that stroke with a bogey on 13 where he was short of the green, chipped up and missed an eight-footer. But he birdied three of the last five holes to move into the lead. On 14 he rolled in a 15-footer and came out of a trap on the long 15th to sink a seven-footer. He birdied the 17th from five feet.

UNLUCKY 13TH

Griffith Stops Kid Paret To Win Welterweight Title

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A solid left hook followed by a right put the game champion out for the first time in his career. At the count of 10 he was still resting on his right elbow, eyes staring unseeingly at the ring lights.

A crowd of 4,618 which paid $20,314 saw the dramatic ending of the bitterly-fought battle in which the New Yorker slowly piled up a lead by muffling Paret's offense and then pot-shotting him with well-aimed rights and stabbing him with a potent left.

It was a battle between two well - conditioned athletes, with Paret defending himself largely with his well-battered face as he waded in endlessly in an effort to loose his piston-like flurries.

Griffith, after learning in the first couple of rounds that he had nothing to fear from the champion's largely powder-puff flurries, soon found a way to protect himself from the pestering punches and at the same time land his own booming shots.

Griffith would close in with the start of a flurry, tie up the frustrated Cuban, and work inside with punishing uppercuts. His punches carried authority, and two or three times, particularly in the 10th round, he had Paret groggy.

It had been expected in some quarters that Griffith, who never had gone more than 10 rounds, would wilt after the bout passed that point, but he seemed to be as tireless as his Cuban rival, noted for his endurance and ability to carry on under bitter battering.

A startled, bewildered look came over the fading champion's face, and he took a step or two backward before tumbling flat on his back.

At the count of 10 Griffith leaped high in joy and turned a somersault.

Gonzaga Ace Is Top Hoop Point Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Burgess of Gonzaga led the nation's major college basketball scorers, while St. Bonaventure was tops in team offense and Santa Clara in defense, final figures of the NCAA Service Bureau showed Saturday.

Burgess scored 842 points in 26 games for a 32.4 average, beating out Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State, who averaged 32.1 points. Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, runner-up last year to Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, was third with 29.6 Burgess is the first Western scoring leader since Stanford's Hank Luisetti in 1939.

St. Bonaventure scored 2,479 points in 28 games for an average of 88.5. Santa Clara held 27 opponents to 1,314, an average of 48.7.

Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, which lost its NCAA title to Cincinnati, earned top field goal percentage honors for the second straight year (.623) and had the top percentage of rebound recoveries (.192).

Stew Sherard of Army won the free throw title (.877; while Burgess, Chilton and Purdey's Terry Dischinger tied for single game scoring, each with a 52-point splurge.

Ohio State was tops in field goal percentage with .498 compared to .495 for St. Bonaventure. Tulane led Ohio State in free throw percentage, .760 to .753. In rebound percentage, Bradley with .592 topped Memphis State's .536.

The closest Providence, winner of the National Invitation Tourney, could come to a top ranking was Jim Hadnot's No. 5 rating in rebounds with .178.

Cincinnati was 15th in team defense, allowing an average of 60.8 points in 30 goals. The NCAA champs were fifth in rebound percentages with .574.

The top ten scorers:

Blancas Star Of Collegiate AA Golf Meet

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Homer Blancas rallied for a par 36 on the back nine Saturday to post a 72-hole 291 for the individual medal title as the University of Houston swept five of the six championships of the All America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament.

Blancas, a Houston junior, finished with 71-72-72-76, 3-under-par for the 6,785-yard, par 72 Pine Forest Country Club course.

Taking runner-up honors was Dicky Duble, Texas A&M, with 293. He was followed by Frank Beard, Florida, 294, and Sam Carmichael, Louisiana State, 295.

Houston and Texas A&M tied in team medal at 1,206, but Houston won the championship on the first hole of a sudden death playoff.

TRIBE RELAY GETS RECORD

Northeast Edged By Tech Thinclads In Memphis Meet

MEMPHIS (AP) — Louisiana Tech and Arkansas State teachers college won division championships in the annual Memphis relays Saturday.

In the university division, Louisiana Tech piled up 58½ points to edge favored Northeast Louisiana, which finished with 58.

Arkansas State Teachers won the college division, as expected, with 69½ points. It was ASTC's second straight title in this track and field event.

University team scoring— Louisiana Tech 58½; Louisiana Tech 58; Murray State 30; Southeast Missouri 29½; Ole Miss 22; Memphis State 21; Mississippi State 18; Depauw 17; Southwest Missouri 9; Washington of St. Louis 6; Georgia Tech 5; Notre Dame and East Texas State 4.

College team scoring—Arkansas State Teachers 69½; Principia 42½; Oklahoma Baptist 26; Southwestern 21; Mississippi College 20; Union 15; Little Rock University 3.

Despite fears that the weather beaten track would slow things down, 11 relay records fell and 2 were tied.

The biggest record breaking margin was on the shot put, where Georgia Tech's Ed Nutting heaved the heavy ball 53 feet 2 inches, almost 10 feet past the mark set by Arkansas' Gerald Henderson in 1957.

Mississippi entered a limited team that won two events, setting records in both.

El and Mel Edmonds, Chico Taylor and Larry Smith toured the 440 yard relay in :42.5, clipping four tenths of a second off the mark set by Memphis State. Then in the 880 yard, the same four went twice as far in 1:28.7, a full second under the mark hung up by Mississippi State.

Another stalwart foursome was Northeast Louisiana John Baker, Claud Mercer, Jim Mouser and Randall Walker in the mile relay. They were timed in 3:16.7, as compared to the old mark of 3:22.4 set by Arkansas.

Arkansas State Teachers set records in the 880 and mile relays of the college section.

For Bob Groseclose's Northeast State Indians it was another day of individual stardom and near team victory.

The Indians had placed second in the Florida Relays last week and Louisiana Tech, the champion in the University division here today, had been hot on their heels.

Hoy Rogers was back in stride for Northeast with another record-breaking performance. Rogers tossed the discus 153 ft., 1½ inches to break the old relays record of 141.11¾, and placed second to Ed Nutting of Ga. Tech in the shot put.

Buddy Eiland of Northeast won the mile run in 4.18 to eclipse the old mark of 4.23, and George Abbott of the Indians placed fourth. Owen Owen of Northeast and Tech's Howard tied for second in the broad jump.

The relays really got a working over. Mississippi broke both the 440 and 880 yard relay marks, with Northeast finishing second behind the Rebs in both events.

The Indians' mile relay foursome of Baker, Mercer, Mouser and Walker beat out Louisiana Tech and set a new mark of 3.16:7.

Northeast's spring medley team of Walker, Mouser, Goldsmith and Eiland beat La. Tech in that department in a time of 3.31:3, and the Bulldogs took top honors in the distance medley, as Albritton, Herbert, Bryant and Hays covered the distance in 10.42:3.

Individual Summaries:

Finsterwald Takes Slight Azalea Lead

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, who figured his golf game needed work to prepare for next week's Masters tournament, gave evidence that it was rounding into shape Saturday as he shot a 4-under-par 68 to lead the first round of the $12,000 Azalea Open tournament by a stroke.

The Jupiter, Fla., professional rode a hot putter and a steady overall performance to fashion a 35-33 over the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course.

Jim Ferree, Winston-Salem, N.C., pro who plays out of Crystal River, Fla., needed one more stroke than Finsterwald on the back nine in carding a 69 for second place in the tournament which winds up with two rounds Sunday.

Sharing third place at 70 were Frank Boynton, Orlando, Fla., playing from Corpus Christi, Tex., and Tommy Jacobs, from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., whose closing 31 was the best nine hole effort of the sunny, windy day.

Only eight men in the field of 82 bettered par as the wind was a factor on many holes. It blew at a steady 20-30 mile an hour clip, with occasional gusts of 40.

Finsterwald, PGA champion and pro golfer of the year in 1958, has never won here, but has shown a fondness for the course by picking up $5,300 over the years, the second highest amount any pro has earned.

After three-putting the second hole he settled down to a steady round. He birdied the sixth from 2½ feet and the seventh from 18 to turn one under. On the 11th he birdied from 45 feet but lost that stroke with a bogey on 13 where he was short of the green, chipped up and missed an eight-footer. But he birdied three of the last five holes to move into the lead. On 14 he rolled in a 15-footer and came out of a trap on the long 15th to sink a seven-footer. He birdied the 17th from five feet.

He missed only three greens, a fine performance in view of the wind. "Most unusual for me, I usually miss a half dozen even in calm weather," he grinned.

Ferree, winner of the Jamaica Open in February, had three birdies and 15 pars.

Sharing fifth place at 71 were Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., veteran Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, and Wally Ulrich of Akron, Ohio, who won the national collegiate title 18 years ago.

The leaders:

Dow Finsterwald	35-33—68

UNLUCKY 13TH

Griffith Stops Kid Paret To Win Welterweight Title

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A solid left hook followed by a right put the game champion out for the first time in his career. At the count of 10 he was still resting on his right elbow, eyes staring unseeingly at the ring lights.

A crowd of 4,618 which paid $20,314 saw the dramatic ending of the bitterly-fought battle in which the New Yorker slowly piled up a lead by muffling Paret's offense and then pot-shotting him with well-aimed rights and stabbing him with a potent left.

It was a battle between two well - conditioned athletes, with Paret defending himself largely with his well-battered face as he waded in endlessly in an effort to loose his piston-like flurries.

Griffith, after learning in the first couple of rounds that he had nothing to fear from the champion's largely powder-puff flurries, soon found a way to protect himself from the pestering punches and at the same time land his own booming shots.

Griffith would close in with the start of a flurry, tie up the frustrated Cuban, and work inside with punishing uppercuts. His punches carried authority, and two or three times, particularly in the 10th round, he had Paret groggy.

It had been expected in some quarters that Griffith, who never had gone more than 10 rounds, would wilt after the bout passed that point, but he seemed to be as tireless as his Cuban rival, noted for his endurance and ability to carry on under bitter battering.

The ending was quite unexpected. Paret had backed the superbly-built New York toward the ropes with one of his endless flurries when suddenly Griffith's left lashed out to land solidly on Paret's chin. It was followed in a split second by a right, but it was the left which did the work.

A startled, bewildered look came over the fading champion's face, and he took a step or two backward before tumbling flat on his back.

At the count of 10 Griffith leaped high in joy and turned a somersault.

Gonzaga Ace Is Top Hoop Point Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Burgess of Gonzaga led the nation's major college basketball scorers, while St. Bonaventure was tops in team offense and Santa Clara in defense, final figures of the NCAA Service Bureau showed Saturday.

Burgess scored 842 points in 26 games for a 32.4 average, beating out Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State, who averaged 32.1 points. Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, runner-up last year to Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, was third with 29.6 Burgess is the first Western scoring leader since Stanford's Hank Luisetti in 1939.

St. Bonaventure scored 2,479 points in 28 games for an average of 88.5. Santa Clara held 27 opponents to 1,314, an average of 48.7.

Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, which lost its NCAA title to Cincinnati, earned top field goal percentage honors for the second straight year (.623) and had the top percentage of rebound recoveries (.198).

Stew Sherard of Army won the free throw title (.877; while Burgess, Chilton and Purdey's Terry Dischinger tied for single game scoring, each with a 52-point splurge.

Ohio State was tops in field goal percentage with .498 compared to .495 for St. Bonaventure. Tulane led Ohio State in free throw percentage, .760 to .753. In rebound percentage, Bradley with .592 topped Memphis State's .586.

The closest Providence, winner of the National Invitation Tourney, could come to a top ranking was Jim Hadnot's No. 5 rating in rebounds with .178.

Cincinnati was 15th in team defense, allowing an average of 60.8 points in 30 goals. The NCAA champs were fifth in rebound percentages with .574.

The top ten scorers:

Blancas Star Of Collegiate AA Golf Meet

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Homer Blancas rallied for a par 36 on the back nine Saturday to post a 72-hole 291 for the individual medal title as the University of Houston swept five of the six championships of the All America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament.

Blancas, a Houston junior, finished with 71-72-72-76, 3-under-par for the 6,785-yard, par 72 Pine Forest Country Club course.

Taking runner-up honors was Dicky Duble, Texas A&M, with 293. He was followed by Frank Beard, Florida, 294, and Sam Carmichael, Louisiana State, 295.

Houston and Texas A&M tied in team medal at 1,206, but Houston won the championship on the first hole of a sudden death playoff.

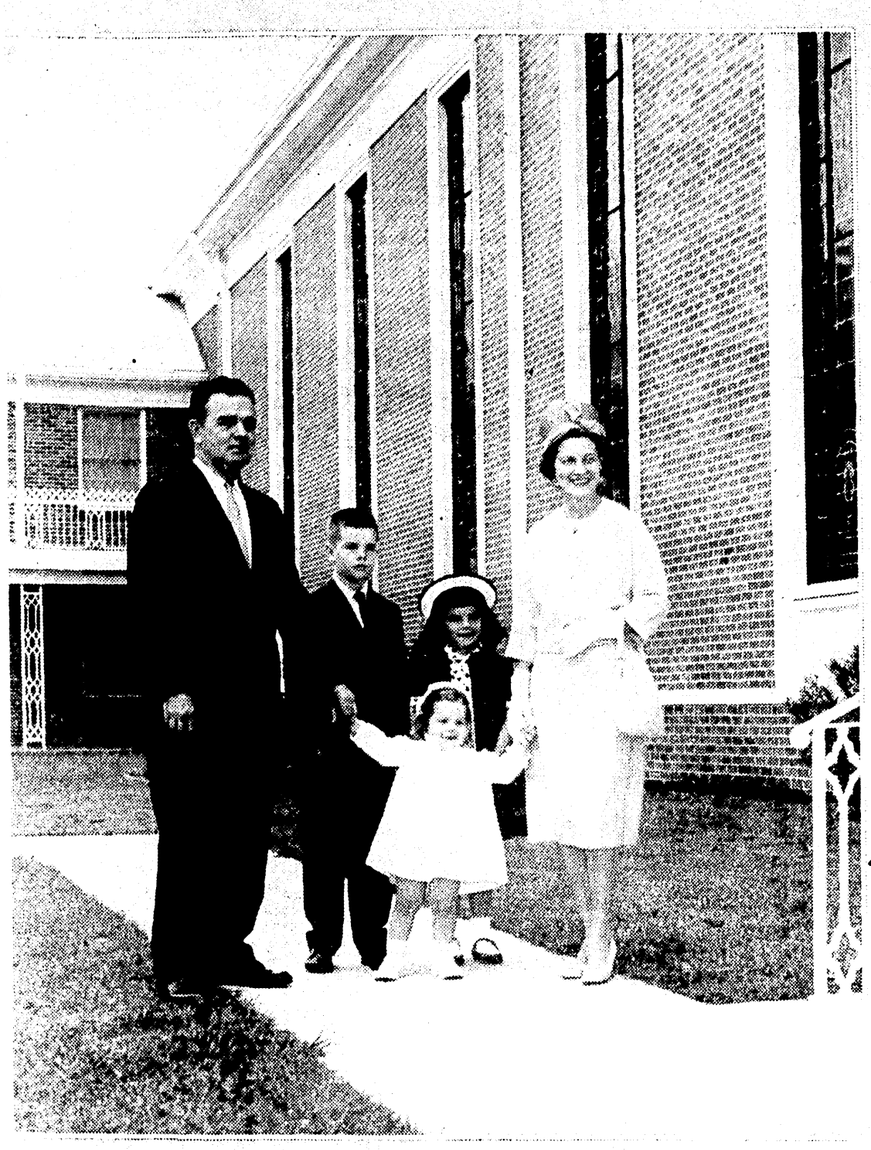
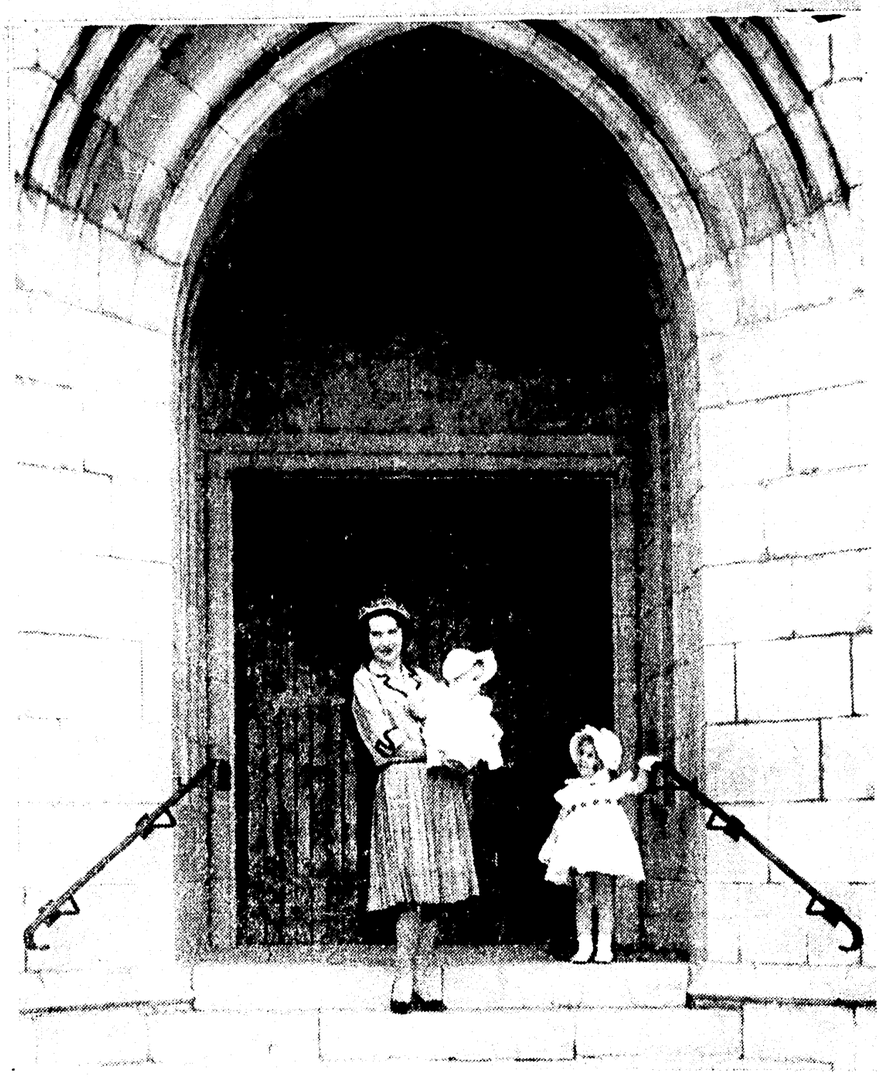
EASTER

Monroe Morning World
April 2



Typical of families throughout the Twin Cities attending the church of their faith for services commemorating the resurrection of Christ on this Easter Sunday are Mr. and Mrs. Amos Shelton with their three children, Robert, 9; Ann, 6 and Jenny, 2. The family group is pictured at Parkview Baptist church.



Special Easter programs are planned at Sunday schools in churches today with children of all ages expected to participate. Pictured on steps of Grace Episcopal Church for Easter services today are Mrs. Eugene Worthen and young daughter, Leslie Ann, 2½, and baby Wendy Ann.

Easter is traditionally known as the most joyous of all Christian holidays because it commemorates the resurrection of Christ. The name Easter comes from Eastre, the goddess of spring. During the early days of the Christian church, people were not permitted to eat eggs during the Lenten season and so eggs become extremely popular on Easter Sunday. It was the ancient Egyptians and Persians who followed the custom of coloring and eating eggs during their spring festivals. To Christians the egg became a symbol of resurrection and new life.

Silver Tea To Benefit Monroe Youth Orchestra

A silver tea honoring members of the Monroe Youth Orchestra will be given by the Musical Coterie on Thursday, April 6. Hours for the gala affair to be held in the home of Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, 2006 Riverside Drive, will be from 3 until 6 p.m.

The gardens at Miss Biedenharn's home, a scenic spot in Monroe, will be open to the guests if weather permits, and music will be provided during the afternoon by members of the orchestra's ensemble.

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, under joint sponsorship of the Musical Coterie and the Junior Charity League, is planning a trip to Asheville, North Carolina, where it will appear in concert on April 21 at the Southern Regional meeting of the Music Educators' National conference.

The local organization is the only orchestra from Louisiana invited to participate in the conference. The invitation was issued by virtue of its superior award rating in the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960.

Potpourri Club Has Book Review By Mrs. Brown

Mrs. Jack Davis was hostess to members of the Potpourri Book Club Monday afternoon at her home on Lakeshore Drive.

Mrs. W. D. Brown reviewed "The Daughter of Jarvis," by Paul Fox, following which a dessert course was served by the hostess.

Members present were Mrs. Jack Easterling, Mrs. Joe Durrett Jr., Mrs. Ben Marshall, Mrs. Edward Brown, Mrs. Jack Tarbet, Mrs. D. C. Bernhardt, Mrs. Roy Ledbetter, Mrs. Nelson Abell, Mrs. W. D. Brown and Mrs. Maurice Ratliff.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Ann Colvin, above, to Donald V. Spatafora, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Spatafora, Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Colvin of West Monroe. The couple will be united in marriage on Saturday, April 8 at 6 p.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. PIERCE, West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Ann Pierce, above, to William Thomas McCandlish, West Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Plez McCandlish of Delhi. The wedding will be an event of May 8 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

Beard-Berry Vows Read Saturday

Vows uniting Oreatha Williams Berry, 404 Bres Avenue, Monroe, and H. L. Beard of Little Rock, Arkansas, were solemnized Saturday, April 1 in St. Paul's Methodist church, with Rev. Ben Oliphint performing the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Williams, Monroe, and Mr. Beard is the son of Mrs. E. M. Beard of Guntersville, Alabama.

An arrangement of white gladioli and stock graced the altar, where the ceremony was performed. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by the church organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Gary Berry. She wore a street - length dress of mint green lace, with matching shoes and small green and white flowered bandeau, and carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Her daughter, Miss Charlotte Ann Berry, served as maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a mauve embroidered silk organza frock with matching shoes and hat and carried a nosegay of white and mauve carnations.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ray Updegraff were hosts at a reception in their home, 2307 Jasmine St. Arrangements of white gladioli and stock were used throughout the reception rooms. A similar bouquet graced the serving table, which was covered with a floor length cloth of white organdy and satin over pale green. The tiered wedding cake and cut glass punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table. A ten - branched silver candelabra holding pale green tapers and a floral arrangement of gladioli and stock centered the buffet.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mrs. Beard was wearing a bone silk linen suit with mint green accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They will be at home at 52 Broadmoor in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. E. M. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Beard, Mrs. Alford Roberts, Mrs. John L. Beard, Carolyn Beard, all of Guntersville, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodlee and children, San Antonio, Texas.

Shelf Brightener

If the bookshelves in your child's room are beginning to look a bit dingy, here's an easy way to brighten them without painting. Simply cover the shelves with adhesive covering in your choice of colors. Just measure and cut to size, pull off the backing sheet and smooth the covering to the shelves. It will stay on indefinitely, and you can clean it with a damp cloth.

Silver Tea To Benefit Monroe Youth Orchestra

A silver tea honoring members of the Monroe Youth Orchestra will be given by the Musical Coterie on Thursday, April 6. Hours for the gala affair to be held in the home of Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, 2006 Riverside Drive, will be from 5 until 6 p.m.

The gardens at Miss Biedenharn's home, a scenic spot in Monroe, will be open to the guests if weather permits, and music will be provided during the afternoon by members of the orchestra's ensemble.

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, under joint sponsorship of the Musical Coterie and the Junior Charity League, is planning a trip to Ashville, North Carolina, where it will appear in concert on April 21 at the Southern Regional meeting of the Music Educators' National conference.

The local organization is the only orchestra from Louisiana invited to participate in the conference. The invitation was issued by virtue of its superior award ratng in the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960.

Potpourri Club Has Book Review By Mrs. Brown

Mrs. Jack Davis was hostess to members of the Potpourri Book Club Monday afternoon at her home on Lakeshore Drive.

Mrs. W. D. Brown reviewed "The Daughter of Jarvis," by Paul Fox, following which a dessert course was served by the hostess.

Members present were Mrs. Jack Easterling, Mrs. Joe Durrett Jr., Mrs. Ben Marshall, Mrs. Edward Brown, Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mrs. D. C. Bernhardt, Mrs. Roy Ledbetter, Mrs. Nelson Abell, Mrs. W. D. Brown and Mrs. Mabel Ratliff.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Ann Colvin, above, to Donald V. Spatafora, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Spatafora, Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Colvin of West Monroe. The couple will be united in marriage on Saturday, April 8 at 6 p.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. PIERCE, West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Ann Pierce, above, to William Thomas McCandlish, West Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Plez McCandlish of Delhi. The wedding will be an event of May 8 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

Beard-Berry Vows Read Saturday

Vows uniting Oreatha Williams Berry, 404 Bres Avenue, Monroe, and H. L. Beard of Little Rock, Arkansas, were solemnized Saturday, April 1 in St. Paul's Methodist church, with Rev. Ben Oliphint performing the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Williams, Monroe, and Mr. Beard is the son of Mrs. E. M. Beard of Guntersville, Alabama.

An arrangement of white gladioli and stock graced the altar, where the ceremony was performed. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by the church organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Gary Berry. She wore a street - length dress of mint green lace, with matching shoes and small green and white flowered bandeau, and carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Her daughter, Miss Charlotte Ann Berry, served as maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a mauve embroidered silk organza frock with matching shoes and hat and carried a nosegay of white and mauve carnations.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ray Updegraff were hosts at a reception in their home, 2307 Jasmine St. Arrangements of white gladioli and stock were used throughout the reception rooms. A similar bouquet graced the serving table, which was covered with a floor length cloth of white organdy and satin over pale green. The tiered wedding cake and cut glass punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table. A ten - branched silver candelabra holding pale green tapers and a floral arrangement of gladioli and stock centered the buffet.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mrs. Beard was wearing a bone silk linen suit with mint green accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They will be at home at 52 Broadmoor in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. E. M. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Beard, Mrs. Alford Roberts, Mrs. John L. Beard, Carolyn Beard, all of Guntersville, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodlee and children, San Antonio, Texas.

Shelf Brightener

If the bookshelves in your child's room are beginning to look a bit dingy, here's an easy way to brighten them without painting. Simply cover the shelves with adhesive covering in your choice of colors. Just measure and cut to size, pull off the backing sheet and smooth the covering to the shelves. It will stay on indefinitely, and you can clean it with a damp cloth.

Spring is becoming more and more the fashionable season for travel. With gardens at their height; with school dismissed for a few days; with pilgrimages to various towns of interest on schedule; it is an ideal time. Even the weather is interesting—storms are usually quickly ended; and when days are nice, they are very, very nice, like the little girl with the curl.

Visitors at Joan Jacobs' parties [illegible] weekend FRANCES M'HENRY had as her houseguest, MRS. CHARLES WOLF of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, who was here from Friday until Tuesday. Monday [illegible] they spent the day in Natchez visiting Pilgrimage houses open on that day.

Saturday afternoon GLO WRIGHT was hostess at a small party honoring Mrs. Wolf. DICK MAJOR poured coffee at the dining room table, which was covered with a cutwork cloth. Pink azaleas in a silver bowl were placed on a reflector in the center. There were twelve guests.

Friday the DENT TISDALES passed through on their way from Shreveport to New Orleans for the weekend. They left the children, ROBERT and MARTHA LOUISE, here with their grandparents, the ROBERT SPARKS and LETA TISDALE. . . . Yesterday morning Albeena invited a few children to an Easter egg hunt. The party was held at Bayou DeSiard country club, celebrating Robert's third birthday.

Shreveport visitors last weekend were MR. and MRS. TOULMIN BROWN and MR. and MRS. ROBERT BROWN and children, ROBIN and ROBERT. They were guests of the EDMUND BROWNS. Saturday night Eliza and Edmund entertained at a small party honoring the Browns and MARGUERITE HARRITY. . . . The dining table was centered with a beautiful spring arrangement of apple blossoms, azaleas, and camellias in a three - tiered alabaster container. Twenty - five guests attended the party.

Sunday morning the EVANS ETHRIDGES were hosts at brunch at their home. Guests of honor were Charlotte's mother, MRS. J. E. M'MAHON of Houston, Texas; and JUDGE and MRS. JOSEPH LOSCALZO of New York City. The Loscalzoes are visiting the LEE VANDERPOOLS.

Charlotte carried out an Easter theme in decorations, with azaleas used to decorate the buffet. Five individual tables were centered with baskets of foil wrapped candy eggs. Canadian bacon, grits au gratin, scrambled eggs, and hot biscuits were served to thirty guests.

Easter visitors in the JACK DAVIS home are DR. and MRS. DONOVAN BROWNE and MR. and MRS. RALPH WICKER and children, BEAU and STEVE, all of New Orleans.

One thing this department has never claimed to be is impartial. We are convinced that Monroe and environs are the most, as they say. Not only is this a wonderful spot, renowned for hospitality and famous as a gardeners paradise; but it has more than a fair share of brains and talent. If you believe otherwise please do not confuse us with facts. Our mind is made up.

For instance, here is our Monroe Youth Orchestra. The members have been invited to participate in the Southern Regional Meeting of the Music Educators' National conference in Asheville, N.C. — the only orchestra from Louisiana so honored. The invitation was a result of the group's superior award rating at the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960.

To help in financing the trip to North Carolina, a silver tea will be given by the Musical Coterie, this coming Thursday, from five until six in the afternoon. The affair will be held in the home of EMY - LOU BIEDENHARN, 2006 Riverside, where the gardens will be open, weather permitting.

Music will be furnished during the afternoon by members of the orchestra's ensemble. The group, which is sponsored jointly by the Coterie and the Junior Charity League, is to appear in concert in Asheville April 21.

Here today and scattered tomorrow seems to be the tale with our college students. A number of them were in town early in the week, only to leave for house-parties around the country as the weekend approached. LUCYLU Turpin, whose engagement was announced recently, flew to Hartford, Connecticut Friday to visit MR. and MRS. WALLACE CAMPBELL, parents of her fiance, CHARLES CAMPBELL. Last night the Campbells entertained at a party at Hartford Golf club, to present Lucylu to their friends. Tomorrow Chuck and Lucylu return to school in Virginia; he to Washington and Lee, she to Hollins.

EVELYN AMMAN, who arrived last Saturday from Hollins, left on Thursday for Macon, Georgia. She is to be an attendant in the wedding of her roommate, KATHY HAYES, and CHARLES CORN tomorrow. She will return to school from Macon.

On Wednesday, JANE PLITT entertained at her new home with a stork shower, complimenting ALTA HAMILTON. Azaleas and white iris created a springlike atmosphere. Fifteen guests attended the morning party, where refreshments included Alabama 'yeast risen' biscuits and ham.

A skating party honored DAVID SALLEY on his seventh birthday last weekend. ROBERT INABNET and CHELLE BAIRD were Stop-the-Music winners. Doughnuts and soft drinks were served to fifty first graders who attended.

Members of Bayou DeSiard country club are looking forward to French night this coming Saturday. FLO KELLY and LOUISE KLAM, co - chairmen of the party, have planned a Parisian evening, with elegant menu and sophisticated French comedy movie. Among the delicacies to be served are crabmeat ravigote; chicken and mushrooms, marchand de vin; and cherries jubilee.

For her ninth birthday, CHRISTINE MOORE entertained at a supper party. Sixteen little girls were seated at three tables, each centered with grass nests. Favors were the candy-filled plastic eggs in the nests. For supper, guests had assorted sandwiches, Easter eggs, and ice cream and birthday cake. Bingo followed supper, with SHERRY HARRIS and VEE MARSHALL winning live chickens as prizes.

To the best of our knowledge, there is no more suitable poem for Easter than John Donne's "Holy Sonnet:"

Death, be not proud, though some have called thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so;
For those whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow
Die not, poor Death; nor yet canst thou kill me.
From rest and sleep, which but thy picture be,
Much pleasure; then from thee much more must flow;
And soonest our best men with thee do go—
Rest of their bones and souls delivery!
Thou'rt slave to fate, chance, kings, and desperate men,
And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell—
And poppy or charms can make us sleep as well
And better than thy stroke. Why swell'st thou then?
One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And Death shall be no more; Death, thou shalt die!

MRS. CHARLES WOLF, of Philadelphia, Pa., houseguest of Mrs. Carl McHenry on Fairview, during the past week, was honored at several informal courtesies during her stay in the city.

Key Jewelry To Skin Color

With costume jewelry more colorful this spring than ever, be sure that the jewelry you choose complements your complexion, costume and the shape of your face in order to receive the most benefit from these important fashion accessories.

Flatter a creamy skin tone with gold jewelry and complement a pink complexion with silver.

Easter Egg Hunt Listed By Club Today

Annual Easter Egg hunt for children of members of Highland Park Country Club is scheduled for this afternoon at the club. The annual event, sponsored by the club, will get underway at 2 p.m. with children divided into two separate groups for the hunt.

The hunt will be for children from one to five years in age in one group and from ages six to 11 inclusive in the second group.

Prizes will be awarded for specially marked eggs and refreshments will be served following the hunt.

The club's Easter Sunday buffet dinner is scheduled for today from 12 until 2 p.m.

Lenwil HD Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Owens

The new home of Mrs. Mack Owens on Arant Road, was scene of the Friday, March 24 meeting of Lenwil Home Demonstration Club, with eight guests adding interest to the meeting.

Spring is becoming more and more the fashionable season for travel. With gardens at their height; with school dismissed for a few days; with pilgrimages to various towns of interest on schedule; it is an ideal time. Even the weather is interesting—storms are usually quickly ended; and when days are nice, they are very, very nice, like the little girl with the curl.

Visitors in town have inspired several parties recently. Last weekend FRANCES M'HENRY had as her houseguest, MRS. CHARLES WOLF of Philadelphia Pennsylvania, who was here from Friday until Tuesday. Monday they spent the day in Natchez visiting Pilgrimage houses open on that day.

Saturday afternoon GLO WRIGHT was hostess at a small party honoring Mrs. Wolf. DICK MAJOR poured coffee at the dining room table, which was covered with a cutwork cloth. Pink azaleas in a silver bowl were placed on a reflector in the center. There were twelve guests.

Friday the DENT TISDALES passed through on their way from Shreveport to New Orleans for the weekend. They left the children, ROBERT and MARTHA LOUISE, here with their grandparents, the ROBERT SPARKS and LETA TISDALE. . . . Yesterday morning Albeena invited a few children to an Easter egg hunt. The party was held at Bayou DeSiard country club, celebrating Robert's third birthday.

Shreveport visitors last weekend were MR. and MRS. TOULMIN BROWN and MR. and MRS. ROBERT BROWN and children, ROBIN and ROBERT. They were guests of the EDMUND BROWNS. Saturday night Bitza and Edmund entertained at a small party honoring the Browns and MARGUERITE HARRITY . . . . The dining table was centered with a beautiful spring arrangement of apple blossoms, azaleas, and camellias in a three - tiered alabaster container. Twenty - five guests atttended the party.

Sunday morning the EVANS ETHRIDGES were hosts at brunch at their home. Guests of honor were Charlotte's mother, MRS. J. E. M'MAHON of Houston, Texas; and JUDGE and MRS. JOSEPH LOSCALZO of New York City. The Loscalzoes are visiting the LEE VANDERPOOLS.

Charlotte carried out an Easter theme in decorations, with azaleas used to decorate the buffet. Five individual tables were centered with baskets of foil-wrapped candy eggs. Canadian bacon, grits au gratin, scrambled eggs, and hot biscuits were served to thirty guests.

Easter visitors in the JACK DAVIS home are DR. and MRS. DONOVAN BROWNE and MR. and MRS. RALPH WICKER and children, BEAU and STEVE, all of New Orleans.

One thing this department has never claimed to be is impartial. We are convinced that Monroe and environs are the most, as they say. Not only is this a wonderful spot, reknowned for hospitality and famous as a gardener's paradise; but it has more than a fair share of brains and talent. (If you believe otherwise, please do not confuse us with facts. Our mind is made up.)

For instance, here is our Monroe Youth Orchestra. The members have been invited to participate in the Southern Regional Meeting of the Music Educators' National conference in Asheville, N.C., — the only orchestra from Louisiana so honored. The invitation was a result of the group's superior award rating at the State Music Festival at Hammond in 1960.

To help in financing the trip to North Carolina, a silver tea will be given by the Musical Coterie, this coming Thursday, from five until six in the afternoon. The affair will be held in the home of EMY - LOU BIEDENHARN, 2006 Riverside, where the gardens will be open, weather permitting.

Music will be furnished during the afternoon by members of the orchestra's ensemble. The group, which is sponsored jointly by the Coterie and the Junior Charity League, is to appear in concert in Ashville April 21.

Here today and scattered tomorrow seems to be the tale with our college students. A number of them were in town early in the week, only to leave for house-parties around the country as the weekend approached. LUCYLU Turpin, whose engagement was announced recently, flew to Hartford, Connecticut Friday to visit MR. and MRS. WALLACE CAMPBELL, parents of her fiance, CHARLES CAMPBELL. Last night the Campbells entertained at a party at Hartford Golf club, to present Lucylu to their friends. Tomorrow Chuck and Lucylu return to school in Virginia; he to Washington and Lee, she to Hollins.

EVELYN AMMAN, who arrived last Saturday from Hollins, left on Thursday for Macon, Georgia. She is to be an attendant in the wedding of her roommate, KATHY HAYES, and CHARLES CORN tomorrow. She will return to school from Macon.

On Wednesday, JANE PLITT entertained at her new home with a stork shower, complimenting ALTA HAMILTON. Azaleas and white iris created a springlike atmosphere. Fifteen guests attended the morning party, where refreshments included Alabama (yeast-risen) biscuits and ham.

A skating party honored DAVID SALLEY on his seventh birthday last weekend. ROBERT INABNET and CHELLE BAIRD were Stop-the-Music winners. Dougnuts and soft drinks were served to fifty first graders who attended.

Members of Bayou DeSiard country club are looking forward to French night this coming Saturday. FLO KELLY and LOUISE KLAM, co - chairmen of the party, have planned a Parisian evening, with elegant menu and sophisticated French comedy movie. Among the delicacies to be served are crabmeat ravigote; chicken and mushrooms, marchand de vin; and cherries jubilee.

For her ninth birthday, CHRISTINE MOORE entertained at a supper party. Sixteen little girls were seated at three tables, each centered with grass nests. Favors were the candy-filled plastic eggs in the nests. For supper, guests had assorted sandwiches, Easter eggs, and ice cream and birthday cake. Bingo followed supper, with SHERRY HARRIS and VEE MARSHALL winning live chickens as prizes.

To the best of our knowledge, there is no more suitable poem for Easter than John Donne's "Holy Sonnet:"

Death, be not proud, though some have called thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so;
For those whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow
Die not, poor Death: nor yet canst thou kill me.
From rest and sleep, which but thy picture be,
Much pleasure; then from thee much more must flow;
And soonest our 'best men with thee do go—
Rest of their bones and souls delivery!
Thou'rt 'slave to fate, chance, kings, and desperate men,
And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell—
And poppy or charms can make us sleep as well
And better than thy stroke. Why swell'st thou then?
One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And Death shall be no more: Death, thou shalt die!

MRS. CHARLES WOLF, of Philadelphia, Pa., houseguest of Mrs. Carl McHenry on Fairview, during the past week, was honored at several informal courtesies during her stay in the city.

Easter Egg Hunt Listed By Club Today

Annual Easter Egg hunt for children of members of Highland Park Country Club is scheduled for this afternoon at the club. The annual event, sponsored by the club, will get underway at 2 p.m. with children divided into two separate groups for the hunt.

The hunt will be for children from one to five years in age in one group and from ages six to 11 inclusive in the second group.

Prizes will be awarded for specially marked eggs and refreshments will be served following the hunt.

The club's Easter Sunday buffet dinner is scheduled for today from 12 until 2 p.m.

MISS CAROLYN BABB

Carolyn Babb To Marry Edmund Glover In Georgia

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Babb of Lake Providence, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn to Edmund Cook Glover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff C. Glover of West Point, Georgia.

The wedding will be solemnized Thursday, April 6 in West Point, Ga.

The bride - elect received an A.B. degree in music from LaGrange college, where she was president of the Student Body, was chosen as "Miss LaGrange College," and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

She is at present educational assistant and secretary of the First Methodist Church in West Point.

Mr. Glover received a B.C.E. degree from Georgia Tech, where he was president of the Georgia Tech chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers and was a member of Chi Epsilon, Tau Beta Pi and Phi Kappa Phi honorary fraternities. He is now employed in West Point.

Nuptials Unite Carol Sue Locke, Robert Wallace

In a candlelight and floral setting in the Central Baptist Church of Bastrop was the wedding which united Miss Carol Sue Locke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Locke of Bastrop and Robert Richard Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wallace of Hamburg, Ark.

Rev. Harold Holland officiated at the double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 17. Baskets of yellow gladioli and branched candelabra holding lighted tapers against a background of ivy formed a setting for the nuptials.

Miss Nancy Wallace, pianist, accompanied Don Hern as he sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." She also played traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white satin and Chantilly lace. Her shoulder length veil of tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Bobby Kilcrease of Hamburg, Ark., and ushers were Charles Wells and Travis White, also of Hamburg.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a suit of charcoal gray with hot pink accessories and a corsage of pink asters. The bridegroom's mother wore a silk print dress of blue with pale blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. A lace cloth over green covered the bride's table with yellow roses as the centerpiece. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Arnold Michel, sister of the bride, who served the cake and Miss Gale Carver, at the punch bowl. Miss Linda White had charge of the bride's book on a table holding a single yellow rose bud. Tea girls were Micky White and Elaine Thompson.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, the bride was wearing an early spring ensemble of gray silk with black accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

Upon their return the couple will be at home in Monticello, Ark., where Mr. Wallace is attending A. & M. College.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Hern and Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Carver and Gail of Monroe.

Newman-Huff Nuptials Read In Ferriday

The marriage of Miss Patsy Huff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Huff of Lake St. John, Ferriday, and Marion Newman, son of Mrs. Lucy Newman and the late Earnest Newman, also of Ferriday, was solemnized March 18 in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, had as her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Clyde Webber. Guy Hill, cousin of the bridegroom, attended as best man.

Following a wedding trip the couple has established a home in Ferriday.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Ciboa Hyde, above to Charles Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Smith of Ferriday, is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hyde of Rosefield. The wedding will be solemnized April 26 in the Rosefield Baptist church with Rev. Bryan Hodges of Summerville officiating. Miss Glenda Hyde, Rosefield, and Pete Gregory of Ferriday, will be attendants.

MR. AND MRS. COY Tullos of Ferriday, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia, above, to Carmon Douglas Cameron, of Natchez. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cameron of Natchez. The wedding will take place in early April.

Miss Baker, Mr. Thrower Are Wed

Miss Betty Joyce Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Baker of Calhoun, became the bride of Bobby Joel Thrower, North Park Village, Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thrower, Holly Ridge, on Saturday, March 25 in the Calhoun Methodist church. Rev. R. E. Carter performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Baskets of white gladioli banked an arch entwined with greenery which graced the podium to form a setting for the exchange of vows.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Joe Donald, organist and Jerry Futch, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of white taffeta and lace. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a round neck and long fitted sleeves and a cascade of ruffles enhanced the back of the ballerina length skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a coronet of tiny crystal beads. She carried atop a white Bible a white orchid surrounded by white hyacinth florets and satin streamers.

Mrs. Harold Heckman, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of aqua taffeta with marquisette overskirt in ballerina length, with a matching satin bolero. Her headdress was of aqua silk flowers and matching veil and she carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Jimmie Donald with J. W. Thrower Jr., and Mr. Lyndell as ushers.

Mrs. Baker chose for her daughter's wedding a lavender sheath with fitted jacket and hat of matching lavender flowers. Bonnie Jones, who completed her senior year and she wore a corsage of pink flowers. Mrs. Thrower, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue lace with matching accessories and a pink corsage.

A reception followed at 8:30 p.m. in the church parlor. The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth with lace overskirt and centered with pink camellias in a crystal bowl, flanked by pink tapers. At one end Miss Sharron Garland served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the crystal punch bowl was Miss Carolyn Grant. Miss Carolyn Taylor had charge of the guest book.

The couple has established a home in North Park Village in Monroe. Mrs. Thrower graduated from Calhoun high school and American School of Chicago. Mr. Thrower graduated from Holly Ridge high school and attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

Two Members Welcomed Into Bosco HD Club

Mrs. Cecil Walker and Mrs. S. O. Brockner were welcomed as new members when the Bosco Home Demonstration Club met last Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jack Russell.

Mrs. C. W. Hair presided over the business session during which plans were made to make cookies for the Red Cross and to send Mrs. Whellis Dear and Mrs. Jack Russell on the Hodges Garden Tour.

Announcement was made of the simple sewing class to be held April 26, 27, 28 in the home of Mrs. P. M. Jeter. After the business report Mrs. Audrey Dawson gave a demonstration on various ways of refinishing old and new furniture.

Refreshments reflecting the Easter theme were served during the social hour to Mrs. Cecil Walker, Mrs. S. O. Brockner, Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Mrs. Henry Hinton, Mrs. Hair, Mrs. I. Z. Cloud, Mrs. Allen Cloud, Mrs. W. L. Salisbury, Mrs. Dear, Mrs. Malcolm Ray, Mrs. Roy Hart, Mrs. J. R. Lee, Mrs. P. M. Jeter and Mrs. James Pender. Mrs. Pender won the door prize.

The club will meet again on April 18 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Whellis Dear.

MISS BARBARA ELLEN LOE

Bradis Louise Johnson Is Bride Of Mr. Savage

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Bradis Louise Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dan Johnson, and Alfred Savage Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Savage, were solemnized Saturday afternoon, March 25 at the First Baptist church in Tallulah. The Rev. N. B. Pierce performed the double ring ceremony.

Trios of white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra, entwined with greenery and white satin bows, interspersed with potted palms and tall baskets of white gladioli and fern formed a setting for the exchange of vows.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Charles Hinton of Epps, who accompanied Mrs. Edith Whitehead as she sang "I Love You Truly," and "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white lace over taffeta, designed with high neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a pearl encrusted crown and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Shirley Boyette of Monroe, maid of honor and Mrs. E. N. Neal of Epps, matron of honor, wore beige silk gowns with overskirts of chiffon, matching headdresses and carried nosegays of white roses and violets.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Eugene King of Waverly, Miss Gloria Savage, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Pat Johnson, sister of the bride, and the flower girl, Pat Hattaway wore identical dresses of lavender chiffon and lace with matching headdresses. They also carried nosegays of white roses and violets.

Alfred Welch served as best man and groomsmen were Charles Varner and Jerry Hinton, both of Epps. Ushers were Gary Hinton of Epps and Burney Johnson with David Savage, ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johnson wore a navy linen dress with matching accessories and Mrs. Savage, mother of the bridegroom, wore Light Blue Linen with matching accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony, where Mrs. Jack Hinton of Epps, presided at the bride's book. The refreshment table, centered with a pink floral arrangement, held the punch bowl at one end presided over by Mrs. Jimmy Rogan and Mrs. Harold Ogden. At the opposite end of the table Mrs. James Thomas and Miss Barbara Reynolds served the wedding cake.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a beige suit with matching accessories and a carnation corsage. They will establish a home in New Orleans.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. Eugene Barron, Mrs. Dewane Freeman and Marion Wayne Freeman of Bastrop; Mrs. M. B. Varner and Mr. and Mrs. Loyce McDermette, Miss Eula Bell Waller, Miss Patsy Harris of Epps; Gene Hurst, Mrs. Houston Savage, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Porter and Diane, Mrs. Irene Bible, of Delhi; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Tarver, of Shreveport; Mrs. Tad Walch, New Orleans; Mrs. Patricia Pierce of Pascagoula, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene King and family of Waverly.

Styles Of 20's Roaring Back In '61 Version

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

"This is our ideal," gushed a woman's magazine in the Twenties. "Gone are the busts, the hips, the curves of yesteryear. Woman's figure is the exclamation point of the world!"

Today, as if women didn't have enough to ponder about with culottes, the Jackie look and liquid diets, along comes the Paris haute couture in a flap about the flapper.

It's going to be the Roaring Twenties all over again, whoop some extroverts, gleefully eyeing the flat - bosomed, low - waisted, flared-hem silhouette dominating the Paris collections.

But cooler — if unshingled — heads are bound to prevail. Most experts agree fashion is geared to go only forward. It can be seized with nostalgia, influenced by the past, inspired by a recollection 'in Paris' case, by a movie on the Twenties', but what emerges is a new silhouette designed for the contemporary woman.

If we women are going to be flappers, we'll be new, 1961 kind of flappers, not the Twenties version the same magazine described thusly:

"Eyebrows plucked to a thread, hair skinned severely back — smooth, straight and shiny — face hard and brilliant as a poster — a portrait of fashion today. Only three decades from the Age of Innocence to This Freedom!

"Everyone is so engagingly frank .... ladies restore their complexions at the table between each fox trot and 'make it snappy' is the latest word."

We're now more than three decades from That Freedom. And you can bet your old tin lizzy that the movies of the Twenties — modes and manners — still are going to look pretty funny to us on television, flapper revival or no flapper revival.

Miss Barbara Ellen Loe Engaged To Mr. Arrington

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Barbara Ellen Loe to Jerry Harbon Arrington, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ralph Loe of Tallulah. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrow Harbon Arrington of Alexandria.

Wedding plans were revealed at an announcement tea held Saturday, April 1 at the Lamar Loe home on Lincoln Street in Tallulah with Mrs. Lamar Loe Jr. as co-hostess.

The wedding is scheduled to be an event of Saturday, June 3 in the First Baptist church of Tallulah.

A graduate of Tallulah high school, Miss Loe attended Louisiana Tech for two years and graduated with distinction from Mississippi College, Clinton, Mississippi, last year, when she received her B.S. degree. She has been employed in Baton Rouge since.

Mr. Arrington was graduated from Bolton high school in Alexandria and served three years in the Navy Air Service, where he received jet training. He is now attending Louisiana State University, where he is majoring in commercial construction.

Eased Look Is Still Favored

Eased look continues to be the prime look in sportswear, but it is achieved through clever ways, with less re - hashing of the 30s. Side - swept details add up to the asymmetric look.

Overblouses have become almost a uniform, say fashion editors. Even jackets try to masquerade as same, via the plunge-placket line, or by simply buttoning up the back. Newest way to wear an overblouse: with a full skirt.

It's O.K. to be biased — bias-cut skirts, jackets, shirts, even pants, as well as culottes and the perennial self - sashed tunic.

MRS. HOWARD ELLINGTON LEWIS JR.

Joanna Massey, Mr. Lewis Exchange Wedding Vows In First Baptist Church

Fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli and stock against a background of Southern Smilax formed a setting for the candlelight ceremony which united in marriage Miss Joanna Ruth Massey and Howard Ellington Lewis Jr. The wedding was solemnized Friday, March 31 at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist church of West Monroe, with the Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Massey of West Monroe and Mrs. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Lewis of Monroe.

Wrought iron candelabra in tree shape, holding white cathedral tapers completed decorations for the exchange of vows. Candles were lighted by Charles M. Merkel of Birmingham, Alabama and John K. Cagle of Monroe.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Jack White, who also accompanied Mrs. James E. Lewis of Baton Rouge, as she sang "Because," and "O Perfect Love."

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled with yoke and long petal point sleeves of hand clipped imported Chantilly lace. The moulded bodice featured a Sabrina neckline outlined with lace and embellished with pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt fashioned with a shirred pouf bustle back extended into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held in place by a queen's crown of lace and pearls, enhanced with aurora borealis crystals.

She carried a bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid and backed with French lace, pearls and sequins. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Betty Goodwin, Meridian, Mississippi, served her sister as matron of honor and Miss Charla Krichbaum, Cleveland, Ohio, cousin of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids were Miss Sheila Watson, Miss Amy Hood, Miss Glenda Rogers and Miss Virginia Watson, all of West Monroe.

They wore identical gowns of turquoise silk organza over taffeta, styled with sweetheart necklines, brief sleeves and bouffant skirts. Wide cummerbunds of turquoise taffeta accented the waists and formed large back bows. Their headpieces were bow bandeaux of matching taffeta. The honor attendant and junior bridesmaid carried white baskets filled with pink forget-me-nots and pearls, while the other bridesmaids carried baskets of pink and turquoise tinted pompon chrysanthemums.

Charles M. Merkel served as best man and groomsmen were Walter Lynn Stokes, Edwin L. Blackwell, John K. Cagle and Justin Gross. Jimmy Goodwin of Meridian, Miss., nephew of the bride, was junior groomsman.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Massey wore a dress of pink Chantilly lace and chiffon with matching accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a brocade silk dress of celadon green with a soft chiffon cummerbund and a green cymbidium orchid.

The grandmothers, Mrs. J. W. Lafferty of Laurel, Miss., Mrs. Charles A. Krichbaum and Mrs. John H. McGough of Morton, Miss., wore corsages of white rosebuds with ribbons that matched their dresses.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church parlor. Miss Tywannia White presided at the guest book at a table graced by a large memory candle decorated with small bridal flowers. The reception table covered with white lace over turquoise had as a centerpiece an arrangement of pink and white flowers in a cupid epergne, also holding pink candles. Mrs. W. W. Tubb presided at the punch bowl and at the opposite end of the table Mrs. J. F. Jones Jr. served the tiered wedding cake. Others assisting were Miss Brenda Younse, Miss Melba Rogers and Mrs. Joe Ford Jr. Tiny rice bags were distributed among the guests.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to the gulf coast, the bride was wearing a blue spring suit with floral pillbox hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 502 Erin in Monroe.

Out - of - town guest were Mr. and Mrs. John Brand, Hershall Brand, Laurel, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Merkel of Birmingham, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Krichbaum and Regina Krichbaum of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gill of Bastrop, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cullen of Houston, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Canfield of Bastrop.

Three Shapes Predominate In New Millinery

Three millinery silhouettes are sure-fire for spring and summer: turban, cloche and sailor.

The turban is preparing for continued fashion action in straw-cloths that look more and more like knits or woven fabrics to frothy chiffons. While still going to all heights, it will strike its newest pose shallowed down to head - conforming contours for a wider, closer, rounder look in the 20s manner.

The sailor now comes in tiny to mammoth size, tilting its brim or level - headed, its crown of many heights and shapes. It forecasts smooth sailing ahead for both sleek straws and rough ones.

Area Delegates To Garden Club Session Named

A large number of garden club members from this area plan to attend the 27th annual convention and 13th state flower show of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation in New Orleans April 7-9.

Wifely Tips Can Aid Hubby In Clothes Choice

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

Care and feeding of a man includes presenting him in the most favorable fashion sartorially.

Although the haberdashers may be off limits to you, you can still pass along these tips for buying a good suit and getting a good fit.

After he buys it to your liking, you keep it well pressed, with all its buttons, and carefully closeted.

In shopping tell him to — Check pocket linings. Stiff, starchy ones have sizing that may come out during first cleaning.

Roughly grasp coat lapel. Pull closed hand down. Lapel should spring back into place without wrinkles.

Bend corner of collar. If it returns to position slowly (instead of flipping back), beware.

Mr. Roberts was also graduated from the University of Arkansas where he was a member of Marketing club, president of Williams House and a member of Men's Interhall Council.

The bride-elect is on the faculty of the Norman Junior high school in Crossett. Mr. Roberts is presently associated with a department store chain in Bogalusa, La.

Colonial Pieces Cross Sea For U.S. Museum

BATH, England, (AP) — A lot of early American furniture is crossing the sea to find a permanent and gracious home in England.

Expected soon is almost the whole of an early American inn, once Conkey's Tavern of Pelham, Mass. A massive stone lintel over a fireplace is inscribed, "Conkey's Tavern, June ye 21st, A.D., 1776."

The furniture and many objects in domestic use in colonial days will be placed in one of Britain's stately mansions, Claverton Manor, two and a half miles from the center of Bath, where they will form basic exhibits in the first museum of American decorative arts to be established permanently outside the United States.

What's New This Spring

Muumuu's are here to stay, because of their wonderful versatility and comfortableness! They serve as a duster, housedress or patio lounger, all - in - one. Spring versions of the muumuu are again brilliant with exotic Hawaiian flower prints and often are carbon - copied in a smaller size for daughter.

In line with the ensemble look for spring, two classic outfits are offered in two new collections . . . a silk surah print dress, topped by a slim wool coat, lined to match its dress . . . and a three-piece silk costume, jacket and skirt in solid color with print overblouse. Both are firm foundations on which to build a spring wardrobe.

A new version of the rain-or-shine coat is the reversible cape, backed with cotton poplin for spring showers and putting on a lovely wool flannel front when it's sunny.

Noah's Ark

For a child's party, cut a banana lengthwise, using one slice for each child. Stand animal crackers in a row along the center of the banana and serve with a scoop of ice cream.

Let's talk about Maternity Fashions

SEPARATES SPREE

Separates are popular with young expectants because they look good, are very versatile and stretch pregnancy clothing budgets like magic. Choose a basic color that is especially suited to you . . . a color you feel well in! This is no time to experiment with colors you think you might like!

BUY ENOUGH

Certain economies must be practiced during pregnancy, but, don't stint too much on your wardrobe. Buy enough pieces to make your separates interchangeable. Pedal pushers and pants are nice if you are sure you will not mind later on when your figure has lost some of its slimness. Make sure you enjoy wearing them before you buy. Be wary of extremes in prints and styles. One or two of these will suffice. Buy enough variety to keep you well-groomed at all times. Consult your maternity wear specialist and follow her advice. Remember . . . she has helped many mothers-to-be just like you. You'll find experienced sales ladies at Lillian's Maternity Wear.

EASY FASHIONS

When you choose your maternity wardrobe remember that these clothes will lead a full and busy life. Choose fashions that require as little care as possible. Fashions that can be washed and dried in your automatic washer. Build your spring and summer wardrobe around fashions like these and you'll have more time to enjoy yourself.

LAY AWAY PLAN

Choose your maternity fashions early in your pregnancy. This way you can put them in lay-away until you really need them . . . and you'll hardly miss the money. Remember . . . you are always welcome at Lillian's Maternity Wear whether you are ready to buy or not. We'll be looking for you tomorrow at 1129 Forsythe Ave.

MISS SUSAN CUMMINGS

Susan Cummings, Fiance List May Wedding Date

Of interest to friends here is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill Cummings of Oklahoma City, Okla., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Susan Cummings to Charles Joseph Martin. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Martin, also of Oklahoma City.

The couple will be united in marriage on May 20 at 11 a.m. in St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church in Oklahoma City. Msgr. Burt Murtaugh will officiate.

The bride - elect's mother is the former Corinne Guerriero of Monroe. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Guerriero Sr. of Monroe, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Cummings, Oklahoma City.

Miss Cummings attended the University of Oklahoma, where she served as rush chairman and treasurer of her social sorority, Gamma Phi Beta. She also was secretary of the Finance club, treasurer of Iota Epsilon, a member of the Market club and was listed on the Dean's honor roll and received D.A.R. honors.

Mr. Martin is the grandson of Mrs. C. H. Makins and the late Mr. Makins, Oklahoma City, and of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Martin, Oklahoma City. He attended Springhill college, Mobile, Ala., and Central State College, Edmond, Okla.

Attendants for their wedding have also been selected by the betrothed couple. Miss Penny Nowery, Shreveport, will be maid of honor and Mrs. Thomas A. Murphy, Oklahoma City, matron of honor. Bridesmaids will include Miss Sally Martin, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Maxine Pinkerton, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Margaret Roberts, Shreveport; Miss Sherry Allen, Bartlesville, Okla., and junior bridesmaid, Miss Diane Dunnett, Oklahoma City, cousin of the bride-elect.

John B. Martin Jr., Oklahoma City, will serve as best man and ushers will be Jim Martin, Bob Martin, Gary Mynatt, Thomas A. Murphy, Bill Rush, all of Oklahoma City and George Aller, Muskogee.

Colonial Pieces Cross Sea For U.S. Museum

Expected soon is almost the whole of an early American inn, once Conkey's Tavern of Pelham, Mass. A massive stone lintel over a fireplace is inscribed, "Conkey's Tavern, June ye 21st, A.D., 1776."

The furniture and many objects in domestic use in colonial days will be placed in one of Britain's stately mansions, Claverton Manor two and a half miles from the center of Bath, where they will form basic exhibits in the fir t museum of American decorative arts to be established permanently outside the United States.

MISS PATSY JEAN HARRISON

Couple Sets Wedding In Crossett

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Harrison of Crossett, Arkansas, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patsy Jean to Tommy L. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Roberts, also of Crossett.

The wedding will be an event of May 28 and will be solemnized in the chapel of the First Baptist church at Crossett.

Miss Harrison was graduated from the University of Arkansas, where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, secretary of AWS Legislative board, chairman of Student Union office management committee and a member of Lambda Iota Tau, honorary English fraternity.

Mr. Roberts was also graduated from the University of Arkansas where he was a member of Marketing club, president of Williams House and a member of Men's Interhall Council.

The bride-elect is on the faculty of the Norman Junior high school in Crossett. Mr. Roberts is presently associated with a department store chain in Bogalusa, La.

Girl Scout News

A timely service was Troop 22's project of planting day lilies around one of the West Monroe fire stations. The girls, with their leader, Mrs. Clifton Lee, spent a Saturday planting the "golden blossoms for the golden anniversary", which Girl Scouting will celebrate next year. The troop is comprised of fourth grade girls at Ransom School and meets at Trinity Baptist Church.

Troop 19 counts a Saturday outing at Pine Wood as their most exciting recent activity. Having called off participation in their neighborhood playday the week before, the leaders, Mrs. A. W. Wiley and Mrs. T. A. Morgan, accompanied the troop on the outing. A hike to the river, a picnic lunch, laying and following a trail, revisiting day camp unit sites, comprised the day's activities.

This same troop, third-year Brownies of Sherrouse School, spent a recent indoor meeting dyeing egg shells and making attractive Easter favors which a service group of adults took to one of the homes for the aged.

Trips to places of interest are a popular Brownie Scout activity. Troop 30, Mrs. Cotham Haddad and Mrs. D. F. Burkhalter, leaders, recently paid a visit to the post office. The girls were fascinated by what they learned about distribution of mail. Since the girls attend Lexington School, Mr. Daniel, their guide, showed them the code for mail destined for that neighborhood. He took the girls to the Federal Court Room and explained what goes on there.

The above mentioned troops are all at the fly-up stage, working on Tenderfoot requirements in order to be invested as Intermediate Scouts by the time school is out.

An excited group of girls is the Mississippi Mermaid bunch, who can hardly wait for June 23. Nearly 500 Senior Scouts and staff will board the Steamer Avalon in Memphis for a trip down river to New Orleans. They will sleep on deck on bedrolls, will stop at points of interest on the way, will have sessions on program skills on board, as well as singing and fun.

In New Orleans, the girls will be joined by another group of 500 for a day of sightseeing, after which the boat will make the upstream trip with its lead of Senior Scouts.

Elected patrol leader by the group from our council for the downstream trip is Mickie Varnado, with Gayle Smith as assistant. Others in the patrol are Bonnie Baldo, Linda Breard, Jane Edwards, Milann Gannaway, Diane Malley, Carole Overton.

Happy Easter!

Roses To Vie With Lilacs In Easter Parade

Roses will vie with lilacs in the Easter parade this year, according to reports that rose - colored leather shoes will dominate the Easter egg tones in women's footwear.

Easter paraders will be wearing slender, elongated pumps, spectators, walkers and mid - heel sandals molded of soft, supple leathers in smart but simple lines to give a woman grace and freedom afoot. In a rainbow of rich tones, polished, suede and grained leather shoes will underline the young, vivacious look of this Easter's fashions. Black patent leather and sparkling luster leathers will spotlight well dressed women.

Everything will be coming up roses - pink roses - this Easter. Delicate rose, hot pink and strawberry pink will be seen afoot in luster leather, polished calf and delicately grained kid shoes. Several pinks will be seen on the same shoe or the same tone will be interpreted in several leather textures to give a multi- tone effect on the same shoe. Built - in detailing and large cut - outs on sides and vamps give dimension to glowing leather surfaces.

Hard on the heels of pink pumps will crowd a multitude of clear Easter egg tones, from sun yellows, soft golds and brilliant corals to sea blues, avocado greens and lovely lilacs. Neutral tones will range from off - white to tan, with many seen in ombre effects which lead from cafe au lait through taupe to brown. Even the smooth leather linings of this Spring's shoes will be pretty — often matching the color of the outer leather surface.

For the woman who teams elegance with simplicity, the classic black and whites will be seen in combinations of black patent leather with white smooth or grained leather. Both black patent and all white leather shoes will be used to underscore checked suits, tweed ensembles and dark redingote coats.

The classic spectator, neatly set on a lightweight, flexible leather sole, will take on new handsomeness in combinations of 1961 leather tones. Some, like combinations of taupe, apricot and willow green, will find some note to match in the Easter costume. Others, like navy - and - white, will lean on tradition. In the spectator and walking shoe, an occasional blunted or ovaled toe will be seen, frequently "framed" by an extended leather sole.

The well - heeled look will extend in two directions this Easter: up and out. While many daytime pumps will be set on slightly higher heels to complement pointed toes, others — chiefly in the middle heights — will be broader and more substantial. The slimmer heels will be seen in both stacked and self - leather, while the heavier heel will most frequently be constructed of stacked leather.

YOU

Either of these Corvairs would make you a wonderful traveling companion. (Any of Corvair's ten budget-priced models would, for that matter.) The Lakewood Station Wagon earns its keep with a solid 68 cubic feet of cargo space, 10 of it under that lockable hood. And the Monza Club Coupe, with its bucket-type front seats, lets you in on some ultra-comfortable driving.

And they both handle and brake and perform beautifully. (Proof of the pudding is the way the '61 Corvair manhandled the recent Canadian Winter Rally, winning outright and taking the first five places in its class in this rugged 1,265-mile test.) Look 'em over at your dealer's. And if you can't decide which one you want, feel free to take both.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice

"Please explain the simplest way to shorten boy's and men's cuff - type trousers. I have two growing boys and can't buy the correct in seam length for the size of their waists. If I could shorten these myself, it would certainly help financially. Many of my friends have the same problem and all of us are anxious to get this information. Your column is the first thing I read when I open my paper."

Mrs. G. F. W.

Dear Mrs. G. F. W.

I have had so many requests for this question that I hope all of you will clip this column and save for future reference.

1. Rip out the original cuff and press the trouser legs flat.

2. Mark correct length of finished trousers.

3. Chalk mark 1½" below first chalk line for width of cuff.

4. Mark 2½" below 2nd line and cut marks off here.

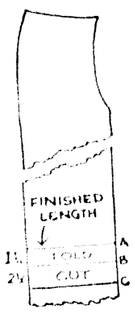
Machine stitch cut edge to hem. This could also be done with a catch stitch. Stitching line will be even with cuff. Fold cuff up to right side on first chalk line and the cuff should be even and the correct length. Tack the turned cuff to trousers at both seams.



AVOID WRINKLES

Dear Eunice

I have just finished a pure silk suit and every time I wear it, I have a million wrinkles in the front. I don't think the look very good but don't know what to do about it since I didn't fit the skirt too tightly. Have you got any good ideas that would correct this?

Mrs. V. E. R.

Dear Mrs. V. E. R.

Silk fabrics have a tendency to wrinkle more than cotton or any other type fabric. I would suggest lining the FRONT of the skirt with a soft, but firm lining fabric. This won't entirely correct the situation, but should help.

Some of your good clothes for summer made from fabrics such as linen and silks, should be partially lined in front only to help prevent wrinkles. They need not be lined in back because this type of fabric doesn't stretch.

CUT FELT ANY WAY

"Dear Eunice

"Can felt be cut on the cross-wise fold? I have a short piece which could be cut to advantage cross-wise."

Mrs. C. P.

Dear Mrs. C. P.

Felt has no grain and therefore can be cut in any direction. Felt is not a woven fabric, only woven fabrics have a definite grain.

Lace Reigns In Dallas Style Show

By GAY PAULEY

DALLAS, Tex. UPI — If lace were sturdy enough, there is sufficient yardage of it in the Dallas summer fashion collections to cover and tie every steer in the Southwest.

One manufacturer nonchalantly observed that "we put 50 yards of edging in that dress," as a model paraded the runway in a simple daytime gingham with horizontal bands of lace circling the skirt.

This, in short, is the year of the lace trim for the 22 members of the Dallas Fashion Manufacturers Center, staging its annual style shows for visiting reporters.

Lace was used to frill sleeves, lay inserts in sleeves or bodices to band skirts, to trim boleros on two - part costumes, or to form a four to six - inch panel of applique around an otherwise plain skirt. Occasionally, a manufacturer became tired of lace, so used grosgrain ribbon bandings, o'l - fashioned tatting or rick - rack, or eyelet embroidery to break the monotony.

TRIM NO WHIM

Trim was hardly a whim - it gave a new look to clothes in a season when there was no all powerful silhouette to grab attention.

For, full skirts and slim skirts weighed in at about the same fighting strength in this sportswear manufacturing center where sales have reached what the industry said is a record of $160 million retail yearly.

The one theme, other than that of trim, which did run through the summer clothes was the overall look of coolness and comfort.

Dresses were designed to get into easily - they either were step-in or buttoned on an off like a coat. They came sleeveless, cap sleeve, or airy bell - shaped sleeve for added coolness. More over-blouses than those that tucked into skirt or shorts predominated. Cotton won hands down as the favorite summertime fabric, but there also were a number of blends of cotton with dacron or other synthetics so that they needed little or no ironing.

STRONGEST IN YEARS

Gingham checks rated as everybody's favorite, but whites or pastels with a floral pattern also were popular. White alone is the strongest it has been in many years, said Ike Clark, a leading manufacturer. Clark, incidentally, came up with a new term for what the fashion industry for years has called the "hot" colors reds, oranges, and yellows. He called them "angry."

It took Charles Dickey, designer and manufacturer, to elevate ticking - the sturdy striped fabric of the bedding industry - to high style fashion. Dickey used the fabric for a series of coordinated shorts, dresses and culottes.

Other high spring collections:

—A new length in shorts, dubbed the "knee tickler," longer than the Bermudas, and just covering the kneecap.

Culottes in almost every collection. Clark showed them with buttons inside the waistband for secure fastening to the blouse for the woman active at golf or gardening.

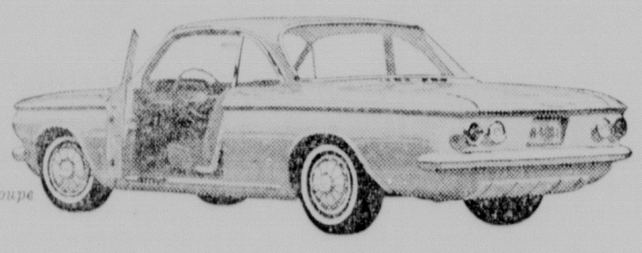
Corvair 700 Lakewood Station Wagon



Monza Club Coupe

One of these Chevy Corvairs wants

YOU

(in a friendly way, of course)

Either of these Corvairs would make you a wonderful traveling companion. (Any of Corvair's ten budget-priced models would, for that matter.) The Lakewood Station Wagon earns its keep with a solid 68 cubic feet of cargo space, 10 of it under that lockable hood. And the Monza Club Coupe, with its bucket-type front seats, lets you in on some ultra-comfortable driving.

And they both handle and brake and perform beautifully. (Proof of the pudding is the way the '61 Corvair manhandled the recent Canadian Winter Rally, winning outright and taking the first five places in its class in this rugged 1,265-mile test.) Look 'em over at your dealer's. And if you can't decide which one you want, feel free to take both.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice

"Please explain the simplest way to shorten boy's and men's cuff - type trousers. I have two growing boys and can't buy the correct inseam length for the size of their waists. If I could shorten these myself, it would certainly help financially. Many of my friends have the same problems and all of us are anxious to get this information. Your column is the first thing I read when I open my paper."

Mrs. G. F. W.

Dear Mrs. G. F. W.

I have had so many requests for this question that I hope all of you will clip this column and save it for future reference.

1. Rip out the original cuff and press the trouser legs flat.

2. Mark correct length of finished trousers. (a)

3. Chalf mark 1¾" below first chalk line for width of cuff. (b)

4. Mark 2½" below 2nd line and cut slacks off here (3)

Fold hem to wrong side on middle chalk line. (b)

Machine stitch cut edge (c) to trousers. This could also be done with a catch stitch. Stitching line will be covered with cuff. Fold cuff up to right side on first chalk line (a) and the cuff should be even and the correct length. Tack the finished cuff to trousers at both seams.

AVOID WRINKLES

"Dear Eunice

"I have just finished a pure silk suit and every time I wear it, I have a million wrinkles in the front. I don't think this looks very good but don't know what to do about it since I didn't fit the skirt too tightly. Have you got any good ideas that would correct this?"

Mrs. V. E. R.

Dear Mrs. V. E. R.:

Silk fabrics have a tendency to wrinkle more than almost any other type fabric. I would suggest lining the FRONT of the skirt with a soft, but firm lining fabric. This won't entirely correct the situation, but should help.

Some of your good clothes for summer made from fabrics such as linen and silks, should be partially lined in front only to help prevent wrinkles. They need not be lined in back because this type of fabric doesn't stretch.

CUT FELT ANY WAY

"Dear Eunice:

"Can felt be cut on the cross-wise fold? I have a short piece which could be cut to advantage cross-wise."

Mrs. C. P.

Dear Mrs. C. P.:

Felt has no grain and therefore can be cut in any direction. Felt is not a woven fabric, only woven fabrics have a definite grain.

Middle Road Is Safest When Marriages Erupt

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When a friend faces a marriage break-up chances are that you, being the milk of human kindness, may offer your broad choulder to cry on. Your reward may be a soured friendship, or two.

Take the word of Mrs. Else Siegel who, as assistant director for New York City's Community Service Society, has been counseling bickering couples for more than 20 years.

While social researchers keep tabs on the count of broken homes (approximately 400,000 annually), and the resulting "half-orphaned" children (about 800,000 yearly), nobody accounts for the fringe casualties — those friends of quarreling couples who somehow find themselves taking sides.

With one out of four marriages reaching divorce courts these days, and with a tremor in the most unshakable unions occasionlaly, you have probably already been drawn into the middle of a marital muddle sometime in your life.

Unless you are very wise and very careful. And few people are!

WHY YOU'RE INVOLVED

Miss Siegle, an Austrian - born caseworker in this largest of the nation's Family Service agencies, claim that friends are drawn into the wars of embattled couples for three very human reasons:

1. ALL people are flattered at being solicited for advice.

2. SOME people (the gossipy types) enjoy listening to the sins of the supposed errant husband or wife.

3. MOST people do not wish to turn a friend away at the very time when he or she is obviously in need of friendship.

You don't have to turn a friend away, Mrs. Siegle insists. Indeed you should be helpful in almost all ways you can. Offer to entertain the children. Or invite the friend out to a dinner or show to get his mind off his troubles.

"But don't let these emotionally distraught friends relate to you the details of their personal problem. Tell them that because you are so fond of them that you cannot look at the situation objectively."

You can't. Mrs. Siegle has a thick file full of casse where well-meaning friends have done more harm than good.

A BROAD SHOULDER

"Of course, it is good for them to talk out their troubles with someone impersonal. I don't mean a marriage counselor, necessarily. The family doctor or a minister will do."

The experienced counselor is the first to admit that a state of neutrality is difficult to maintain, particularly if members of your family are involved. Still, it must be done if you are to avoid sometimes unpatchable splits that develop between couples and in-laws.

BUTTING IN?

The spats of little children are a good analogy, Mrs. Siegle thinks. Mothers rush to the defense of their youngsters and wind up not speaking to each other long after the kids are back playing together again.

"Remember that your friend or relative in marital trouble is in a highly emotional state, only able to see the negative side, unable to reason well," she says.

Remember, too, in choosing up sides, that tomorrow the couple may be deeply in love again, but embarrassed because you know what you know, and angry at you for "butting in."

"It's a tough code to practice," Mrs. Siegle admits, "almost impossible sometimes."

But the middle road is the only safe road to take when a marriage is erupting around you.

Weather Sounding

NEW YORK (UPI) — Temperature and humidity affect hearing ability. Hearing is most acute at a temperature of 50 degrees Fahrenheit with a relative humidity of 70 per cent, Dr. Lucia C. Morgan of the University of North Carolina reports.

The scientist said heat, cold or high humidity reduces acuteness of hearing.

Opera Star's Hobby Goes To Her Head

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — By her hatbox you shall know her.

Roberta Peters, that is — a lark at the Metropolitan Opera who has a heady hobby.

Miss Peters has 100 hats — no more, no less. When she gets more she donates to charity. When she has less, she goes shopping. The 100 - piece topping for the cranium is a sort of happiness and security symbol for the star.

The interest in hats is hereditary, she said. Her mother is a milliner.

When she's on the road — frequently — Miss Peters said she can be caught cold-handed with a dozen or more hats in one box.

"Getting a dozen hats into a box is no trick if you know how to pack — and know, in the first place, how to pick hats to travel," she said.

"If you buy a large one, followed by a small one, with a medium sized one in between, you'll have enough variety among the hats to be able to cram a dozen into one good-sized hat box," she said.

Miss Peters has lost hats on planes. Once after she winged from New York to San Francisco, someone forgot to unload her hat box. A dozen of her hats went to Tokyo and half-way around the world again on the return trip.

"In the interim I was without hats," she said.

She did what comes naturally to a woman who feels undressed without a hat. She bought 12.

Oddly, Miss Peters doesn't pay fantastic sums for her hats. She buys many at sales. She goes hat-shopping, occasionally in bargain basements, while killing time between practice sessions.

"Shopping for a hat's relaxing," she said.

Miss Peters said that it's most relaxing when you don't have a husband along.

"A husband," she said, "almost always tries to place a real money value on a hat and completely forgets about the psychic income that comes from a hat that satisfies."

Her smallest hat is a tiny rose held in place with veiling.

"It's a theater hat," she said.

"I haven't yet bought my easter bonnet," she said.

"I may even have to buy it in Pittsburgh when I'm there Easter week-end for an appearance."

Joanna Rockett Engaged To Wed Jimmy H. Allen

Betrothal of Miss Joanna Rockett to Jimmy H. Allen is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Rockett of Marion. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Allen, also of Marion.

The wedding will be an event of June 2 and will take place in the home of the bride's parents. Re . W. S. McCullin, pastor of the First Baptist church of Marion, will officiate at the exchange of vows.

Both are graduates of Marion high school and are now attending Louisiana Tech in Ruston. They plan to live in Ruston following their wedding.

They're Off Center

Asymmetrical effects are noted in new - for - spring styles. To create these effects, off-center buttoning or trims, surplice necklines and diagonal stripes are used.

Three-Cornered Pants Set Now Demand Change

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three-cornered pants set — 10 million strong — sometimes gets cranky about diaper rash.

Usually, the distemper means it's time for more frequent changes.

The reason for the irritation: a baby's skin is different than that of an adult.

An infant's skin, according to the National Baby Care Council, is thinner. It also has less pigment — coloring matter.

With both of these substances in short supply, the ability of baby's skin to protect itself against friction and changes in temperature is not as great as that of adults.

Also many of the sebaceous or oil glands found in the skin of adults are not fully developed in the baby's skin, especially in the diaper area.

This makes the diaper area more vulnerable to infection and disease.

VITAL TO CHANGE

The council says all of this means that it's vital to change a diaper as soon as it is soiled. The five different causes of diaper rash, as the experts figure it, are all contained in the wet diaper. They are:

—Ammonia, the most common a powerful skin irritant formed by the decomposition of urine in the diaper.

—Live bacteria, present in a washed, dried and clean diaper that has not beer sterilized.

—Chafing of the skin due to a diaper left harsh after washing.

—Alkaline condition of the diaper resulting from most conventional laundering.

—Skin scalding due to the chemical action of traces of washing materials which have not been completely rinsed out.

Joanna Rockett Engaged To Wed Jimmy H. Allen

Betrothal of Miss Joanna Rockett to Jimmy H. Allen is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Rockett of Marion. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Allen, also of Marion.

The wedding will be an event of June 2 and will take place in the home of the bride's parents. Rev. W. S. McCullin, pastor of the First Baptist church of Marion, will officiate at the exchange of vows.

Both are graduates of Marion high school and are now attending Louisiana Tech in Ruston. They plan to live in Ruston following their wedding.

They're Off Center

Color In Blocks

Bold blocks of contrasting colors in one garment look new. This is favorite spring treatment for navy and white, black and white.

Three-Cornered Pants Set Now Demand Change

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three-cornered pants set — 10 million strong — sometimes gets cranky about diaper rash.

Usually, the distemper means it's time for more frequent changes.

The reason for the irritation: a baby's skin is different than that of an adult.

An infant's skin, according to the National Baby Care Council, is thinner. It also has less pigment — coloring matter.

With both of these substances in short supply, the ability of baby's skin to protect itself against friction and changes in temperature is not as great as that of adults.

Also many of the sebaceous or oil glands found in the skin of adults are not fully developed in the baby's skin, especially in the diaper area.

This makes the diaper area more vulnerable to infection and disease.

VITAL TO CHANGE

The council says all of this means that it's vital to change a diaper as soon as it is soiled. The five different causes of diaper rash, as the experts figure it, are all contained in the wet diaper. They are:

—Ammonia, the most common a powerful skin irritant formed by the decomposition of urine in the diaper.

—Live bacteria, present in a washed, dried and clean diaper that has not beer sterilized.

—Chafing of the skin due to a diaper left harsh after washing.

—Skin scalding due to the chemical action of traces of washing materials which have not been completely rinsed out.

Middle Road Is Safest When Marriages Erupt

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When a friend faces a marriage break-up chances are that you, being the milk of human kindness, may offer your broad choulder to cry on. Your reward may be a soured friendship, or two.

Take the word of Mrs. Else Siegel who, as assistant director for New York City's Community Service Society, has been counseling bickering couples for more than 20 years.

While social researchers keep tabs on the count of broken homes (approximately 400,000 annually), and the resulting "half-orphaned" children (about 800,000 yearly), nobody accounts for the fringe casualties those friends of quarreling couples who somehow find themselves taking sides.

With one out of four marriages reaching divorce courts these days, and with a tremor in the most unshakable unions occasionialy, you have probably already been drawn into the middle of a marital muddle sometime in your life.

Unless you are very wise and very careful. And few people are!

WHY YOU'RE INVOLVED

Miss Siegle, an Austrian-born caseworker in this largest of the nation's Family Service agencies, claim that friends are drawn into the wars of embattled couples for three very human reasons:

1. ALL people are flattered at being solicited for advice.

2. SOME people (the gossipy types) enjoy listening to the sins of the supposed errant husband or wife.

3. MOST people do not wish to turn a friend away at the very time when he or she is obviously in need of friendship.

You don't have to turn a friend away, Mrs. Siegle insists. Indeed you should be helpful in almost all ways you can. Offer to entertain the children. Or invite the friend out to a dinner or show to get his mind off his troubles.

"But don't let these emotionally distraught friends relate to you the details of their personal problem. Tell them that because you are so fond of them that you cannot look at the situation objectively."

You can't. Mrs. Siegle has a thick file full of casse where well-meaning friends have done more harm than good.

A BROAD SHOULDER

"Of course, it is good for them to talk out their troubles with someone impersonal. I don't mean a marriage counselor, necessarily. The family doctor or a minister will do."

The experienced counselor is the first to admit that a state of neutrality is difficult to maintain, particularly if members of your family are involved. Still, it must be done if you are to avoid sometimes unpatchable splits that develop between couples and in-laws.

BUTTING IN?

The spats of little children are a good analogy, Mrs. Siegle thinks. Mothers rush to the defense of their youngsters and wind up not speaking to each other long after the kids are back playing together again.

"Remember that your friend or relative in marital trouble is in a highly emotional state, only able to see the negative side, unable to reason well," she says.

Remember, too, in choosing up sides, that tomorrow the couples may be deeply in love again, but embarrassed because you know what you know, and angry at you for 'butting in.'

But the middle road is the only safe road to take when a marriage is erupting around you.

Weather Sounding

NEW YORK (UPI) — Temperature and humidity affect hearing ability. Hearing is most acute at a temperature of 50 degrees Fahrenheit with a relative humidity of 70 per cent, Dr. Lucia C. Morgan of the University of North Carolina reports.

The scientist said heat, cold or high humidity reduces acuteness of hearing.

IN McCALL'S TEST ROOMS we test products and services for the qualities and features you will find important when you use them. That's why, after we have tested a product in the laboratory and in practical use and like it, we believe you will like it too.

Hide-A-Bed BY SIMMONS

a beautiful sofa . . . a real bed

We found this sofa-bed combination designed for comfort, well built, and convenient to use. It looks and sits like a luxurious sofa, yet secretly hides a full size bed. It's made for a lifetime of service; both the bed frame and the sofa frame are of all-steel construction with no wood braces to warp, shrink, or swell . . . no glue to dry out and cause loose joints. Opening and closing the Hide-A-Bed is almost effortless — it practically opens itself.

Our laboratory tests proved the quality of this unit. The Deepsleep and Beautyrest mattresses, available in the Hide-A-Bed, both withstood the abusive weight of a 280-pound roller passing over them hundreds of thousands of times. They showed little change in resiliency and thickness; innersprings did not sag or break. The durability and quality of the Beautyrest or foam cushions were proven equally good. The sofa with cushions in place showed no ill effects after thousands of impacts of a heavy weight.

FEATURES WE ESPECIALLY LIKE:

TRUE DUAL PURPOSE — a handsome sofa with a stitched seat and back . . . a full length bed for overnight guests.

CHOICE OF STYLES AND FABRICS — available in wide range of modern, provincial and contemporary models and in choice of 200 decorator fabrics for any decor.

EASY TO OPEN AND CLOSE — balanced to practically work itself. Sheets and blanket can be made up and concealed in place inside sofa.

DURABLE MATTRESS AND CUSHIONS — choice of full-length Deepsleep or Beautyrest mattress for long service and restful sleep. Choice of Beautyrest or foam cushions.

CONVENIENT FOR HOUSECLEANING — Hide-A-Bed need not be moved about when vacuuming; easily tilts forward for complete access to floor or carpet underneath.

Centennial Group Faces New Troubles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil War Centennial Commission complained Saturday that President Kennedy's order to transfer its national assembly from Charleston, S.C., to a Navy base to avoid racial segregation has led to new segregation troubles.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III, commission chairman who reluctantly acceded to Kennedy's request, said the Navy's regulations will make it necessary to separate married couples attending the meeting.

"Faced thus with the problems of segregating husbands from wives, the chairman has issued a general call for public cooperation," the commission said in a press release.

The President ordered the shift to the U.S. naval base when he learned that a New Jersey Negro woman delegate to the centennial observance could not be quartered in the same Charleston hotel withh white delegates.

Delegations from several northern states said they would boycott the meeting, scheduled for April 11-12, unless the restriction were lifted.

Grant said the switch means that some delegates might have to sleep aboard ships anchored at the naval base during the night of April 11.

"The last-minute change of meeting place, made to conform to White House policy regarding desegregation, has caused us to be confronted with the matter of supplying ample facilities," he said.

The grandson of the famous union general and president asked those who plan to attend the two-day meeting to let the commission know immediately by telegram. Reservations for meals and rooms will be necessary, he said.

Grant, apparently irked by the White House order, said delegates also will be reqired to show a pass at the entrance to the base for security reasons.

He said that women attending the meeting would be housed in nurses' quarters and in the base hospital in twin double bedrooms and wards. Men will be assigned to officers' quarters and enlisted men's barracks, he added.

The assembly was scheduled for Chalreston so the delegates and others attending could participate in the re-enactment of the firing on Fort Sumter on April 12, 1861, that marked the start of the Civil War.

Israel Parade Plans Protested

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jordan complained to the U.N. Security Council Saturday that Israel is planning a big military parade in Jerusalem April 20 in violation of the armistice agreement between the two countries.

Jordanian delegate Abdul Monem Rifa'i filed the complaint with T. B. Subasinghe of Ceylon, president of the 11-nation council for April. He asked that the council meet as soon as possible to take it up.

Israel, proclaimed a country May 14, 1948, will celebrate its 13th birthday April 20, a date fixed by the Jewish calendar.

Woodlands Below Their Fish Capacity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Behind the Forest Service's recent proposal for a 10- to 15-year, $25.6 million plan to improve hunting and fishing in national forests is the fact that these woodlands today are far below their fish and wildlife-carrying capacity.

The Forest Service, a unit of the Agriculture Department, manages national forests and national grasslands in 41 states and Puerto Rico.

Hunting and fishing on these lands has been booming in recent years. Forest visits by sportsmen have nearly tripled since 1950, the Forest Service reported after counting 20.1 million sportsman-visits in 1960.

But improvement of the forests and their lakes and streams as a home for fish and wildlife has not kept pace with the growth of interest in hunting and fishing, according to Forest Service officials.

"Much of the essential big game winter range in the national forest system needs improvement," service experts said in a summary of their proposed wildlife improvement program.

"On some ranges, forage plants are diminished to the point where both the game herds and the land they used are adversely affected. In other places, deer and elk are damaging young trees needed for future timber crops."

The situation in fishing areas is not much better.

"Many miles of national forest streams are not at their potential fish production capacity. Intensive land use in some areas has resulted in heavy stream siltation, unstable channels, and exposed and eroding banks. Improved fishing conditions will come about only through fully co-ordinated land management practices," a report added.

The Forest Service proposal is based on improving wildlife habitat. The long-range plan, subject to congressional approval and financing as part of the overall forest improvement plan called "Operation Outdoors," would call for:

—Planting of shrubs and grasses to give food and cover on 1.5 million acres of game range.

—Development of wildlife openings, food patches and game ways in dense vegetation by clearing or controlled burning on 400,000 acres.

—Stabilizing banks, planting streamside cover crops, and improving channels on 7,000 miles of fishing streams and 56,000 acres of lakes.

The service said one-third of all big game animals in the United States live all or part-time in the national forests.

Boyd Opposes Shifting Of Air Probe Authority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Alan S. Boyd of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) declared Saturday "it'll be a cold day in July" before his agency relinquishes its authority to investigate air crashes.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, the big, balding and blunt head of the CAB sharply rejected proposals that the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) take over the job of investigating air accidents.

Former FAA chief Elwood R. Quesada originally made the suggestion. He told a congressional committee the CAB was too busy with airline economic matters to concentrate properly on accident inquiry.

Quesada said the job belonged to FAA and proposed setting up an independent investigating unit within that agency.

The current head of FAA, Najeeb E. Halaby, has said he hasn't made up his mind yet on Quesada's proposal. But Halaby hinted he might support the idea, commenting that the Navy "runs its own boards of inquiry and does a pretty good job."

Boyd made it clear that the CAB would fight this. He pointed out that FAA operates the nation's air traffic control system and formulates all air safety rules —both of which could play a part in an air crash through possible inadequacies.

THE HOME SHIFT

Blossoms Add To Patterns

By MILDRED SWIFT

The old fashioned "droopy" bridal wreath is such a satisfactory plant. It seems the entire garden is in bloom when several of these burst forth. It just takes some white to bring out the colors in the landscape picture. The little white flowering almond, planted in masses, can do this, too. The white flowering peach adds its beauty to the white picture. The dogwood adds such a stately whiteness while the grancy graybeard gives a white with a tinge of green. All of these are beautiful now, in Ouachita parish.

CONFEDERATE JASMINE

It is not too late to put out a confederate jasmine vine as these are grown in buckets in the nurseries. It is evergreen, only severe freeze killing the top. The flowers are white, very small and almost cover the plant. It is an evergreen vine that requires little care, but needs some help to get started on its climb upward. So I've been told, it is insect and disease free. Some people use it as a ground cover. The plant goes through drouths very well, reseeds well to fertilizer, but will live without it.

Confederate jasmine should be pruned immediately after it blooms. Blooms can be used in arrangements if they are properly conditioned. When the stems are cut, they exude a milky, sticky substance. This is not poisonous. To condition these, cut stems of confederate jasmine, dip the cut ends in a bucket of warm water. Let them remain in this same water from six to eight hours before using.

The plant can be propagated from hardwood cuttings in September. Skip the tip growth and use the stem down where the wood is ripe. Make cuttings just below a leaf node in lengths of five inches. Dip in water, then in hormone powder to hasten rooting. Plant the cuttings with at least one leaf node covered. Keep in a shaded place and keep watered.

Confederate jasmine can be ground layered, too. The vines also drop seeds so that volunteer plants frequently spring up.

GARDEN JOBS

Getting ready for summer bloom is an important gardening job. March and April are excellent months to make chrysanthemum cuttings. Take three to four inch lengths from new growth on the side of the old plant. Place these in sand or vermiculite and sprinkle with water daily for about a week. They should root in about three weeks.

Make cuttings of geraniums and hibiscus this month.

If you want to propagate azaleas, select a branch from one of your established plants. Take one high closest to the ground and scrape through the bark on the under side. Bend the branch down and bury the scratched portion. Then anchor it down firmly with a brick. You don't cut the limb from the plant, just bend it over. Next spring you can cut this and you have a new azalea plant to place where you want it.

Another old fashioned plant that has been revived is, "Everlasting" or "Immortal". Flower catalogues list 40 varieties, but we usually think of the purple, white and pink. This is also called "strawflower". These dry beautifully, take the drouth well, require little care, cut well, reseed and come up year after year.

SHRIMP PLANT

Not too many gardeners raise shrimp plant. It requires little care. The name comes from the shrimp like shape and color of overlapping bracts which envelop the small inconspicuous tubular white flowers. The bracts are pinkish to brick red, resembling boiled shrimp.

Shrimp plant grows from 18 inches to six feet tall. It should be planted in spring after danger of frost is over. Peak blooms are in May, but shrimp plant blooms some all summer. An open sunny location is best, and sun makes the plant coloring more vivid. It thrives well in rich, well drained soil, but it is not fussy about other than sun and drainage.

Shrimp plant is beautiful as a cut flower. The plant often reseeds itself, sends up volunteer plants and is easy to propagate from cuttings. Often the hard winters freeze the plants and it is necessary to get a fresh start. Check the nurseries to see if plants are available. You'll enjoy shrimp plant and it needs little watering in dry spell.

VERBENA

Verbena is a good hardy perennial for North Louisiana. In the Spring it is a mass of color. It is an excellent ground cover with a trailing growth habit. Seeds can be sown in the open ground now and through April.

Verbena roots easily and I find this is best done in the fall. March winds dry the cuttings out so much I have trouble getting them to root in the spring.

Verbena likes a loose soil with lots of humus. Hard packed soil just won't grow this plant very well. Verbena blooms continuously from May through September. This plant gets "leggy" along in July and must be cut back. Also, it is quite subject to mildew in the summer. This is treated with subdue.

Colors of verbena include white, bright red, magenta, blue, rose, pink, rose, as well as some variegated varieties. At least a half day's sun is necessary for the plant to do its best. One variety, Cleora, is worth mixed and very pretty.

INTERESTING

Here are some interesting facts about Louisiana trees: Live oak is the main ornamental tree in this area. It is not advisable for a street tree or small gardens. It is a faster growing tree than most people think.

The tulip tree (not the Japanese magnolia) has attractive chartreuse colored blooms, but it is usually 20 years old before it blooms.

There are a number of different varieties of magnolia grandiflora. The difference is in the shape of the leaf, the density of the plant, the shape of the blooms and time of blooming.

The cypress tree is faster growing than most people think, too. It is not definitely known why this tree sends up knees, but it is believed they help the tree to breathe.

JEWELRY

The vanishing sleeve means the arms and wrists are areas for lots of bracelets. Some are matched to earrings, to pins, to each other, or to clothes. Never has there been such a need for bracelets. Bare arms are beautiful for the young. The more mature woman wears sleeves.

Necklaces are a necessary note to balance the simplicity of the clothes for an exciting overall fashion picture. The fashion has taken to new unexpected lengths. Long 30 to 45 inch lengths sport gold tasseled pendants, stone set pendants or bead pendants. These long necklaces often combine multiple strands of colored beads. Sometime there are color contrasts and mixtures in the same string.

Issues Mark Constitution In Honduras

To mark a significant development in local self government via a new Constitution, British Honduras has overprinted four new stamps with the wording "New Constitution 1960." The 2 - cent shows a mountain cow, 3 - cent the legislative council and mace, 10-cent Stanley Field Airport, and 15 - cent the remains of Mays Frieze. A vignette of Queen Elizabeth also appears on each.

British Honduras has a rich history in that it was once heavily populated by the ambient Maya Indians who had a high degree of civilization around the 8th Century. Thereafter it declined. Long before its discovery by Columbus in 1502 on his fourth voyage, Honduras was abandoned by the Mayas. The ruins of their towns and cities can still be found in the territory.

The U. S. Post Office Department reports that a 4-cent commemorative postage stamp honoring the centennial of Kansas Statehood will be issued on May 10 at Council Grove, Kan. The new stamp will be based on a design submitted seven years ago for this Kansas Territorial observance and has been modified by the Postal Administration. Further details on this stamp will be given in this column as soon as they become available.

Two stamp exhibitions of interest to philatelists are going on in two widely separated locations. One, STAMPEX, is taking place in London, England. The other, INTERPEX, is being held in New York City.

The London show was officially opened by Lord Brabazon of Tara, president of the Royal Aero Club. More than 30 frames contain a selection of classic and modern stamps of the world. The New

A new and well designed stamp-sorting tray has just been introduced to the philatelic world. Made of plastic, the tray has 36 compartments which accommodate the letters of the alphabet plus additional slots. It holds about 7,000 stamps and sells for $1.50. Philatelists interested may write to International Distributors, Box 1702, Atlanta 2, Ga.

The first issue of "The Cinderella Philatelist, published by the Cinderella Stamp Club, is now on the market. It is a pocket-sized magazine containing 64 pages of interest to specialists in the stamp field. Most of the items discussed are in the less popular segments of the hobby and therefore are termed "Cinderellas."

France honors Postage Stamp Day in that country with the issuance of a 20 centimes plus 5 stamp showing a Paris local mailman of the period of 1760.

Automobile Costs

BURLINGTON, Iowa (UPI) — If you're wondering what makes a $2,000 automobile cost $2,000, the National Education Program Letter has the answer.

There is $22 of raw materials, $500 in taxes and between $1,200 and $1,500 in direct and indirect labor costs in the car. Net profit to producers of raw materials and allied industries, $89; to parts makers $47; to local dealer $77 and to car manufacturer $65.

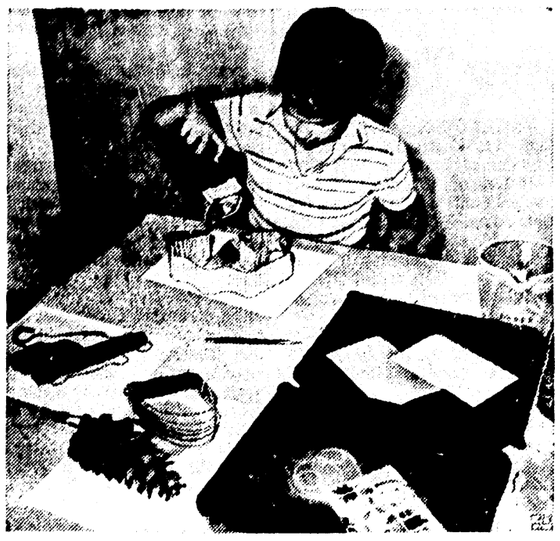
Court Decisions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Auto rental companies are up in arms over city traffic court decisions that they must pay traffic fines evaded by customers.

Avis says that one of its Philadelphia agencies has been ordered to pay 103 traffic tickets given to clients.

CREATIVE PHASE

Photography Without Camera Is Described



FLASH! A pupil starts to work on a photogram at the work-table setup in a Union Township, N.J., grade school. He will learn about light and one-step processing while creating an artistic design.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

An article, "Photography Without a Camera," in recent School Arts magazine caught my eye. It described how elementary school children were taught a creative phase of photography while experiencing a simplified session of darkroom work.

For a personal account of her work, I met the author of the article, Thelma R. Newman, art specialist for the schools of Union Township, N. J. It was interesting to learn how she combined her background in photography and in art to bring to youngsters an understanding and creativity in the primary stages of both media.

"It was achieved through photograms," she said.

PHOTOGRAMS

"Making photograms is a form of photography which doesn't require a camera, film or expensive equipment," she explained. "It's principal material is photographic paper. But we did require a room which could be converted when needed into a temporary darkroom by replacing the regular light bulb with an amber light which doesn't affect the photographic paper.

"Simplified modern processing methods are a major factor in the success of our venture. The old three - step, three - tray technique of developer, short stop and hypo, would have been too much for our pupils. The introduction of a single solution which automatically develops and fixes the print in six minutes makes it easy for our children to handle."

Almost any hand - held object can be used in making photograms. Plastic ornaments, magnifying glasses, marbles, cookie cutters, wire mesh strainers, glass rods, a pine comb — these were some of the objects used.

Mrs. Newman cut up the photographic paper into small trial-size pieces — under the amber safe - light, of course — for preliminary exposure experiments. She pointed out that the paper can be outdated, so this is a means of salvaging stock not suitable for normal printing.

FLASHLIGHTS

Flashlights were found to be the most convenient source of white light to be used for making the exposures. The working area was covered with old plastic tablecloths to protect the surface and to simplify the clean-up operation later.

Running water or a sink nearby was a help but not a necessity, Mrs. Newman said. A bottle of Unibath CC3 was mixed with water to make the proper working solution of combined developer-fixer and put into a tray. Alongside it was placed another tray of water to wash the prints.

After sufficient washing — one hour by tray, 20 minutes in running water — the prints were placed between blotters for drying.

"The youngsters learned to paint with light and to create artistic designs at their fingertips," Mrs. Newman said. "We counted the seconds and discovered how time was a factor in the rendition of shades of gray up to a rich black.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Simmsboro Club Displays Flowers

By GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

The Simmsboro Garden Club of Simmsboro, exhibited a beautiful flower show last week.

Mrs. L. N. Napper made a symmetrical triangle design in a white pottery compote. An outer triangle was made of Marguerite daisies. Another triangle was made within this one by the placement of rose tulips with their foliage.

Mrs. Napper's second arrangement was a mass triangle design in a yellow compote. Open yellow tulips were placed low in the design forming the focal area. The yellow hoop - skirt was placed in a mass above the tulips. Blue Dutch Iris formed a background for the yellow blossoms. Blue scilla was used with the iris as a filler. Spikes of yucca formed the background and emphasized the vertical line. This arrangement was completed in the back with branches of pittosporum. A lovely arrangement for the Easter buffett.

WHITE PILLOW

Mrs. L. A. Mullin placed a white pillow vase on a white base for her crescent design. Curved branches of green Scotch - Broom formed the crescent line. This line was filled in with white tulips. Two opened tulips were placed low in the design. B'Sosoms of Mt. Hood and thalia were used up and and out in the line. This arrangement was suitable for the living room table.

A mass symmetrical design was made in a pink compote by Mrs. Barnett Houck. Rose tulips were placed in the focal are. Blue Dutch iris, blue scilla, thalia and Mrs. Backhouse were massed up out from the tulips creating a lovely color combination. Another arrangement for the bouffet.

Mrs. Curtis Cole made an all white arrangement in a white arrangement in a white compote for the church. This was a fan-shaped design. Branches of spirea formed the line of the design which was filled in with white tulips, white bearded iris, and Cheerfulness blossoms. Lovely for the Easter Sunday Service.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Now is the time to divide and reset chrysanthemums. Make sure the drainage is good where you plant mums. They like average soil and average amount of plant food such as manure. Mix humus or compost well into the soil before planting.

New shoots make better plants than the old crowns. Mums grow easily from cuttings if started early enough in the season. After six leaves appear in mum plants pinch out the top to make fuller, better looking plants.

When the next branch appears pinch that out too. This may be done until about the middle of July. During periods of dry, prolonged heat mums should be given a thorough soaking.

Use a soaker and let the water saturate the ground in which the plants are growing. It is a good idea to dust mums with nicotine until the buds appear to rid the plant or protect them from pests. To insure larger blossoms pinch off some of the buds.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Listed from my note book are the following notes on some beautiful combinations of the early bulbs: "White-faced blue Chionodoxas make a startling picture of nearly pure blue - and - white when planted underneath any of the following: little "swan's neck early white daffodils or daffodil Ada Finch or Gravetye variety of snow-flakes." There is so much yellow in our early gardens that blue - and - white combinations are truly startling.

Chionodoxes are still not known by southern gardeners, yet they are cheap, tough little bulbs that like the south so well that they immediately settle down in our gardens and make seeds and multiply until they are as thick as grass.

As we have said in the column before, these tiny plants bloom in Greece right at the very edge of the melting snows in spring. There are several species, all of which are blue and very beautiful. The species, Chionodoxa luciliae has the largest flowers—about the size of a dime — and has a white face that contrasts beautifully with the blue petals.

DAFFODILS

A splendid early spring and early fall effect can be achieved by planting groups of five little swan's neck daffodils or the variety, Ada Finch (very early) about three feet apart each way in a woodsy setting with more groups of spider lilies in the spaces between and a complete ground cover of chionodoxas over - all. The spider-lily leaves provide some evergreen in winter. The whole planting is out of sight in summer and can have pine needles over it, and the only care required is a top-dressing of bone meal and a complete fertilizer.

About every six or eight years, the daffodils and spider-lilies will have to be lifted and divided. At this time, the area should be subsoiled and the mulch chopped in, and a goodly feeding of bone meal can be added.

If you want a yellow and blue combination, you can plant the common little yellow trumpet daffodils instead of the white ones. This wonderful little narcissus is the "Lent Lily" of England. Here in the South, we seem to have the nearly pure yellow form. If you are interested in its botanical name, it is all of this: narcissus pseudo-narcissus ajax!

Beauty Seen On Easter

By AUDREY DAWSON

Easter greetings. This is one of the most beautiful days on our calendar — because it's the day when all the ladies have on their lovely hats and costumes for the big Easter parade — and I've never seen so many lovely hats for the young as well as for the grown up. Some of the hats resemble a gorgeous garden of flowers.

GARDEN TOUR

Thanks to the 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members for sponsoring the trip to Hodges Garden last week — and a great big thanks to the president, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, and tour chairman, Mrs. E. W. Earle, for all their work in making the arrangements necessary for the tour which was a big success.

Eighty adults made the trip. The weather was most cooperative, it was one of the most beautiful days of the spring. The dogwood was in full bloom in the woods, and in some sections, resembled a mountain of snow. The hail in the section of the Hodges Garden damaged some of the plants and the azaleas were not in full bloom, but I believe everyone had a wonderful time and was delighted and pleased to know that we, here in Louisiana, have such a beautiful show place.

GARDENING

There are ever so many jobs to be done in the garden at this time of the year, but some of us may get too anxious — heard some of our homemakers say that they had already planted caladiums. Yours truly hopes they are lucky — that old man weather does not trick them. I do not recommend putting them in the ground outside as yet. It is not warm enough, but if you want early plans I suggest you start them in a box or pots. Use half garden soil and half peat moss and add a little sand or sand and peat moss, then place them in a sunny window and water them lightly until growth starts. Then plant outdoors next month.

Plant cannas and gladiolus this month. You may also plant dahlias this month, but a little later planting, I've found, gives better late fall flowers.

You may start taking cuttings of chrysanthemums as soon as they have made about four inches of new growth.

PLANT FOOD

One important job is if you have not fertilized, it needs to be done right away. There are many fertilizers on the market today, but one of the safest for you, Mrs. Homemaker, to use is a commercial, 8-8-8, which is a complete fertilizer. Do not apply more than about one-half cup per square yard of bed area.

REMINDER

Don't forget the handicraft workshop Tuesday, April 4th, at 9:30 at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe. Mrs. Leon Sims will show you some ideas that can be used at Bible Schools this spring; Mrs. Carson will teach making handbags from straw braid; Mrs. Collier will make place mats from reed; Mrs. Bayne will teach how to cane a chair; Mrs. White will make decorator pillows, and Mrs. Gray will show how to make a toy from plastic bags.

CLOTHING WORKSHOP

Your Home Demonstration Agent will be with a group of homemakers from the Woodlawn community in a clothing workshop Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The following will take part: Mrs. Jerry Parker, Mrs. Truman Wright, Mrs. E. L. Tisdale, Mrs. J. K. Cobb, Mrs. Jimmy White, Mrs. Fulton Martin, Mrs. Harvey Eady, Mrs. Gerald Morehead, Mrs. J. B. Arrant, Mrs. Jack Douglas, Mrs. Wallace Snowden, and Mrs. O. K. McCurdy Jr.

FREEZING MEAT

Our nutrition specialist, Mrs. Irene Turner, says there are five points to remember about meat storage in freezers. They are, freeze good quality meats, package properly, quick freeze the meat, store at zero degree and avoid storing too long. The maximum storage periods on beef and lamb should be used within one year; fresh pork, nine months; ground meat within six months and seasoned fresh pork sausage within four to six months.

THE HOME SHIFT

Blossoms Add To Patterns

By MILDRED SWIFT

The old fashioned "droopy" bridal wreath is such a satisfactory plant. It seems the entire garden is in bloom when several of these burst forth. It just takes some white to bring out the colors in the landscape picture. The little white flowering almond, planted in masses, can do this, too. The white flowering peach adds its beauty to the white picture. The dogwood adds such a stately whiteness while the grancy graybeard gives a white with a tinge of green. All of these are beautiful now, in Ouachita parish.

CONFEDERATE JASMINE

It is not too late to put out a confederate jasmine vine as these are grown in buckets in the nurseries. It is evergreen, only severe freeze killing the top. The flowers are white, very small and almost cover the plant. It is an evergreen vine that requires little care, but needs some help to get started on its climb upward. So far as I know, it is insect and disease free. Some people use it as a ground cover. The plant goes through drouths very well, responds well to fertilizer, but will live without it.

Confederate jasmine should be pruned immediately after it blooms. Blooms can be used in arrangements if they are properly conditioned. When the stems are cut, they exude a milky, sticky substance. This is not poisonous. To condition these, cut stems of confederate jasmine, dip the cut ends in a bucket of warm water. Let them remain in this same water from six to eight hours before using.

The plant can be propagated from hardwood cuttings in September. Skip the tip growth and use the stem down where the wood is riper. Make cuttings just below a leaf node in lengths of five inches. Dip in water, then in hormone powder to hasten rooting. Plant the cuttings with at least one leaf node covered. Keep in a shaded place and keep watered.

Confederate jasmine can be ground layered, too. The vines also drop seeds so that volunteer plants frequently spring up.

GARDEN JOBS

Getting ready for summer bloom is an important gardening job. March and April are excellent months to make chrysanthemum cuttings. Take three to four inch lengths from new growth on the side of the old plant. Place these in sand or vermiculite and sprinkle with water daily for about a week. These should root in about three weeks.

Make cuttings of geraniums and hibiscus this month.

If you want to propagate azaleas, select a branch from one of your established plants. Take the limb closest to the ground and scrape through the bark on the under side. The introduction of a single solution which automatically develops and fixes the print in six minutes makes it easy for our children to handle."

Almost any hand - held object can be used in making photograms. Plastic ornaments, magnifying glasses, marbles, cookie cutters, wire mesh strainers, glass rods, a pine comb — these were some of the objects used.

Mrs. Newman cut up the photographic paper into small trial-size pieces — under the amber safe - light, of course — for preliminary exposure experiments. She pointed out that the paper can be outdated, so this is a means of salvaging stock not suitable for normal printing.

FLASHLIGHTS

Flashlights were found to be the most convenient source of white light to be used for making the exposures. The working area was covered with old plastic tablecloths to protect the surface and to simplify the clean-up operation later.

Running water or a sink nearby was a help but not a necessity, Mrs. Newman said. A bottle of Unibath CC3 was mixed with water to make the proper working solution of combined developer-fixer and put into a tray. Alongside it was placed another tray of water to wash the prints.

After sufficient washing — one hour by tray, 20 minutes in running water — the prints were placed between blotters for drying.

"The youngsters learned to paint with light and to create artistic designs at their fingertips," Mrs. Newman said. "We counted the seconds and discovered how time was a factor in the rendition of shades of gray up to a rich black.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Simmsboro Club Displays Flowers

By GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

The Simmsboro Garden Club of Simmsboro, exhibited a beautiful flower show last week.

Mrs. L. N. Napper made a symmetrical triangle design in a white pottery compote. An outer triangle was made of Marguerite daisies. Another triangle was made within this one by the placement of rose tulips with their foliage.

Mrs. Napper's second arrangement was a mass triangle design in a yellow compote. Open yellow tulips were placed low in the design forming the focal area. The yellow hoop - skirt was placed in a mass above the tulips. Blue Dutch Iris formed a background for the yellow blossoms. Blue scilla was used with the iris as a filler. Spikes of yucca formed the background and emphasized the vertical line. This arrangement was completed in the back with branches of pittosporum. A lovely arrangement for the Easter buffett.

WHITE PILLOW

Mrs. L. A. Mullin placed a white pillow vase on a white base for her crescent design. Curved branches of green Scotch - Broom formed the crescent line. This line was filled in with white tulips. Two opened tulips were placed low in the design. Blossoms of Mt. Hood and thalia were used up and and out in the line. This arrangement was suitable for the living room table.

A mass symmetrical design was made in a pink compote by Mrs. Barnett Houck. Rose tulips were placed in the focal are. Blue Dutch iris, blue scilla, thalia and Mrs. Backhouse were massed up out from the tulips creating a lovely color combination. Another arrangement for the bouffet.

Mrs. Curtis Cole made an all white arrangement in a white arrangement in a white compote for the church. This was a fan-shaped design. Branches of spirea formed the line of the design which was filled in with white tulips, white bearded iris, and Cheerfulness blossoms. Lovely for the Easter Sunday Service.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Now is the time to divide and reset chrysanthemums. Make sure the drainage is good where you plant mums. They like average soil and average amount of plant food such as manure. Mix humus or compost well into the soil before planting.

New shoots make better plants than the old crowns. Mums grow easily from cuttings if started early enough in the season. After six leaves appear in mum plants pinch out the top to make fuller, better looking plants.

When the next branch appears pinch that out too. This may be done until about the middle of July. During periods of dry, prolonged heat mums should be given a thorough soaking.

Use a soaker and let the water saturate the ground in which the plants are growing. It is a good idea to dust mums with nicotine until the buds appear to rid the plant or protect them from pests. To insure larger blossoms pinch off some of the buds.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Listed from my note book are the following notes on some beautiful combinations of the early bulbs: "White-faced blue Chionodoxas make a startling picture of nearly pure blue - and - white when planted underneath any of the following: little "swan's neck early white daffodils or daffodil Ada Finch or Gravetye variety of snow-flakes." There is so much yellow in our early gardens that blue - and - white combinations are truly startling.

Chionodoxes are still not known by southern gardeners, yet they are cheap, tough little bulbs that like the south so well that they immediately settle down in our gardens and make seeds and multiply until they are as thick as grass.

As we have said in the column before, these tiny plants bloom in Greece right at the very edge of the melting snows in spring. There are several species, all of which are blue and very beautiful. The species, 'Chionodoxa luciliae has the largest flowers—about the size of a dime — and has a white face that contrasts beautifully with the blue petals.

DAFFODILS

A splendid early spring and early fall effect can be achieved by planting groups of five little swan's neck daffodils or the variety, Ada Finch (very early) about three feet apart each way in a woodsy setting with more groups of spider lilies in the spaces between and a complete ground cover of chionodoxas over - all. The spider-lily leaves provide some evergreen in winter. The whole planting is out of sight in summer and can have pine needles over it, and the only care required is a top-dressing of bone meal and a complete fertilizer.

About every six or eight years, the daffodils and spider-lilies will have to be lifted and divided. At this time, the area should be subsoiled and the mulch chopped in, and a goodly feeding of bone meal can be added.

If you want a yellow and blue combination, you can plant the common little yellow trumpet daffodils instead of the white ones. This wonderful little narcissus is the "Lent Lily" of England. Here in the South, we seem to have the nearly pure yellow form. If you are interested in its botanical name, it is all of this: narcissus pseudo-narcissus ajax!

Beauty Seen On Easter

By AUDREY DAWSON

Easter greetings. This is one of the most beautiful days on our calendar — because it's the day when all the ladies have on their lovely hats and costumes for the big Easter parade — and I've never seen so many lovely hats for the young as well as for the grown up. Some of the hats resemble a gorgeous garden of flowers.

GARDEN TOUR

Thanks to the 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members for sponsoring the trip to Hodges Garden last week — and a great big thanks to the president, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, and tour chairman, Mrs. E. W. Earle, for all their work in making the arrangements necessary for the tour which was a big success.

Eighty adults made the trip. The weather was most cooperative, it was one of the most beautiful days of the spring. The dogwood was in full bloom in the woods, and in some sections, resembled a mountain of snow. The hail in the section of the Hodges Garden damaged some of the plants and the azaleas were not in full bloom, but I believe everyone had a wonderful time and was delighted and pleased to know that we, here in Louisiana, have such a beautiful show place.

GARDENING

There are ever so many jobs to be done in the garden at this time of the year, but some of us may get too anxious — heard some of our homemakers say that they had already planted caladiums. Yours truly hopes they are lucky — that old man weather does not trick them. I do not recommend putting them in the ground outside as yet. It is not warm enough, but if you want early plans I suggest you start them in a box or pots. Use half garden soil and half peat moss and add a little sand or sand and peat moss, then place them in a sunny window and water them lightly until growth starts. Then plant outdoors next month.

Plant cannas and gladiolus this month. You may also plant dahlias this month, but a little later planting, I've found, gives better late fall flowers.

You may start taking cuttings of chrysanthemums as soon as they have made about four inches of new growth.

PLANT FOOD

One important job is if you have not fertilized, it needs to be done right away. There are many fertilizers on the market today, but one of the safest for you, Mrs. Homemaker, to use is a commercial, 8-8-8, which is a complete fertilizer. Do not apply more than about one-half cup per square yard of bed area.

REMINDER

Don't forget the handicraft workshop Tuesday, April 4th, at 9:30 at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe. Mrs. Leon Sims will show you some ideas that can be used at Bible Schools this spring; Mrs. Carson will teach making handbags from straw braid; Mrs. Collier will make place mats from reed; Mrs. Bayne will teach how to cane a chair; Mrs. White will make decorator pillows, and Mrs. Gray will show how to make a toy from plastic bags.

CLOTHING WORKSHOP

Your Home Demonstration Agent will be with a group of homemakers from the Woodlawn community in a clothing workshop Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The following will take part: Mrs. Jerry Parker, Mrs. Truman Wright, Mrs. E. L. Tisdale, Mrs. J. K. Cobb, Mrs. Jimmy White, Mrs. Fulton Martin, Mrs. Harvey Eady, Mrs. Gerald Morehead, Mrs. J. B. Arrant, Mrs. Jack Douglas, Mrs. Wallace Snowden, and Mrs. O. K. McCurdy Jr.

FREEZING MEAT

Our nutrition specialist, Mrs. Irene Turner, says there are five points to remember about meat storage in freezers. They are, freeze good quality meats, package properly, quick freeze the meat, store at zero degree and avoid storing too long. The maximum storage periods on beef and lamb should be used within one year; fresh pork, nine months; ground meat within six months and seasoned fresh pork sausage within four to six months.

PORTRAYING AN American volunteer with the RAF, Roger Moore is shown as he is nursed back to health by Angie Dickinson, a medical missionary, in the picture "The Sins of Rachel Cade," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre. Looking on is Peter Finch, who portrays the Belgian administrator of the Congo district.

FROM BEST-SELLER

'Rachel Cade' Now At The Paramount

Primitive passions come into bitter conflict with civilization's moral codes in Warner Bros.' Technicolor production of "The Sins of Rachel Cade," starring Angie Dickinson, Peter Finch and Roger Moore, which opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

Miss Dickinson, playing the title role, is seen as a beautiful woman in her mid-twenties who ought to be married to a good man and have lots of children. Instead, she is a spinster missionary in the Belgian Congo.

Her desperate struggle between God's work and the weakness of her own flesh — and the ultimate resolution of her emotional turmoil — provide the thematic material for the motion picture, based on the best-seller novel by Charles Mercer.

DEMANDING

Few motion picture roles are as demanding as the Rachel Cade portrayal, for which Angie is in all but a mere handful of the total of 130 sequences. During the three months the picture was before the cameras the actress had only two days off.

Peter Finch is cast as Col. Henri Derode, Belgian Administrator of the Congo district to which Angie is assigned. Derode is in his middle forties, widowed, oppressed by the ill fortune of his country in the war, and with little hope for the future.

His cynicism and agnosticism cover a profoundly sentimental and Christian nature —although they prevent him from believing that anything good will ever again happen to either his career or his emotional life.

Roger Moore, was entrusted with the second principal male role in the picture — that of Paul Wilton, a young American surgeon serving as a volunteer with the RAF. Essentially an adventurer, he is enormously occupied with his physical sensations and his economic future. He is a conformist — not critical of Rachel's passionate Christianity because, unlike Derode, he has no real interest or conflicts in this area. He is healthy, virile, skilled in his job and finds little wrong with the world.

SUPPORTING CAST

Heading the supporting cast of "The Sins of Rachel Cade" is Trinidad - born Errol John, seen as Kulu, a primitive man of superior intelligence and breeding upon whom the revolutionary doctrine of Christianity has the impact it must have had on the Apostles themselves. Like Finch, John also was previously in the cast of "The Nun's Story," in which he appeared as Miss Hepburn's faithful fellower, Illunga.

Juano Hernandez appears as Kalamumu, an African priest of a primitive sect.

Rafer Johnson, who made his film debut as a cavalry trooper in "Captain Buffalo," was given the role of Kosongo, who is won over to Rachel Cade's way of thinking and becomes one of her most enthusiastic aids.

Curtain Calls

"Damn Yankees," is scheduled to open in the new Strauss Playhouse on Thursday, April 13th, and will run through Wednesday April 19th, including a matinee performance on Sunday, April 16th. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m., each evening.

The matinee is at 2:30 p.m. There will be an Invitation Preview on Wednesday, April 12 for the life patrons, directors, and trustees. The box office will be open to the membership at large on Monday, April 10, and to the general public on Wednesday.

Dress for both the invitation preview and opening night will be optional, but the ladies are encouraged to wear party dresses. This is a gala occasion that we've waited a long time for, so please, ladies, let's make these nights "dress up" nights.

ASSISTANCE

Richard says he could use some more help backstage. He needs men to work with the scenery each night from Tuesday, April 4 through the run of the play. If you are interested in this phase of theatre, call Richard at FA 3-1235 or Katherine Magruder at FA 3-6998. Rehearsals will be closed from Friday, April 7 through Tuesday, April 11.

A board meeting was held last Sunday afternoon at which time the nominating committee was appointed with Mary Gill as Chairman and Frances McHenry and Jack Madden. President Bob Evans announced that the annual business meeting will be held on Monday, May 1st, at the Strauss Playhouse at 7:30 p.m.

Castro's Symbol In Latin America

Editor's Note—In the name of Cuban premier Fidel Castro, communism is dangerously strong and for most the Cuban dictator remains a symbol of resistance against the United States. He is a personality, remains a symbol of power rallying cry. Yet a great many Americans, leaders in government and industry, are hoping that the Latin American countries, which are going Castro and fighting communism.

Detective Hopes To Book Dances, Not Teen-Agers

CHICAGO (AP) — A detective hopes to break up juvenile delinquency as a result of his new assignment to the Chicago police department's juvenile division.

Robert White, assigned to the Englewood district, said the Saturday night dances at the area's 24 police stations "is where the action is."

"We're going to send our police officers to spend their spare time at the dances," he said.

White, who is no stranger to the audience, came up with the idea several weeks ago.

He tested it out in a couple of his neighborhoods and the Chicago Park District, which has charge of the dances in Englewood and Hamilton Park.

Both agreed to the plan.

Nixon Purchases Site For Home In Beverly Hills

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has bought a three-quarter acre site in an exclusive Beverly Hills subdivision and plans to build "a modest, one-story home," a real estate man said Saturday.

He described the Ironsdale Estates location as a new site north of Sunset Boulevard. The spokesman for Willard J. Lewis & Associates, Inc., general sales agent for the estates, said the purchase price could not be disclosed. Lot prices in the area range between $42,500 and $75,000.

He said the Nixons have engaged an architect and the house is expected to be ready for occupancy by late summer or early fall.

Nixon has been staying at the Statler Hilton Hotel in adjoining Los Angeles. His wife Pat and their daughters Julie and Tricia visited him there this week.

Utah Is Enjoying Beryllium Boom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mineral - rich Utah is in the middle of another boom — this time an all-out quest for beryllium.

A report from Beryllium International Corp. notes that the firm has acquired 19 beryllium claims in Utah's Topaz Mountain area. The claims reportedly total 1,900 acres and have attracted interest from a number of other firms. It wasn't long ago that uranium fever swept the west with Utah in the center of it all.

CLARENCE PAUTZKE, 53, above, native of Washington State, goes to his new job as commissioner of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service with some 20 years experience at fish and wildlife management in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. Pautzke said he took the job because of the administration's apparent desire "to get things done." (AP Wirephoto)

Inspections Can Save On Home Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wise homeowner, as he draws a sigh of relief that snow shoveling chores are over, will make plans for an early inspection of his property to see what damage winter may have done.

Even though it may seem the old proverb about "a stitch in time" is one the homeowner should heed. An annual spring checkup of the house exterior may reveal the need for major repairs in a few cases but, for the most part, it will turn up only minor fix-up jobs which the home handyman can tend to before they grow into major projects.

A simple checklist for such an exterior inspection tour is offered by the home improvement specialists of Allied Chemical Company's Barrett Division. Basic points to be checked include:

Foundation: Check for cracks and repair them with a patch-type waterproofing cement that can be applied with pointing tool, putty knife or trowel. Check shrubbery around foundations and trim. Branches of forsythia or shrubs can cause damage by soaking the wall under wood shingles or siding. Check for deterioration of mortar joints exposed at the ground. This crust, called efflorescence, indicates moisture in an old wall and it can be removed after leaks have been repaired with a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid. Pitch base water proofing cement will prevent recurrence.

Windows and door frames: Check for loose putty around window panes and replace where needed. Check framing over doors and windows for deteriorating caulking. Touch up bare wood or caulking. Touch up rusted or pitting shutter clips and hinges with quality metal paint.

Siding: Look for cracks, splits and decay in wood siding. Extensive repair requires repainting about every four to five years and should be checked for cracks, blistering or peeling which are indications of damaging moisture on the inside of wood siding.

Hardware: Check metal hardware such as chain link fences, mail boxes and flagpoles for rust and corrosion. Aluminum protective coating can help retard rust and corrosion.

Roof: Look for loose, curled or split shingles. Some minor repairs can be made by nailing loose or curled shingles back into position or with quality roofing cement. Crumbling mortar joints or cracks in the chimney can be repaired with pitch base or Portland cement.

Roof flashings: Check for holes, corrosion and loose sections. Repairs generally can be made with roofing cement and additional nails.

—Gutters and down-spouts: Look for leaks, decay of wood gutters and rust and corrosion of galvanized gutters. Check for sags or loose sections and correct by adjusting hangers on galvanized and wood gutters. Keep downspouts from direct contact with woodwork and make certain their discharge is carried away from house foundation for at least 15 feet.

Trees and shrubbery: Remove all dead tree branches that might break and cause damage to house or exterior electric and telephone wires. Paint exposed wood of sawed branches with a creosote wood preservative. Gardening authorities recommend that large bushes be set or transplanted so that their branches are at least 18 inches from house woodwork.

SURVEY SHOWS

Colleges Give Many Different Degrees

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Just as a guess, how many different types of academic degrees would you say are awarded by U. S. colleges and universities?

You can probably list half a dozen with no difficulty, and you may be aware that there are several others.

But even a college president is likely to be startled by the results of a recent survey by the U.S. Office of Education.

It shows that more than 1,800 different degrees are currently being conferred by America's institutions of higher education.

"The situation," said the Office of Education, in a masterpiece of understatement, "is confused and somewhat chaotic."

It recommended that major educational organizations get together to "consider the advantages of simplifying and standardizing degree nomenclature."

As a start in that direction, the survey pointed out that most of the degrees now in use, however fancy their names, fall into four principal categories.

The most common type is the bachelor degree, which usually represents the completion of a four-year course of college study.

Originally there was just one bachelor degree—the bachelor of arts, which because of its Latin name ("artium baccalaureus") is commonly known as the A. B.

But during the past 50 years, colleges have gone overboard in creating nuances of the bachelor's degree. Today there are no less than 693 different varieties of "B" degrees, ranging from bachelor of agricultural business administration to bachelor of science in community recreation.

The second most common type is the master's degree, which usually represents one year of postgraduate work. And here again, the plain old M.A. (master of arts) has proliferated into 585 different varieties, including such exotic ones as master of science in wildlife management and master of arts in teaching Latin.

A relatively new type of degree, which is coming into very wide use, is the associate in arts, or A. A. It is conferred by junior colleges and on some two-year students at regular colleges. Already the associate degree is showing the same tendency toward proliferation: there are now 137 varieties, including associate in secretarial science, and associate in the fire protection technology.

Many doctoral degrees are honorary, and do not mean anything in particular except that the conferring university has a high opinion of the recipient.

Earned doctorates may be "professional degrees" — i.e., doctor of medicine or doctor of dental surgery—or "research degrees." The Ph.D., or doctor of philosphy, degree is the most common type of research degree, and usually requires three years of postgraduate study plus the completion of a dissertation, or thesis, which theoretically makes a "substantial contribution to existing knowledge."

In addition to the 1,600 legitimate degrees, earned and honorary, there are at least 250 spurious degrees which are sold by mail-order diploma mills to any sucker who is willing to pay for them.

Postage Stamps Make Wounded Veterans Happy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Those old postage stamps that Uncle John collected and which now may be reposing in your attic might make some wounded U.S. veteran happy.

At the largest naval hospital in the U.S. at San Diego, doctors have found that wounded and ill servicemen who become interested in collecting stamps make quicker recoveries than they would otherwise.

In fact, most of the doctors have become collectors themselves.

The San Diego County Chapter of the American Red Cross sponsors the program and a stamp club which has been formed at the hospital. But most of the collectors there cannot afford to buy stamps.

This is where the public comes in. Just bundle any foreign or interesting stamps you may have and mail them to the Naval Hospital Stamp Club, Building 7, U.S. Naval Hospital, San Diego 4.

But don't send any common 1, 2, 3 or 4-cent U.S. postage stamps. They are of no interest to collectors.

How do the doctors get into the act?

The Red Cross provides albums and teaches the patients how to identify stamps. But the public is the big provider and the names of donors are printed weekly in the Evening Tribune, a San Diego afternoon newspaper.

BEFORE SESSION OVER

Rep. Smith's Philosophy May Prevail In Congress

By ART EDSON

Rep. Howard Worth Smith of Broad Run, Va., got 42,509.

But politics is such a strange and wonderful business that, despite this 800 to 1 difference in vote support, it's not certain whose legislative philosophy will prevail in this Congress, Kennedy's or Smith's.

To be sure, Kennedy won the first round.

In an all-out battle, Speaker Sam Rayburn managed to add seven members to the House Rules Committee, of which Smith is chairman.

Since the objective was to break a conservative deadlock in the 12-man committee, and put on a couple of members who, in theory at least, think like Kennedy, this was hailed as a victory for the speaker and for the President.

But the score was so close (217-212, and so many Republicans (22) crossed over to support Rayburn in this jurisdictional dispute, that even those most pleased with the triumph now know what exposure suspected: Kennedy's legislative program is in for rough going.

But the argument over rules had a useful by-product. Many citizens suddenly realized that much more goes on in Congress than meets the casual eye.

They decide what bills will be sent to the floor, and when, and what bills will be bottled up.

Obviously the opportunities are excellent for a wily committee chairman skilled in dragging his feet. Howard K. Smith, a master foot-dragger, and his job seem destined for each other.

It's one of the ironies of government that when bouncy young Jack Kennedy reported to the House in 1947 Howard Smith — who became a congressman 30 years ago today—already was a venerable member of that venerable institution.

He had been a congressman 24 years before the seniority system finally nodded its leisurely head in his direction and he became chairman of the important Committee on Rules.

That's quite a wait, but Judge Smith—he usually is called judge because he served on a Virginia circuit before he came to Congress—isn't the restless type.

He is a banker, a lawyer, a dairyman, all occupations of the unhurrying kind. He still lists as his home his 850-acre farm at Broad Run, where he was born.

He appears as a banker might on his way to foreclose the mortgage on the traditional widow. It's unpleasant, but it's his duty, and he will do it. Yes, and do it with such courtliness that the widow will always remember how kindly Judge Smith ushered her out the door.

Eleven years ago he so clearly expressed his creed that it has been a reprint favorite in the "Congressional Record."

"I am what may be termed a conservative Democrat," Smith said. "It is one whose normal habitat is south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"These conservative Democrats refuse to either marry, betroth, court, or flirt with any of these foreign innovations in government."

Even his bitterest enemies will have to agree that Smith has never wavered.

Although the rules lineup in past Congresses favored the party in power, 8 votes to 4, Smith and Rep. William M. Colmer of Mississippi occasionally joined with the Republicans for a 6-6 tie to hamper, or block, legislation they didn't approve of.

Nor was this all. Like many another chairman, Smith sometimes used other devices to avoid difficult situations. Instead of calling meetings that might go against him, so the stories go, Smith would disappear to his farm, where a barn had conveniently burned or an expectant cow needed his personal attention.

Last month's argument over the Rules Committee can be simply summarized.

For increasing its size:

Kennedy is attempting to whip up a sense of national urgency. He has repeatedly said that this country must start sprinting if it expects to stay ahead of the Communists. But if the Rules Committee wouldn't let his program come to a vote, in the words of a committee member, Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., "we're stopped before we've begun."

Against changing the committee:

Congress, not the president, is responsible for making this nation's laws. Why turn the Rules Committee into a rubber stamp for his wishes—and maybe open the floodgates to all sorts of unwise legislation?

But possibly the favorite argument is best summed up by Smith.

"There is one thing about this House that nobody should forget," he said. "And that is if the majority of the House wants to vote on a bill, the rules of this body give them that opportunity."

One reason: many a representative, however heroic he may appear during the campaign, is timid about standing up to be counted. And even though he may in theory be a supporter of a ticklish bill, he'd just as soon if it stayed in the Rules Committee pigeonhole. The first rule of politics is re-election.

Nor is it fair to assume, so the argument continues, that only good legislation is sidetracked by the Rules Committee. It's an excellent spot to bury ill-considered bills that some pressure groups may be clamoring for.

Anyway, the administration won the fight to change the Rules Committee.

But in Congress few fights are decisive, and one as close as this can only be counted as an interesting opening skirmish.

Legislative battles, of course, are fought on many fronts. But this is particularly interesting because (a) Kennedy singled the Rules Committee out for special attention in the campaign and (b) the lines here are so well defined.

On one side is the President, young and eager to make a good showing, conscious that — as the November elections showed—this country and this Congress often appear on dead center. Kennedy, keenly aware of history, knows he will be judged on how well he prods his program through Congress.

He hasn't fought his way this far to be silently done in by Judge Smith or any other enthusiastic congressman.

On the other side is Smith, operating from a base so firm not even a president can budge him. One tried once. Franklin D. Roosevelt said Smith should be purged, a view that wasn't shared by his loyal constituents.

During the campaign Kennedy pledged to do his best to get a new minimum wage law, federal aid to education, relief for economically depressed areas.

"The people of the 8th District never sent me to Congress just to be a traffic cop," Smith said. "So I propose to exercise my judgment about what should go to the floor and what should not."

It should be quite a battle before we know which promise will be kept.

HARD WORK PAYS OFF

Top Salesman Now Once Fish Peddler

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adolf Olsson at the age of eight, peddled fish on the streets of his home town in Sweden. Today, an American citizen, he is still a peddler of sorts; the largest salesman of Swedish foods in the United States.

Olsson, who says his philosophy is "work hard and learn hard," is president of the A. V. Olsson Baking Company, which does business in every state and owns and operates fish packing plants in Nova Scotia, Canada and in Sweden.

He is the first one to tell you that his success did not come easy.

"I was one of 14 children," he said. "My day started out by doing chores on our farm before going to school. After school, I sold fish on the streets until it got dark. Then I would head home and work in my father's general store, saving an hour before bedtime to do my schoolwork."

At the age of 18 he began work for his brother, who owned a fish packing plant. A year later he was made the company's troubleshooter. The job involved much travel abroad. Soon he became tired of working for someone else. Against his family's advice, he set out for the United States. He had little money. He did not know English.

Soon after arrival he met a girl from his own hometown. They married and set up a business in Cornell, maker of warehouse in Brooklyn. There they sold imported canned fish, purchased cheaply from his brother, and Swedish crisp bread. Sales were so low at the start that he took on an additional job at night as a shipping clerk to supplement his income.

By 1931 he had saved enough money to expand his business. He made a deal with a leading English import-export firm and used its name for his foods. But the war cut business success short.

His dream temporarily shelved, Olsson went to Chicago and took over the sales for a bakery that made a domestic type of Swedish crisp bread. Within a year, it was selling from coast to coast.

After the war ended, Olsson decided to start rebuilding his own business.

"That was the turning point in my career," he said.

"I landed an exclusive import contract from the Wasa bakeries in Engstad, Sweden, the largest producers in the world of Swedish crisp bread or rye-king. Today, more than 10,000 boxes of it are sold daily. Ten years ago, very few people had even heard of it."

Olsson lives with his wife in Bronxville, New York. His favorite pastime is sailing on his 36-foot cabin cruiser the "Ranona." His 28 year-old son Lennart is his right hand man in running the family business.

The elder Olsson said this about success:

"It is not the amount of money you have in the bank; nor is it your real estate holdings. Success is the satisfaction of knowing you did your best by working your hardest."

Kathy Crosby Expectant Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Kathy Grant, wife of singer Bing Crosby, took time out from campaigning in behalf of her father who is running for the U. S. Senate Saturday night to announce she is expecting her third child in November.

Miss Grant's father, Dr. Bert E. Grandstaff of West Columbia, Tex., is among the 65 Texas candidates actively running for the Senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

When asked if she had informed her husband of her condition, Miss Grant replied: "He told me."

Crosby is in Hollywood and received a doctor's report and relayed it to Texas Saturday night.

Judge Pulls Boner On Witness Stand

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Criminal District Judge Joe B. Brown was on the witness stand instead of behind the bench at a domestic relations trial, but forgot that he wasn't the judge in the case.

Judge Brown was testifying as a character witness when an attorney objected to a question directed to the judge.

"I sustain your objection on that," Brown said.

The embarrassed judge was upheld by presiding Judge Beth Wright, who added a belated, "Sustained."

VARIETY OF SERVICES

This Texan Really Jack Of All Trades

BLANCO, Tex. (UPI) — A. O. Wolf says he has "more licenses and less money than any man in Texas."

If you met with a fatal accident in Blanco, it's possible that Wolf, single-handedly, would:

Drive the ambulance to pick up your body, conduct the inquest, embalm you, direct the funeral services and bury you.

Wolf is licensed as a:
—Mortician
—Justice of the Peace
—Barber
—Insurance salesman
—Real estate salesman

On the side he also serves as an amateur veterinarian. "Mostly midwifing calves," Wolf said. He also hands out advice in matters of social security and old age assistance, and tends 17 hives of bees.

In 1941, at the age of 26, Wolf became the youngest justice of the peace in Texas. Since then, "jobs have just sort of snowballed," he said.

As for his routine of everything from ambulance to spade work, Wolf claims that he has actually performed those services for "a couple of dozen" dead people.

Wolf can't even be conventional when it comes to his barbering. He turned circuit rider after a competing barbershop cut into his business three years ago.

He makes two circuits a week, when he isn't operating at his regular shop on the west side of the city square. One circuit takes him 17 miles and the other 22 miles, with him operating in "branch" shops or in the customers' homes.

Wolf says cash is scarce sometimes, so he has to take his barbering pay in vegetables or other farm products.

The six-foot, 230-pound Wolf said he became a jack-of-all-trades because "I'm just a poor devil trying to make a living."

DANGEROUSLY STRONG

Castro's Symbol In Latin America

Editor's Note—In the name of freedom pro-Castro supporters across South America chant against the United States. It's a potent rallying cry. Yet a growing number are realizing that the echoing voices for freedom in Cuba are growing fainter and fainter.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

They march stolidly through city streets, paced by strutting, self-important leaders.

In the name of rebellion and non-conformity, they submit and conform.

Ready-made revolutionary cliches decorate the banners they carry.

As their leaders direct, they chant in unison their monotonous, prefabricated slogans. At the will of their leaders they are peaceable or riotous.

Who are they? They are the backbone of extremist strength in Latin America, worshippers of Cuba's Fidel Castro and tools of trained, disciplined Communists.

Many are university and secondary school students, believing themselves on a rampage of rebellion against their elders. Many call themselves intellectuals and thereby lay claim to political leadership. Many are members of Communist-dominated trade unions.

In much of South America, a continent of sick nations and frightened politicians, the visitor is struck by the melancholy notion that he is witnessing a growing passion for regimentation. He notes the apparent ease with which those purporting to be rebels are persuaded to accept at face value the tattered catchphrases about peace, disarmament and Yankee imperialism manufactured for them in Moscow and Havana.

In most countries they are a minority, but they are an organized, single-minded minority with great potential for mischief.

Fidel Castro has lost some of his initial impact as the symbol of revolution against the past in Latin America. He loses more as Cuba plunges deeper into economic and political chaos. But his influence remains dangerously strong, and for many the Cuban revolution, apart from Castro's personality, remains a symbol of revolutionary fervor in a restless, backward continent.

The Castro Communist alliance has lost some ground in Venezuela, Peru, Colombia and Bolivia. But it has given evidence of growing strength in Ecuador, Argentina and Chile. In the latter two it was powerful enough to be a significant factor in recent elections. Throughout the rest of the continent the extreme left is sufficiently strong to make its pressures sharply felt by worried governments. How did it get that way?

Long before Castro's arrival on the scene, the Communists were building tight, disciplined organizations, capitalizing on the continent's history of wealth for the few and mass misery and illiteracy for the many.

Communists championed reforms with which few could quarrel, avoiding the look of extremism. They did not speak of nationalization or confiscation, but of land reform and industrialization, improved living standards, mass education, national health. All of their propaganda linked the privileged ruling class with "Yankee imperialism," blaming the latter for all woes.

They preached and are preaching communism as a bridge to national greatness in an area noted for its extreme nationalism. They point to the once-backward Soviet Union and to Red China as examples demonstrating that with communism comes, overnight the technology which makes a nation able to do almost anything for and by itself.

Castro's revolution quickened the tempo. Its violence made the Communists seem almost conservative by comparison. The Communists seemed almost obliged to step up their own demands to conform with the new revolutionary pattern being set by the Castristas.

Today well paid agents of Soviet communism roam South American countries, often in teams of three or four, intent on stirring rebellion among illiterate, landless, resentful peasants. And Castro's diplomats, using this diplomatic immunity from customs inspection, pour money and propaganda into key South American countries.

Opportunistic politicians and impatient would-be reformers flock to the Castro-Communist bandwagon, hoping to use it for their ends and instead being used themselves.

Members of South America's rich, conservative classes, with few exceptions, close their eyes to what is going on and resist orderly reform.

But among frightened politicians there seems to be a growing realization that the reckoning may be almost at hand. Face to face with reality, they have produced a sudden rash of programs for economic, tax and land reforms, as if in haste to cure situations which were centuries in the making.

What are the prospects? Here is a synthesis of opinion from sober, moderate leaders in South America:

"Movements for reform far antedate Castro. Unless these movements are interpreted correctly and the current boiling social revolution is channelled into constructive paths, there will be a violent chain reaction bringing a series of extremist, Castro-like regimes.

"Latin America's sudden clash with the mid-20th century has brought myriad problems, not the least of which is raging inflation in many countries. To deal with it, governments have little choice but to turn to austerity measures, and austerity is politically dangerous.

long, desperation will lead to drastic moves, and these in turn will bring their own forms of extremism to nations like Chile, Venezuela, Brazil and Argentina.

"What can the United States do to prevent being cut off eventually from most of its hemisphere neighbors? The only way would seem to be an attempt to seize the initiative from the Communists, to indicate that the United States is not smothering a revolution but creating a constructive one. It can try to persuade Latin Americans that they can forge ahead by their own efforts, that there is nothing that they cannot do for themselves with sufficient understanding and cooperation.

"Money is not the basic problem. Many South American nations have enormous natural riches. What the United States needs most is a statement of policy with a strong intellectual, emotional appeal to Latin America, as a means of creating an atmosphere of mutual respect and identity of interest.

"The experience in some countries—like Chile and Argentina—indicates a slowly growing revulsion to the idea of regimentation. The more Fidel Castro acts the role of dictator, the more he disillusions intellectuals who cheered the Cuban upheavel as a Latin-American revolution against dictatorship.

"If Castro can be deprived of much of his support from the intellectuals, whose influence shapes political movements in Latin America, he and his Communist allies will lose the most important base of their support throughout the continent.

"But with or without Castro, the fever for reform is rising. Unless South America's wealthy class accomodates itself to this urge, unless it is willing to cooperate by reforming itself, South America—and the United States—are headed for disaster."

Detective Hopes To Book Dances, Not Teen-Agers

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago police detective hopes to book more teen-age dances and fewer teenagers as a result of his new combo, which performs free of charge.

Robert White, assigned to the Englewood district on the South Side, explains it this way: The more he and his bandsmen blow their horns in the combo, the less they have to sound their sirens on the street.

White, who is no stranger to the trombone, came up with the idea several weeks ago.

He tossed it out to a couple of policemen friends and his former partner, who, he knew, could furnish action on the drums, tenor saxophone and clarinet.

A swinging idea, they agreed. Soon Englewood Capt. John Braband and the Chicago Commission on Youth Welfare added their hearty approval. A commission worker offered his services on the tenor sax.

A pianist and a bass fiddler were found and the combo was ready.

Its first booking, at a park fieldhouse dance, brought solid acclaim. Assured of success, the musicians decided to play on evenings off twice a month.

Nixon Purchases Site For Home In Beverly Hills

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has bought a three-quarter-acre lot in an exclusive Beverly Hills subdivision and plans to build "a modest, one-story home," a real estate man said Saturday.

He described the Trousdale Estates location as a view site north of Sunset Boulevard. The spokesman for Willard J. Lewis & Associates, Inc., general sales agent for the estates, said the purchase price could not be disclosed. Lot prices in the area range between $42,500 and $75,000.

He said the Nixons have engaged an architect and the house is expected to be ready for occupancy by late summer or early fall.

Nixon has been staying at the Statler Hilton Hotel in adjoining Los Angeles. His wife Pat and their daughters Julie and Tricia visited him there this week.

Utah Is Enjoying Beryllium Boom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mineral - rich Utah is in the middle of another boom — this time an all-out quest for beryllium.

A report from Beryllium International Corp. notes that the firm has acquired 19 beryllium claims in Utah's Topaz Mountain area. The claims reportedly total 1,900 acres and have attracted interest from a number of other firms. It wasn't long ago that uranium fever swept the west with Utah in the center of it all.

CLARENCE PAUTZKE, 53, above, native of Washington State, goes to his new job as commissioner of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service with some 20 years experience at fish and wildlife management in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. Pautzke said he took the job because of the administration's apparent desire "to get things done." (AP Wirephoto)

Inspections Can Save On Home Costs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wise homeowner, even as he draws a sigh of relief that snow shoveling chores are over, will make plans for an early inspection of his property to see what damage winter may have done.

Trite though it may seem, the old proverb about "a stitch in time" is one the homeowner should heed. An annual spring check-up of the house exterior may reveal the need for major repairs in a few cases but, for the most part, it will turn up onl minor fix-up jobs which the home handyman can tend to before they grow into major projects.

A simple check-list for such an exterior inspection tour is offered by the home improvement specialists of Allied Chemical Company's Barrett Division. Basic points to be checked include:

—Foundation: Check for cracks and repair them with a pitch base waterproofing cement that can be applied with pointing tool, putty knife or trowel. Check shrubbery around foundations and trim. Branches of foundation plantings can cause damage by working their way under wood shingles or siding. Check for deteriorating mortar joints covered with white crust. This crust, called efflorescence, indicates moisture in an old wall and it can be removed after leaks have been repaired with a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid. Pitch base waterproofing cement will prevent recurrence.

—Window and door frames: Check for loose putty around window panes and replace where needed. Check framing over doors and windows for deteriorating caulking. Touch up discolored or rusting shutter clips and hinges with quality metal paint.

—Siding: Look for cracks, splits and decay in wood siding. Exterior paint requires repainting about every four to five years and should be checked for cracks, blistering or peeling which are indications of damaging moisture on the inside of wood siding.

—Hardware: Check metal hardware such as chain link fences, mail boxes and flagpoles for rust and corrosion. Aluminum protective coating can help retard rust and corrosion.

—Roof: Look for loose, curled or split shingles. Some minor repairs can be made by nailing loose or curled shingles back into position or with quality roofing cement. Crumbling mortar joints or cracks in the chimney can be repaired with pitch base or Portland cement.

—Roof flashings: Check for holes, corrosion and loose sections. Repairs generally can be made with roofing cement and additional nails.

—Gutters and downspouts: Look for leaks, decay of wood gutters and rust and corrosion of galvanized gutters. Check for sags or loose sections and correct by adjusting hangers on galvanized and wood gutters. Keep downspouts from direct contact with woodwork and make certain their discharge is carried away from house foundation for at least 15 feet.

Trees and shrubbery: Remove all dead tree branches that might break and cause damage to house or exterior electric and telephone wires. Paint exposed wood of sawed branches with a creosote wood preservative. Gardening authorities recommend that large bushes be set or transplanted so that their branches are at least 18 inches from house woodwork.

SURVEY SHOWS

Colleges Give Many Different Degrees

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Just as a guess, how many different types of academic degrees would you say are awarded by U. S. colleges and universities?

You can probably list half a dozen with no difficulty, and you may be aware that there are several others.

But even a college president is likely to be startled by the results of a recent survey by the U.S. Office of Education.

It shows that more than 1,600 different degrees are currently being conferred by America's institutions of higher education.

"The situation," said the Office of Education, in a masterpiece of understatement, "is confused and somewhat chaotic."

It recommended that major educational organizations get together to "consider the advantages of simplifying and standardizing degree nomenclature."

As a start in that direction, the survey pointed out that most of the degrees now in use, however fancy their names, fall into four principal categories.

The most common type is the bachelor degree, which usually represents the completion of a four-year course of college study.

Originally there was just one bachelor degree—the bachelor of arts, which because of its Latin name ("artium baccalaureus") is commonly known as the A. B.

But during the past 50 years, colleges have gone overboard in creating nuances of the bachelor's degree. Today there are no less than 693 different varieties of "B" degrees, ranging from bachelor of agricultural business administration to bachelor of science in community recreation.

The second most common type is the master's degree, which usually represents one year of postgraduate work. And here again, the plain old M.A. (master of arts) has proliferated into 585 different varieties, including such exotic ones as master of science in wildlife management and master of arts in teaching Latin.

A relatively new type of degree, which is coming into very wide use, is the associate in arts, or A. A. It is conferred by junior colleges and on some two-year students at regular colleges. Already the associate degree is showing the same tendency toward proliferation: there are now 137 varieties, including associate in secretarial science, and associate in the fire protection technology.

Many doctoral degrees are honorary, and do not mean anything in particular except that the conferring university has a high opinion of the recipient.

Earned doctorates may be "professional degrees" — i.e., doctor of medicine or doctor of dental surgery—or "research degrees." The Ph.D., or doctor of philosphy, degree is the most common type of research degree, and usually requires three years of postgraduate study plus the completion of a dissertation, or thesis, which theoretically makes a "substantial contribution to existing knowledge."

In addition to the 1,600 legitimate degrees, earned and honorary, there are at least 250 spurious degrees which are sold by mail-order diploma mills to any sucker who is willing to pay for them.

Postage Stamps Make Wounded Veterans Happy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Those old postage stamps that Uncle John collected and which now may be reposing in your attic might make some wounded U.S. veteran happy.

At the largest naval hospital in the U.S. at San Diego, doctors have found that wounded and ill servicemen who become interested in collecting stamps make quicker recoveries than they would otherwise.

In fact, most of the doctors have become collectors themselves.

The San Diego County Chapter of the American Red Cross sponsors the program and a stamp club which has been formed at the hospital. But most of the collectors there cannot afford to buy stamps.

This is where the public comes in. Just bundle any foreign or interesting stamps you may have and mail them to the Naval Hospital Stamp Club, Building 7, U.S. Naval Hospital, San Diego 4.

But don't send any common 1, 2, 3 or 4-cent U.S. postage stamps. They are of no interest to collectors.

How do the doctors get into the act?

The Red Cross provides albums and teaches the patients how to identify stamps. But the public is the big provider and the names of donors are printed weekly in the Evening Tribune, a San Diego afternoon newspaper.

BEFORE SESSION OVER

Rep. Smith's Philosophy May Prevail In Congress

By ART EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Fitzgerald Kennedy got 34,221,531 votes in the November election.

Rep. Howard Worth Smith of Broad Run, Va., got 42,809.

But politics is such a strange and wonderful business that, despite this 800 to 1 difference in vote support, it's still not certain whose legislative philosophy will prevail in this Congress, Kennedy's or Smith's.

To be sure, Kennedy won the first round.

In an all-out battle, Speaker Sam Rayburn managed to add three members to the House Rules Committee, of which Smith if chairman.

Since the objective was to break a conservative deadlock on the 12-man committee, and put on a couple of members who, in theory at least, think like Kennedy, this was hailed as a victory for the speaker and for the President.

But the score was so close (217-212), and so many Republicans (22) crossed over to support Rayburn in this jurisdictional dispute, that even those most pleased with the triumph now know what everyone suspected: Kennedy's legislative program is in for rough going.

But the argument over rules had a useful by-product. Many citizens suddenly realized that much more goes on in Congress than meets the casual eye.

They decide what bills will be sent to the floor, and when, and what bills will be bottled up.

Obviously the opportunities are excellent for a wily committee chairman skilled in dragging his heels. Howard K. Smith, a master heel-dragger, and his job seem destined for each other.

It's one of the ironies of government that when tousled young Jack Kennedy reported to the House in 1947 Howard Smith — who became a congressman 30 years ago today—already was a venerable member of that venerable institution.

He had been a congressman 24 years before the seniority system finally nodded its leisurely head in his direction and he became chairman of the important Committee on Rules.

That's quite a wait, but Judge Smith—he usually is called judge because he served on a Virginia circuit before he came to Congress—isn't the restless type.

He is a banker, a lawyer, a dairyman, all occupations of the unhurrying kind. He still lists as his home his 850-acre farm at Broad Run, where he was born.

Strolling at the rear of the House chamber, puffing a cigar, Smith looks both doleful and determined.

He appears as a banker might on his way to foreclose the mortgage on the traditional widow. It's unpleasant, but it's his duty, and he will do it. Yes, and do it with such courtliness that the widow will always remember how kindly Judge Smith ushered her out the door.

Smith is a hard rock conservative, and proud of it.

Eleven years ago he so clearly expressed his creed that it has been a reprint favorite in the "Congressional Record."

"I am what may be termed a conservative Democrat," Smith said. "It is one whose normal habitat is south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"These conservative Democrats refuse to either marry, betroth, court, or flirt with any of these foreign innovations in government."

Even his bitterest enemies will have to agree that Smith has never wavered.

Although the rules lineup in past Congresses favored the party in power, 8 votes to 4, Smith and Rep. William M. Colmer of Mississippi occasionally joined with the Republicans for a 6-6 tie to hamper, or block, legislation they didn't approve of.

Nor was this all. Like many another chairman, Smith supposedly used other devices to avoid difficult situations. Instead of calling meetings that might go against him, so the stories go, Smith would disappear to his farm, where a barn had conveniently burned or an expectant cow needed his personal attention.

Last month's argument over the Rules Committee can be simply summarized.

For increasing its size:

Kennedy is attempting to whip up a sense of national urgency. He has repeatedly said that this country must start sprinting if it expects to stay ahead of the Communists. But if the Rules Committee wouldn't let his program come to a vote, in the words of a committee member, Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., "we're stopped before we've begun."

Against changing the committee:

Congress, not the president, is responsible for making this nation's laws. Why turn the Rules Committee into a rubber stamp for his wishes—and maybe open the floodgates to all sorts of unwise legislation?

But possibly the favorite argument is best summed up by Smith.

"There is one thing about this House that nobody should forget," he said. "And that is if the majority of the House wants to vote on a bill, the rules of this body give them that opportunity."

A bill can be voted out by petition, for example. Yet, rarely does this happen.

One reason: many a representative, however heroic he may appear during the campaign, is timid about standing up to be counted. And even though he may in theory be a supporter of a ticklish bill, he'd just as soon it stayed in the Rules Committee pigeonhole. The first rule of politics is re-election.

Nor is it fair to assume, so the argument continues, that only good legislation is sidetracked by the Rules Committee. It's an excellent spot to bury ill-considered bills that some pressure groups may be clamoring for.

Anyway, the administration won the fight to change the Rules Committee.

But in Congress few fights are decisive, and one as close as this can only be counted as an interesting opening skirmish.

Legislative battles, of course, are fought on many fronts. But this is particularly interesting because (a) Kennedy singled the Rules Committee out for special attention in the campaign and (b) the lines here are so well defined.

On one side is the President, young and eager to make a good showing, conscious that — as the November elections showed—this country and this Congress often appear on dead center. Kennedy, keenly aware of history, knows he will be judged on how well he prods his program through Congress.

He hasn't fought his way this far to be silently done in by Judge Smith or any other enthusiastic congressman.

On the other side is Smith, operating from a base so firm not even a president can budge him. One tried once. Franklin D. Roosevelt said Smith should be purged, a view that wasn't shared by his loyal constituents.

And though his 42,809 votes at fall might not seem like much, that's 3½ times as many as his Republican opponent got.

During the campaign Kennedy pledged to do his best to get a new minimum wage law, federal aid to education, relief for economically depressed areas.

"The people of the 8th District never sent me to Congress just to be a traffic cop," Smith said. "So I propose to exercise my judgment about what should go to the floor and what should not."

It should be quite a battle before we know which promise will be kept.

HARD WORK PAYS OFF

Top Salesman Now Once Fish Peddler

NEW YORK (UPI) —Adolf Olsson, at the age of eight, peddled fish on the streets of his home town in Sweden. Today, an American citizen, he is still a peddler of sorts: the largest salesman of Swedish foods in the United States.

Olsson, who says his philosophy is "work hard and learn hard," is president of the A. V. Olsson Trading Company, which does business in every state and owns and operates fish packing plants in Nova Scotia, Canada and in Sweden.

He is the first one to tell you that his success did not come easily.

"I was one of 14 children," he said. "My day started off by doing chores on our farm before going to school. After school, I sold fish on the streets until it got dark. Then I would head home and work in my father's general store, saving an hour before bedtime to do my schoolwork."

At the age of 18 he began work for his brother, who owned a fish-packing plant. A year later he was made the company's trouble shooter. The job involved much travel abroad. Soon he became tired of working for someone else. Against his family's advice, he set out for the United States. He had little money. He did not know English.

Soon after arrival he met a girl from his own hometown. They married and set up a business in a small, makeshift warehouse in Brooklyn. There they sold imported canned fish, purchased cheaply from his brother, and Swedish crisp bread. Sales were so low at the start that he took on an additional job at night as a shipping clerk to supplement his income.

By 1931 he had saved enough money to expand his business. He made a deal with a leading English import-export firm and used its name for his foods. But the war cut business success short.

His dream temporarily shelved, Olsson went to Chicago and took over the sales for a bakery that made a domestic type of Swedish crisp bread. Within a year, it was selling from coast to coast.

After the war ended, Olsson decided to start rebuilding his own business.

"That was the turning point in my career," he said.

"I landed an exclusive import contract from the Wasa bakeries in Filipstad, Sweden, the largest producers in the world of Swedish crisp bread or rye-king. Today, more than 10,000 boxes of it are sold daily. Ten years ago, very few people had even heard of it."

Olsson lives with his wife in Bronxville, New York. His favorite pasttime is sailing on his 36-foot cabin cruiser the "Ramona." His 28-year-old son Lennart is his right hand man in running the family business.

The elder Olsson said this about success:

"It is not the amount of money you have in the bank; nor is it your real estate holdings. Success is the satisfaction of knowing you did your best by working your hardest."

Kathy Crosby Expectant Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Kathy Grant, wife of singer Bing Crosby, took time out from campaigning in behalf of her father who is running for the U. S. Senate Saturday night to announce she is expecting her third child in November.

Miss Grant's father, Delbert E. Grandstaff of West Columbia, Tex., is among the 65 Texas candidates actively running for the Senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

When asked if she had informed her husband of her condition, Miss Grant replied: "He told me."

Crosby is in Hollywood and received a doctor's report and relayed it to Texas Saturday night.

Judge Pulls Boner On Witness Stand

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Criminal District Judge Joe B. Brown was on the witness stand instead of behind the bench at a domestic relations trial, but forgot that he wasn't the judge in the case.

Judge Brown was testifying as a character witness when an attorney objected to a question directed to the judge.

"I sustain your objection on that," Brown said.

The embarrassed judge was upheld by presiding Judge Beth Wright, who added a belated, "Sustained."

VARIETY OF SERVICES

This Texan Really Jack Of All Trades

BLANCO, Tex. (UPI) — A. O. Wolf says he has "more licenses and less money than any man in Texas."

If you met with a fatal accident in Blanco, it's possible that Wolf, single-handedly, would:

Drive the ambulance to pick up your body, conduct the inquest, embalm you, direct the funeral services and bury you.

Wolf is licensed as a:

—Mortician
—Justice of the Peace
—Barber
—Insurance salesman
—Real estate salesman

On the side he also serves as an amateur veterinarian. "Mostly midwifing calves," Wolf said.

He also hands out advice in matters of social security and old age assistance, and tends 17 hives of bees.

In 1941, at the age of 26, Wolf became the youngest justice of the peace in Texas. Since then, "jobs have just sort of snowballed," he said.

As for his routine of everything from ambulance to spade work, Wolf claims that he has actually performed those services for "a couple of dozen" dead people.

Wolf can't even be conventional when it comes to his barbering. He turned circuit rider after a competing barbershop cut into his business three years ago.

He makes two circuits a week, when he isn't operating at his regular shop on the west side of the city square. One circuit takes him 17 miles and the other 22 miles, with him operating in "branch" shops or in the customers' homes.

Wolf says cash is scarce sometimes, so he has to take his barbering pay in vegetables or other farm products.

The six-foot, 230-pound Wolf said he became a jack-of-all-trades because "I'm just a poor devil trying to make a living."

IN HOLLYWOOD

Roundtable Show Among Funniest

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's funniest show has been running for 25 years, but seats, even at an asking price of $18,000, are impossible to get.

The show—and it's really that—is the luncheon roundtable at Hillcrest Country Club. There daily gather some of the world's greatest comedians and wits. Object: To make each other laugh.

Not since the days of the old Algonquin Hotel gatherings of Benchley, Wollcott et al in Manhattan has there been an institution like the Hillcrest roundtable.

The group occupies the big corner table in the men's grill at Hillcrest. Among the regulars are George Burns, Milton Berle, Groucho Marx plus brothers Chico and Harpo, Danny Thomas, Jack Benny, George Jessel, Danny Kaye, the Ritz Brothers plus assorted comedy writers, producers and directors.

Burns said the roundtable got started because Benny used to sit there.

"Jack laughs at anything," says George. "He falls over at the way I say: 'Hello, Jack.'"

BEGINNING

With such a laughter—some say Benny even laughs at card tricks—it was only natural that all the other comedians should gravitate to his table. Thus was born the Hillcrest roundtable.

One of the funniest members is Jessel who never quite made it on television like the rest. Burns explains why.

"Sitting down, Jessel is one of the funniest men alive. As soon as he stands up, he thinks he's Jolson."

Sometimes the group talks about serious topics. Once they were talking about the way Henry Cabot Lodge answered Gromyko in the United Nations.

Everyone but Jessel agreed Lodge's answer was masterful.

"Why shouldn't he answer him good?" asked Jessel. "It's his business."

Then someone interrupted to say that Lodge's reply was a masterpiece because the Soviet ambassador had made a totally unexpected charge.

'MY BUSINESS'

"So what if it was unexpected, it's still his business," argued Jessel. "When I'm giving an eulogy and I see the corpse move unexpectedly in the coffin, I start singing 'Darktown Strutters Ball,' It's my business."

The last session I attended, Groucho, Burns, Berle and producer Harry Tugend were in rare form. Gags came so fast it was impossible to record them.

Hillcrest is one of the hardest country clubs in the nation to join. A membership, if one were available, now is worth $18,000—without the mineral rights. That's right, mineral rights. The club sits atop one of the richest oil pools in the Los Angeles area. A producing well nets the club about $300,000 a year in royalties. Since most of the members are millionaires, the oil money goes mostly into club improvements and pension and health plans for employes, rare in the country club field.

Most of the members are Jewish, but religion is no bar to membership. Danny Thomas, Leo Durocher and Frank Sinatra are among the gentiles on the roster.

Thomas was one of the first gentiles to join what had been founded as an all-Jewish club.

"I argued that Hillcrest was practicing the same kind of discrimination that other clubs were guilty of," he said. "The members agreed. Then after I joined, one of the members complained: 'Danny, now that you are a member, I wish you looked a little more gentile.'"

Thomas is Lebanese.

Youth Hurt; Says Through With 'Bikes'

WINNSBORO (Special) — A 14-year-old Mangham youth suffered a compound fracture of the right arm Saturday morning when his motor bike collided with an automobile in Winnsboro.

Onnie Lynn Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, Route One, Mangham, said from the Winnsboro Sanitarium yesterday afternoon where he was taken for treatment that he was "through with motorbikes."

The lad told officers that he was going to sell his motorbike to pay his hospital bills. He also had lacerations and bruises of the right leg.

According to Winnsboro City Marshall George Farrington, the accident happened at the intersection of Prairie and West Streets around 10:30 a.m. Investigation revealed that the motorbike collided with a car driven by Miss Ethel Phillips, 19 of Baskin.

Miss Phillips, who was uninjured, was traveling on West Street, and pulled onto Prairie Street after stopping at the West Street-Prairie Street intersection.

The ninth grade student from Mangham High School, who was traveling west on Prairie Street, was unable to avoid hitting Miss Phillips' car.

The car and motorbike suffered only minor damages.

Deaths

R. G. Gladen

OLLA (Special) — Robert G. Gladen, 80, died at midnight Friday at his home here after an illness of several months.

Graveside services will be held 2 p.m. Sunday at Harris Chapel Cemetery near Olla, with the Rev. B. B. Cox officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Kenner and Stevens Funeral Home.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Baum, Miss Selma Gladen, of Olla; Mrs. Velma Hayes, Mendenhall, Miss.; one son, Allen, of Olla, 12 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

Harper D. Farr

Services are scheduled for Harper D. Farr, 61, a resident of Marion, who died Friday at his home following a heart attack. He was a construction engineer.

Funeral services will be in Hutting, Ark., at the Second Baptist Church, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, with the Rev. Albert Elder officiating, assisted by the Rev. Bruce Murphy. Burial will be in Union Cemetery near Marion under the direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Survivors include two brothers, W. L. Farr, Marion; F. B. Farr, Baton Rouge; one sister, Mrs. Edna Sinclair, Roswell, N.M.

Pallbearers will be Bill Graves, Will Burson, Lasco Langston, John Burgess, Clarence Dollar, Joe Reamer.

Jesse Ray

Jesse Ray, 73, Union Parish, died Saturday in a local convalescent home following a long illness.

Funeral services are incomplete.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Cevia Ray, Haile; a son, J. S. Ray, Ridgeland, Wash.; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Thurkill, Missouri; a sister, Mrs. Artie Johnson, Shreveport, seven grandchildren.

Arrangements will be under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Burglars Take About $100 In West Monroe

Approximately $100 was taken when Eureka Grocery on Commerce Street in West Monroe was burglarized sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning, police said.

The burglary was reported by I. W. Rogers, owner of the store, when he arrived Saturday morning and found it had been entered and the bills taken. Rogers said that the silver in the cash register was untouched.

West Monroe detectives said that entrance was gained by cutting the screen on the outside door and entering the building through a wooden door that was mistakenly left unlocked by employees.

Pilots Warned On Mississippi River Conditions

BATON ROUGE (AP) — High water conditions on the Mississippi River Saturday drew a warning from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to towboat pilots.

A notice advised that excessive speed by vessels may damage revetments and levees south of here.

Mariners were asked to use precaution when navigating, to proceed at slow speed and to steer a course as far away as possible from exposed levees to avoid damage by suction and wavewash.

Pilots on the Atchafalaya River also were warned to exercise extreme caution at spots where there are likely to be high velocity currents, eddies and cross-currents at channel intersections and bridges, and rapid formation of shoaling.

Roundtable Show Among Funniest

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's funniest show has been running for 25 years, but seats, even at an asking price of $18,000, are impossible to get.

The show—and it's really that—is the luncheon roundtable at Hillcrest Country Club. There daily gather some of the world's greatest comedians and wits. Object: To make each other laugh.

Not since the days of the old Algonquin Hotel gatherings of Benchley, Wollcott et al in Manhattan has there been an institution like the Hillcrest roundtable.

The group occupies the big corner table in the men's grill at Hillcrest. Among the regulars are George Burns, Milton Berle, Groucho Marx plus brothers Chico and Harpo, Danny Thomas, Jack Benny, George Jessel, Danny Kaye, the Ritz Brothers plus assorted comedy writers, producers and directors.

Burns said the roundtable got started because Benny used to sit there.

"Jack laughs at anything," says George. "He falls over at the way I say: 'Hello, Jack.'"

BEGINNING

With such a laughter—some say Benny even laughs at card tricks—it was only natural that all the other comedians should gravitate to his table. Thus was born the Hillcrest roundtable.

One of the funniest members is Jessel who never quite made it on television like the rest. Burns explains why.

"Sitting down, Jessel is one of the funniest men alive. As soon as he stands up, he thinks he's Jolson."

Sometimes the group talks about serious topics. Once they were talking about the way Henry Cabot Lodge answered Gromyko in the United Nations.

Everyone but Jessel agreed Lodge's answer was masterful.

"Why shouldn't he answer him good?" asked Jessel. "It's his business."

Then someone interrupted to say that Lodge's reply was a masterpiece because the Soviet ambassador had made a totally unexpected charge.

'MY BUSINESS'

"So what if it was unexpected, it's still his business," argued Jessel. "When I'm giving an eulogy and I see the corpse move unexpectedly in the coffin, I start singing 'Darktown Strutters Ball,' It's my business."

The last session I attended, Groucho, Burns, Berle and producer Harry Tugend were in rare form. Gags came so fast it was impossible to record them.

Hillcrest is one of the hardest country clubs in the nation to join. A membership, if one were available, now is worth $18,000—without the mineral rights. That's right, mineral rights. The club sits atop one of the richest oil pools in the Los Angeles area. A producing well nets the club about $300,000 a year in royalties. Since most of the members are millionaires, the oil money goes mostly into club improvements and pension and health plans for employes, rare in the country club field.

Most of the members are Jewish, but religion is no bar to membership. Danny Thomas, Leo Durocher and Frank Sinatra are among the gentiles on the roster.

Thomas was one of the first gentiles to join what had been founded as an all-Jewish club.

"I argued that Hillcrest was practicing the same kind of discrimination that other clubs were guilty of," he said. "The members agreed. Then after I joined, one of the members complained: 'Danny, now that you are a member, I wish you looked a little more gentile.'"

Thomas is Lebanese.

Youth Hurt; Says Through With 'Bikes'

WINNSBORO (Special) — A 14-year-old Mangham youth suffered a compound fracture of the right arm Saturday morning when his motor bike collided with an automobile in Winnsboro.

Onnie Lynn Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, Route One, Mangham, said from the Winnsboro Sanitarium yesterday afternoon where he was taken for treatment that he was "through with motorbikes."

The lad told officers that he was going to sell his motorbike to pay his hospital bills. He also had lacerations and bruises of the right leg.

According to Winnsboro City Marshall George Farrington, the accident happened at the intersection of Prairie and West Streets around 10:30 a.m. Investigation revealed that the motorbike collided with a car driven by Miss Ethel Phillips, 19 of Baskin.

Miss Phillips, who was uninjured, was traveling on West Street, and pulled onto Prairie Street after stopping at the West Street-Prairie Street intersection.

The ninth grade student from Mangham High School, who was traveling west on Prairie Street, was unable to avoid hitting Miss Phillips' car.

The car and motorbike suffered only minor damages.

Deaths

R. G. Gladen

Graveside services will be held 2 p.m. Sunday at Harris Chapel Cemetery near Olla, with the Rev. B. B. Cox officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Kenner and Stevens Funeral Home.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Baum, Miss Selma Gladen, of Olla; Mrs. Velma Hayes, Mendenhall, Miss.; one son, Allen, of Olla, 12 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

Harper D. Farr

Services are scheduled for Harper D. Farr, 61, a resident of Marion, who died Friday at his home following a heart attack. He was a construction engineer.

Funeral services will be in Huttig, Ark., at the Second Baptist Church, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, with the Rev. Albert Elder officiating, assisted by the Rev. Bruce Murphy. Burial will be in Union Cemetery near Marion under the direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Survivors include two brothers, W. L. Farr, Marion; E. B. Farr, Baton Rouge; one sister, Mrs. Edna Sinclair, Roswell, N.M.

Pallbearers will be Bill Graves, Will Burson, Lasco Langston, John Burgess, Clarence Dollar, Joe Remore.

Jesse Ray

Jesse Ray, 73, Union Parish, died Saturday in a local convalescent home following a long illness.

Funeral services are incomplete.

Arrangements will be under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Burglars Take About $100 In West Monroe

Approximately $100 was taken when Eureka Grocery on Commerce Street in West Monroe was burglarized sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning, police said.

The burglary was reported by I. W. Rogers, owner of the store, when he arrived Saturday morning and found it had been entered and the bills taken. Rogers said that the silver in the cash register was untouched.

West Monroe detectives said that entrance was gained by cutting the screen on the outside door and entering the building through a wooden door that was mistakenly left unlocked by employees.

Pilots Warned On Mississippi River Conditions

BATON ROUGE (AP) — High water conditions on the Mississippi River Saturday drew a warning from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to towboat pilots.

A notice advised that excessive speed by vessels may damage revetments and levees south of here.

Mariners were asked to use precaution when navigating, to proceed at slow speed and to steer a course as far away as possible from exposed levees to avoid damage by suction and wavwash.

Pilots on the Atchafalaya River also were warned to exercise extreme caution at spots where there are likely to be high velocity currents, eddies and cross-currents at channel intersections and bridges, and rapid formation of shoaling.

How Is Property Selling?

That's a question that we are asked most every day. Frankly, the way a property "moves" when it is offered for sale depends a lot on how it is handled. For this reason we suggest that you consult our firm. Moving property is our business. If you really want to sell — place full confidence in us. We won't let you down — In March our firm moved twenty properties — residential and commercial.

How Is Property Selling?

That's a question that we are asked most every day. Frankly, the way a property "moves" when it is offered for sale depends a lot on how it is handled. For this reason we suggest that you consult our firm. Moving property is our business. If you really want to sell — place full confidence in us. We won't let you down — In March our firm moved twenty properties — residential and commercial.

THANX TO ODIE F. OWEN, KNOXVILLE, TENN.

GREATEST CHEMIST WE'VE EVER HAD..A GENIUS! CAN MAKE A BUNSEN BURNER PLAY DIXIE...

BUT AT HOME...HE CAN'T BREW COFFEE...

HOW?

FIRST FILL THE POT HALF FULL OF WATER..OH, NEVER MIND.. I'LL DO IT!

THANX TO BILL SPIVEY, CHARLOTTE, N.C.
